The tunnel is about 250 metres long and according to the State Emergency Operations Centre (SEOC), about 100 metres of the tunnels length has been cleared of the debris. The sludge and debris drying and becoming hard have made it harder for the rescue teams to clear it.

drying and becoming hard have made it harder for the rescue teams to clear it. Meanwhile, the death toll stood at 32 with 174 persons still missing as on Tuesday evening. Of the 32 bodies recovered, only seven have been identified so far. The DIG, Law and Order, and the chief spokesman of Uttarakhand Police, Nilesh Anand Bharne informed the media that in addition to personnel involved in the rescue effort, teams of experts and necessary equipment were present at the tunnel where the workers are stranded. He said that the task of drilling through the debris is difficult but efforts are being undertaken relentlessly.

Weakened rock mass collapse likely cause of flash floods: Scientists

Scientists of the Wadia Institute of Himalayan Geology (WIHG) have suggested that a rock mass, weakened due to years of freezing and thawing of snow, may have led to the creation of a weak zone, triggering its collapse that resulted in flash floods in Uttarakhand's Chamoli district on Sunday.

At least 10 labourers from the latchar, who were working in a National Thermal Power Project (NTPC) site at avalanche-ravaged Chamoli district of Uttarakhand, are stranded in the area with no cash in hand and no document to prove their identity.

One of the labourers contacted the helpline number issued by the State government on Tuesday for help, but there was no concrete assurance from the authorities as to when and how they would be brought back to their State.

"All our government identity cards got washed away in the avalanche. We don't even have Rs 10 in our pocket. God only know when and how we'll manage to return home, said Rooplal Singh, one of the stranded labourers, originally from Bariatu village in Latchar, about 110 kilometers North West of capital Ranchi.

Modi gets emotional in RS farewell speech for Azad

PNS NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi became emotional and broke down a couple of times in the Rajay Sabha on Tuesday while bidding farewell to Leader of Opposition Ghulam Nabi Azad. He along with three MPs from Jamma & Kashmir will retire in the nextew days from the House. The other retiring members are Shamsher Singh Manhas (BJP). Mir Mohammad Fayaz (DPD) and Nazir Ahmad Laway (PDP). Recalling his long association with Azad, Modi cried while narrating an incident when they were Chief Ministers of Jamma & Kashmir and Gujarat respectively. Terrorists had killed some tourists from Gujarat while they were travelling in Srinagar and Azad started crying on the phone while informing his counterpart Modi in Gujarat, Modi recalled.

The next day too Azad cried on the phone while talk-ing to me after overseeing that the dead bodies and the injured.

Slain navy sailor's house the Maharashtra police gathered from the family members. MP Palamu, V D Ram has shot off a letter to Chief Minister Hemant Soren requesting him for the recommendation for the CBI probe. The MP has pointed out that without the recommendation of the concerned State the Union Home ministry can't proceed any further in launching the CBI probe.

Today Mayor Aruna Shanker visited the family and assured the family members of full co-operation in the hour of the tragedy.

Navy sailor Suraj was abducted in Chennai, given sub human torture there and then fifteen hundred kilometers away in Palghar of Maharashtra he was set aftire airue and abandoned thinking him to be dead with ninety percent of the burns. The Navy sailor finally succumbed to his injuries on February 6. MP Palamu V D Ram has raised many pointed queries about this longest stretch between Chennai and Palghar for dumping the navy sailor as a dead commodity. PNS

As per data collected by the National Health Mission (NHM), more than 75 per cent of healthcare workers and frontline workers registered for free vaccination against the Covid-19 virus either did not turn up at the vaccination centres or backed out from taking the jab. NHM data highlights that of the 51.81 people registered for vaccination in the district, only 12,158 were inoculated. As a result, Ranchi has achieved only 25 per cent of its vaccination target—the lowest among all the 24 districts in Jharkhand.

ittle gifts or each other on random days and that is what really makes it special for us. On February 14 which also happens to be a Sunday, we have decided to stay home and have a movie marathon session in the evening along with some Chinese food which we plan to order in. This year is also special as we have our three-month-old baby and stepping during Covid with him is something we would certainly avoid," said Paridhi.

Devika and Kaustubh Govekar, who were in a long-distance relationship for a few years before tying the knot, believe they don't need a specific day to celebrate love."We don't believe in celebrating one day to express our love butsince it's a trend we just go out for a fancy dinner. This year with February 14 being a Sunday, my husband has offered to cook some prawns and fish for dinner as we don't want to step out during the pandernic. Over the years, I have been making him a personalised gift, but since stepping out to shop was not a great idea, lhave ordered a surprise gift for him," said Devika.

Honey and Rohit Sinha, are looking forward to a weekend getaway away from the hustle bustle of City life. "The week before Valentines has been full before Valentines has been full of surprises and celebrations as my husband has been showering me with gifts on each day. As February 14 is a Sunday, we are heading to Royal Retreat on Friday for the quite weekend with our baby. This will give him some space to run around and we too will get a chance to spend some quality time together."

SC issues notice to Centre on transfer plea on grant of minority status to 5 communities

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court Tuesday sought Government's reply on a plea, seeking transfer of cases from several high courts to it against the Centre's notification to declare five communities — Muslims, Christians, Sikhs, Buddhists and Parsees — as minorities even in those States and UTs where they are in majority.

A bench comprising Chief Justice S A Bopanna and V Ramasubramanian issued notices to Ministry of Home Affairs, Ministry of Home Affairs, Ministry of Home Ministry of Home Ministry of Home States and UTs which we have been declared and Ministry of Minority Affairs.

The high courts at Delhi, Meghalaya and Guwahati are seized of the petitions challenging the Constitutional validity of section 2(c) of the National Commission for Minorities Act, 1992, under which the notification was issued on October 23, 1993.

The notification had declared the five communities as minorities across the country, leading to a situation where majority population of Sikhs in Dunjab and Muslims in Jammu and Kashmir are availing of the benefits meant for minorities, the transfer petition alleged. The apec court was hearing a plea filed by lawyer and BPI leader Ashwini Upadhyay seeking transfer of all cases from high courts to the apec court for an authoritative pronouncement on the issue. Senior advocate C S Vaidyanathan appeared for Upadhyay in the matter.

The petition, filed through advocate Ashwani Kumar Dubey, said that in order to avoid multiplicity of litigations and conflicting views, the transfer plea has been moved before the apex court. Arbitrary and irrational disbursement of minority benefits to majority infringes upon the fundamental right to the prohibition of discrimination on the grounds of religion, race, caste, sex or place of birth, the plea said.

The petition said the Hindus, who are a majority community according to national data, are a minority in several north-eastern states besides Punjab and Jammu and Kashmir.

However, the Hindu community is deprived of the benefits that are available to the minority communities in these states, the plea said, adding that the National Commission for the National Commission for Minorities (NCM) should reconsider the definition of minority in this context. The plea has sought to

The plea has sought to declare section 2(c) of the NCM Act 1992 void and inoperative for being arbitrary, unreasonable and offending.
The definition of minority, according to Article 29-30 of the Constitution, has left leakages in the hands of the State, which shall be misused and are being misused for political benefits, the petition said.

SC dismisses plea challenging colonial era provision of sedition, says no cause of action

PTI III NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court Tuesday dismissed a plea which chalenged the Constitutional validity of colonial era provision of sedition under the Indian Penal Code, on the ground that it is being used to stifle freedom of speech and expression of citizens.

During the brief hearing, senior advocate Anoop George Chaudhary, appearing for the petitioners who are advocates, said that this is a public interest matter and people are being charged under the provision.

The bench observed that alw cannot be challenged without appropriate cause of action.

"You are not facing any prosecution under the Section.

What is the cause of the action? We don't have any case before us right now. We don't have any case in front of us where some-body is rotting in jail. If some-one is in jail then we will consider. Dismissed", the bench told Chaudhary.

The plea flied by three advocates Aditya Ranjan, Varun Thakur, V Elanchezhiyan said that section 124-A of IPC (sedition), the provision which we have been considered that the provision which we have been considered that the provision which we have been considered to the provision which we have the provision which

Congress, BJP take on | Sasikala plans to get AIADMK control back CPM over Sabarimala women entry issue

Thiruvananathapuram: Kerala's Opposition Congress and BJP on Tuesday took on the CPI-M over a "suspected" dilu-tion in the ruling party's stand on the entry of women aged between 10 and 50 to the Substituted transle between 10 and 50 to the Sabarimala temple.

Even as the issue is before a seven member bench of the Supreme Court, the Congress last week said that if it wins the coming Assembly polls, it will bring legislation on women's entry to the hilltop temple.

In a reaction, CPI-M Central Committee member My-Govindan, indirectly referring to the issue, said that "it was impractical to implement impractical to implement ring to the issue, said that "it was impractical to implement dialectical materialism in a soci-

- PAPER WITH PASSION-

Serious business

With Trump gone, it is in India's interest now to modify its approach towards the US here was nothing unusual in Prime Minister Narendra Modi tweeting about his interaction with US President Joe Biden but POTUS choosing to remain silent on the micro-blogging site entails a message. Gone are the days of "Howdy, Modi" and "Namaste, Trump" when Modi and the former American President hugged each other, walked hand in hand and their informal bonding was the bedrock of Indo-American relations. India will now have to deal with a seasoned and astute politician in Biden and not someone as unpredictable as his predecessor who was nothing more than a "butt of a joke" because of his posturing and scattershot policies. New Delhi should keep in mind that in his first diplomatic address, Biden did not mention India even once though he hinted that he would turn the heat on arch-rivals China and Russia. India must not consider his aggressive posturing towards Beijing as something that will favour its interests in the region as Biden, at the same time, asserted that Washington is ready to work with China if that is in its own interest. In his first official interaction with Biden, Modi discussed at length a host of issues including the COVID-19 pandemic, regional matters, climate change, global economy, terrorism and so on. The leaders agreed to continue the close cooperation between the nations to promote a free and open Indo-Pacific. Modi even invited Biden and the First Lady to visit India at their earliest convenience. All of this points towards the soft diplomacy that is being undertaken at this stage by both the countries

But instead of Biden tweeting like Modi, the White House released an official state-ment detailing the interaction. The message it carries is that the days of "tall talk" on social media are now over with Trump's era and Indian policymakers should not expect Biden to behave and act in the manner his predecessor did. It also seems likely that the world will no longer witness the LIS President and the Indian Prime Minister seconding each other's statements and praising each other on Twitter. During the interaction, the two leaders resolved that the democratic process must be upheld in Myanmar. It simply implies that POTUS wants to see New Delhi playing a pivotal role in restoring the democratic regime in erst-while Burma. The US well understands that Myanmar's junta may join hands with communist China for currying favour in the United Nations Security Council and, if that hap-pens, the continuation of the military regime in Burma will only strengthen Beijing in the region. The growing influence of China, which pursues an expansionist policy both on land and in sea, will be against the interests of both New Delhi and Washington. As per the White House note, the "leaders agreed to stay in close touch on a range of global challenges"; however, we should not take it without a pinch of salt and this "closeness" would certainly be a bit different from what it was with Trump. Now India needs to make some smart moves as dealing with the American President looks like serious business.

Warm winter

We just had the warmest January in 62 years. Isn't it time to show more responsibility towards nature?

f the temperatures in January are anything to go by, the nation should brace itself for a sizzling summer ahead. Because, despite a few cold days that left India shivering, the minimum temperature recorded in the country last month was the warmest January in 62 years. The India Meteorological Department (IMD) says that South India experienced the warmest January in 121 years, with temperatures touching 22.33°C. Earlier, the South had experienced 22.14°C in 1919 and 21.93°C in 2020, making these the second and third warmest months. Central India was the warmest at 14.82°C in the last 38 years after 1982 saw the mercury touching 14.92°C, while 1958 with 15.06°C was the warmest between 1901 and 2021. However, the maximum temperatures in January were below normal, the IMD said, and this January could not break the record of 1919 because, at 15°C, it remains the warmest January recorded. But this is hardly any reason to rejoice as, slowly and surely, we are beginning to feel the effects of climate change. For instance, the summers have been hotter than ever before because the country's average temperature rose by around 0.7°C between 1901 and 2018.

It is projected to rise further by approximately 4.4°C by the end of this century, if a 2020 report by researchers from the Indian Institute of Tropical Meteorology (IITM), Pune, is to be believed. Worryingly, this increase in surface temperatures will reportedly result in droughts for some regions and intense rainfall and severe cyclones in others, causing floods in large parts of India. Experts are of the opinion that these changes in climate will have a long term socio-economic impact on the lives of citizens and also affect the country's relations with its neighbours. Given all these warnings, one would expect that the Government and the people would be a lot more aware of their responsibility towards the environment but that hardly seems to be the case. So we must then be prepared to bear the consequences, like the one we had to face recently in Chamoli, where the impact on the environment in a sensitive zone was ignored at our own peril. If we continue to pinch environmental pennies, we will continue to incur the wrath of nature, which has the power to eventually rid itself of one of the most destructive yet vulnerable species to walk the Earth

The Government has missed a legitimate opportunity to repair the frail Defence Budget which is unfit to meet the Pakistan-China dual threat missive, response to External Affairs Minister S laishankar's connect between the border and bilateral ties has escaped notice. In reply to Jaishankar's multiple complaints about China's erratic behaviour in altering the status quo along the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in breach of existing protocols and violations of peace and tranquility, Beijing simply repeated its mantra that Indo-China relations martra that Indo-China relations have to be de-coupled from the border dispute. At the all-india conference on China Studies in New Delhi last month, Jaishankar summarised his various comments across eight months on the border issue into three "mutuals" exception of mutual reserved, mutual sensitivity and mutual interest; and eight broad principles as key to mending Indo-China relations. He emphasised that a peaceful border was the pre-requisite for stable relations. Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Zhao Lijian said: "We have noted Minister Jaishankar's remarks and appreci-Jaishankar's remarks and appreci-Jaishankar's remarks and appreci-Jaishankar's remarks and appreci-

Ministry spokesperson Zhao Ljián said: "We have noted Minister Jaishankar's remarks and appreciate the importance India attaches to ties with China But we stress the boundary issue shall not be linked with overal bilateral relations."

At one stroke, China segrescated its aggression along the LAC from bilateral relations and bracketed its territorial encroachments to outstanding claims to all of Ladakh, not just the 300 km spread of intrusions. China's diam to Ladakh was articulated in 2008 through its denial of its western border covering Jammu and Kashmiri with China and excising L597 km of the 3488-km LAC. When this was pointed out to an MEA mandarin at the time, he responded. "They can do what they like but we have troops on the LAC." What happened in mid-May last year was a failure of the institutional memory of Chinese intent. If the way forward, as noted by Jaishankar, is the Sumdorong Chu route, it will cost India dearly both operationally and financially. Last week, India missed a legitimate opportunity to repair the frail defence budget unfit to meet the Pakistan-China dual threat despite aggression in Ladakh. Few point out the anomthreat despite aggression in Ladakh. Few point out the anomalies in defence spending prob-ably because it is anti-national to question it, especially when the BJP Government — very vocal on defence and national wocal on defence and national security — makes hollow fund allocations. On Budget day, the armed forces would attract thunderous applause from the lawmakers for their sacrifices when the Finance Minister, after announcing the defence allocation, would predictably add: "More funds would be provided, if needed." Since 2019, there is deafening silence on defence on Budget day. Surprisingly, the oversight was questioned this year by many. The aggregate defence budget, revenue and capital heads; all three reflected a decline in the allocation as compared to the allocation as compared to the previous year's revised esti-mates (RE). The allocation for mates (RE). The allocation for defence modernisation, which is at the heart of deterrence and capacity building and which was acclaimed by Defence Minister Rajnath Singh as the highest increase of 19 per cent in 15 years, was actually $2,700 crore less than in the RE of 2020-21. Even as CDP percentage, defence has declined to 1.5 per cent from 1.6 per cent the previous year.

What we do not know is committed liabilities under the modernisation head of the three services though we do know that last year, the Air Force, the highest recipient this year, was allotted nearly ₹3,000 crore less than committed liacrore less than committed liabilities, leaving no money for new projects. Other negatives this year in the Budget are lower GDP, higher rupee to dollar rate, higher fuel costs, higher internal and external inflation and substantial additional costs for maintaining the additional costs for maintaining the additional osts for rebalancing of forces following the belated recognition of China, which spends thrice more than India on defence, as the primary threat.

It is mystifying that even after yielding ground on the LAC, now convoluted by Gen and yearing governed on the ACA, now convoluted by Gen VK Singh's not-so-useful admission on transgressions, Singh has made lofty claims to India's deternent actions, CDS Gen Bipin Rawat waved the military option, Army chief Gen MM Naravane warned (the PLA) not to test India's patience and the Chief of Air Staff, Air Chief Marshal RKS Bhadauria, noted that the Rafale had unnerved the Chinese. These are undoubtedly signs of resolve but without capability backup to restore the adverse situation created by the PLA. Equally intriguing was Singh last week at the Indian Ocean Region Defence Ministers' Conclave, referring to India as a net security provider when it has formidable security challenges on two fronts. Singh also made exaggerated claims about raising defence exports to a staggering ₹35,000 crore in 2024 from the existing ₹10,000 crore. Taken together, China separating the border issues from bilateral relations and Indias failure to accelerate Defence modernisation amount to Beijings continued bullying of India and its rapidly-expanding PLA Navy posing a second front in the Indian Ocean. Zhao's blunt response to Zhao's blunt response to Jaishankar's missive of interde-pendence of border and bilatpassianda sinisse, to infected pendence of border and bilateral relations indicates China's hardline posture will stay till at least luly next year, the completion of 100 years of the Chinese Communist Party. Without boosting combat capacities dovetailed in a Defence strategy factoring the primacy of China threat, New Delhi will keep shadow-boxing. IS THE PM AFRAID OF PROTESTS?

Sir— It is very unfortunate that Prime Minister Narendra Modi has used the word "andolan-jivi" for protesters. The question why is our Prime Ministers oa fraid of protests and demonstrations? The PM must understand that these are indispensable rights and a healthy democracy cannot survive without these. However, Modi described a group of people who tend to hijack every protest or movement that has taken place in the country in the recent past. Even if he referred to those who hijack every protest and not every protestsr, doubts arise over whether he really meant what he said. what he said.

doubts arise over whether he really meant what he said.

It is strange that Modi who began his political journey through "Navnirman Andolan" or Navnirman movement from Gujarat is now targeting the protesters. Even in America, the United Kingdom, Germany and other democracies, protests are very common and help keep rolling the wheels of democracy. These are like checks and balances and remind the Government of any unpopular or wrong policy decision. The protest acquires more importance when there is a weak Opposition, like in India, which is not capable of pushing the popular viewpoint or public opinion contrary to the wish of those who are in power. Instead of blaming the protesters, the Government must strive to resolve the problem. problem.

NEED FOR SYSTEMIC INNOVATION

India must strengthen R&D for leveraging the fruits of innovation-led endogenous economic growth

OMKAR RAI

The Economic Survey projects that India's real Gross Domestic Product (GDP) would register a growth of 11 per cent in 2021-22. It reflects a faster recovery for the economy which has been crippied by the pandemic. Driven by the visible dynamism of economic activities with the roll out of the Corona vaccines, the survey highest battle growth will further be reinforced by various reforms and easing of regulations, rising infrastructural investments, spur in manufacturing sector through the productivity linked incentive schemes

The survey also underlines how India's rapid surge on the Global Innovation Index (GII) from 81 in 2015 to 48 in 2020 among 131 countries was realised during the last five years. It also reflects the correutes was Tealised unity the last live years. It also returneds the Contentiation between high-income economies and the high innovation index, which corroborates the Solow model on endogenous economic growth. Drawing reference to the GII 2020 report, the survey further drills down or sub-parameters of the overall innovation index, capturing how India fares on the seven parameters of innovation like 61st in institutions, 60th in human capital and research. 75th in infrastructure. 31st in mar ket sophistication, 55th in business sophistication, 27th in knowledge and technology outputs and 64th in creative outputs.

This indicates that barring knowledge and technology outputs, we are lagging across other parameters. We must invest more and work in a synergistic mode to enhance our global positioning in institutions, human capital and research, infrastructure and business sophistication. Moreover, India's spending in Research and Development (R&D) has been low at around 0.7 per cent of the GDP, which is noticeably lower than the top five R&D spenders globally in 2017. Like 4.3 per cent for the Republic of Korea, 4.2 per cent for Israel, 3.3 per cent for Japan and 3.2 per cent for whizerland and Friland and even lower than the R&D spend by other BRIC countries. This must be raised to a reasonable level of two per cent to rev up innovation momentum in the country. The more contrasting factor according to the survey is that the Government spends 56 per cent of the gross expenditure on R&D, which coverinient spetus op per cent of the gives experioune on read, which is three times the average contributed by governments in the top ten economies, while the private sector contributes much less (about 37 per cent) in comparison to their countreparts in the top ten economies (68 per cent, In terms of the share of total RAD personnel, public sector contributes 36 per cent, the highest among top 10 economies, while the private sector's contribution to the total R&D personnel is 30 per cent, which is far less than the average 50 per cent of the total centonies. The hallmark of India, according to the Gill 2020 survey, is the knowledge diffusion sub-pillar, which ranks 10, of knowledge and technology outputs. And the most prominent dimension under this sub-pillar is the ICT services exports where India ranks first in the world. While the Indian IT industry has displayed a tremendous perfor-mance among global counterparts, the other industries are falling back on scores. The other industry verticals should focus on research and innovation, adopt emerging technologies, infuse process and business sophistication. It's imperative now to empower startups to co-create innovations in collaboration with the industry in a more synergistic manner. The Indian startup ecosystem has defied the pandemic and created a record number of 12 unicoms in 2020. This is a testimony to the innovation mettle of Indian startups. What's critical for India now is to bring in synergy between the Government and the private sector to collaborate and build a systemic innovation culture across the board to foster translational R&D by increasing investment, connecting academia and industry to address real-life industrial challenges.

Is the delivery of justice a myth or reality?

DEWANGAN

This question warrants the attention of all citizens of India. Losing hope in the judiciary isn't a solution to all that plagues our justice delivery system judiciary isn't a solution

The Chief Justice of India (CII) recently said that January 28 must be celebrated as the Supreme Court Day to mark the occasion when the highest court of Independent India first assembled in chambers, then situated in the Parliament complex in 1950. The Supreme Court was established on January 26, under Artide 124 of the Constitution, however, its first sitting was held on January 28. Several media reports from that days how how this institution was remarked upon as the "guardian of liberty" and one that would exercise its powers without any influence, bias, fear or favour.

The apex court, which is often regarded as the most powerful top court in the world, took up this role of the "sentinel of human rights" in a new democratic India and it exercised its powers to deliver several landmark judgments upholding the basic fundamental rights of citizens against the Staté's arbitrary, unfair and unjust actions. The court also ushered in an era of "constitutional dynamism" which helped the Constitution evolve with society and its changing circumstances.

Whether it was the ruling in the Maneka Gandhi to Union of India case, where the apex court held that not just procedural due process but also substantive due process had to be followed by the State and that its actions must pass the "just, fair and reasonable test", or the ruling in the Keshavananda Bharati wis State of Kerala case, wherein the top court restricted the power of the Parliament to amend the Constitution and held that the "basic structure of Constitution and held that the "basic structure of sonable test; or the ruling in the Keshavananda Bharati vs State of Kerala case, wherein the top court restricted the power of the Parliament to amend the Constitution and held that the "basis structure of the Constitution" could not be abrogated even by a constitutional amendment.

When the 39th Constitutional Amendment When the 39th Constitutional Amendment berime Minister, the Vice-President and the Speaker of the Lok Sabha beyond the scrutiny of constitutional courts, it was the Supreme Court that struck down the law, thereby upholding the basic structure doctrine. In cases like Olga Tellis, Bandhua Mukti Morcha, Vishaka vs State of Rajasthan, Common Cause vs Union of India, NALSA vs Union of India, Navety Singh Johar, Joseph Shine and the Sabarimala judgment among others, the Supreme Court time and again reiterated its commitment to the goal of building a "just society", one where every individual irrespective of their caste, creed, ex., religion or place of birth has the right to live with dignity and freedom. The court has had a glorious history of making positive interventions to live with dignity and freedom. The court has fad gorious history of making positive interventions and initiating revolutionary changes in India's demo-cratic culture. Celebrating its foundation day is indeed a step in the right direction.

But right when you thought that all is good with the court's in India, there's a caveat. First, delivering instite isn't a duty solely entrusted to the judiciary and second, it cannot be conducted in isolation. The justice delivery mechanism is dependent on several factors and cooperation among the three major organs of the State: The executive, legislatures and the judiciary along with certain non-State actors as well. Unless all these institutions collaborate to achieve a common goal, delivering justice will achieve a common goal, delivering justice will remain a distant dream.

The India Justice Report, an initiative of Tata

The India Justice Report, an initiative of lata Trusts and several others does a commendable job in highlighting the gaps and areas that need reform within our Justice delivery system. The report assesses the performance of our institutions based on four pillars i.e., police, judiciary, legal aid soci-lems in these institutions. It states that women make up just 29 per cent of stitting judges in India, whilst in High Courts (HCs) their strength is just 11 per cent on the Bench. Moreover, at least five HCs are functioning without a single woman judge. Sadly, vacancies of judges in our HCs stand at 33 per cent. Even though 80 per cent of our population is entitled to receive legal aid, only 1.5 crore people have received it since 1995. Our prison occupancy is at 119 per cent and two-thirds of our prison inmates are undertrial prisoners and wore four crore cases are pending in several courts across the country.

Access to institutions of justice

Access to institutions of justice remains skewed for the entirety of remains skewed for the entirety of our rural population even today. The report also shows how the judiciary has not been able to efficiently utilise funds that were allocated to it by the 13th and 14th Finance Commission, for instance, allocated ₹5,000 crore to the judiciary, out of which only 20 per cent was utilised.

These data point at uncomfortable trends in our justice administration and towards intersectional issue of institutional failure and perpetration of oppression for every stakeholder. We all remember when the 43rd CJI, TS Thakur, cried before Prime Minister Modi in 2016, during a public conference, while highlighting several issues plaguing the judiciary. He had said that judges are forced to work in pittful circumstances and stressful conditions with minimum infrastructure.

The Attorney-General of India also recently called for setting up of a 'Court of Appeals' to reduce the workload of the apex court. The India Instice Report also makes everal suggestions to interrupt the status quo. Ensuring doorstep delivery of justice by making it an essential service, enforcing a planned budgeting mechanism, upskilling legal aid and Nyaya panchayats, prioritising cases based on their urgency and impact and measuring public satisfaction are few of the suggestions. Justice Madan Lokur, a former Supreme Court judge, during the release of the report said that a cost-benefit analysis and continuous social auditing is sand continuous social auditing is judge, during the release of the report said that a cost-benefit analysis and continuous social auditing is key to ensuring institutional and administrative efficiency.

However, there is a silver lining too. According to the report, Chhattisgarh has emerged as a trend-setter. If began with a notification released by the Chhattisgarh HC in 2017 which required the lower courts to dispose cases pending for more than five years on a priority basis. A monitoring committee headed by a stiting judge was set up at the HC level. For district-wise monitoring respective District Courts were asked to form their monitoring committees and a weekly review of the progress was mandated. All compoundable cases where parties were willing to compromise in Lok Adalats were disposed-off. For this purpose, Lok Adalats were organised daily after regular court hours. The monitoring would conduct meetings with the district and police administration regularly to ensure timely enforcement of summons and warrants issued by them. New Magistrates were assisted and trained by senior judges to ensure fair trial and adherence to laws and procedures. To incentivise judges, appropriate units were awarded to them for disposing off cases before five years. Bail petitions were dealt with within a week and cases of undertrial prisoners were decided in a time-bound manner. Infrastructural development was ensured by building new court-rooms in major districts like Raijuet and Durg. All this cumulatively led to a decline in the percentage of pending cases, from 10 per cent in 2019 to four per cent in 2019 in first six bistory as a soothing balm for the damages done by it and other organisations in current times. India ranks 69th in the Rule of Law Index, 139th in the Ciobal Peace Index, 112 in Global Gender Gap Report, 51 in Democracy and 142 in World Press Freedom Report. We are forced to ask: Has justice been delivered or it is it a myth in the times we live it it in the sit in which in the mem we live it is in singular to the times we live it it in which in the mem we live it it in with in the times we live it it in with in the times we live it it in weight in the mem we live in it is it a myth in the times we live in it is it a myth in the times we live in it is it a myth in the times we live in it is it a myth in the times we live in it is it a myth in the times we live in it is in with the case of the memory and the sum of the case of th would conduct meetings with the dis-trict and police administration reg-

61.8 per cent in 2020, nonethe-less it indicates that a large digi-tial divide still exists. Similarly, schools and col-leges remain deficient in Information Technology (IT)-enabled infrastructure. With hybrid teaching-learning expected to be the new normal, undoubtedly enormous expan-sion in digital technology is envisaged. Additionally, to avert the possibility of India's demo-graphic dividend becoming a devastating catastrophe, imparting quality education remains important. The new Mational Education Policy (NEP), 2020, reinforces the viewpoint.

With the evolving future of work, human potential for life-long learning has assumed greater importance. Skilling, reskilling and upskilling has become mandatory for the existing workforce. resuming and upsaling has become mandatory for the existing workforce. Undoubtedly, investment in education is crucial for human capital formation. Despite being a merit good, necessitating Government provision and active intervention, the education sector has been largely neglected. For the financial year (FY) 2021-2022, there has been a 6.13 per cent decline in allocation of funds towards it as compared to the Budgeted Estimate (BE) of 2020-21. However, compared to the Revised Estimate (RI) of 2020-21, there has been a 9.5 per cent increase in allocation for 2021-22. Of the total allocation of 22. Of the total allocation of ₹93,224 crore to the sector, ₹54,874 crore is allocated to the Department of School

Education and Literacy (a drop of 8.31 per cent) and the remaining ₹38,350 crore to higher education (a drop of 2.83 per cent in comparison to the BE of the previous year). Further, the RE for expenditure on education for 2020-21 witnessed a decline of 14.32 per cent vis-à-vis the BE. Additionally, while the NEP had strongly propagated expenditure on the sector to be at least six per cent of the GDP, the same has been between three-four per cent in India. For comparison, expenditure on education relative to the GDP is six per cent or more in Australia, Chile, Israel, New Zealand, Norway, the UK and the US. It lies between three-four per cent in the Czech Republic, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Japan and the Russian Federation. The average for the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) countries is 4.9 per cent. For OECD countries is 4.9 per cent. For Chile, Brazil, Mexico, Switzerland, New Zealand, Korea, and Denmark, it is as high as 17 per cent.

With hybrid education set to become the new normal even in a post-Corona world, simply investing in technology road map needs to be designed for planned action to enable institutions to evolve from the stage of "doing digital" to "being digital." Despite its importance, the Budget does not promote digitalisation per se. In fact, allocation to IT and the telecom sector declined as a proportion of the total expenditure from 1.95 per cent (2020-21 BE) to 9.93 per cent (2020-21 BE) to 9.93 per cent (2020-21 RE). However, for Digital India e-learning, the funds earmarked have gone up by over 100 per cent and stand at 5645 crore. Further, under this scheme, 'National Mission on Education Through ICT' as well as Massive Open Online Courses envisaged an overwhelming rise of over 200 per cent and 1670 per cent respectively and stand at 7150 crore each. Nonetheless, a greater thrust would be required in the years ahead. In addition to allocations, both total and compositional, what matters for productivity is overmane. In terms of tional, what matters for produc-tivity is governance. In terms of policy reforms, the proposal to amend the Apprenticeship Act is commendable and can generate opportunities for employability and financing of higher education. The Government's focus on increasing collaboration with foreign institutions in Japan and the UAE for skill training partnerships is also praiseworthy. Additionally, setting up of a single higher education regulator to streamline governance structures in highcation regulator to streamline governance structures in high-er education is commendable. Also, the allocation of ₹50,000 crore over five years will encourage research, development and innovation.

To impart holistic development, new models of engagement such as learning consortiums and coalitions comprising of diverse stakeholders need to be established for scalable, sustainable and inclusive

Grievous crime or just theatre?

Govt to ensure e-players |Sensex, Nifty snap 6-session|don't violate FDI norms

A mid domestic traders com-plaining alleged violations of FDI norms by foreign online players, Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal Industry Minister Pyush Goyal on Tuesday said the government is considering to come out with certain clarifications to ensure that the e-commerce sector works in the "true spirit" of the law and rules. He said the current FDI policy for the e-commerce secrot is robust and well-designed. However, there are certain complaints from consumers and small retailers about certain practices of the e-comtain practices of the e-comtain practices of the Coom-merce companies, which are under investigation, he added. "We have sought several information, they are being looked into. We are also con-sidering certain clarifications to ensure that the e-commerce sector works in the true spirit of the law, of the rules that have been laid down for e-com-merce, "Goyal told reporters. He added that the e-com-merce commanies are suposed merce, Goyal told reporters.

He added that the e-commerce companies are supposed to provide an agnostic platform so that buyers and sellers can trade with each other.

The online platform should not become part of the trading transaction, 'should neither be having algorithms which give preference to one or the other, should neither be having algorithms which give preference to one or the other, should neither be promoting their own products.' But, it should provide all data that is required for a rational choice, and the choice should be a free choice of the consumer, Goyal should be given an opportuni-ty to trade with each other as the platform only is a service provider, he said.

Those who break that law will certainly have to respond to our concerns and correct their business practices at the earliest, the minister added.

Recently, the minister added.

Recently, the ministry has forwarded representations by the Confederation of All India Traders (CATI) of alleged violations by Amazon and Flipkart to the Enforcement Directorate and the Reserve Bank of India for "precessary action"

"necessary action". CAIT has time and again CA11 nas unite and ap.... alleged that the e-commerce players violated the Foreign Exchange Management Act and FDI rules.

With the advent of voice technology, AI and AR, the learning trajectory for UX designers is slated to get steeper. PROF COL SHISHIR KUMAR lists skills that aspiring UX designers must have

The 21st century digital business climate demands a constant reassessment of erstwhile skills and abilities. Paraphrasing the thoughts of the famous Austrian management consultant, educator, and author, Peter of the famous Austrian management consultant, educator, and author, Peter Drucker, "Only those skills will be relavant in the 21st century that contributes towards the gaining of newer skills and abilities pertaining to the digital realm". The modern management inoners's opinion is spot-on when it comes to gauging the evolution of the skill-based ecosystem in the modern economic milleu.

Even those skill sets that were hitherto considered indispensable are now being rendered useless in the present business vista. Constant upskilling has become the present-day norm with the evolution of the technological land-scape. Even more so, for professionals belonging to the all-permeating branch of UX design that operates continuously at the meeting point of next-gen technologies and human experience. With the advent of voice technology, AI, AR, the learning trajectory for UX designers is slated to get steeper.

As per a report released by Oxford University, the average shelf-life of a professional skill has dropped radical-ly from thirty years to five years between 1984 and 2014. Furthermore, between 1984 and 2014. Furthermore, a survey initiated by the global staffing firm, Robert Half International revealed that employers are far more inclined to hire professionals who exhibit the eagerness to learn and develop new skills through advanced training and exposure.

Under such a shape-shifting premise, the need for UX designers to stay at par with the contemporary tech trends is paramount. Here are some of the top essential skills for ambitious UX designers to grow and stay relevant within the current tech scape:

Developing a sense of empathy: its an unspoken rule in the UX industry that designs exist for the sake of the user, and not the other way round. For a design to be successful and pertinent, it must be shaped as per the sensibilities of the end-user. The central most factor integral to creating user-centric UX designs is a sense of deep empathy in the designer. While a decent designer is one who can understand the con-sumer, an extraordinary designer can empathise with the lives, challenges, troubles, and expectations of a user. A sense of empathy enables designers the opportunity to zero in on untapped pain-points. This intellectual skill is responsible for catalyzing much of the innovation that is witnessed in the industry. It allows designers to create lasting and powerful user-based exper-riences, which later translate into busi-mess excellence and greater returns.

insting and powernt user-ossed experiences, which later translate into business excellence and greater returns.

The art of storytelling Making a brilliant design is merely half of the matter. The designer must also be able to market, evaluate and create a storytelling around their designs. The art of great storytelling is central to the longevity and impact of any design. The ability to build a narrative around the design which is empathetic to the end user is an essential skill for every aspiring UX professional as it marks the fine line between a good designer and a brilliant one. Besides having an imaginative faculty and communication skills, a source when the control of the control of the properties of the control of the contr ideas in moments of lonely brilliance. This however, is far from the truth. One of the most important skill sets in the designers' toolkit is team work and collaboration. In fact the creative process itself is iterative and collaborative in nature. Great ideas and successful execution comes with teamwork. In the real world a UX designer must collaborate with business folks, technology folks, researchers, partners and more to successfully deliver a project.

Knowledge & application of Design frameworks: Design is a process. Every process needs frameworks to implement it effectively. There are many design frameworks that are used in UX design to help designers better understand users and their lives, design strategies and build the right experiences. Some important design frameworks that are used in the industry include Personas, customer journeys, empathy maps, card sorting and task flow design. These are all easy frameworks for designers to learn and implement in their projects and designers wishing to learn them can do so through many online courses including the UX jumpstarted by ImaginXP.

Skilled in design tools: Although pen and paper will always be the mightiest tools for a designer to ideate, iterate and bee agile, it is also equally important to be able to translate your thoughts from paper to digital. There are many design tools available today for wireframing, visual design and prototyping. All designers should be proficient in at least some of these so as to effectively deliver UX design. Some popular design tools include Sketch, Adobe XD, Figma and Axure. That said, designing is an ongoing process demanding constant learning and up skilling. This makes it crucial to open your horizons and be passionate about learning new skills. Remember that the entire world is your teacher and you need to stay abreast with the changing pace of the industry. If you low digital designing, then UX designing is the destination for you.

The Digital Kinderuniversity, a free online learning platform, shall contribute significantly towards making education more accessible to the public and ensuring development in children from an early age. Currently, Kinderuniversity is offered in Hindi, English, and German. While no prior knowledge of German is required to enroll at Kinderuniversity, students can familiarise themselves with the language, combined with an independent and playful pursuit of science.

At Kinderuniversity, children attend lectures and complete exercises based on STEM + Arts i.e. STE(A)M subjects. They learn from "Humans," Nature and "Technology" and are exposed to elements of gamification throughout the course. Students can collect badges that help them advance through levels ranging from Bachelor, Master, Doctorate to Professor. To further incentivise students, certificates can be downloaded anytime and from anywhere.

PNS ■ NEW DELHI

The coronavirus pandemic already had a devastating impact on the academic calendar. Further to that, all competitive examinations like NEET, IEE, etc were delayed which we can say is opportunity for some and pressure for others.

Although, the official announcement in regards to NEET PG 2021 dates have been made. NEET PG 2021 is to be held on April 18, 2021 which is delayed by three months. The registrations for NEET PG 4021 which is delayed by three months. The registrations for NEET PG 2021 which is delayed by three months. The registrations for NEET PG 2020 was taken late. The counseling of the NEET PG 2020 was taken late. The counseling of the NEET PG 2020 was taken late. The counseling of the NEET PG 2020 was done till last week of September. So, the students got less time for studying and they were also burdened with the pressure of the pandemic. The preparation time students have got was also less. The reason behind the mental pressure is jobs, pandemic and delay in the examination but the positive thing is that the aspirants have got extra time for their preparation. Commenting on this Gaurar Ypagi, Founder — Career Evrataid: "Students should stay calm and focus on the syllabus they have command on. They should once go through the previous year exam papers and also the guidelines of the exams. My best wishes to all the aspirants."

The year 2020 was a tough deal. With countries faring negative growth leading to loss of lives and livelihoods owing to the pandemic, there were a lot of expectations from the Budget 2021. The presentation of the Budget therefore was a challenging and probably a unique exercise.

Delhi School of Business nised an on-line discus-on the Union Budget organised an on-line discussion on the Union Budget 2021 invitting academicians, scholars and industry experts from within and outside the country to understand and unfold the nuances of the budget and its implications for overall growth and health of the economy, including welfare of its citizens.

In his welcome address, Dr Rajiv Ranjan Thakur, Director-Delhi School of Business said that the current budget was seen a ray for hope all stakeholders in the economy amidst the gloom of pandemic faced by the nation. Voicing his reservations of the Government not getting its macro-economics right,
Prof Arun Kumar, Malcom
Adiseshiah Professor, Institute of social Sciences onjust that Adiseshiah Professor, Institute of social Sciences, opined that present capital intensive expenditure strategy is not going to result in nominal growth of 14.4 per cent as promised in the budget. The current official negative growth figures of minus 7.7 per cent do not include that of the unorganised sector, facing negative growth rate of 29 per cent, leading to high job losses. According to him, following capital intensive supply led growth will not generate higher employment and cause delay in boosting the economy. He also elaborated that much required budgetary allocation such as transfer for welfare programmes, including employment generating schemes addressing the woes of the unorganised sector has not been adequately addressed in the budget.

Allaying the concerns of the high fiscal deficit in the budget.

Allaying the concerns of the high fiscal deficit in the budget 2021 which is tolerable under the current economic situation, Prof. Priyaranjan, Professor of California, Irvine USA however, lauded the thrust of the budget on the increase in spending on infrastructure, although lopsided and somewhat politically motivated. Infrastructure spending is likely to have a higher multiplier effect, impacting the growth and has the potential to create jobs in future. He also did express use of production subsidy as a much effective path to integrate domestic producers with the global economy than current policy of discretionary protectionist tariff. He also outlined that the problems faced by the informal sectors has not been fully addressed.

Vijay Sardana, Techno-legal expert-advocate, opined that Government should refrain from undertaking populist measures and direct its efforts in improving efficiency to face global competition, using technology to build skills and promote innovation in the country and help in achieving growth in the medium term. The policy shift of privatisation as envisaged in the budget is an appropriate measure. He also hinted at the need for use of new technologies to support basic needs programmes, especially in education, to improve its effectiveness and skilling new generation in the remote areas.

Prof Rattan Sharma, Prof Restor Emeritus, DSB gave a different view of the required role of Government in an economy. Highlighting the supporting role played the Government during financial crisis in 2008 and most recently during the pandemic situation. Government involvement, even in a limited way, should be in public and welfare interest.

SPECIFIC SECTOR VIEW SPECIFIC SECTOR VIEW
As touched upon by Dr SC Vats on the protests by the farming community which got the similar attention in the the country. According to Vijay vardana, the other was agricultural policies such as the MSP is a self-defeating phenomena which has pro-moted inefficiency in pro-duction and distribution sysduction and distribution system, taxing the exchequer. The upshot is country is laden with high expenditure in managing FCI, which could be invested in other sectors, capable of generating employment and higher returns. A detailed study of current sechanio of agricultural production and marketing therefore is required to understand the ground realities and address the malaise

Echoing the same senti-ments, Dhananjay Sinha, Director, Systematix Goup-said that reforms are well-come in the agricultural sec-tor to address the discord tome in the agricultural sec-tor to address the discord between the decrease in con-sumption of cereals vis-à-vis-its increase in cereal produc-tion and consequent its pro-curement by the Government leading to drain of resources. He also touched at length on the progress made in the financial sectors and reforms that has been highlighted in the budget 2021. With high-er retail participation and more transparent bonds and debt market, it is moving towards a more vibrant finan-cial sector. Prof. Rattan Sharma discussed on the insti-tutional reforms such as devel-opment financial institutions, asset reconstruction company -- ment mancial institutions, asset reconstruction company will help to ease the stress on current banking system and can propel growth in the econ-omy

y The allocation in the social The allocation in the social sector and the informal economy was touched upon by all the panellists, complimenting increase in health expenditure by 137 per cent for fighting COVID situation and building COVID situation and building health infrastructure. Some criticisms of the stagnant or even lower budgetary alloca-tions for the employment gen-eration schemes to support the informal and unorganised sec-tor and in education has been highlighted by Prof Arun Kumar and Prof Rattan Sharma.

CONCLUSION

As seemed from the discussion of the Union Budget 2021, the Government has given a new direction for the achievement of the vision of Atmanirbhar Bharat. The disagreement on either allocation or policy shifts envisaged in the budget evident during the discussion reflects the healthy debate in a democratic country which we follow and practice. We as a nation will always strive collectively for growth, prosperity and equivalently, and hope this budget will show us the light at end of the dark tunnel of pandemic period faced by the world. CONCLUSION

VSL signs MoU with CHSS

The signing ceremony of Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) between the VIT-AP School of Law (VSL), VIT-AP University Studies (CHSS) was held at VIT-AP School of Law, VIT-AP University on February 9, 2021. Ch Dwarka Trumada Raol Trumada Raol Funder (Railways) (Andhra Pradesh Cadre) graced the occasion and witness the ceremony as a Chief Guest.

est. Chief Guest Ch Dwaraka

Chief Guest Ch Dwaraka Tirumala Rao said: "February 09, 2021 marks as an important day in the history of the VIT-AP School of Law (VSL), VIT-AP University and for the Centre for Human Security Studies (CHSS) by entering into MoU to work committedly for the cause national security. I am sure both the organisations would share the common values and common ideas to protect the nations from various security threats.

Threats ranging from cyber security, health security, costal security and mostly internal security to be addressed and dealt with clear policy and legal spects. Without having clear policy and legal guidelines it is difficult for the forces to deal and provide protection to the people of this country. The VIT-AP University and CHSS should bear in mind that these challenges have to be addressed in clear and focused manner.

VIT-AP University should guide and provide inputs to the policy and law makers in dealing with the various challenges which are posed by the growing security threat. "The CHSS is having almost 10 years of experience in dealing and organistic parailles activities to create awareness among the people of Andhra Pradesh and Telangana with regard to prevailing and growing security threats. It is the need of the hour that educational institutions like VIT-AP should come forward to work with the Governments and be in the think tank to disseminate and create awareness about the security challenges, he added. Dr SV Kota Reddy, Vice-Chancellor of VIT-AP University, in his address highlighted the university's contribution for the empowerment and promotion of the education and advised the law students and faculty to work towards the highlighted that the university is committed to create a Centre of Excellence in Cyber Security and Law This center will work holistically to provide better solutions to the society and he has informed the importance of the center and its scope.

SWING IT LIKE JIMMY

PTI CHENNAI

Varietran James Anderson's artistic spell of reverse swing trumped Virat Kohli's show of grit as England decimated India in the opening Test by a comprehensive 227-run margin here on Tuesday. A target of 420, with 381 left on a fifth day worn out Chepauk track, was always a tough ask going by cricketing logic and Anderson's mid-morning burst blew away the Indian middle-order. In the end, the hosts could manage only 192 in 58.1 overs.

That spell ensured that there want a Sydney like heist or the magic of Brisbane final day which many had hoped for despite the world record target.
Kohli (72 off 104 balls) seemed like a lonely general standing on a burning deck as he showed his colleagues how to bat on a difficult track.
He cowered the swing and shuffled towards the off-stump to counter Anderson, ran pur-shuffled towards the off-stump to counter Anderson, ran pur-posefully and scored his runs against spinners.

But there was that one ball that was always going to keep low and he got that from Ben Stokes.

DOUBLE ALIKE BLOW
Courtesy Anderson (11-4-7-3), the match became a mismatch within an hour and India now need to win two out of the next three Tests to qualify for the World Test Championship final in June. The player of the match honours went to England skipper Joe Root for his match-defining double hundred in the first innings.

It was left-arm spinner Jack Leach (26-476-4), who after his first innings humilation at the hands of Rishabh Pant, finished with the best figures but the effort paled in comparison to the effect that Anderson had on the psyche of the Indian team.

on the psyche of the lambda.

Anderson sowed doubts among rank and file of the home line-up, whether they had the technique to play the moving ball which swings the other way round. Kohli can but can his colleagues do it will be the big question going forward.

The man from Burnley, in his 19th Test match season, showed his artistry with a semi-new ball, on a fifth day track and sapping Chennai heat, far removed conditions from the grey sides and cool breeze that Old Trafford gives him.

But then Anderson is devotee and decent advotee and desent devotee and best practitioner of Test match ethos and doesnit need to take refuge in conditions because of his supreme control over his craft.

ANOTHER FIFTY FOR CILL
Gill (50, 83 balls) once again looked dazzling till the time he was at the crease. The sinewy wrists were in play as he hit seven fours and a six, dealing with spinners comfortably.
Even Cheteshwar Puijara's
(15 off 38 balls) dismissal off Jack Leach's 'peach' didn't unfaze the young man from Punjab as he along with Kohli calmly went about their business.
It was the 27th over when Anderson first came into the

It was the 27th over when Anderson first came into the attack and the second ball was a perfect reverse inswinger which had Gill in a daze as the off-stump went for a walk. The way the shiny part on the inside tailed in was a sight to behold.

Rahane (0), for all the appreciation coming his way, was in very poor form for the better part of the Australia series, was a hundred at MCG where he was dropped thrice.

The first ball he faced on Ituesday was another one that came back a shade and it was titting the middle of the middle stump with the Umpires' Call saving the vice-captain of what looked like a plumb leg before. The willy Anderson realised that an out-of-form Rahane's feet are not moving.

The next time he just went a shade wide off the crease and delivered another reverse inswinger. Rahane knew that there was no comeback. Part (11) has had three great knocks but he was facing a bowler with supreme game awareness and Against a left-hander, he Against a left-hander, he predictably came round the wicket and angled a few in with a busy Pam thiting a boundary. By then, Anderson had gauged that Pant could be hurried on the drive.

So the master changed his tactic and bowled a slower one enticing Pant to go for a drive. Pant tried his best to check it but the bowler had asked his skipper Joe Root to specifically stand at short cover for that particular shot.

stand at short cover for that par-ticular shot.
From 92 for 2, it was 110 for five and Kohli cut a lonely fig-ure at the other end.
Washington Sundar (0) was then picked by Dom Bess with the one that turned away leav-ing India in complete tatters.
