SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 2016 | 10:00 AM | BANK OF AMERICA STADIUM | CHARLOTTE, NC | FOX

49ERS AT PANTHERS

The San Francisco 49ers make their first road trip of the season this week as they travel to Charlotte, NC to face the Carolina Panthers. This marks the 19th overall matchup between the two clubs and the first since the Niners defeated the Panthers, 23-10, in the NFC Divisional round of the 2013 postseason (1/12/14). As the road team, the 49ers have an overall record of 5-5 against Carolina.

The Niners are coming off of a 28-0 victory over the Los Angles Rams on ESPN's Monday Night Football, winning their franchise-record sixth consecutive season opener. Offensively, the 49ers rushed for 150 yards and three touchdowns on the night. RB Carlos Hyde ran for 88 yards and two touchdowns on 23 carries. It marked his fourth and fifth career rushing touchdowns on opening day and second multi-touchdown game of his career. RB Shaun Draughn also found the end zone on the ground, while QB Blaine Gabbert connected with TE Vance McDonald on an eight-yard touchdown pass.

On defense, the 49ers registered the first shutout in franchise history on opening day. The unit held the Rams to 185 total yards (65 rushing, 120 passing), ranking second in the NFL in Week 1. LBs NaVorro Bowman and Ray-Ray Armstrong each registered an interception on the night, the fourth and first of their careers respectively. With one sack, LB Ahmad Brooks moved into a tie with DT Dana Stubblefied for third on the franchise's all-time sack list with 46.5. DL Arik Armstead registered the third sack of his NFL career, taking down Rams QB Case Keenum.

BY THE NUMBERS

135.9 QB Blaine Gabbert had a passer rating of 135.9 in the 4th qtr. against the Rams, ranking 2nd in the NFL in Week 1 (Matthew Stafford, Det. - 142.0).

2-0 San Francisco looks to begin the season 2-0 for the first time since 2012 and the fourth time since 2000 (2007, 2009 & 2012).

0 Against Los Angeles, the 49ers offensive line did not allow a sack on 35 passing atts. by QB Blaine Gabbert. It marked the first time the 49ers did not allow a sack in a game since 11/8/15 (25 atts. by Gabbert, 1 att. by QB Colin Kaepernick vs. Atl).

THE HEAD COACHES

Chip Kelly was named the 19th head coach of the San Francisco 49ers on January 14, 2016, after spending the previous three seasons as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles. Kelly joins the 49ers with 26 seasons of coaching experience at both the NFL and collegiate levels. Kelly won 10 games in each of his first two seasons with the Eagles, including a NFC East Division championship in his first season in 2013, becoming the second head coach in league history to win a division title in his first season in the NFL. Before his time in Philadelphia, Kelly served as the head coach at the University of Oregon (2009-12) after spending the previous two seasons as the team's offensive coordinator (2007-08). He finished with a 46-7 (.868) record as the Oregon Ducks head coach from, including an appearance in four BCS Bowls and a trip to the National Championship game. Prior to Oregon, Kelly served as the offensive coordinator at the University of New Hampshire (1999-2006). Kelly played quarterback and safety at the University of New Hampshire from 1981-84. Following his playing career, Kelly was an assistant at Columbia University for two seasons (1990-91), coaching on the defensive side of the ball and special teams. In 1992, he returned to New Hampshire to become the running backs coach before spending the 1993 season as the defensive coordinator at Johns Hopkins University.

Ron Rivera is in his sixth season as head coach of the Carolina Panthers. In 2015, the Panthers captured their third consecutive NFC South title with a 15-1 record, won the second NFC Championship in franchise history and appeared in Super Bowl 50. Last season, Rivera was named NFL Coach of the Year for the second time in three years. The year prior, the Panthers finished with a 7-8-1 record, but won four straight to end the season. In 2013, Rivera led the Panthers to a 12-4 record and Carolina's first NFC South title since 2008. Rivera and the Panthers finished 2012 strong, winning four consecutive contests and five of their last six. In 2011, the Panthers tripled their win total from 2010 despite no offseason and an epidemic of defensive injuries. His success was no surprise, for Rivera has excelled as a coach and player during his 24 years in the NFL, serving as coordinator for the San Diego Chargers' top-ranked defense in 2010 and playing linebacker for the Chicago Bears' top-ranked defense and Super Bowl XX championship team in 1985. Rivera worked with the San Diego Chargers from 2007-10. He coached inside linebackers before taking over as the team's defensive coordinator midway through the 2008 season. From 2004-06, Rivera oversaw the Chicago Bears defense, engineering the unit to two top-five finishes in the league. Prior to becoming a defensive coordinator, Rivera spent five seasons from 1999-2003 as the linebackers coach for the Philadelphia Eagles. Rivera gained his first coaching experience with the Bears as defensive quality control coach from 1997-98.

With the addition of Chip Kelly in San Francisco, comes a wealth of experience and success on the offensive side of the football. In his four seasons as a head coach in the NFL, Kelly's offense ranked in the top-10 in several offensive categories.

20-Point Benchmark...

In Chip Kelly's four NFL seasons as a head coach, his teams have reached 20-or-more points 38 times out of 48 regular season games. In those games, his record is 27-11 (.711 winning pct.).

Since 2010, the 49ers have scored 20-or-more points 55 times out of 97 regular season games. In those 55 games, they have a combined 46-8-1 record (.845 winning pct.). Their .845 winning pct. scoring 20-or-more points ranks 3rd in the NFL during that timespan.

Aikman's Take...

In 2010, former NFL QB and current FOX analyst, Troy Aikman, developed his "Aikman Ratings." The ratings are a measurement of seven categories devised by Aikman that provides a more accurate picture of all the factors necessary for offensive and defensive success.

Following their Week 1 victory over the Los Angeles Rams, San Francisco ranked at the top of Aikman's weekly ratings:

AIKMAN COMBINED RATINGS THROUGH WEEK 1, 2016

Curtis Modkins enters his ninth season in the NFL and first as the 49ers offensive coordinator. A veteran of 22 seasons coaching at the professional and collegiate levels, he spent the previous three seasons (2013-15) as the running backs coach and run game coordinator for the Detroit Lions.

In 2015 among running backs, the Lions finished the season ranked first in receptions (135) and receiving yards (1,216), and tied for fourth in receiving touchdowns (five) among running backs. RB Theo Riddick set a Detroit franchise record for receptions by a running back, registering 80 receptions for 697 yards and three touchdowns. Rookie RB Ameer Abdullah finished fifth in the NFL in all-purpose yards (1,857).

3t. New Orleans	127	3. New England	1,043
4. Baltimore	127	4. San Diego	1,035
5. Minnesota	121	5. Baltimore	879

In 2014, RB Joique Bell led the Lions with a career-high 860 yards on the ground with seven rushing touchdowns. Detroit was the only team in the NFL that had three running backs with 30-or-more receptions.

Detroit ranked third in the NFL in total yards gained by running backs with 2,769 yards (1,690 rushing, 1,079 receiving) in 2013. The Lions were the only team to feature backs who combined for 1,600-or-more rushing yards and 1,000-or-more receiving yards. Under Modkins' guidance, RB Reggie Bush (1,006 rushing, 506 receiving) and Bell (651 rushing, 547 receiving) became the first running back tandem in NFL history to both register 500-or-more rushing yards and 500-or-more receiving yards in the same season.

Prior to joining the Lions, Modkins spent three seasons (2010-12) with the Buffalo Bills as the offensive coordinator and running backs coach. In each of the three seasons with Modkins as offensive coordinator, QB Ryan Fitzpatrick registered 3,000-or-more passing yards and 20-or-more touchdown passes while WR Stevie Johnson recorded 1,000-or-more receiving yards.

In 2012, the Bills offense ranked fourth in the NFL in yards per carry (5.0) and sixth in total rushing yards (2,217). RB C.J. Spiller finished eighth in the league with 1,244 rushing yards en route to his first Pro Bowl selection.

Buffalo ranked 14th in the league in points per game (23.3) and led the AFC in yards per carry (4.9) in 2011. RB Fred Jackson rushed for a team-high 934 yards and six touchdowns while Johnson recorded his second consecutive 1,000-receiving yard season. Fitzpatrick set then career highs with 3,832 passing yards and 24 touchdown passes.

During his first year with the Bills in 2010, Johnson registered career highs with 82 receptions for 1,078 yards and 10 touchdowns, the second most receiving touchdowns in team history. Buffalo was one of five AFC teams with a 3,000-yard passer and two players with 1,000-or-more yards from scrimmage (Jackson and Johnson).

Modkins spent one season as the running backs coach with the Arizona Cardinals in 2009. Second-year RB Tim Hightower finished second in the NFL among running backs with 63 receptions and set a career high with 1,204 total yards from scrimmage while rushing for eight touchdowns. Rookie RB Beanie Wells rushed for 793 yards and seven touchdowns.

Modkins began his NFL coaching career in 2008 as the running backs coach with the Kansas City Chiefs. That season, the Chiefs ranked fourth in the NFL, averaging 4.8 yards per carry. Modkins mentored RB Larry Johnson, who led the team with 193 carries for 874 yards and five touchdowns, and RB Jamaal Charles, who rushed for 378 yards during his rookie season.

Before heading to the NFL, Modkins spent 13 seasons at the collegiate level, including six years at Georgia Tech University. He first joined the staff as the defensive backs coach (2002) before spending the next five seasons as the team's running backs coach (2003-07).

During his time as the Yellow Jackets running backs coach, the team averaged 150-or-more yards per game on the ground in each of his five seasons. From 2006-07, RB Tashard Choice registered back-to-back 1,000-yard rushing seasons, while RB P.J. Daniels ranked 10th in the nation with 1,447 yards rushing in 2003.

Prior to Georgia Tech, Modkins spent four seasons (1998-2001) as the cornerbacks coach at the University of New Mexico. In 2001, Modkins' cornerbacks helped the Lobos rank 18th in the nation in total defense while notching 15 interceptions. From 1998-2000, New Mexico's passing yards per game allowed declined each season, from a high of 222.3 in 1998 to 194.1 in 2000.

Modkins began his coaching career at his alma mater, Texas Christian University, where he served as a graduate assistant in 1995, secondary coach in 1996, and tight ends coach in 1997.

Modkins has been a three-time intern through the NFL Minority Coaching Fellowship program, working with the Philadelphia Eagles (head coach Ray Rhodes) in 1997, the Dallas Cowboys (head coach Chan Gailey) in 1999 and the Pittsburgh Steelers (head coach Bill Cowher) in 2005.

A native of Marlin, TX, Modkins was a three-year starter for TCU and led the Horned Frogs in rushing from 1990-92. He finished his career ranked eighth on the school's all-time rushing list with 2,763 yards and was twice named Second-Team All-Southwest Conference. He earned a bachelor's degree in criminal justice in 1993, and earned his master of liberal arts degree in 1997. Modkins and his wife, Kristi, have four children: Ciera, Jett, Mariah and Dash.

INSANE IN THE MEMBLAINE

With 36 career starts, QB Blaine Gabbert carried his 2015 success into the 2016 season after starting each of the 49ers final eight games a year ago. In those eight games, he completed 178 of 282 passes for a career-high 63.1 completion percentage, 2,031 yards and 10 touchdowns. The former 10th overall draft selection of the Jacksonville Jaguars led the NFL last year with a passer rating of 120.5 in the red zone.

2016 Highlights...

• Completed 22 of 35 atts. for 170 yds., 1 TD and a passer rating of 84.2 vs. LA (9/12) on ESPN's Monday Night Football. Fininshed with 9 rushing atts. for 43 yds. (4.8 avg.).

• In the 4th qtr. vs. LA, completed 6 of 9 atts. for 89 yds. and 1 TD and a passer rating of 135.9. His 4th qtr. passer rating ranked 2nd in the NFL during Week 1.

Career Highlights...

• Originally a 1st-round (10th overall) draft choice by the Jacksonville Jaguars in 2011, he has appeared in 37 games (35 starts) and has thrown for 6,426 yds. and 33 TDs.

• Threw for 2,031 yds. and 10 TDs with a career-high 63.1 completion percentage with the 49ers in 2015. Also recorded a career-high 185 rushing yds. on the season, including the first rushing TD of his career.

COMMUNITY CORNER

• Since arriving in San Francisco, Gabbert has been an active contributor to the 49ers community relations efforts. He has participated annually in the Visa Shop With A Player event to help local kids from the Boys & Girls Clubs of Silicon Valley buy Christmas presents for their families. He has also helped build bikes for underserved youth in the yearly 49ers Bike Build with Turning Wheels for Kids, among other events.

CAN'T HYDE HIM

Carlos Hyde looks to continue the steep tradition of San Francisco running backs in 2016. A 2014 2nd-round draft pick out of Ohio State, Hyde has made his presence known early during his first three seasons, rushing for 50 yards on seven carries (7.1 average) and one touchdown at Dallas (9/7/14) and 168 yards on 26 carries and two touchdowns vs. Minnesota (9/14/15) and 88 yards and two touchdowns vs. Los Angeles during his three career season openers.

COMMUNITY CORNER
- In August of 2016, Hyde partnered with the Boys & Girls Clubs of Silicon Valley on a new program that will run during the 2016 NFL season for fans to join Hyde in support of the Clubs' programs for kids.
- Fans can share in the success of Hyde and the 49ers offense through a unique, performance based campaign called Touchdowns for Kids. Fans pledge any dollar amount for every touchdown the 49ers score during the 2016 NFL season. At the end of each game, pledges turn into donations that directly benefit the youth that attend the clubs.
- Fans who make a pledge of at least $1 per touchdown or a flat donation of $40 or more, will be entered to win a Carlos Hyde autographed helmet. Fans who make a pledge of $5 per touchdown or more or a flat donation of at least $400, will receive a special invitation for two to Carlos Hyde's Champions Reception following the season, where guests will meet Hyde and receive a special gift and a photo.

NEED FOR SPEED

After joining San Francisco in the 2015 offseason, Torrey Smith brought his big-play ability with him to the Bay Area. In his first season with San Francisco, Smith registered three receiving touchdowns of 70-or-more yards, becoming the first member of the 49ers to do so since WR John Taylor in 1989. He also led the NFL with a yards per reception average of 20.1.

2015 Highlights...

- According to Elias, Smith became the first 49ers player to register 3 rec. TDs of 70-or-more yds. in the same season since WR John Taylor accomplished the feat in 1989. He is the first player in the NFL to reach the mark since Cleveland Browns WR Josh Gordon in 2013.

- Appeared in 16 games (12 starts) during his first season with the 49ers and recorded 33 recepts. for 663 yds. and 4 TDs. His 20.1 yds.-per-catch avg. was the highest in the NFL.

- Registered 120 yds. on 6 recepts. at Pit. (9/20), going over 100 rec. yds. for the first time with the 49ers. It was the 7th 100-yd. game of his career and first since 10/6/13 at Mia. (6 recepts. for 121 yds.). Took a QB Colin Kaepernick pass 75 yds. at Pit. (9/20) for his first TD as a member of the 49ers. It marked the longest recept. since 9/25/11 at StL (74t), as a member of the Baltimore Ravens.

Sammy Watkins, Buf.	17.5

- Caught a career-long 76-yd. TD recept. from QB Colin Kaepernick vs. Bal. (10/18).

- Hauled in a game-winning 71-yd. TD recept. in overtime from QB Blaine Gabbert at Chi. (12/6).

Career Highlights...

- Finished his time in Baltimore as the Ravens career leader in yds.-per-catch avg. (16.9), registering 213 recepts. for 3,591 yds. and 30 TDs.

- His 30 career rec. TDs rank second in Ravens franchise history, trailing only TE Todd Heap (41 rec. TDs).

- Led the Ravens with a career-high 11 TD recepts. in 2014, becoming the first Ravens player with 10-or-more TD recepts. since WR Michael Jackson had 14 in 1996.

- Registered a career-high 166 rec. yds. and 1 TD on 5 recepts. (33.2 avg.) at Buf. (9/29/13).

- With 1,128 rec. yds. in 2013, became the first Ravens player with 1,000-or-more rec. yds. in a season since since WR Derrick Mason had 1,028 rec. yds. in 2009.

- In 2011, became the third rookie to have two games (9/25/11 at StL; 11/2011 vs. Cin.) with 150-or-more rec. yds. and at least 1 TD recept. in the same season since 1970 (WR Ken Burrow - 2 in 1971 and WR Randy Moss - 3 in 1998).

- Registered a career-high 3 TD recepts. at StL (9/25/11) in his first career start.

- Had his first 3 career recepts. go for TDs (74, 41 and 18 yds.) at StL (9/25/11), becoming the first rookie in NFL history and the 12th player since 1991 with 3 TD recepts. in the 1st qtr.

- Owns the Ravens rookie franchise record for most recepts. (50), and rec. yds. (841) and is tied with WR Marlon Brown in rec. TDs (7).

- In 2015, Smith became the first 49ers player to register 3 rec. TDs of 70-or-more yds. in the same season since WR John Taylor accomplished the feat in 1989. He is the first player in the NFL to reach the mark since Cleveland Browns WR Josh Gordon in 2013.

COMMUNITY CORNER

- During his time in Baltimore, Smith started the Torrey Smith Family Fund, which was established to provide youth with the tools they need to identify, unleash, and reach their full potential. O'NEIL'S IMPRINT ON DEFENSE

Jim O'Neil enters his eighth season in the NFL and first with the 49ers as the team's defensive coordinator. He joins the 49ers after spending the past two seasons (2014-15) in the same role with the Cleveland Browns.

In his two seasons with Cleveland, O'Neil led a Browns unit that ranked sixth in the NFL in opposing quarterback completion percentage (59.6) and tied for seventh in interceptions (32) during that time span. In his first season as defensive coordinator in 2014, O'Neil directed a Browns defense that made significant strides from the year prior. Cleveland allowed 69 fewer points than they did in 2013, and ranked ninth in scoring defense (21.1 PPG). His defensive unit led the NFL in opponent quarterback rating (74.1), ranked second in interceptions (21), and tied for fourth in takeaways (29) that season.

In 2014, S Tashaun Gipson finished second in the NFL with six interceptions despite missing the final five games of the season and was selected to his first career Pro Bowl. CB Joe Haden, who ranked second in the NFL in passes defensed (20), and S Donte Whitner, in his first season with the Browns, were also selected to the Pro Bowl. It marked the first time in franchise history that three defensive backs were selected to the Pro Bowl and the first time the Browns had at least three players selected on the defensive side of the ball since 1995. In 2015, DE Desmond Bryant led the team with a career-high 6.0 sacks in 14 games played.

Prior to joining the Browns, O'Neil spent the 2013 season as the linebackers coach for the Buffalo Bills. His linebackers helped the Bills set a franchise record with 57 sacks that season, which ranked second in the NFL. The Bills defense finished 10th in the NFL in total defense (333.4 yards per game) after finishing 22nd the year before his arrival. Buffalo also led the NFL in opponent completion percentage (55.3), finished second in interceptions (23), third in opponent quarterback rating (74.9), fourth in passing defense (204.4) and tied for sixth in total takeaways (30). O'Neil worked with rookie DE Jerry Hughes, who appeared in all 16 games and set a career high with 10.0 sacks and registered the first two forced fumbles of his career during his first year with Buffalo.

O'Neil spent four seasons in the New York Jets organization, first as defensive quality control/defensive backs coach in 2009 and then the next three years (2010-12) as assistant defensive backs coach. With New York, the Jets passing defense finished in the top-10 every year with O'Neil on staff. The unit ranked second in 2012 (189.8), fifth in 2011 (201.0), sixth in 2010 (200.6) and first in 2009 (153.7) in opponent passing yards per game.

Over those four years in New York, the Jets defense combined to rank first in the NFL in opponent quarterback rating (71.0), completion percentage (52.6) and passing yards per game (186.3). The Jets defense yielded the second-fewest yards per game (294.8) and allowed only nine, 100-yard receiving games from 2009-2012, the fewest in the NFL over that timespan. O'Neil worked with CB Darrelle Revis in New York where he earned three First-Team AP All-Pro selections (2009-11) and was selected to the Pro Bowl three times. O'Neil helped guide CB Antonio Cromartie and S LaRon Landry to earn 2013 Pro Bowl honors.

Before his time in the NFL, O'Neil spent eight years as a coach at the collegiate level. He was at Eastern Michigan University as the school's recruiting coordinator and safeties coach from 2006-08. He also had stints at Towson University in 2005 as the defensive coordinator, Northwestern University from 2003-04 as a graduate assistant/defensive backs coach, the University of Pennsylvania in 2002 as an assistant offensive line coach and SUNY-Albany in 2001 as an assistant offensive line/tight ends coach.

A three-year starter as a defensive lineman at Towson University, O'Neil served as a team captain in 2000. He earned a bachelor's degree in sports management from Towson, a master of arts degree in liberal studies from Northwestern and a master of science degree in education from SUNY-Albany.

A 37-year-old native of Doylestown, PA, O'Neil attended Central Bucks West (Doylestown, PA) High School where he helped the school to a 31-4 record and three consecutive Suburban One League National Conference championships. He and his wife, Stacy, have a son, Danny, and a daughter, Riley.

Talent, hustle, toughness and determination are all attributes 49ers linebacker NaVorro Bowman has displayed during his first six seasons in the NFL. Returning in 2015, he picked up where he left off as he led the NFL in tackles (154). A multiple First-Team All-Pro selection (2011-13), he returned to earn that same honor in 2015. In addition to his All-Pro selections, he has also earned 2013, 2014 and 2016 Pro Bowl recognition. The success earned Bowman a four-year contract extension, that keeps him in San Francisco through the 2022 season. Earlier last year, he established the "4th & Goal Foundation," which aims to impact the lives of children throughout the San Francisco Bay Area.

2016 Highlights...

- Registered the fourth INT of his career vs. LA (9/12) and the first since 12/29/13 at Arz., intercepting Rams QB Case Keenum. According to NFL Gamebook Statistics, he led the team with 9 tackles on the night.

Career Highlights...

- Late in the 4th qtr. vs. Atl. (12/23/13), Bowman intercepted Falcons QB Matt Ryan and returned it 89 yds. for a TD to seal the victory in the final regular season game at Candlestick Park. It marked the longest INT return by a LB in franchise history.

- Named NFC Defensive Player of the Month in December of 2013. During that stretch, Bowman registered 56 tackles, 3.0 sacks, 2 INTs, one of which was returned 89 yds. for a TD, 2 FFs and 1 FR. No other player accomplished the feat in the entire 2013 season.

- Was named NFC Defensive Player of the Week for his performance at Arz. (12/29/13). Picked off Cardinals QB Carson Palmer, marking his 2nd INT of the season and 3rd of his career. Bowman notched his 4th FF of the season, 5th of his career, stripping the ball from Cardinals RB Rashard Mendenhall. He also recovered the loose ball. He was just the 2nd player in the NFL that season and the first 49er since 2009 to register 1 INT, 1 FF and 1 FR in the same game [Ind. LB Jerrell Freeman vs. KC (12/22/13); CB Dre Bly vs. Det. (12/27/09)].

- Named an alternate for the 2012 Pro Bowl, a starter in the 2013 Pro Bowl and was selected to the team in 2014 and 2016.

- Named 1st Team AP All-Pro in 2011, 2012, 2013 and 2015.

- Tallied a career-high 12 games with 10+ tackles in 2012.

- Led the team with a career-high 19 tackles at Sea. (12/23/12).
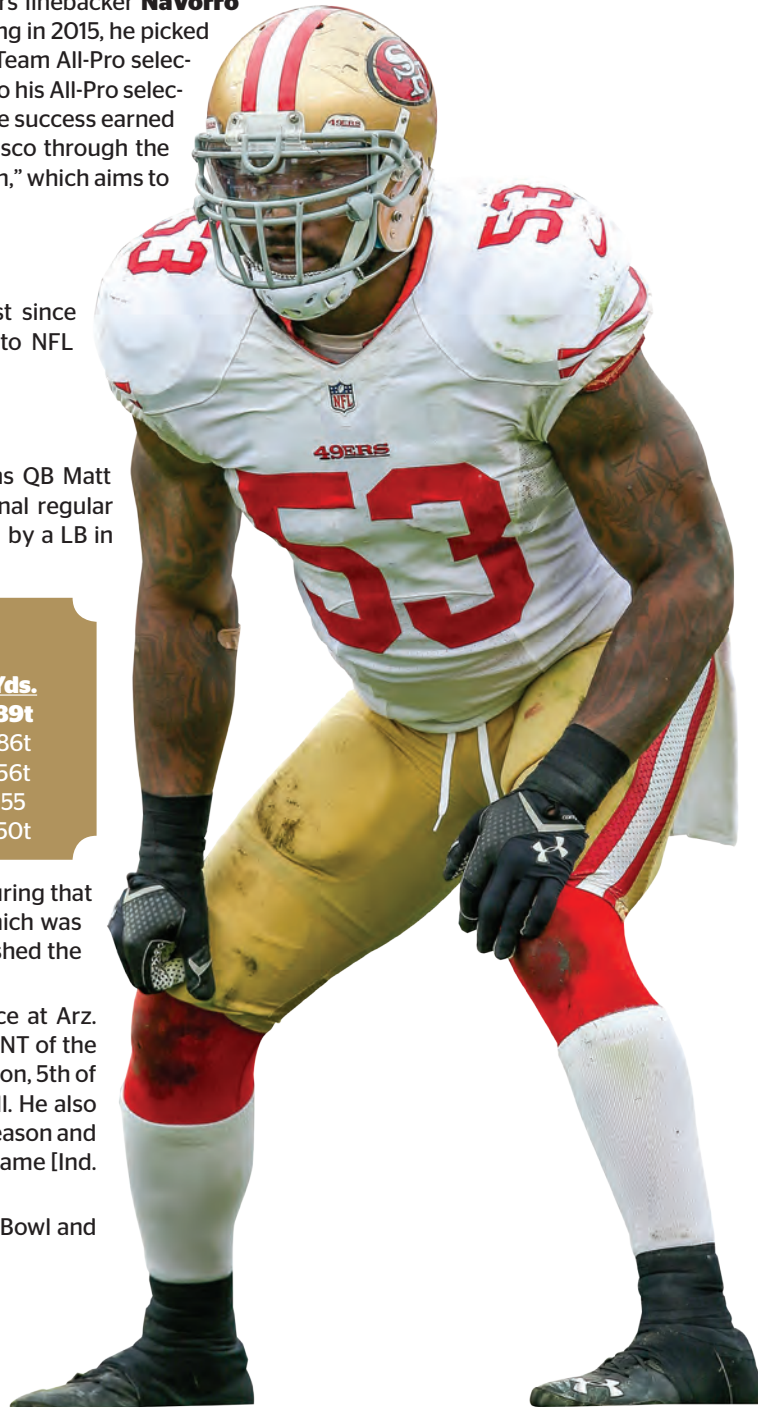

- Bowman established the 4th & Goal Foundation, which aims to impact the lives of children through the San Francisco Bay Area. His goal for his foundation is to build play zones around the Bay Area that will provide state-of-the-art playgrounds to low-income elementary schools so that their students will have a safe outdoor environment to increase social, emotional and cognitive skills as well as a space for increased physical activity. REID WITH CAUTION

Selected as the 18th overall draft choice in the 2013 NFL Draft, Eric Reid has done everything you could ask for after earning his starting spot in training camp of his rookie year. Reid has started 48 out of a possible 49 games during his four NFL seasons. Last season, he racked up 81 tackles and his first career sack and forced fumble. He quickly made a name for himself as a rookie in 2013, finishing the season as the only player in the NFC to record four interceptions and two fumble recoveries. He became the first 49ers rookie safety to be named to the Pro Bowl in franchise history. Reid was the recipient of the Thomas Herrion Memorial Award given by the 49ers coaches to the rookie or first-year player who has taken advantage of every opportunity and turned it into a positive situation. Off the field, Reid hosts his Annual "Eric Reid Invitational," a golf tournament which has raised over $130,000 for the Baton Rouge Sickle Cell Foundation in its first two years.

2015 Highlights...

- Registered his first career FF at Cle. (12/13).
- Brought down Bengals QB AJ McCarron for his first career sack vs. Cin. (12/20).

Career Highlights...

- Made his NFL debut vs. GB (9/8/13), recording 7 tackles, 1 INT, 1 PD and 1 special teams tackle. His first career INT came off of Packers QB Aaron Rodgers. Reid became the first 49ers rookie to intercept a pass on opening day since both DB Don Griffin and CB Tim McKyer each registered an INT at TB (9/7/86).
- Registered his 2nd INT of his career picking off a pass by Seahawks QB Russell Wilson vs. Sea. (9/15/13). According to the Elias Sports Bureau, Reid was the only 49ers rookie, since the merger in 1970, to register an INT in each of the team's first 2 games. The last rookie in the NFL to register an INT in the team's first 2 games was Phi. S Nate Allen in 2010.
- Tallied 1 INT vs. Arz. (10/13/13), the 3rd of his career, picking off QB Carson Palmer and returning it 53 yds to the Cardinals 7-yd. line. Also recorded his first career FR, recovering a fumble by Arz. WR Larry Fitzgerald. The takeaway led to a 6-yd. TD run by RB Kendall Hunter.
- Finished the 2013 season as the only player in the NFC to record 4 INTs and 2 FRs.
- Named to the 2013 NFC Pro Bowl. Also earned the Thomas Herrion Memorial Award given by the 49ers coaches to the rookie or first-year player who has taken advantage of every opportunity and turned it into a positive situation.

COMMUNITY CORNER

- In May of 2016, Reid hosted his Second Annual "Eric Reid Invitational," a golf tournament which raises money for the Baton Rouge Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation. The event has brought in more than $130,000 throughout its first two years.

BETHEA'S BACKYARD

Now in his 11th season and third with the 49ers, Antoine Bethea has made an instant impact on his teammates and coaches during his first two years with the team. In 2014, his first season with the team, he was selected by his coaches as the team's Bill Walsh Award recipient, given to the team MVP, as well as earning his third trip to the Pro Bowl. That season he led the 49ers defense with 85 solo tackles, and registered the first touchdown of his career, a 49-yard interception return against San Diego (12/20/15). Since being drafted in 2006, he has proven to be one of the most consistent and reliable tacklers in the NFL. He has started all 147 games that he's appeared in over his career and has made an impact off the field as well by launching his Safe Coverage Foundation, hosting free football camps for youth and donating game tickets to underserved children.

2015 Highlights...
- Had a team-high 10 tackles at Arz. (9/27).
- Registered 1.0 sack vs. Min. (9/15) and now has 5.5 for his career. It marked Bethea's first sack since 10/13/14 at StL.

Career Highlights...
- According to Gamebook statistics, he has recorded the most total tackles (934) among all defensive backs since 2006.
- Has started all 146 games he's appeared in since 2006, including 16 games each year from 2008-14.
- Selected by the coaches as the team's Bill Walsh Award recipient in 2014, given to the 49ers team MVP.
- As a rookie in 2006, was a member of an Indianapolis Colts team that won Super Bowl XLI over the Chicago Bears, 29-17.
- Selected to the AFC Pro Bowl in 2007 and 2009 and was a Pro Bowl selection in 2014.
- Was the recipient of the Colts Ed Block Courage Award in 2012. Also voted the 2013 Colts Man of the Year.

SWIFT SWINTON

Derius Swinton II enters his eighth season in the NFL and first with San Francisco as the special teams coordinator. He joins the 49ers after serving as an assistant special teams coach with the Chicago Bears.

In 2015, Swinton worked with second-year punter Patrick O'Donnell as he surpassed his totals from his rookie season in gross average (44.2), net average (39.7) and punts inside the 20-yard line (28). K Robbie Gould made a career-high 33 field goals which ranked tied for second in the NFL. Gould led the NFL with seven made field goals from 50-or-more yards, which was also a career high.

Prior to joining the Bears, Swinton was an assistant special teams coach with the Denver Broncos from 2013-14. In two seasons with Denver, the team ranked ninth in the NFL in field goal percentage (89.1), making 49 of 55 attempts. In 2014, K Connor Barth's 93.8 field goal percentage was the second-highest in a single-season in franchise history, while KR/PR Trindon Holliday returned both a punt and kickoff return touchdown that season.

In Swinton's first season with Denver, K Matt Prater earned his first career Pro Bowl selection as he set franchise records in field goal percentage (96.2) and points scored (150) in 2013. Prater connected on a 64-yard field goal that season, the longest in NFL history.

Swinton joined the Broncos after spending the 2012 season as a special teams quality control coach for the Kansas City Chiefs. That season, Chiefs P Dustin Colquitt also earned his first trip to the Pro Bowl after ranking second in the NFL in punts inside the 20-yard line (45) and 20 punts inside the 10-yard line. Kansas City's special teams also registered three forced fumbles, one blocked punt and one touchdown during the season.

Swinton began his NFL coaching career with the St. Louis Rams in 2009 as their special teams quality control coach. Over three seasons in St. Louis (2009-11), the Rams ranked third in the NFL in net punting average (39.3) and total kick return yards (5,802), fourth in punt return average (11.0) and fifth in punts downed inside the 20-yard line (95). P Donnie Jones had a net-average of 40.0 in 2010, a mark that ranked third in the NFL and second in the NFC.

Swinton began his coaching career at the University of Tennessee in 2007 as a graduate assistant working with the defense, a position that he held for two years. In 2008, the Volunteers ranked third in the nation in total defense during his final season on staff, as the team allowed only 263.5 yards per game. With Tennessee, he worked with DB Eric Berry who earned Second-Team All-SEC honors as a freshman in 2007 and All-America honors the following season in 2008.

A Newport News, VA native, Swinton played safety at Hampton University for four seasons (2003-06). Swinton registered 103 tackles, eight interceptions and 10 passes defensed. He was also on the school's basketball team.

Phil Dawson has continued to climb the NFL leaderboards during his three seasons in San Francisco. Last season, he became the 16th player in NFL history to reach 1,600 career points and ranks tied for ninth with 386 career made field goals. Throughout the 2015 season, he created the second-longest streak in team history, a record in which he set himself in 2013 (27), connecting on 19-straight field goals. In his second year with the club in 2014, he finished the season with 25 made field goals and 108 total points. During the 2013 regular season he had the second most made field goals (32) and points scored (140) in 49ers history, and kicked the game-winning 33-yard field goal in the Wild Card round at Green Bay (1/5/14). Dawson made the move to San Francisco after establishing himself as one of the most accurate kickers in NFL history, ranking 12th all-time with a field goal percentage of 84.5% (386 of 457).

2015 Highlights...

- Named the 49ers 2015 Bill Walsh Award winner which was established in 2004 in honor of San Francisco's Hall of Fame Head Coach. The award, which is voted on by coaches, is given to the 49ers team MVP, honoring his outstanding individual performance.
- Made all 4 FGAs on the day, including the 23-yd. FG in overtime to win the game vs. StL (1/3/16).
- Converted on a 44-yd. FGA at Cle. (12/13) and moved into sole possession of the two longest consecutive made FG streaks in 49ers franchise history.
- Connected on both of his FGAs (50 & 33 yds.) vs. Arz. (11/29). He connected on 18 consecutive FGs, which was tied for the 2nd longest streak in franchise history at the time.
- Made both of his FGAs at StL (11/1), including a 54-yd. FG, marking his longest of the season.
- Connected on all 4 FGAs, including a 53-yd. FG vs. Bal. (10/18). With his 53-yd. FG, he holds the franchise record with 11 FGM from 50-or-more yds.

- San Francisco is 15-20 in the all-time series vs. Seattle and 8-8 at home.
- The Niners have won five out of the last seven home games against the Seahawks.

HEAR ME OUT

On Head Coach Chip Kelly

"I've learned something from Chip every day. This has been fantastic for me, professionally. Just the ability to think out of the box and ask questions maybe that you haven't asked before. That's kind of my nature anyway. But, being around Chip who allows that type of freedom and allows that type of thought and forward thinking, I'm learning something every day and it's been absolutely great for me."

- Offensive Coordinator Curtis Modkins

"Chip Kelly does an amazing job with his offense. Without game planning and even with planning his offense can present a lot of problems."

- Denver Broncos Defensive Coordinator Wade Phillips

On Defensive Coordinator Jim O'Neil

"You can just tell that when he's in front of the room and when he's teaching, he's stern but he does have that energy that we need. Even out there on the field, he's smiling, he's running around, talking trash. So, pretty sure our defense can feed off that as well."

- S Antoine Bethea

On DT Arik Armstead

"He's killing it. He's focused. He's making plays. When you see him, he's doing what you think he should do based on the way he looks. The kid's a monster."

- S Eric Reid

On S Antoine Bethea

"When you've played the game for ten-plus years, I don't think there is anything you haven't seen. It's rare that you see something new. So, when he sees something, he sees it fast. He just has that experience."

- S Eric Reid

On DL Ronald Blair

"His versatility will allow him to play everywhere across the front. You can't ignore his playmaking ability out here at practice so far. He makes plays wherever he's aligned along the front. Whether it's at the nose, the three, end, he's a guy that you can move around and do some things with him from a pressure standpoint."

- Defensive Coordinator Jim O'Neil

On LB NaVorro Bowman

"NaVorro's been great. I think he's really started to step into that leadership role and there's a lot of guys in the NFL who are lead-by-example guys. I think NaVorro has kind of taken that next step and he's a follow me or else guy, which are the kind of leaders you need to have to have a great unit in this league."

- Defensive Coordinator Jim O'Neil

"You learn something from Bo every day. Just sitting in the film room and looking at the things that he sees and why he can make the plays that he makes because of certain situations that the linemen present to him or just getting ahead of the plays by alignment. He kind of teaches me that."

- LB Ray-Ray Armstrong

On OL Trent Brown

"I feel like Trent Brown has a very bright future in the National Football League. He's 6-8, he knows how to use his arms, knows how to use his wingspan and he has length. So I feel like, he's young, and people haven't really seen him, but I feel like he's one of the better tackles in the National Football League."

- Denver Broncos LB Von Miller

On G Joshua Garnett

"I think he's got a real good mind from a football standpoint. The other thing with him, he's a real steady guy out there. There's not a high, low, or whatever. He's just very consistent in his approach. He probably acts a little bit older than a typical rookie. He's real cerebral. He's got a great understanding of things."

- Head Coach Chip Kelly

On RB Carlos Hyde

"There's a physicality to this game. I think it makes him a dangerous weapon in terms of being able to not only make people miss, but to kind of go through and to break arm tackles and to gain that tough yardage when it really looks like there's nothing there."

- Head Coach Chip Kelly

"He has really good lateral agility. I'm excited about what Carlos will do in this offense. I think he's got a chance to be really special. I think a lot of Carlos."

- Offensive Coordinator Curtis Modkins

BORN 11.15.93 // SACRAMENTO, CA // PLEASANT GROVE HS, ELK GROVE, CA
2ND YEAR // ACQUIRED D-1 IN '15

2016 HIGHLIGHTS

- As a part of a 49ers defense that registered the first shutout in franchise history on opening day, recorded his third career sack vs. LA (9/12), taking down QB Case Keenum for a 4-yd. loss.

GOLDMINE

- During Super Bowl 50's Media Day, Armstead joined Sacramento's ABC10 sports team as a reporter to learn what it is like to cover NFL players during one of the most hectic events of the year. Held at SAP Center in San Jose, Armstead interviewed former teammates, fans, media members and Miss Universe. "It's like a feeding frenzy - everyone running around, and being part of that frenzy was a unique experience," said Armstead during the event.

- Armstead's brother, Armond, was forced to retire before ever playing a down in the NFL. After playing collegiately at USC, Armond became an All-Star for the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, helping the team win the league's 100th Grey Cup. He went on to sign with the New England Patriots in 2013, but medical issues forced him to hang up his cleats. "The biggest thing he has told me through this process is, 'at the end of the day, it's just football.' Having a brother who played at this level makes everything less overwhelming."

- If Armstead wasn't in the NFL, he would be playing basketball. He was a three-year starter in basketball at Pleasant Grove High School in Sacramento and played two years at the University of Oregon before focusing solely on football for the 2014 season. He entered his high school senior season listed as the number three prospect in NorCalPrep.com's Top 40 rankings for the class of 2012. "A big part of the recruiting pitch from Oregon was they were going to let me play two sports. We only lost 5 games during my time there. I wanted to go somewhere with the chance to win and be a part of something special."

- For Armstead, the NFL Draft process was a whirlwind tour. He went straight from the National Championship Game to San Diego to prepare for the NFL Combine and then to Sacramento for the Draft itself. However, his favorite part of the process was being drafted by a team so close to his hometown. "It's a dream come true. I'm blessed to be in this situation. Not a lot of other people are that close to home. Being able to play home games in front of my family is perfect for me."

ARMSTEAD'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Lists his parents, Gus and Christa, as the most influential people in his life. He also gives credit to his grandfather, Willie B. Armstead, an Air Force veteran, for instilling the value of integrity that his parents have passed along to him. "A lot of things he instilled in my dad have carried down to me. Having a family member who is more courageous than you can imagine and who served his country is a huge honor."

- Played both basketball and football at Oregon before focusing only on football in 2014.

GOLDMINE

- In 2013, Beadles established the Zane Beadles Parade Foundation, which supports the journey of young people going through life-changing medical experiences. While playing at the University of Utah, Zane met Ryker, a seven-year-old boy with glioblastoma multiforme cancer, a common type of brain tumor. The team adopted Ryker as a member of the Utah Utes family and invited him onto the field and into the locker room during the football season. On February 24, 2007, Ryker lost his battle with cancer. Zane's family history with cancer and his fondness for Ryker inspired him to take action. During the foundation's two-year existence, they have raised more than $250,000 and have provided more than 2,000 gifts to more than 3,500 families. The nonprofit organization currently creates new experiences for the pediatric cancer patients at Brent's Place in Aurora, CO, University of Florida Health Proton Therapy Institute in Jacksonville, FL, and Ronald McDonald House in Salt Lake City, UT. For more information on The Zane Beadles Parade Foundation, visit http://zanesparade.org/.

BEADLES' GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Founded the Zane Beadles Parade Foundation in 2013 to support the journey of young people going through life-changing medical experiences. Having established a charitable connection with each community he has played football in during his career, the foundation currently works with pediatric cancer patients at Brent's Place in Aurora, CO, University of Florida Health Proton Therapy Institute in Jacksonville, FL, and Ronald McDonald House in Salt Lake City, UT.

- Beadles founded the Pancake Block Donation Program as a part of his foundation, where he donates $250 for every pancake block by his offensive line. Zane began this program with the Broncos and carried it over to his time with the Jaguars.

- Named the Walter Payton Man of the Year selection for the Jacksonville Jaguars in 2015 and Denver Broncos in 2012, which recognizes a player for the commitment he has demonstrated in helping others in the community.

GOLDMINE (CONTINUED)

- In February of 2016, Beadles returned to Hillcrest High School to have his jersey retired by the school. During the ceremony in which his former high school coach, Gary Daniels, and offensive line coach, Kirk Merhish, presented him with a jersey, Beadles credited those who taught him the value of hard work - his parents, coaches and teachers. "Those people laid the foundation for me, and helped me develop the mentality that I've had throughout my career."

- Leading up to Super Bowl XLVIII as a member of the Denver Broncos, Beadles fulfilled a lifelong dream by appearing and dancing on "The Ellen DeGeneres Show." After discussing the Super Bowl and his foundation, Shutterfly, the philanthropic partner of the show, presented the Zane Beadles Parade Foundation with a check for $10,000.

GOLDMINE

- As the founder of the Safe Coverage Foundation in 2011, Bethea has made it a goal to help youth stay in school and receive a strong education. The foundation's mission statement reads, "The Antoine Bethea Safe Coverage Foundation is committed to providing access and resources for students to achieve their dreams of a higher education. We believe providing exposure opportunities, enrichment experiences and the tools needed to succeed, we can change communities, one child at a time." More information on the Safe Coverage Foundation is available at www.antoinebethea.com/ safe-coverage-foundation/.

- In June of 2016, Bethea hosted the inagural 'Antoine Bethea & Friends Celebrity Softball Game' at San Jose Municipal Stadium. Current and former teammates of Bethea competed in a home run derby in addition to a softball game, with all proceeds beings donated to the Second Harvest Food Bank of San Jose.

- During the holiday season in 2015, Bethea visited StreetCode Academy in East Palo Alto to sign autographs in exchange for toy donations put together by Live in Peace, a local group that works to empower minority youths. The donations were distributed to the Ronald McDonald House, children of parents who are in prison and the Bay Area Rescue Mission in Richmond, CA. "I'm all about giving back to the unfortunate," Bethea said at the time. "When they asked me to come out, sign some autographs for people to come out and bring some toys, I didn't think twice about it."

- Bethea spent July 4, 2015 on the athletic fields of his alma mater, Denbigh HS in VA, hosting his inaugural "Community Day" where local kids had a chance to enjoy some bounce houses, cotton candy, and participate in a kickball game with Bethea and other NFL players. "My message to the kids is that you can't do it without the community. I want to give back to my community and have everybody come out here and have a good time. This is just my way of showing them I appreciate their support."

- Bethea was inducted into the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference (MEAC) Hall of Fame in February of 2015. The MEAC Hall of Fame highlights former student-athletes, coaches, university coaches and special contributors who have enriched the legacy of the conference since its inception in 1970.

- Bethea has teamed up with PETA (People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals) to spread the message about a few of their different campaigns. One was the "Ink, Not Mink" movement, in which Antoine talked about his tattoo and said no to fur. Another was the "Don't Chain Dogs" campaign, where Bethea spoke about his love for dogs and how animals that are dependent on humans shouldn't be left alone and mistreated.

- In his hometown of Greensboro, GA, Blair volunteers at Relay For Life, a branch of the American Cancer Society. The subject of cancer is near to Blair's heart, as his grandmother, Annie Ruth Peek, passed away from colon cancer while he was growing up. In the future, Blair aims to start his own foundation with the goal of creating a community where people who are going through life-changing experiences can call home. "I lost my grandmother to colon cancer. I lost my grandfather to a heart attack. My stepfather was in a car accident and is now a paraplegic. So, those people have a special place in my heart and I want to get involved in helping with causes like those."

- Blair cites the transition from 8th grade to high school, and specifically a conversation he had with his band director, as a key moment that stoked his competitive fire. Entering the 9th grade, his band director wanted him to continue playing the tuba in the school's band and not play football because he wouldn't see the field as a freshman. That year, Blair became a starter on varsity. "That's definitely one moment that sticks out and helped me develop in the football world," said Blair.

BLAIR'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Blair volunteers at the Relay for Life in his hometown of Greensboro, GA. One day, he hopes to start his own foundation that would create a community for people going through life-changing experiences.

- Growing up, Blair's first sport was basketball, not football. His father put a basketball in his crib when he was one year old and Blair only switched to football once he realized his size was better suited for the gridiron.

- Established the 4th & Goal Foundation," which aims to impact the lives of children through the San Francisco Bay Area. Bowman's goal for his foundation is to build play zones around the Bay Area that will provide state-of-the-art playgrounds to low-income elementary schools so that their students will have a safe outdoor environment to increase social, emotional and cognitive skills as well as a space for increased physical activity. The first play zone will be installed in the summer of 2016 and the hope is to impact the lives of 10,000 children by the end of 2017. More information on the 4th & Goal Foundation is available at www.navorrobowman.org

- Bowman hosted his 2nd Annual NaVorro Bowman Football Camp, a free youth camp for local children in his home community of Forestville, MD in June of 2015. He partnered with the District Height Boys and Girls Club, a group of which Bowman was a member while growing up.

- Bowman and other NFL Players joined the Wounded Warriors Amputee Softball Team (WWAST) for a game of softball at Bowie Baysox Stadium in Maryland to raise funds for Veterans Amputee Charities. This marked the third year of the event, but the first time NFL players participated. Bowman and former teammate DT Darnell Dockett served as team captains for the game that ended in a 14-14 tie.

- In June of 2015, Bowman hosted the innaugural "Celebrity Steak-Out", raising money for underprivileged youth in the community. "I wasn't too privileged growing up," Bowman said. "I had to scratch and claw and find things to do as a child. And me being where I am today, I'm able to provide something, especially for kids who don't have as much as the next kid. So I really want to provide inner-city, low-income students in the Bay Area with a safe place to play."

- Bowman works with the Bayview Hunters Point YMCA and recently received an award for his efforts in the program. He has participated in numerous events, including a night of bowling to benefit children, and a toy drive during the holiday season.

- In 2013, Bowman traveled to Africa to participate in the Pros for Africa program, which partners with the Starkey Hearing Foundation to provide more than 4,100 customized hearing devices for those in need. NaVorro and other NFL players helped fit patients with hearing aids. "By giving hearing aids, we have blessed these people and put smiles on their faces. We were able to give them a whole new life."

- Bowman was born and raised just outside of Washington D.C. in a high-crime area. It was a tough environment to avoid, but sports became his outlet from the streets and drugs. "My parents had been with me since day one. Also, having a support system like my high school coach. He really let me know early on that I had something special and I shouldn't mess it up."

- Two important and influential people in Bowman's life abruptly passed away. His father passed away from a blood clot that reached his heart, while his high school coach died in a car accident before Penn State's bowl game in 2009. "Dealing with as much adversity as I have in a short period of time has made me the man I am today. It's made me stay on track and strive to do those things that will possibly help me be successful, not just on the football field, but off the field also."

- He earned his degree in criminal law and justice and one day would like to use that to help out his hometown. With all of the violence and drugs in District Heights, MD, he believes being from the area will help others listen to him. "That's one of the reasons I got into that field - to open doors and possibly be able to get into a young child's head from my neighborhood."

2013: USA Today All-Joe Team, NFC Defensive Player of the Week (Week 5)

GOLDMINE

- In February of 2011, Belhaven retired Brock's jersey for his accomplishments on both the collegiate and professional levels. He is the only player in the history of the school's program to have played in the NFL.

- Brock's path to the NFL was not an easy one by any means. From the small country town of Gulfport, MS, he traveled 30 miles north to Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College in Perkinston, MS, where he spent two seasons before transferring to the University of Minnesota. Why would a southern boy decide on Minnesota? "I wanted to see what a big city felt like," Brock said. After one year, he transferred back down south to Belhaven University in Jackson, MS, a small Christian NAIA school.
- Brock's passion for sports was developed at an early age and he would like to remain in athletics either as a coach or personal trainer after his playing career is through. "I want to teach people what I know and watch them perform and compete," Brock said. His father encouraged him to join a football league in elementary school, and he also played basketball and ran track for his school's team.

BROCK'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Is the first player in Belhaven University's history to play in the NFL. The University also retired his jersey in 2011.
- Had a variety of part-time jobs growing up in Gulfport, MS. He worked at Sparkle Car Cleaning, a Krispy Kreme shop and a Sonic fast food restaurant.

2012: AP Second-Team All-Pro, First-Team All-Pro by Sports Illustrated's Peter King, NFC Pro Bowl

2013: AP Second-Team All-Pro, Pro Bowl, PFWA All-NFC Team

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- His 46.5 sacks as a member of the 49ers (2008-15) is the second most in franchise history by a linebacker [LB Charles Haley - 66.5 sacks], since sacks became an official statistic in 1982.
- Is one of eight players to record 5.0-or-more sacks in each of the past seven seasons (2009-15) [Cliff Avril (Det./Sea.); Tamba Hali (KC); Clay Matthews (GB); Julius Peppers (Car./Chi./GB); Cameron Wake (Mia.); DeMarcus Ware (Dal./Den.) and Mario Williams (Hou./Buf.)]
- Registered a career-high 8.5 sacks in 2013.
- Set the 49ers record for most FFs by a LB in a single-season with 5 in 2009. The 5 FFs ranked t-2nd among all NFL LBs that year.
- Ranks t-2nd in team postseason history with 6.5 sacks.

2016 HIGHLIGHTS

- As a part of a 49ers defense that registered the first shutout in franchise history on opening day, recorded 1.0 sacks vs. LA (9/12), moving into a tie with DT Dana Stubblefield for third on the franchise's all-time sack list with 46.5.

MOST SACKS, FRANCHISE HISTORY

GOLDMINE

- Hosted his first youth football camp in June of 2014. His USA Football FUNdamentals clinic for area youth ages 6-17 in Woodbridge, VA, introduced football by teaching basic skills in a fun and energetic environment. FB Bruce Miller and other 49ers teammates joined Brooks in Virginia for the event.
- Brooks is no stranger to the NFL. His father, Perry Brooks, played in 92 games at DT for the Washington Redskins from 1978-84. Perry ran a barber shop since Ahmad was a freshman in college, which was left to his family after he passed away.

BROOKS' GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Ranks t-2nd in 49ers postseason history with 6.5 sacks.
- Has recorded 5.0-or-more sacks in seven consecutive seasons. His 45.5 sacks as a member of the 49ers ranks second in franchise history among linebackers.
- His father, Perry, played 92 games with the Washington Redskins from 1978-84.
- Originally entered the NFL as a supplemental draft pick in 2006 by Cincinnati.
- In 2004, while at the University of Virginia, was one of three finalists for the Butkus Award, given annually to the nation's top linebacker.
- Hosted his first youth football camp in June of 2014. His USA Football FUNdamentals clinic for area youth ages 6-17 in Woodbridge, VA introduced football by teaching basic skills in a fun and energetic environment.

GOLDMINE

- While Buckner was 13 years old, his father, George, was involved in a motorcycle accident that left him in a coma for six months. Upon his awakening, George summoned DeForest to his bedside, where the two had a 'man-to-man' conversation, as his mother, Maria, puts it. After the life-changing event and heartfelt conversation, that is when Buckner believes he became a man and took more responsibility with his family. He became a mentor to his younger brother, Kenya, and began to understand the values his father had instilled in him. "He was hard on us, and disciplined us, shaped us," Buckner said. "He taught us about respect, that it's not given, it's earned and that you have to treat everyone around you like you want to be treated."

- During his time at Oregon, Buckner used art as an outlet for his emotions outside of football, even earning the nickname "Dr. DeFo" from his art professor for his passion, focus and patience with his pieces. Buckner enrolled in a class called "Art of the Athlete," which provides engagement for student-athletes through the visual arts and has the student-athletes help in the Jordan Schnitzer Museum of Art workshops for children with disabilities. During the open exhibition at the end of the class, Buckner was awarded with the highest honor, the breakout artist award for his piece titled "King of Pop" showing himself in a Michael Jackson type pose that was spray painted on vinyl.

BUCKNER'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- While Buckner was 13 years old, his father, George, was involved in a motorcycle accident that left him in a coma for six months. Buckner cites this life-changing event as the time he became a man and took more responsibility with his family.

- As a senior at Oregon, was named Pac-12 Defensive Player of the Year and earned the Morris Trophy award, a prestigious honor voted on by opposing Pac-12 offensive linemen.

- Was originally recruited to Oregon by, and played under, head coach Chip Kelly and defensive line coach Jerry Azzinaro in 2012. He reunites with fellow DL Arik Armstead (2012-14).

BORN 12.23.93 // FARMINGTON HILLS, MI // HARRISON HS, FARMINGTON HILLS, MI
ROOKIE // ACQUIRED D-6C IN '16

GOLDMINE

- Growing up, basketball was Burbridge's sport of choice. "Growing up, I always played basketball. I only started playing football because I had no one to hang out with after school since all of my friends were playing football." Burbridge began focusing solely on football during his junior season in high school, when he started to receive letters from interested colleges.

- Burbridge's support system is rooted in his family, as he relies on his mother, Nora Florence, his aunt Geraldine and older siblings, Stefan and Carmen. Despite his late start in football, he has always received encouragement from his family. "They have always been there for me, and it's really meant a lot, especially during the tough times."

- Burbridge grew up with former Michigan and current Carolina Panthers WR Devin Funchess, who formed a friendship over competition in Farminington, MI. In middle school, the two participated in different track events but would sneak into the others just to compete against one another.

BURBRIDGE'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Burbridge's support system is rooted in his family, as he relies on his mother, Nora Florence, his aunt Geraldine and older siblings, Stefan and Carmen.

- Was named the Richter-Howard Big Ten Receiver of the Year in 2015 and finished his career at Michigan State with 165 recepts., the second most in school history.

95

POSITION LB | HEIGHT 6-4 | WEIGHT 270 | COLLEGE FLORIDA STATE

BORN 2.18.90 // CINCINNATI, OH // TAFT HS, CINCINNATI, OH
4TH YEAR // ACQUIRED D-2A IN '13

GOLDMINE

- Carradine grew up in a rough neighborhood in Cincinnati, where many of the people he knew got into bad situations with drugs and violence. He grew up without much money and his family struggled to put food on the table. Through it all, he learned to walk the other way. "I saw how certain situations can end up. Talking to the older people and coaches, they told me to do the right thing," he said. "Good things happen when you try to do the right things. That was the biggest thing I learned." Football was the biggest opportunity which propelled Carradine out of the area, receiving a college scholarship and earning a degree in sociology from Florida State. "People kept telling me, 'Man, I wish I had that opportunity to play this sport.' I'd seen my opportunity and knew the chances I had, knew what I would be doing if I didn't accomplish these goals. That's why I thrive on football. I give it all I've got and I try to play every play like it's my last. I respect this game because of what this game has gotten me through. I take advantage of it by doing the right thing, being a positive player and being good to my teammates and for the organization."

- After going through a rough childhood, Carradine has a passion for telling his story to kids. He volunteers his time at charity foundations and football camps. "If kids can hear the importance of doing the right thing, if I can help them succeed in life, if they can get it when they're young, they'll live up to those things instead of trying to get knowledge as they got older," he said. "Then it might be too late, because they've already been on their own in certain situations."

CARRADINE'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Signed a one-year contract extension through 2017 with the 49ers in September of 2016,

- Given the nickname "Tank" as a young child by his mom because he always carried a toy tank with him.

- Recorded the first two sacks of his NFL career last season at Sea. (12/14/14), bringing down Seahawks QB Russell Wilson.

- Visited Haiti in conjunction with Convoy of Hope in 2015, working together to teach healthy eating habits and sustainable agriculture techniques to local families.

- Loves unique animals and once owned a large collection of exotic pets, including snakes, lizards, ferrets, a monkey, a bird, piranhas and a shark.

- Began collegiate career at Butler Community College (KS) before enrolling at Florida State.

- In 2010, earned First-Team NJCAA All-America, All-Kansas Jayhawk Community College Conference and All-Region VI honors and was named Region VI Defensive Player of the Year.

- Along with 49ers TEs Vance McDonald and Garrett Celek, visited Haiti in conjunction with Convoy of Hope during the 2015 offseason, worked together to teach healthy eating habits and sustainable agriculture techniques to local families. The players also visited an orphanage and local schools to spend time with underprivileged youth. "Being able to be around the kids and see the excitement on their face. I see what kind of stuff they go through and I see how they live. I realize they can use a lot of help and I've been more than fortunate to be able to help them."

- Born Cornellius Carradine, he was given the nickname "Tank" by his mom. He always used to have a little toy army tank with him. "I could never go anywhere without that army tank," he said. "I just had to have it with me, and I used to always push people over, try to run over people." His mom still has that tank.

- Just prior to entering high school, Carradine, a Cincinnati native, frequented Bengals games every chance he could. "At the time, I was playing Pee-Wee football and I was also a big fan of Justin Smith. I remember many of the players, including Justin, came and painted our youth center, so I got a chance to meet him." Carradine continued, "He was my favorite player, first-round draft pick. It's crazy that I played with him. I always wanted to talk football with him and ask him questions,I'm always asked him about how to identify run or pass, tips that the offensive line give away, things like that."

- Carradine loves animals and once owned a large collection of exotic pets, including snakes, lizards, ferrets, a monkey, a bird, piranhas and a shark. "I could see myself doing animal research working in a zoo," he said.

GOLDMINE

- Celek has a strong passion for the packaging industry, which he majored in at Michigan State, and plans to go into the business in the future. The growing industry looks to cut shipping costs on products and is commonplace in the food and medical fields. "There's so many different areas you can get into, it's crazy. I enjoy the science behind it. It was a great major for me to choose and the possibilities are endless."

- Along with fellow 49ers TE Vance McDonald and DT Tank Carradine, visited Haiti in conjunction with Convoy of Hope during the 2015 offseason, working together to teach healthy eating habits and sustainable agriculture techniques to local families. "We've been to an orphanage, we've been to a farm, we've been to schools. It's a beautiful country and these are beautiful people. I'm glad I had this opportunity."

- Football runs in the bloodlines of the Celek family. Garrett's older brother, Brent, plays tight end for the Philadelphia Eagles. Growing up, the brothers were constantly involved in athletics. "My dad was always pushing us just to be into sports. As long as we were doing something and we were having fun with it, he was the happiest guy in the world," Garrett said. He didn't begin playing football until high school, but Brent's success became motivation for him. "He got a scholarship to Cincinnati my freshman year in high school," Garrett said. "Right then I had my goals set. I've got to do what my brother did. Honestly, I've been trying to follow in his footsteps and because of him I'm here today. I wouldn't be who I am without him."

- Along with some of his teammates, Celek headed to San Francisco in October of 2015 to kick off Fleet Week aboard the USS Somerset. During the afternoon on board, Celek participated in drills with the troops, took a tour of the ship, ate dinner with the crew and watched as some local Bay Area natives were sworn into the Navy. "It's just good to give back to some of these guys because they do so much for us," said Celek at the time. "We're all really appreciative of who they are and what they're about."

CELEK'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Is the younger brother of Philadelphia Eagles TE Brent Celek.

- Visited Haiti in conjunction with Convoy of Hope in 2015, working together to teach healthy eating habits and sustainable agriculture techniques to local families.

AWARDS & HONORS

2011: Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 5), All-NFC West Offense by ESPN's Mike Sando

2012: First-Team All-Pro by Sports Illustrated's Peter King, USA Today All-Joe Team, 2012 Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award, Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 5), Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 7), Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 12), Bobb McKittrick Award

2016 HIGHLIGHTS

- Part of an offensive line group that helped the 49ers offense rush for 150 yds. and 3 TDs on 42 carries and did not allow a sack on 35 atts. by QB Blaine Gabbert vs. LA (9/12).

GOLDMINE

- Davis saw first hand the struggles of life while growing up, but that never discouraged him, or the person he leaned on most, his mother. "My mom made it happen, she never played the victim. She always taught me you've got to do what you've got to do."

- Davis got his first tattoo when he was 15 and has added many more to his arms. "The eye on my hand means wisdom and protection." His favorite tattoo is on the inside of his left forearm, "Wealth is of the heart and the mind, not the wallet." The other ink on his arms range from the Rutgers Scarlet Knight, a dream catcher and a clown in a straight jacket. "I haven't named him yet."

DAVIS' GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Was a high school teammate of Philadelphia Eagles S Malcolm Jenkins, who was a first-round pick of the New Orleans Saints in the 2009 NFL Draft, and New Orleans Saints CB Kyle Wilson, a first-round selection of the New York Jets in the 2010 NFL Draft.

- In 2012, Davis won the 49ers Bobb McKittrick Award, given annually to the 49ers offensive lineman who best represents the courage, intensity and sacrifice displayed by the longtime offensive line coach. It is voted on by the offensive line. At age 23, Davis became the youngest player in franchise history to win the award.

DAVIS' CAREER STATISTICS

POSTSEASON GAMES/STARTS — 8/8; 2011 (2/2); 2012 (3/3); 2013 (3/3)

Milestones:
NFL Debut: vs. Sea. (9/12/10); First Start: at Sea. (9/12/10)

DAVIS' TRANSACTIONS

Originally the first of two 1st-round (11th overall) draft choices by SF in 2010...Signed a five-year contract extension through 2019 on 4/5/13...Retired from the National Football League on 6/5/15...Reinstated by the National Football League from the Reserve/Retired List on 7/30/16.

2014

- Helped pave the way for the 49ers offense to rush for a season-high 218 yds. on 42 atts. (5.2 avg.) vs. Phi. (9/28). Also helped the 49ers offense hold the ball for 42:17, which was the highest time of possession for the team since 11/20/11 vs. Arz. (44:16).
- Part of an O-line that led the way for the team to rush for a franchise record 355 yds. vs. SD (12/20). The 355 rushing yds. are the most by any team in the NFL since 11/4/07 (Min. – 378 yds. rushing vs. SD).

- Was part of an offensive line that helped amass the 2nd most total net yds. on opening day in 49ers franchise history with 494 yds. (404 passing yds. and 90 rushing yds.) vs. GB (9/8).
- Helped pave the way for 219 yds. rushing at StL (9/26). It marked the first time the 49ers had three different RBs score a rushing TD in the same game since 12/2/01 vs. Buf. (Garrison Hearst, Fred Beasley and Paul Smith).
- The offensive line did not allow a sack on 17 total atts. by QB Colin Kaepernick and QB Colt McCoy at Jax. (10/27). The last time the 49ers did not allow a sack was 11/25/12 at NO. The 49ers also rushed for 221 yds. and 4 TDs on 38 carries at Jax., the most rushing yds. in a game by the team during the 2013 season. The 4 rushing TDs tied for the most by any team in a game in the NFL in 2013.
- Provided great running lanes for the offense to gain 199 rushing yds. on 30 atts. vs. Atl. (12/23). The 6.6 yds. per carry avg. was team's highest in any game during the 2013 season. It also marked just the second time in the season that the team had three players rush for over 50 yds. (Gore - 97; Kaepernick - 51; Hunter - 51).

2012

- Davis and the 49ers O-Line won the 2012 Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award, recognizing the best O-Line in the NFL.
- The 49ers were 1 of just 3 teams to have the same 5 starting offensive linemen for every game in 2012 (Was. & NYJ).
- Paved the way as the team rushed for 245 yds. on 44 carries as 9 different players carried the ball at NYJ (9/30).
- Helped the 49ers offense set a team record with 621 total yds. (311 rushing, 310 passing) vs. Buf. (10/7), surpassing the 49ers previous franchise record of 598 vs. Buf. (9/13/92). San Francisco became the first team in NFL history to post 300+ yds. rushing and passing in the same game. For the first time in 49ers history since 11/19/61 vs. Chi., San Francisco posted a 300-yd. passer (QB Alex Smith 303 yds.), two 100 yd-receivers (WR Michael Crabtree – 113 yds.; TE Vernon Davis – 106 yds.) and a 100-yd. rusher (RB Frank Gore – 106 yds.) in the same game. The offensive line did not allow a sack the entire game and was awarded the Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award for Week 5.
- Davis and the 49ers offensive line did not allow a sack on 25 pass atts. by QB Colin Kaepernick at NO (11/25). The performance earned the O-Line the Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award for Week 12.
- Part of offensive line vs. GB (1/12/13 - NFC-D) that helped the 49ers become the first team in NFL history to ever have two, 100-yd. rushers [QB Colin Kaepernick (181 yds. rushing), RB Frank Gore (119 yds. rushing)] and one, 100-yd. receiver [WR Michael Crabtree (119 yds. receiving)] in a playoff game in NFL history.
- Against the Packers, San Francisco amassed 579 total yds. of offense (323 rushing and 256 passing), setting a new single-game postseason franchise record. The previous record was 537 yds. (211 rushing and 326 passing) vs. Mia. in Super Bowl XIX. The 49ers rushed for 323 yds. on the night, setting the franchise single-game postseason rushing record. The previous rushing record was also set in Super Bowl XIX (211 yds.).
- Davis and the 49ers offense became the first team in Super Bowl history to have a 300-yd. passer, a 100-yd. rusher and two 100-yd. receivers in a single game. QB Colin Kaepernick threw for 302 yds., RB Frank Gore added 110 yds. rushing, WR Michael Crabtree tallied 109 rec. yds. and TE Vernon Davis recorded 104 rec. yds vs. Bal. (2/3/13 - SB XLVII).

2011

- Part of an offensive line that helped pave the way for RB Frank Gore to gain 100+ rush yds. on the ground in 5 consecutive games, setting a new franchise record.
- Davis and the 49ers offensive line did not allow a sack on 20 pass atts. by QB Alex Smith vs. Sea. (9/11).
- Helped 49ers accumulate 442 yds. of offense in a come-from-behind victory at Phi. (10/2), which included 164 yds. on the ground.
- Davis and the offensive line were awarded the Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award for Week 5. They helped the 49ers offense rush for 213 yds. on the ground while not allowing a sack vs. TB (10/9), marking the first time since 12/14/06 at Sea. that the team rushed for over 200 yds. and did not allow a sack.
- Supported the 49ers offense in rushing for 203 yds. at Det. (10/16), marking the first time the team rushed for over 200 yds. in back-to-back games (10/9 vs. TB, 213 yds.) since 12/6/98 at Car. (236 yds.) and 12/14/98 vs. Det. (328 yds.).
- Helped the 49ers offense hold the ball for 44:16 while not allowing a sack vs. Arz. (11/20), marking the highest time of possession for the team since 11/3/02 at Oak. (44:33 – 49ers W, 23-20).
- Davis and the offensive line prevented QB Alex Smith from getting sacked in a 20-3 win on MNF vs. Pit. (12/19).

2010

- Along with G Mike Iupati, became just the 3rd set of rookies to start every game on the offensive line since the 16-game schedule was instituted in 1978 (T Adam Meadows and T Tarik Glenn in 1997 with Ind. & C Nick Mangold and T D'Brickshaw Ferguson in 2006 with NYJ).
- The duo became just the 4th set of rookies to start on the offensive line on opening day in franchise history, and the first since 1958.
- Part of an offensive line that did not allow a sack vs. NO (9/20) and vs. Den. (10/31).
- Started at RT at Arz. (11/29) as the offense rushed for a season-high 261 yds., while recording a season-high 26 first downs.

GOLDMINE

- During the 2008 and 2011 seasons, Dawson teamed up with the Adoption Network to invite families who have recently adopted children to each Browns home game so they can form new memories as a family. "The reason behind all this is my wife was adopted so we have a pretty special place in our hearts for families trying to adopt," Dawson said.
- Was active in the Cleveland community and founded the "Dawson's 4 Adoption" season ticket program which provided tickets, apparel and food for the Adoption Network Cleveland organization.
- Dawson's two main hobbies now are actually his first two part-time jobs growing up. His first official job in middle school was driving the tractor that picks up the golf balls at the driving range. "For every tray of balls I would bring in and pour in the washer, I'd get $3," said Dawson. "The busier the driving range, the more money I made." His other job was mowing lawns. He and a friend would mow about 30 lawns every week during the summers. "I love golf and I love yard work," he said.

DAWSON'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Named the 49ers Bill Walsh Award winner for the 2015 season. The award, which is voted on by coaches, is given to the 49ers team MVP, honoring his outstanding individual performance.
- Holds the 2nd highest all-time FG percentage among kickers with 300-or-more FG made in NFL history (84.5%).
- In 2013, set the 49ers franchise record with 27 consecutive FG made and in 2015, recorded the 2nd-longest streak with 19 consecutive FGs made.
- Was part of an infamous field goal attempt against the Baltimore Ravens in 2012 that eventually led to a rule dubbed the "Phil Dawson Rule." Dawson kicked a 51-yard field goal on the final play of regulation that bounced off the left upright and caromed off the rear "gooseneck" attachment behind the crossbar. The attempt was originally ruled no good, but the officials reversed the call following a discussion even though the play was not technically reviewable. The next year, a rule change was made to allow certain field goals to be reviewed by instant replay.
- His wife, Shannon, is a professional singer, who performed as a backup singer for Wayne Newton in Las Vegas. She released her country/contemporary Christian mix album titled Redemption on September 11, 2013.

- Dial started his own foundation called the QD92 Foundation in 2014, with the mission to show love and support to underprivileged kids today so they will have the best opportunity to be our leaders of tomorrow. "Growing up back in Alabama and just knowing what it's like not to have a gift on Christmas, not knowing when I'm eating my next meal, not having that family bond that a kid should have, I know what that feeling is like. It's not a good feeling," said Dial. "So, I created this organization just trying to fill the void for those kids, be a mentor to them and just try to do anything positive that I can for them, trying to be a positive impact on these kid's lives." For more information on the QD92 Foundation, visit www.facebook.com/QD92Foundation/

- Dial connected with Alex Fernandez, a 20-year-old 49ers fan who lost his battle with brain cancer in July of 2015. One of the things that Fernandez wanted to do before he passed was to see a 49ers game at Levi's® Stadium. Through "QD Kids," Dial sent Fernandez a package consisting of 49ers items: A team blanket, jerseys from QB Colin Kaepernick and LB Patrick Willis, an autographed football, hats and a poster. Dial included a signed jersey of his own and also included a video message for Fernandez. After he passed, Dial said on Twitter, "I want Alex Fernandez to know that he has made a difference in my life by sharing his story," Dial wrote. "He is my hero, and people like him encourage me to continue our work through our non-profit QD Kids. I lead this non-profit in order to make 'moments' count for all children and adults who are combating challenges in their life. My first game is going to be dedicated to him for being a brave hero and for making a difference in the lives of others."

- In 2015, Dial was very active during the offseason. He spent time at the Bill Wilson Center with underprivileged youth, participated in a Special Olympics basketball game and helped a terminal cancer patient check 'attending a 49ers game' off his bucket list by visiting him in the hospital and supplying him with a bunch of 49ers gear.

DIAL'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Started the QD92 Foundation in 2014, whose mission is to support underprivilidged kids today so that they can become the leaders of tomorrow.
- Earned his first career NFL start at NYG (11/16/14) and first career sack at NO (11/9/14) during the 2014 season.
- Dial's mother passed away when he was 10. His father fell on difficult times, ultimately unable to support him any longer and he was brought in by the families of his church.

- As an event for "QD Kids," Dial helped organize a fundraiser called "Bowling 4 Backpacks" in July of 2015. All of the proceeds from the event went directly to buying school supplies and backpacks for kids in need.

- Dial's church family has played a major role in his life and has positively impacted him, making him the man he is today. "They have supported me a lot throughout the years," said Dial. "They encouraged me and prayed with me. I would say my church family is my biggest supporter that I have right now and has helped me to get where I am today."

GOLDMINE

- In 2011, Dorsey teamed up with PETA, urging dog owners across the country to protect their pets during harsh weather conditions by bringing them indoors. "I love my dog. I don't have any kids, so he's like my best friend. PETA came to my house and did a photo shoot with myself, and my English Bulldog, Bugsy. It was cool. It was a good deal working with PETA. It was for a good cause and it was fun."

- Had the nickname 'Putt' as an infant because he would only get up and walk when a Putt-Putt commercial would come on TV.

- Growing up, Dorsey's grandmother, Pearl Nabor, introduced him to the San Francisco 49ers, foreshadowing his future with the team, "I used to watch the 49ers all the time when they had WR Jerry Rice and all of those great players. I used to watch them with my grandma. That was her favorite team. When I came here, it was like, 'Wow, I used to watch these guys all the time.' This was my favorite team and now I get to play for them. My grandmother passed away a few years ago, but she was the person that turned me on to the 49ers."

DORSEY'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Registered a career-high 100 tackles during his first season as a member of the 49ers in 2013.
- Started the Glenn Dorsey Foundation which is "Founded on the principle that everyone, regardless of age, socioeconomic background and life circumstance should dream bigger."
- Had to wear metal braces on his legs as a 3-year old due to having severely bowed legs.

BRUCE ELLINGTON

10

GOLDMINE

- Ellington grew up in Moncks Corner, SC, attended an in-state Division I program, the University of South Carolina, and was drafted by a team in the NFC West, the San Francisco 49ers. His cousin, Andre Ellington, experienced a very similar career path. He grew up in Moncks Corner, SC, attended an in-state Division I school, Clemson, and was drafted by an NFC West team, the Arizona Cardinals.

- In June of 2016, Bruce and Andre Ellington hosted their 3rd Annual Ellington Elite Youth Football Camp in their hometown of Moncks Corner, SC. Held at their former high school, more than 1,000 children ages six to 16 participated in the one-day camp that focused on developing athletic skills in addition to promoting healthy lifestyle tips and proper study techniques. "We're just lucky and blessed to be able to come out here and support the community and give back," Bruce said.
- Growing up in a very rural area, Ellington believes he is a product of his environment, "I grew up down a dirt road. Nothing but woods around me. A lot of dogs around and that kind of helped me get faster from them chasing after me. Me and my cousin stayed in the backyard or the front yard and played one-on-one football or one-on-one basketball."

ELLINGTON'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Is the cousin of Arizona Cardinals RB Andre Ellington. In June of 2016, the two hosted their 3rd Annual "Ellington Elite Football Camp," a free camp held in Moncks Corner, SC.

- Graduated from the University of South Carolina in 3 ½ years with a degree in sociology.

- Also played basketball at South Carolina, playing in 80 games (66 starts) and averaging 11.2 points, 3.0 assists and 2.7 rebounds in his career.

GOLDMINE (CONTINUED)

- While at South Carolina, Ellington starred as a two-sport athlete, playing point guard on the basketball team in addition to football. As a freshman during the 2010-11 season, Ellington earned SEC All-Freshman honors after starting all 30 games at point guard and leading the team in scoring (12.8 points per game) and minutes played (30.9 minutes per game). During his career with the Gamecocks, he appeared in 80 games (66 starts) and averaged 11.2 points, 3.0 assists and 2.7 rebounds.

- In 2015, Ellington participated in the 2nd Annual Tory Dandy Foundation Scholarship Fun Day in Woodruff, SC. Along with 49ers teammate RB Mike Davis and other NFL Players, the athletes signed autographs and raised money to support The Heart Foundation and the ALS Foundation.

BORN 10.15.89 // BALLWIN, MO // PARKWAY WEST HS, BALLWIN, MO
6TH YEAR // ACQUIRED TR IN '14 - JAX

GOLDMINE

- Since arriving in San Francisco, Gabbert has been an active contributor to the 49ers community relations efforts. He has participated annually in the Visa Shop With A Player event to help local kids from the Boys & Girls Clubs of Silicon Valley buy Christmas presents for their families. He has also helped build bikes for underserved youth in the yearly 49ers Bike Build with Turning Wheels for Kids, among other events.

- Gabbert participated in and served as captain for McKenzie's Run in Jacksonville in 2012. All of the proceeds for the event went to the McKenzie Noelle Wilson Foundation, a nonprofit organization that 'helps young people recognize their full potential through programs that encourage caring for others, giving to those in need, and growing in their own spirituality.'

GABBERT'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Enjoys deep sea fishing and fly fishing in his free time. Has caught a wide variety of fish, from sailfish and redfish, to salmon, gar and bass.

- At the age of 13, began training at Hammer Bodies, a fitness center in Missouri, where he trained like a college and professional athlete. He trained at the same facility as NBA players David Lee as well as Tyler and Ben Hansbrough.

GOLDMINE (CONTINUED)

- As a member of the Jacksonville Jaguars, Gabbert teamed up with Dignity U Wear to donate clothes and winter coats to the students at Woodland Acres Elementary School. Based in Jacksonville, Dignity U Wear works with nonprofits in over 42 stats to give back to the community by providing clothes to school children, veterans and women and girls in crisis.

JOSHUA GARNETT

65

POSITION G | HEIGHT 6-5 | WEIGHT 321 | COLLEGE STANFORD

BORN 2.21.94 // PUYALLUP, WA // PUYALLUP HS, PUYALLUP, WA
ROOKIE // ACQUIRED D-1B IN '16

GOLDMINE

- Garnett's father, Scott, played collegiately at the University of Washington and was drafted in the eighth round (218th overall) by the Denver Broncos in the 1984 NFL Draft. He spent three seasons in the NFL (1984-85, 1987) and played in five games for the 49ers during the 1985 season.

- At Stanford, Garnett majored in human biology with the goal of becoming a trauma surgeon after his NFL career is over. He has already shadowed staff in an ER, further fueling his interest, during which he says he got a better sense of the adrenaline and the way an emergency department works together. "I'm drawn to help someone that could be on the brink of death," Garnett said. "I'm a guy who can handle the gore and I feel like I have the aptitude where I can make a difference for people."

- Garnett likes to listen to hip-hop and rap music during his free time but when it comes to preparing for a football game, he listens to heavy metal bands such as Rage Against the Machine and Metallica. "I like to get to a different place and get amped up before the games. It's interesting because I don't listen to it outside of football pregame. So, it really gets me in the moment for the game and my body kind of knows, 'We're listening to this music, it's game time.'"

GARNETT'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Garnett's father, Scott, spent three seasons in the NFL (1984-85, 1987) and played for the 49ers during the 1985 season.

- At Stanford, Garnett majored in human biology with the goal of becoming a trauma surgeon after his NFL career is over.

- As a senior at Stanford, was the recipient of the Outland Trophy as the nation's most outstanding lineman and the Morris Trophy Award, a prestigious honor voted on by opposing Pac-12 defensive linemen.

GARNETT'S TRANSACTIONS

Originally the second of two 1st-round (28th overall) draft choices by SF in 2016.

ELI HAROLD

POSITION LB | HEIGHT 6-3 | WEIGHT 265 | COLLEGE VIRGINIA

BORN 1.20.94 // VIRGINIA BEACH, VA // OCEAN LAKES HS, VIRGINIA BEACH, VA
2ND YEAR // ACQUIRED D-3 IN '15

GOLDMINE

- Harold was "Mr. Everything" for his high school team, playing quarterback, running back, wide receiver and defensive end at Ocean Lakes HS. Racking up 1,146 yards and 20 touchdowns in a wildcat offense, he was named first-team All-Tidewater, the Beach District Defensive Player of the Year and a first-team all-district selection at wide receiver and defensive end.

- Late 2010 and early 2011 was an incredibly trying time for the Harold family. In a three-month span, Eli's brother Walter unexpectedly lost his son, Forrest, and Eli's mother, Sheila Korvette, passed away from cancer. In the wake of the family's tragedy, Harold moved in with Walter, the closest thing he had to a father figure. After becoming a highly-touted prospect and recording his first sack at the University of Virginia, Harold dedicated the milestone to his older brother.

HAROLD'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Persevered through the unspeakable tragedy of losing his mother, Sheila Korvette, to become a highly sought-after prospect.

- Finished his college career ranking 11th in Virginia school history with 17.5 total sacks.

- First-team all-district selection at Ocean Lakes (Virginia Beach, VA) HS at both wide receiver and defensive end.

3RD YEAR // ACQUIRED FA IN '15

GOLDMINE

- Between his stints with Pittsburgh and Green Bay at the beginning of the 2012 season, Harris spent a week as a car salesman at the Chrysler Jeep Dodge Ram Arlington Dealer in Jacksonville, FL.
- Visited West Hernando Middle School to speak with the football team as a member of the Jacksonvile Jaguars in 2011. Harris, a West Hernando alumni, spoke about the importance of eating healthy, building relationships and the importance of education. "Kids need someone to look up to," he said at the time. "I'm here to let them know there is hope and to keep their dreams alive."
- If it wasn't for football, Harris says he'd be helping others, specifically juveniles, because it means a lot to help someone get on the right path and it creates a positive example for kids.

HARRIS' GOLDEN NUGGET

- A six-year NFL veteran, Harris has seen regular season and postseason action with the Jacksonville Jaguars (2011), Green Bay Packers (2012-14), Seattle Seahawks (2015) and 49ers (2015).

BORN 1.17.91 // PAULSBORO, NJ // PAULSBORO HS, PAULSBORO, NJ
4TH YEAR // ACQUIRED TR IN '15 - MIN

GOLDMINE

- Hodges was one of the top high school wrestlers in New Jersey, advancing as far as the state semifinals during his junior year. He recognizes the grueling three-hour workouts in 115-degree gymnasiums for instilling mental toughness in him. Captain of the wrestling and track and field teams, he finished his junior wrestling season third in the state with a 40-1 record.

- As a freshman at Penn State, Hodges switched positions from safety to linebacker. In his new position group was current teammate NaVorro Bowman, a senior at the time, and Dallas Cowboys LB Sean Lee, both of whom he gives credit to for showing him the way. "I learned so much from NaVorro and Sean, seeing how they approached football, and studying film, you couldn't help but to follow in their footsteps."

HODGES' GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Acquired from the Minnesota Vikings on 10/6/15.
- Was teammates with LB NaVorro Bowman at Penn State in 2009.
- Appeared in 29 games over three seasons with Minnesota.

AWARDS & HONORS

2015: FedEx Ground Player of the Week (Week 1)

2016 HIGHLIGHTS

- Rushed for 88 yds. and 2 TDs on 23 carries vs. LA (9/12). It marked his fourth and fifth career rushing TDs on opening day, the most among running backs over the last three seasons. It also marked his second career 2 TD game (9/14/15 vs. Min.)

GOLDMINE

- In August of 2016, Hyde partnered with the Boys & Girls Clubs of Silicon Valley on a new program that will run during the 2016 NFL season for fans to join Hyde in support of the Clubs' programs for kids. Fans can share in the success of Hyde and the 49ers offense through a unique, performance based campaign called Touchdowns for Kids. Fans pledge any dollar amount for every touchdown the 49ers score during the 2016 NFL season. At the end of each game, pledges turn into donations that directly benefit the youth that attend the clubs.

- Hyde and the other members of the 49ers 2014 rookie draft class visited Oak Grove High School to launch the "49ers Mentorship Program." The program focuses on character development through mentorship and accountability. Hyde and his teammates spent the afternoon with the boy's varsity football team and taught them about the mentor/mentee relationship and the pros and cons of posting on social media.

- After spending his first year of high school in Cincinnati, Hyde moved to Naples, FL, to live with his grandparents. "It was definitely for the better. I was headed down the wrong route in Cincinnati. Moving to Naples got me on the right route and back into sports and I was fortunate enough to earn a scholarship." After scoring his first NFL touchdown against Dallas in Week 1 of the 2014 season, Hyde gave his grandmother, Irma Butler, the ball to commemorate the occasion.

HYDE'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Played on the 2007 Naples state champion football team (Naples, FL). He also played basketball, ran track and mentored elementary school children.

- Hyde credits three people in particular for helping him achieve success. "I credit my mom, my grandmother and Bill Kramer, my high school coach. He is basically the one that got me on the right path. Coming from Cincinnati, I wasn't on the right track grade-wise. So, he got me on the right track and got me caught up with my grades." In addition to helping him with everything off the field, he is directly responsible for how Hyde lines up on the gridiron. "I was actually trying to play defense in high school and he let me play running back. He's just always been there for me."

DONTAE JOHNSON

36

GOLDMINE

- During the 2016 offseason, Johnson formed a special relationship with Will Randleman, a young man who suffered a traumatic neck injury while playing youth football in the Bay Area. Initially, Johnson was expecting his visit with Will to be a somber one. However, he was greeted by something unexpected. "He was in such amazing spirits. When I was talking to him, I saw his passion and love for football. We connected over that," said Johnson. When Johnson visits Will, the two talk about the injury, but also go much deeper into their friendship. "We're friends now. It's amazing that we've opened up to each other. I've honestly learned so much from him," Johnson continued. "His attitude has really made me cherish and value the opportunity that I have. I just want to help any way I can and let him know he's not fighting this alone."

- Hauling in 50 passes for 600 yards and 13 touchdowns is an impressive stat-line for a two-way player, which is exactly what Johnson was in high school. He split time as a receiver and defensive back during his time at Pennington Prep (NJ) High School. What made Johnson focus his attention on the defensive side of the ball moving forward? He credited a defensive mentality. Johnson said, "I was more of a physical player. Just the fact that I liked playing defense better. Playing basketball, I had a defensive mindset. So, I guess it just translated to football. I always had a defensive mindset."

- Johnson, a sports management and business administration major, spent the summer prior to his senior year as a sports marketing intern with French West Vaughan, a marketing/public relations firm based out of Raleigh, NC. During his internship, he worked with some high-profile athletes and clients which provided great experience. "I actually got to do a few things with MoGo, the flavored mouthpiece that [49ers QB] Colin [Kaepernick] wears. I did that and then I did a few things for [Cincinnati Bengals DT] Geno Atkins, getting him some suits for the ESPY's." Johnson believes if he weren't a professional football player, that he had found his calling in sports marketing. He said, "That was definitely something I would do. Just the interaction with players and businesses, I felt like that was cool."

JOHNSON'S GOLDEN NUGGET

- When he got the call that he was being drafted by the 49ers, San Francisco's 2014 first-round draft pick DB Jimmie Ward was one of the first phone calls that he received to congratulate him and tell him how excited he was that the two were going to be teammates. Ward and Johnson were roommates at the 2014 Senior Bowl.

KAEPERNICK'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- In 2016, Kaepernick and fellow 49ers participated in the 4th Annual "Against All Odds" golf tournament which raises money to benefit Camp Taylor. "It's a reality check every time I'm around these kids," said Kaepernick. "You have kids that go through so many different things, struggles that I have no idea about. They run around with smiles on their faces and having a good time. It helps me realize how blessed I've been. I feel very blessed to be around these kids and be their friend and try to help them out."

- Set the NFL record for single-game rushing yards by a quarterback (regular and postseason) with 181 vs. GB on 1/12/13.

- Became just the fourth quarterback in NFL history to win each of his first three playoff starts on the road (2012).

- In 2014, set career highs in passing attempts (478), completions (289), passing long (80t) and rushing yards (639).

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS (CONTINUED)

- In his first career postseason start, set the NFL single-game rushing record (regular season and playoffs) by a QB with 181 yds. vs. GB (1/12/13). It was also the 49ers single-game postseason rushing record.

- In just 6 career postseason games, Kaepernick has already notched the 2nd most rushing yds. by a QB in NFL postseason history.

- His 58-yd. run at Sea. (1/19/14) was the longest run by a QB in NFL postseason history, and was also the longest run by a 49ers QB in franchise history (regular season and playoffs).

- In 2015, Kaepernick became the 7th QB in franchise history to pass for 10,000-or-more yds. as a member of the 49ers.

- Recorded the longest run by a QB in franchise history, sprinting for an 90-yd. TD vs. SD (12/20/14). It surpassed his two 50-yd. runs in consecutive weeks [at StL (12/2/12), TD vs. Mia. (12/9/12)].

GOLDMINE

- In July of 2013, Kaepernick held the inaugural "Against All Odds" golf tournament at Del Rio Country Club in Modesto, CA, to benefit Camp Taylor, a camp for children with heart defects. The inaugural event raised over $200,000 to assist children and their families through Camp Taylor. In 2015, Kaepernick and fellow 49ers participated in the 3rd Annual tournament which raised funds in excess of $500,000. "It's a reality check every time I'm around these kids," said Kaepernick. "You have kids that go through so many different things, struggles that I have no idea about. They run around with smiles on their faces and having a good time. It helps me realize how blessed I've been. I feel very blessed to be around these kids and be their friend and try to help them out."

- Held the 2nd Annual Citi Colin Kaepernick Football ProCamp for boys and girls in grades 1-8 at St. Ignatius College Preparatory School in San Francisco. Throughout the camp, Kaepernick offered tips and instruction, highlighting the finer points of football. Campers were able to experience various stations specializing in fundamental football skills and participated in touch football games.

- In 2010, Kaepernick was drafted by the Chicago Cubs in the 2009 MLB Draft and was offered $30,000 to go to Arizona for a month and throw a few bullpen sessions. Looking ahead to his senior season as Nevada's quarterback, he declined the offer saying, "What would that say about me as a leader of the team?"

- Even as a 4th grade student at Dutcher Elementary School in Turlock, CA, Kaepernick knew he was going to play for the 49ers. In a letter that students had to write to their future selves, despite his small stature at the time, he saw something special in himself. He wrote, "I'm 5-2, 91 lbs and a good athlete. I think in 7 years i will be between 6 ft. to 6-4, 140 lbs. I hope I go to a good college in football, then go to the pros and play on the Niners or the Packers, even if they aren't good in seven years."

- Kaepernick, along with teammate Torrey Smith, attended Cleveland Browns CB Joe Haden's Second Annual Joe Haden & Friends Celebrity Softball Game in June of 2015. Part of the proceeds went to the support of Special Olympics while the athlete's jerseys were auctioned off after the game to support local youth sports from the Lake Health Foundation, who sponsored the event. Kaepernick also participated in the event's home run derby and took time to visit with a terminally ill 14-year-old along with the signing of numerous autographs.

- During the holiday season of 2013, Kaepernick paid a surprise visit to families at the San Francisco Ronald McDonald House. Through the giving spirit, he donated an Xbox One to the house for kids of the house to enjoy. "I think there's something special about kids that's uplifting. You see how pure-hearted kids are," said Kaepernick. Following the donation, he spent time with the children, including friendly competition on the brand new console.

- One of Kaepernick's hobbies and favorite activities off the field is collecting and watching movies. "I own around 250 movies," said Kaepernick. His favorites are no surprise; action and comedy, specifically the movie Step Brothers. What might be a surprise to some people is that the 6-4, 250 lb QB also enjoys watching cartoons and Disney movies. "Some movies I own that most people wouldn't think I like are The Incredibles, Finding Nemo, Despicable Me and How To Train Your Dragon."

POSITION C | HEIGHT 6-3 | WEIGHT 308 | COLLEGE APPALACHIAN STATE

BORN 12.18.87 // KINGSPORT, TN // DOBYNS-BENNETT HS, KINGSPORT, TN
6TH YEAR // ACQUIRED D-5 IN '11

AWARDS & HONORS

2012: 2012 Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award, Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 5), Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 7), Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 12)

2016 HIGHLIGHTS

- Part of an offensive line group that helped the 49ers offense rush for 150 yds. and 3 TDs on 42 carries and did not allow a sack on 35 atts. by QB Blaine Gabbert vs. LA (9/12).

GOLDMINE

- While Kilgore was preparing for the NFL Draft in 2011, he was also serving as a student-teacher at Hardin Park Elementary School working with special-education students in adaptive physical education classes. The day following his graduation from Appalachian State, Kilgore hosted a field trip for his special-education students at ASU. The field trip included a tour of the school's athletic facilities, activities in the Sofield Family Indoor Practice Facility, lunch on the club level of the Appalachian Athletics Center and taking in a few innings of the Appalachian State-Western Carolina baseball game. While football is Kilgore's next chapter in life, he aspires to be a coach and special-education teacher following his NFL career. "I'm very happy that I was drafted, but I absolutely love working with these kids," said Kilgore. "I have had a great student-teaching experience and I know when my NFL career is over, I will get to work in another field that I love and that is working with special-education students and coaching."

KILGORE'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Following his senior football season at Appalachian State, he stayed in the area to serve as a student-teacher at Hardin Park Elementary School (Boone, NC), working with special-education students in adaptive physical education classes.

- During his time at Appalachian State and with the 49ers, Kilgore spends his off days volunteering his time working with special-education students.

GOLDMINE (CONTINUED)

- Kilgore returned to his hometown of Kingsport, TN to support the 2015 Tribe Games, a series of athletic competitions for special needs kids from bowling to swimming to track and field. Kilgore's heart for special needs kids grew from volunteering in adapted physical education classes in the Watauga County (NC) School System while playing at Appalachian State. Kilgore wasn't just a casual observer at the games either, as he was a coach, motivator, fan and cheerleader for all 85 participating kids.

BORN 11.19.87 // HIALEAH, FL // HIALEAH-MIAMI LAKES HS, HIALEAH, FL
4TH YEAR // ACQUIRED FA IN '16

GOLDMINE

- Beginning in 2012, Lewis has hosted an annual football and cheer clinic in his hometown of Opa-locka, FL, where 5th through 8th grade boys can learn the game of football while girls of all ages participate in the cheerleading clinic. For Lewis, the camp is to not only help the youth enhance their on-field skills, but also to provide an example of the possibilities if you maintain focus, discipline and commitment while working hard on and off the field. "I believe the Football Clinic extends their options and helps them understand the importance of education, character and good behavior," said Lewis during the inaugural camp.

LEWIS' GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Originally an undrafted free agent in 2010, Lewis has spent time with the St. Louis Rams, Cleveland Browns, Buffalo Bills, Houston Texans and Philadelphia Eagles during his career.
- Annually hosts a football clinic for 5th through 8th grade students in his hometown of Opa-locka, FL, to provide an example for the youth of what will happen if you focus and work hard on and off the field.

GOLDMINE

- Lynch draws his passion for the game from his mother, who had a much more difficult task than competing in football. "She was a single mom for 20 years. I learned a lot of morals and values from my mother." As the oldest of three children, Lynch was forced to grow up quicky.

LYNCH'S GOLDEN NUGGET

- Notes his grandfather's passing as the reason he strives to be the best football player he can be. "It made me want to work harder, push myself harder." He wants to carry himself in a manner that his grandfather would be proud of.

POSITION C | HEIGHT 6-3 | WEIGHT 321 | COLLEGE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

BORN 11.29.93 // LOS ANGELES, CA // CRENSHAW HS, LOS ANGELES, CA
3RD YEAR // ACQUIRED D-3A IN '14

2016 HIGHLIGHTS
- Part of an offensive line group that helped the 49ers offense rush for 150 yds. and 3 TDs on 42 carries and did not allow a sack on 35 atts. by QB Blaine Gabbert vs. LA (9/12).

GOLDMINE
- One particular charitable organization caught the attention of Martin back in college - "The Starkey Foundation is an organization that creates hearing aids for kids that are deaf. They go around the country and also out of the states." The Foundation uses hearing, "as a vehicle to reflect caring and sharing and improve the lives of individuals, families and communities around the world."

- Martin grew up in a large family with two brothers and two sisters. Despite being the youngest of five children, he is the first member of his family to go to college. Martin credits two of his family members in particular for making him the man he is today, "Having the guidance and the leadership that I had from my brother and my father, they kept me off the streets, they kept me from doing everything that was wrong and doing positive things."

MARTIN'S GOLDEN NUGGETS
- Started all 22 games in which he has appeared in through his first two seasons.
- Served as a team captain and earned First-Team All-Pac-12 recognition in 2013 at USC.

GOLDMINE (CONTINUED)
- Martin has a passion for charity work and believes in giving back. He has big plans for community work in his hometown of Crenshaw, CA. "I plan on opening up my non-profit and I want to help as many people as I can, touch as many lives as I can," explained Martin. "Coming from where I come from, there's not a lot of hope. So, if I can do anything, I'll pass on some words of advice to the youngsters." He continued, "It's a non-profit that's going to facilitate tutoring and mentorship and kind of act as a safe haven for kids to come after school."

BORN 6.13.90 // WINNIE, TX // EAST CHAMBERS HS, WINNIE, TX
4TH YEAR // ACQUIRED D-2B IN '13

AWARDS & HONORS

2015: 49ers Community Service Family Award (Co-Recipient)

2016 HIGHLIGHTS

- Hauled in an 8-yd. TD pass from QB Blaine Gabbert vs. LA (9/12), the 4th TD recept. of his career.

GOLDMINE

- Along with fellow 49ers TE Garrett Celek and DT Tank Carradine, McDonald visited Haiti in conjunction with Convoy of Hope, working together to teach healthy eating habits and sustainable agriculture techniques to local families. The players also visited an orphanage and local schools to spend time with underprivileged youth. "What I've seen here is just the impact everyone can have. We truly can come together and make a difference for people."

- Growing up, McDonald spent a lot of his time at the Drake Plantation in Winnie, a large open land full of wildlife such as ducks, geese and deer, which his uncle owned. He went fishing, caught crawfish and rode four-wheelers. "I loved just being an outdoorsman," he said. "It's a big agricultural town."

- McDonald grew up in Winnie, Texas, which was discovered to have a large oilfield and currently has about 3,500 residents. "We have three stop lights and any fast food restaurant you can possibly imagine and a bunch of hotels," McDonald said to describe Winnie. "It's a place for truckers to stop off and get some rest and a bite to eat driving off to Louisiana. The whole town is just one highway. Everyone knows everyone's business."

McDONALD'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Named a co-recipient of the 49ers Community Service Family Award in 2015 along with his wife, Kendi.
- Hosted a charity event in June of 2015 featuring all 49ers tight ends with proceeds going to the Nicaragua Mission Trip team.
- Spent his draft day at home in Winnie, TX, with his family and closest family friends. "It was a big thing for the small town," he said.

KYLE NELSON

POSITION TE/LS | HEIGHT 6-2 | WEIGHT 240 | COLLEGE NEW MEXICO STATE

BORN 10.3.86 // CHINA SPRINGS, TX // CHINA SPRINGS HS, CHINA SPRINGS, TX
5TH YEAR // ACQUIRED FA IN '14

GOLDMINE

- The Nelson's family secret to football longevity? Become a specialist. Kyle says, "My grandfather told my dad to learn how to long snap and my dad said, 'No, I'm okay. I'll play linebacker.' He played six years in the CFL, but said if he had learned how to long snap, he would have played a little bit more. It's gotten me where I am today, so I owe a lot to my snapping coach, my grandfather and my dad for getting me started."

- Always around football, in the summers, Kyle would help his dad, Mark, when he was coaching in the NCAA and CFL. He worked as ball boy and assisted the equipment staff with laundry. At a young age, Kyle got to see tight knit locker rooms and learned how successful teams work together on and off the field. Mark's career as a football coach meant many moves for the Nelson family. Kyle was born in Norman, OK and growing up, the family moved between Tulsa, OK and Canada three times and Kyle spent time living in George, Kentucky, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico before coming to California.

- In the past, Nelson has worked with middle school football players in Phoenix, AZ, teaching them the craft of long snapping as colleges begin recruiting students specifically to fill that role. "It helps the kids get into school," he said. "We do it to get them scholarships, get their school paid for so their parents don't have to."

NELSON'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Comes from a football family where he is a third generation member. His father, Mark, is the defensive coordinator for the Ottawa REDBLACKS in the Canadian Football League, with a quarter-century of coaching experience. Mark played in the CFL for six seasons and spent time coaching in the NCAA at Louisville, Arkansas Tech, Baylor and Kentucky. Kyle's grandfather, Roger, was drafted by the Washington Redskins in 1954. He played offensive tackle for 13 seasons for the CFL's Edmonton Eskimos from 1954-67 and was elected into the CFL Hall of Fame in 1985.

- Growing up in Canada, the first sport he played was ice hockey. Following a move to the United States in middle school, he began playing soccer before playing football for the first time his junior year of high school.

GOLDMINE (CONTINUED)

- In his spare time, Nelson enjoys drawing, reading and going hiking. When Kyle was growing up, his family planned hikes on the weekends where he was able to witness the landscape of Arkansas, Georgia, Texas and Arizona. It translated to painting, where Kyle draws pictures of the outdoors such as oceans, forests and mountains. "I like turning color pictures into black and white, charcoal, Sharpies," he said. "It's a nice, relaxing hobby."

QUINTON PATTON

POSITION WR | HEIGHT 6-0 | WEIGHT 204 | COLLEGE LOUISIANA TECH

BORN 8.9.90 // LAVERGNE, TN // LAVERGNE HS, LAVERGNE, TN 4TH YEAR // ACQUIRED D-4A IN '13

GOLDMINE

- Patton grew up in a few rough neighborhoods near Nashville, TN, where drug use and violence ran rampant. "I probably have seen everything, people getting shot, all of it," he said. Quinton's friends realized his athletic abilities and made sure he stayed on the proper path. "They'd always tell me, 'No, you're not going to get into anything because we can see you have something that we don't.'"

- Football helped Patton stay out of trouble as a youth. "I put so much time, so much effort in, believed in myself, and wasn't afraid to take a chance," he said. "My chance is football and I always have fun." Patton lives by advice he received from his former junior college football coach, Darian Dulin: "When hard work becomes fun, success will follow. If you aren't working hard and having fun, you're not going to get anything out of it." It's evident on the practice field and in the locker room. Patton makes his friends, teammates and anyone else he encounters put on a smile and laugh.

- Patton learned to cook from his father, Herman, who worked as a chef at Country Pride, a truck stop restaurant in Antioch, TN. "I always used to be in the kitchen, learning and watching them cook everything." Quinton's favorite dish to make is baked chicken with yams, sweet potatoes and brownies for dessert.

- At the 2011 Poinsettia Bowl, Patton showed leadership and maturity when he selflessly gave his bowl gift (a $300 Best Buy gift card) to a child from the Make-A-Wish Foundation during the bowl's community service event. Why? The child's wish was to go on a shopping spree and Patton was happy to be able to grant that child's wish.

PATTON'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- He and fellow teammate, WR Bruce Ellington, visited Aspire East Palo Alto Charter School in May of 2015 where the two spoke to K-12 students and took part in playground activities and arm wrestling.

- His football journey started at Coffeyville Community College (Coffeyville, KS) before transferring to Louisiana Tech and becoming a fourth-round draft pick by SF in 2013.

GOLDMINE

- Every player has their own unique superstitions and quirks that get them ready for a game of football. For Pinion, it is all about his most important piece of equipment: the shoes. For every practice and game since high school, Pinion has tied his shoes the same way. He takes the laces on his right shoe and wraps them around the bottom, ties them and pushes the knot off to the right side, out of the way. "I like to take care of the important foot first," he says.
- While getting ready for the NFL draft, Pinion added Bikram yoga to his training regimen. In 105-degree heat with 40-percent humidity, he dropped 20 pounds. Pinion also added training at Madabolic Inc. in North Carolina, a hybrid of Cross Fit and Nine Rounds training techniques. "I really started to focus on the small things," said Pinion. "All the small things make the big picture."
- If he wasn't playing football, Pinion would be earning his doctorate in management. With his father, Robert, being a CEO, he has always been interested in owning a business and building relationships with consumers. However, he wouldn't be the first member of his family with a doctorate. His brother, Chris, is top five in his field and is getting his doctorate in physical chemistry at North Carolina, after earning two degrees as an undergrad at South Carolina. Pinion is two classes away from earning his degree, and after he has settled into his NFL career, he plans to finish what he started at Clemson.
- Pinion credits his longtime kicking coach Dan Orner as being the most influential person in his life. While preparing for the NFL Draft, Orner worked out side by side with Bradley, pushing him to get better every step of the way. "Just the way he handles his business and the person that he is," Pinion said. "It's something I try and mimic."
- Pinion's family has a long history of serving in the military. Both of his cousins have served in Iraq, where one worked on tanks and the other went door to door assessing threats. His grandfather on his dad's side, Earl Mason, was about to have a tryout with the Dallas Cowboys as a punter, but he was drafted to serve in the Korean War, where he earned a purple heart. Pinion cites his grandfather as one of his heaviest influences in becoming a punter.

PINION'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- During his time at Clemson, Pinion worked closely with the "Be The Match Foundation," an organization that works to find matches within the bone marrow registry.
- After never playing pee wee football, Pinion received a football as a Christmas gift from his mother, Lorie, in middle school. His father took him out to the field and asked if he wanted to throw the ball. "I wanted to kick it. I grew up playing soccer," said Pinion. His dad put the ball on his foot like a tee, and Pinion knocked through a 35-yard field goal on his first try. "Do that again," he said. Second try, same result. "I guess you could say that it was a Christmas gift that turned into a dream," he said.

GOLDMINE

- In 2013, Ponder and his wife, Samantha, hosted the M.A.D. Wiffleball classic, a celebrity/amateur wiffleball tournament in Scottsdale, Arizona that benefited Make A Difference Ministries (M.A.D.) and local inner city kids within the area. For the youth, Ponder said "It gives them options to learn from examples on how you should grow up and ways to be successful, things they haven't had a chance to do in their lives."

PONDER'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Originally drafted 12th overall by the Minnesota Vikings in the 2011 NFL Draft and appeared in 38 games (36 starts) for the team from 2011-14.
- Started all 16 games in 2012 and helped the biggest turnaround in Vikings franchise history, going from 3-13 in 2011 to 10-6 and earning a Wild Card playoff berth in 2012.
- Earned the National Football Foundation/College Football Hall of Fame Scholar-Athlete Award after earning his bachelor's degree in two-and-a-half years, and an MBA before his final year of football at Florida State.
- Married to ESPN's Samantha Ponder, as the two are involved with Make A Difference Ministries in Phoenix, AZ.

COLLEGE

Played in 35 games over four years (2007-10) at Florida State and ended his Seminoles career ranked third in school history with 22 career wins. Finished his collegiate career with 6,872 yds. on 596 of 965 pass atts. (61.8 percent) with 49 TDs and 30 INTs. Also rushed for 833 yds. on 296 atts. (2.8 avg.) with 10 TDs. Left FSU ranked among the all-time school leaders in most major passing categories: second in career completion percentage, third in total offense, third in completions, fourth in passing yds. and fifth in passing TDs. Threw TD passes in 25 of his final 34 games. As a senior in 2010, threw for career-high 20 TDs in 12 starts, topped 2,000 passing yds. for the third straight season and was a finalist for the Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Award. As a junior, threw for career-high 2,717 yds. (career-high 68.8 pct.) with 14 TDs and just seven INTs and was a finalist for Wuerffel Trophy, Maxwell Award and Manning Award in 2009. Named Florida State's offensive MVP as a sophomore in 2008 after throwing for 2,006 yds. and 14 TDs in 13 starts as a sophomore. Also ran for 423 yds. in his first full season of action, becoming the first Seminoles quarterback to rush for at least 400 yards since Charlie Ward. Appeared in one game as a freshman, recording 105 yds. on 8 of 18 pass atts. with one TD and two INTs.

KEITH REASER

27

POSITION CB | HEIGHT 6-0 | WEIGHT 190 | COLLEGE FLORIDA ATLANTIC

BORN 7.31.91 // MIAMI, FL // KILLIAN HS, MIAMI, FL
2ND YEAR // ACQUIRED D-5B IN '14

GOLDMINE

- The strength and conditioning part of football is nothing new to Reaser. He grew up a track star in high school and credits the conditioning of the sport to his success on the field. "I definitely improved my speed. I would give that advice to anybody playing football coming up that wanted to improve their speed, track definitely helps. I definitely think that's the reason I can run the way I do now." In addition to his speed, he displayed his strength at the 2014 NFL Combine. Reaser's 22 reps in the bench press were tied for the most by a cornerback.

- Growing up on the coast in Miami, FL, Reaser enjoyed both fresh and saltwater fishing. "I like the competition of fishing. I don't just go by myself. I don't know exactly what I like about it. Just the challenge of catching fish. I enjoy it."

REASER'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Cousin of former Washington Redskins Safety Sean Taylor. Reaser was 16 when Taylor passed away. The two would run, train and watch film together. Reaser said, "He was that family member that you looked up to and said, 'I want to be like him, I want to play like him, I want to dress like him.' He was my idol."

- At the 2014 NFL Combine, he registered 22 reps in the bench press, tied for the most by a CB.

- When he first arrived at FAU, he began on the scout team. He eventually worked his way up for the Owls and became a 5th-round draft pick by SF in the 2014 NFL Draft.

ERIC REID

35

AWARDS & HONORS

2013: Pro Bowl, Thomas Herrion Memorial Award, PFWA All-Rookie Team

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- In 2013, Reid was one of only three players in the NFL to record 4-or-more INTs and 2-or-more FRs (LB Kiko Alonso 4 INTs/2 FRs; CB Alterraun Verner 5 INTs/2 FRs).

GOLDMINE

- Prior to Super Bowl 50 held at Levi's Stadium, Reid teamed with fellow 49ers RB Carlos Hyde and Hall of Fame DB Ronnie Lott to put on a Super ProCamp in support of the Starkey Hearing Foundation and presented by Safeway.

- In May of 2016, Reid hosted his Second Annual "Eric Reid Invitational," a golf tournament which raises money for the Baton Rouge Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation. The event has brought in more than $130,000 throughout its first two years.

- Reid's father, Eric Reid, Sr., was a three-time All-American hurdler for LSU from 1984-87 and is a member of the LSU Athletic Hall of Fame.

- In 2015, Levi's Stadium hosted European giants Manchester United F.C. and FC Barcelona as part of the 2015 International Champions Cup North America Presented by Guinness. Reid, along with teammate Joe Staley, participated in the football-fútbol combination and attended a Barcelona practice.

REID'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Was the recipient of the Thomas Herrion Memorial Award in 2013, given by the 49ers coaches to the rookie or first-year player who has taken advantage of every opportunity and turned it into a positive situation.

- Prior to WrestleMania 31 held at Levi's® Stadium, along with WWE Superstars, spoke to students about being an ally along with bullying intervention in March of 2015.

- A 2013 Pro Bowl selection, he was the first 49ers rookie safety in franchise history to be named to the Pro Bowl.

- During the 2016 offseason, launched his own website, EricReidOfficialWebsite.com.

ERIC ROGERS

3

POSITION WR | HEIGHT 6-3 | WEIGHT 210 | COLLEGE CALIFORNIA LUTHERAN

BORN 2.12.91 // COVINA, CA // CHARTER OAK HS, COVINA, CA
1ST YEAR // ACQUIRED FA IN '16

GOLDMINE

- Rogers' remarkable journey to the NFL has had many twists and turns. As he began at Division III California Lutheran, Rogers took out student loans, applied for financial aid, worked in the cafeteria swiping meal cards and washed uniforms at the football facility on Sunday mornings to help offset the cost of college. "At one point he's the best player in Division III football, and the next he's asking me which cleaner to use to get heavy grass stains out," said Cal Lutheran head coach Ben McEnroe.

- Rogers was raised by strong women who helped keep him out of trouble as a youth growing up. Thanks to his mother, grandmother and sports, Rogers stayed out of trouble. "Football was my getaway," he says. "My mom always told me, 'Be a leader, not a follower. Just because your friends do something, you don't have to.' I took that to heart." His mother, Carrie Barron, works as a home nurse and taught him the value of hard work while his grandmother, Doris, who passed away in 2013, showed him how to deal with adversity. "The best thing I learned from her is no matter what obstacle you face, keep battling," Rogers said. "She had cancer two or three times, went through chemo, and she was always a fighter, a warrior."

ROGERS' GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Rogers' unusual path to the NFL started at California Lutheran, a Division III school in Thousand Oaks, CA. He spent training camp with the Dallas Cowboys in 2013, followed by trips in the Arena Football League with the Portland Thunder and the Canadian Football League with the Calgary Stampeders.

- In 2015 as a member of the CFL's Calgary Stampeders, registered 87 recepts. for a league-high 1,448 rec. yds. and 10 TDs.

- Finished his career at California Lutheran University as the school's all-time leader in recepts. (220), rec. yds. (3,461) and rec. TDs (41).

ROGERS' TRANSACTIONS

Originally signed by Dal. as an undrafted free agent on 5/10/13...Waived by Dal. on 8/27/13...Signed Reserve/Future contract with SF on 1/21/16...Placed on the Injured Reserve List on 8/27/16.

AWARDS & HONORS

2011: AFC Special Teams Player of the Week (Week 11), Diet Pepsi Rookie of the Week (Week 11)

2012: GMC "Never Say Never" Moment of the Year (Week 3)

2014: Baltimore Ravens Walter Payton Man of the Year Award

2015: 49ers Community Service Family Award (Co-Recipient)

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- Finished his time in Baltimore as the Ravens career leader in yds.-per-catch avg. (16.9), registering 213 receps. for 3,591 yds. and 30 TDs.
- His 30 career rec. TDs rank second in Ravens franchise history, trailing only TE Todd Heap (41 rec. TDs).
- Led the Ravens with a career-high 11 TD receps. in 2014, becoming the first Ravens player with 10-or-more TD receps. since WR Michael Jackson had 14 in 1996.
- Registered a career-high 166 rec. yds. and 1 TD on 5 receps. (33.2 avg.) at Buf. (9/29/13).
- With 1,128 rec. yds. in 2013, became the first Ravens player with 1,000-or-more rec. yds. in a season since since WR Derrick Mason had 1,028 rec. yds. in 2009.
- In 2011, became the third rookie to have two games (9/25/11 at StL; 11/2011 vs. Cin.) with 150-or-more rec. yds. and at least 1 TD recept. in the same season since 1970 (WR Ken Burrow - 2 in 1971 and WR Randy Moss - 3 in 1998).
- Registered a career-high 3 TD receps. at StL (9/25/11) in his first career start.
- Had his first 3 career receps. go for TDs (74, 41 and 18 yds.) at StL (9/25/11), becoming the first rookie in NFL history and the 12th player since 1991 with 3 TD receps. in the 1st qtr.
- Owns the Ravens rookie franchise record for most receps. (50), and rec. yds. (841) and is tied with WR Marlon Brown in rec. TDs (7).
- In 2015, Smith became the first 49ers player to register 3 rec. TDs of 70-or-more yds. in the same season since WR John Taylor accomplished the feat in 1989. He is the first player in the NFL to reach the mark since Cleveland Browns WR Josh Gordon in 2013.

SMITH'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Named a co-recipient of the 49ers Community Service Family Award in 2015 along with his wife, Chanel, and their son, TJ.
- The Torrey Smith Family Fund provides support for at-risk youth with physical, educational and financial challenges. Visit TorreySmith.org for more information.
- During the 2016 offseason, Smith's family participated in "Best School Day." In an effort to help give students the tools and opportunities they need to succeed, Smith funded every school in East Baltimore. He appeared on the "Late Show with Stephen Colbert" in efforts to promote the cause.
- The "Torrey's Back to School Program" is held each August with the purpose of ensuring that 600 low-income elementary and middle school students have the basic items needed to begin the school year.

- When asked about having such a passion for community involvement and the inspiration behind it, Smith said that it goes back to his youth. He said, "For me, I've been giving back to the community since middle school. I actually won an award in middle school, the Martin Luther King Make a Difference Award. I've been giving back since day one, even when my family was the one receiving the help. I always felt like your time was just as important as your money. I've always given back to the community whether it's schools or shelters or whatever. I know what a lot of these families are going through and a lot of these kids are going through. I wanted to be that support system for them and that's why it's important for me to give back."

- During his time in Baltimore, Smith started the Torrey Smith Family Fund, which was established to provide youth with the tools they need to identify, unleash, and reach their full potential. . Visit TorreySmith.org for more information in regards to Smith's numerous efforts throughout the community.

- In April of 2016, Smith held his Fifth Annual Celebrity All-Star Basketball Game, also known as the "Battle of the Beltway" in the Baltimore Area. All proceeds benefited the Torrey Smith Foundation. The Smith Family has been working in collaboration with established nonprofits and corporate partners to create important new programs for Baltimore.

- Throughout the 2016 offseason, Smith used his time and resources to help those affected by the contaminated water supply in Flint, MI. Despite no ties to Michigan, Smith and former teammate, Justin Forsett, teamed with The United Way who helped coordinate school visits along with the donation of bottled water to Loving Hands which is an adult and senior care service.

- In April of 2015, Smith participated in the 137th edition of the White House Easter Egg Roll, which is the largest annual public event at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. More than 35,000 people gathered on the South Lawn to participate in egg hunts, live storytelling and fitness zones in conjunction with the First Lady's "Let's Move!" initiative.

- After losing his brother in a motorcycle accident the morning of a Sunday Night Football game against the New England Patriots, Smith went on to register 6 recepts. for 127 yds. and 2 TDs as the Ravens defeated the Patriots, 31-30. It marked Smith's third game with 100-or-more rec. yds. in his career.

- Smith has annually hosted his "Teaming up with Torrey" holiday toy drive, which benefits youth from the Baltimore area's Dogwood Elementary School, Sarah's Hope at Hannah Moore homeless shelter and the Boys and Girls Club of Metropolitan Baltimore.

- In April of 2015, Smith participated in the 137th edition of the White House Easter Egg Roll, which is the largest annual public event at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. More than 35,000 people gathered on the South Lawn to participate in egg hunts, live storytelling and fitness zones in conjunction with the First Lady's "Let's Move!" initiative.

- In May of 2015, Smith transformed a room at Gardenville Elementary (Baltimore, MD) into a literacy oasis with the focus on improving literacy in area schools. He later did the same for Moravia Park Elementary School (Baltimore, MD) two months later in July.

- In July of 2015, Smith joined the First Lady of Virginia, Dorothy McAuliffe, to visit Hollin Meadows Elementary School in Alexandria, VA to promote the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP) and recognize the important role schools play in providing healthy meals to children during the summer. He also recorded a Public Service Announcement (PSA) that is still aired in Virginia schools.

- After a fire destroyed his hometown elementary school in January of 2014, Smith held a school supply drive in Fredericksburg, VA. He also has "Torrey's Back to School Fun Fest," held each August with the purpose of ensuring that 600 low-income elementary and middle school students have the basic items needed to begin the school year. Each kid is able to meet Torrey and, with Walmart's help, receive backpacks filled with all of the necessities to start off the school year successfully.

AWARDS & HONORS

2011: AP All-Pro Second Team, NFC Pro Bowl, Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 5), All-NFC West Offense by ESPN's Mike Sando

2012: AP Second-Team All-Pro, NFC Pro Bowl selection (Starter), 2012 Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award, Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 5), Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 7), Madden Most Valuable Protectors Award (Week 12)

2013: AP Second-Team All-Pro, Pro Bowl, PFWA All-NFL Team

2014: Pro Bowl, Bobb McKittrick Award

2015: Pro Bowl, Bobb McKittrick Award

CAREER HIGHLIGHTS

- Became the first 49ers rookie O-Lineman to start every single game in a season since Cas Banaszek (1968-77), who started all 14 contests in 1968.
- Was 1 of only 3 NFL rookies (former 49ers LB Patrick Willis and Browns LT Joe Thomas) to line up for every single snap in 2007, and was 1 of 35 NFL players overall to accomplish the feat out of 1,898 total players.
- Recovered a fumble for a TD [vs. NYJ (12/7/08)], becoming the 6th offensive lineman in 49ers history to register a TD.

2016 HIGHLIGHTS

- Part of an offensive line group that helped the 49ers offense rush for 150 yds. and 3 TDs on 42 carries and did not allow a sack on 35 atts. by QB Blaine Gabbert vs. LA (9/12).

STALEY'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- One of eight finalists for the second annual Art Rooney Sportsmanship Award in 2015, presented annually to the NFL player who best demonstrates the qualities of on-field sportsmanship, including fair play, respect for the game and opponents, and integrity in competition.
- During the 2015 offseason, he and his teammates invited Anthony Pineda, a 13-year-old who battled Leukemia, to be a "Captain for the Day" as part of ESPN's "My Wish" program.
- In 2015, Staley was selected as the Bobb McKittrick Award winner for the second consecutive season, which is given annually to the 49ers offensive lineman who best represents the courage, intensity and sacrifice displayed by the longtime offensive line coach, during his 21 years of service to the 49ers. The award was established by the 49ers in 1999, and is voted on by the offensive line.

GOLDMINE

- Entering his sophomore season at Central Michigan, Staley and the football program experienced a coaching change. New head coach Brian Kelly and offensive line coach Jeff Quinn asked him to make the switch to offensive tackle. He agreed and the transformation began where he began to wake up at 2 a.m. to consume a 2,000 calorie weight-gaining shake and would work out twice a day to prepare his body for its new life in the trenches. In the first offseason, Staley added 20 pounds to his lean frame. By the time he was a senior, he reached 290 pounds and went on to become the first Chippewa to be drafted in the first round of the NFL Draft.

- In 2013, Joe was an ambassador for San Francisco's first Electric Run, a 5K race that benefits Smile Train, the world's largest cleft lip and palate charity. The race, which was held at Candlestick Park, raised $10,000 for Smile Train and more than 8,000 people participated in the event.

- Prior to Super Bowl 50 at Levi's Stadium, Staley gave away a pair of tickets and a signed game-worn jersey to single father Johnel Spivey and his seven-year-old daughter, Jordan. Spivey, 54, had been on dialysis three days a week for the previous six years. Despite surgery, he avoided pain medication so he could stay focused on his daughter's needs.

GOLDMINE

- Streater's passion for volunteering in the community came from his mother, Darlene Streater, who passed away in 2014 after battling breast cancer. "She was always so positive," Streater said of his mom in 2015. "She always had a positive vibe around her. Everybody was attracted to her. Whenever she was around people, they just loved her. That's what makes me want to keep giving back."

- As a member of the Oakland Raiders, founded the Rod Streater Foundation in 2014 with the mission to inspire the potential of our local youth by imparting leadership values of respect and responsibility. The signature program of the foundation, "Where's Streater?", focuses on sponsoring free activities that promote healthy lifestyles, technology, culture and the arts and has made visits to Oakland's Chabot Space and Science Center, the San Francisco Zoo, the Monterey Bay Aquarium and the NFL Experience at Super Bowl 50 among others. More information on the Rod Streater Foundation is available at www.rodstreaterfoundation.org

STREATER'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Developed his passion for volunteering from his mother, Darlene. In 2014, he created the Rod Streater Foundation with the mission to impart the values of respect and responsibility to the local youth. The signature program, "Where's Streater?", gives kids the opportunity to go places they wouldn't normally go.

- Streater has always had a passion for art and has incorporated that love into his foundation, partnering with a non-profit organization called CoachArt. In 2015, he earned the CoachArt Courage and Hope Award.

- Named the Raiders Ed Block Courage Award winner for the 2015 season. The award is presented each year to the player that exemplified a commitment to sportsmanship and courage.

GOLDMINE (CONTINUED)

- Since 2014, Streater and former teammate WR Kashif Moore have annually returned home to their alma mater Burlington Township High School to host the Catch Your Dream Football Camp, where 200 local kids go through drills and learn the fundamentals of football.

- During his time with the Raiders, Streater was heavily involved in the local Bay Area community. In 2014, Streater hosted children and family members from UCSF Benioff Children's Hospital Oakland Diabetes Clinic during the holiday season and shared healthy recipes, specifically for children with Type 1 diabetes. In 2015, he participated in KPIX 5's Domestic Violence Telethon to raise money for Domestic Violence organizations around the Bay Area and the Making Strides Against Breast Cancer Walnut Creek 5K Fundraising Walk, which raised money in support of the American Cancer Society.

- Streater has always had a passion for art and took a few art classes while attending community college. Currently, he is studying to receive his bachelor's degree in digital art and game animation at the Art Institute of Pittsburgh's online program. Streater also integrates his love of art into his foundation, as he has partnered with CoachArt, a non-profit organization dedicated to improving the lives of children with chronic illness by providing free arts and athletics lessons. "As a kid I always loved art. I just wanted to figure out how to introduce kids to art and interact with them, go on field trips or just hang out with them." In 2015, he was honored with the CoachArt Courage and Hope Award, which recognizes an individual in the community who sets a standard of excellence in their professional accomplishments and their personal humanitarianism.

JAQUISKI TARTT

29

AWARDS & HONORS

2015: Thomas Herrion Memorial Award

GOLDMINE

- Tartt's young football career has been heavily influenced by his family. He played his first year of organized football in 2009 at Davidson HS in Mobile, AL, to honor his grandfather, Alfred Lewis, who passed away during the summer before his senior year. "The football coaches and my friends wanted me to come out and play, and he really wanted me to play. I really wanted to play again ever since he passed away, so I do this in his memory." Additionally, Jaquiski chose to attend Samford University at the urging of his mother, a traveling nurse who wanted to go there herself because of their pharmacy program.

- Drafted by the 49ers in the second round of the 2015 NFL Draft, Tartt reunited with best friend and former high school teammate DB Jimmie Ward. Both products of Davidson High School in Mobile, AL, the pair won the Class 6A Region 1 football championship as the school's starting safeties in 2009.

- While visiting his hometown of Mobile during his youth football camp in July of 2016, Tartt was given the key to the city. "If anybody would have told me I would be getting a key to the city of Mobile, I'd have thought they were crazy. It's a wonderful feeling."

- A two-time All-American and All-Southern Conference selection, Tartt was the first player in Samford school history to be invited to play in the Reese's Senior Bowl. Just the sixth player selected in the NFL draft in school history, Jaquiski holds the distinction of being the first player drafted in the second round or higher from Samford University.

TARTT'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Pronounced juh-KWAH-skee.

- Teamed with Next Level Football Camp for his inaugural camp in his hometown of Mobile, AL on July 9, 2016. The goal of the camp was to allow one day of football training to impact the other 364 days of the year by participants being partnered with a mentor/coach from the camp.

- Named the 49ers Thomas Herrion Memorial Award winner for the 2015 season. The award, as voted on by the coaches, was established in 2005 by 49ers owners Denise and John York and is presented to a rookie or first-year player who best represents the dream of Thomas Herrion.

- Became the sixth player selected in the NFL Draft in Samford school history and holds the distinction of being the first player drafted in the second round or higher.

- Reunited with high school teammate and 2014 49ers 1st round pick DB Jimmie Ward. Both are products of Davidson HS in Mobile, AL. The pair won the Class 6A Region 1 football championship as the school's starting safeties in 2009.

GOLDMINE

- In 2013, Theus took a mission trip to Haiti during spring break with his brother, Nathan, and Georgia teammates, Preston Mobley and Hugh Williams. In the morning, they worked in a village painting and tilling the land and led Bible study in the afternoon. On being in Haiti three years after a devastating earthquake Theus said, "It definitely makes you count your blessings. It was fun to go over there and help whatever way I could."

- Theus' brother, Nathan, played long snapper at Georgia (2012-15) and the two are 18-months apart.

THEUS' GOLDEN NUGGETS

- In 2013, Theus took a mission trip to Haiti during spring break where he worked in a village and led Bible study.
- Theus' brother, Nathan, played long snapper at Georgia (2012-15) and the two went through the NFL Draft process together in 2016.

2016 HIGHLIGHTS

- Part of an offensive line group that helped the 49ers offense rush for 150 yds. and 3 TDs on 42 carries and did not allow a sack on 35 atts. by QB Blaine Gabbert vs. LA (9/12).

GOLDMINE

- With a few of his 49ers teammates, worked with KABOOM! to help put kids and families first in the San Francisco Bay Area by transforming everyday spaces into places for play. KABOOM! believes that the well-being of society begins with the well-being of children.

TILLER'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- In 2010, he survived a car accident in which his vehicle was struck by an 18-wheel truck. The car was totaled, but he survived the wreck unscathed.
- Earned First-Team All-Big East honors starting all 12 games at Syracuse in 2011.

GOLDMINE (CONTINUED)

- One of Tiller's inspirations during his football journey has been his cousin who passed away. "We always made a pact that one of us was going to hold the family down. He was either going to do it with his music, or I was going to do it with football. He passed away, so he gave the torch to me and I've got to fulfill that promise."

AWARDS & HONORS

2015: Hazeltine Iron Man Award

GOLDMINE

- Growing up in Mobile, AL, Ward knew when to separate himself from others in his neighborhood. Said Ward, "From where I come from, the neighborhood that I grew up in, a lot of people don't make it out. There's a lot of stuff. They either flunk out of school, end up having a child so they have to drop out of school and raise that child, or end up going to jail. It really just made me want to do something more than what my peers were doing." Ward would surround himself with positive influences to help combat the negative. "As I got older I hung out with positive guys. The guys I was hanging with, they wanted to do something with their life too. That really helped me out."

- While playing youth football, Ward went by the nickname 'Neko' and was teammates with former Alabama QB AJ McCarron with the Mobile Youth Football's Municipal Raiders. He played linebacker for the team that won multiple Youth Bowl Championships in Mobile.

- Ward's family is no stranger to professional athletics. He is the cousin of current NBA player, Caron Butler.

WARD'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Named the 49ers Hazeltine Iron Man Award winner for the 2015 season. The award is named for former linebacker Matt Hazeltine, a 13-year performer who played more seasons at linebacker than any other 49ers player. Known for his durability and dedication, Hazeltine passed away in 1987 from ALS, and Bill Walsh established the award in his honor that year. The award is given annually to the most courageous and inspirational defensive player as voted upon by the defensive coaches.

- On the day he was selected by the 49ers in the 1st round of the 2014 NFL Draft, drove three hours to New Orleans to purchase a new purse for his mother's birthday. He said, "I never really bought her anything expensive, because you're a kid. Growing up you would write a card, color a card or just buy a card or simple flowers. That's the most I ever did. She likes purses, so I just decided to get her a purse. It really didn't matter how much it cost, you just wanted to see that smile." His act of generosity shows his true character. "I'm not a selfish person. I just like to see and make other people smile too. It makes me feel better as a person."

- Was best friends growing up with 49ers 2015 2nd round draft pick, S Jaquiski Tartt. The two were teammates at W.P. Davidson High School in Mobile, AL.

2012: Thomas Herrion Award

GOLDMINE

- Wilhoite took an interesting road to the NFL that began at Division II Washburn University in Topeka, KS. With two redshirt years, one due to an injury, Wilhoite spent six years developing his skills as a safety. Despite playing in the Cactus Bowl, the Division II all-star game, he did not latch on with a NFL team following his final season, in 2010. He later signed with the nearby Omaha Nighthawks of the UFL. "I had never played linebacker in my life until I got to the UFL. I used that experience as a research project. There were former first round picks on the team that I could learn what the NFL was like. The coaches had all worked in the NFL, so I made sure to pay attention to them in case I ever got a shot."

- Wilhoite and his teammates visited San Mateo Juvenile Hall in collaboration with Fresh Lifelines for Youth (FLY) during a 49ers Community Monday event during the 2014 season. The players opened up about their stories of struggle and perseverance, and split into small groups with the youth to discuss emotional triggers, alternatives and goals. "If you put your mind to something and you're focused on something and you want something bad enough, you're going to get it. And for a lot of these kids, they haven't had anybody encourage or motivate them or show them how to get to that point," said Wilhoite. "For us to come and show these kids support and show there are people who care, that's important."

WILHOITE'S GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Played collegiately at Washburn University, a Division II school located in Topeka, KS.

- Began his professional football career with the United Football League's (UFL) Omaha Nighthawks in 2011, where he appeared in four games.

- Following the UFL season, he went back home to work at Finish Line. A motivated Wilhoite earned a spot on the 49ers practice squad after a workout in 2011.

- A mass media major at Washburn, Wilhoite would one day like to be a sports commentator. While in school, he completed an internship at WIBW radio where he did everything from pre- and post-production to occasionally participating on air.

- Wilhoite worked several part times jobs growing up, including Red Lobster. "I loved the job. I got to talk to people and I really wanted to make sure that their experience was really nice. They were spending good money, so I wanted to take care of them."

- He was the recipient of the 2012 Thomas Herrion Award. The award is presented annually to a rookie or first-year player who has taken advantage of every opportunity, turned it into a positive and made their dream come true like Thomas Herrion and is voted on by the coaches. After signing with the 49ers as an undrafted free agent from Washburn, Wilhoite made the 49ers practice squad and became a special teams captain after he was promoted to the team's active roster in December.

AWARDS & HONORS

2015: Perry/Yonamine Unity Award

GOLDMINE

- Williams learned that one of the most important things you have to learn when entering the NFL is time management, and attributes much of the early lessons he's learned to the older veteran players. "Just seeing the older players has helped me. You'd think once you've been in the league for a few years, guys start to relax, but that's not the case here."

- Having relationships with people who have played in the league was extremely valuable to Williams. Former 49er Bryant Young coached Ian during his junior year at Notre Dame. "Just to have him as a reference and to be able to talk to him about stuff is huge, especially since he was out here for so long. He's like a legend and is going to be a Hall-of-Famer. It's great to have somebody like that who you're able to talk to and just run things by him."

- Teamed up with WWE Superstars leading up to WrestleMania 31 at Levi's® Stadium for the Make-A-Wish WrestleMania pizza party. Each kid in attendance was inducted into the WWE's Circle of Champions. The 49ers and WWE partnered to provide 26 tickets for kids at the event.

- Williams attended the 15th annual 49ers Foundation Winter Fest in March of 2015. The San Francisco 49ers organization spent a weekend in late March surrounded by the beautiful mountain vistas of Olympic Valley, CA, where they joined Olympians and other celebrities to raise over $1.7 million for the San Francisco 49ers Foundation at the 15th annual Winter Fest. The weekend-long event celebrated football, family, philanthropy, and food and wine, while supporting youth in the Bay Area through the 49ers Foundation and their outreach programming. The highlighted beneficiary for 2015 was the 49ers STEM Leadership Institute.

WILLIAMS' GOLDEN NUGGETS

- Named the 49ers Perry/Yonamine Unity Award winner for the 2015 season. The award, as voted upon by the players, is presented to the 49ers player who exhibits an exceptional commitment to promoting unity within the team and in their community.

- Was coached by former 49ers DE Bryant Young during his playing days at Notre Dame.

Under the guidance of new head coach Chip Kelly, the 49ers defeated the Los Angeles Rams 28–0 on ESPN's Monday Night Football at Levi's Stadium. It marked the first shutout in franchise history on opening day and the 28–point win is the largest margin of victory by the 49ers since 10/27/13 (32 points; 42–10 at Jax.). The 49ers have now won six consecutive season openers and won eight consecutive games Monday Night Football, both setting the longest streaks in franchise history. The 49ers defense held the Rams to 10 total first downs and 185 total yds. (65 rushing, 120 passing), the second fewest yds. allowed among all NFL teams in Week 1 of the 2016 season. The 49ers offense scored on a TD on all 4 trips to the red zone and registered 28 first downs, the most by the team since 10/7/12 (29 vs. Buf.). RB Carlos Hyde paced the offense, recording 23 carries for 88 yds. and 2 TDs, his second career multi–TD effort and the 49ers offensive line did not allow a sack on 35 atts. by QB Blaine Gabbert. The 49ers got on the board late in the first quarter, as Hyde finished off a 10–play, 52–yd. drive with an 11–yd. TD run to make the score 7–0. After LB NaVorro Bowman intercepted QB Case Keenum early in the second quarter as the Rams were entering San Francisco territory, RB Shaun Draughn extended the 49ers lead to 14–0 with a 3–yd. TD run, capping off 9–play, 59–yd. drive. Early in the fourth quarter, Gabbert executed a 10–play, 77–yd. drive and found TE Vance McDonald for an 8–yd. TD pass to put the 49ers up 21–0. After the 49ers defense forced a three–and–out, Hyde finished off an 11–play, 80–yd. drive with a 1–yd. TD run, to close out the scoring at 28–0 in favor of the 49ers.

49ers rookies get social media lesson at Facebook

By Matt Barrows
Sacramento Bee
June 20, 2016

Every NFL team speaks to its rookies about the reach they have on social media.

The 49ers' rookie class got to see just how global that reach is during a recent trip to Facebook headquarters, which features a wall-sized, touch-screen map that shows where connections from the United States are heading – just about everywhere.

Facebook said it averaged 1.09 billion daily users in March this year, or nearly one of every seven people on the planet.

"It just shows you – one little thing you say on social media, positive or negative, can reach so many people throughout the U.S., throughout the whole world," said defensive lineman Ronald Blair, a fifth-round draft pick. "It's an amazing platform. It's good and bad what social media can do for you. It just depends on what you put into it."

Social media platforms like Facebook, Instagram and Twitter are a great ways to interact with fans, attract potential sponsors and – in pro sports parlance – build your brand. But it's also can get an athlete in trouble.

Said 49ers vice president of communications Bob Lange: "I like to tell the players, 'Every time you pick up your phone and engage on anything that goes out from your phone, you might as well be standing in front of your locker saying it in front of cameras, microphones and recorders.' "

The players also received advice on how to secure their accounts to prevent being hacked.

Earlier this month, the NFL's Twitter account announced commissioner Roger Goodell had died. The league scrambled to take the false report down – but not before thousands had seen it – and to strengthen the password associated with it.

A more prominent example happened just before the draft when someone used Mississippi tackle Laremy Tunsil's Twitter account to post a video of him apparently smoking marijuana via a gas-mask bong. Another post to his Instagram account showed a text conversation between Tunsil and a Mississippi assistant coach in which it appears Tunsil asks for money, a violation of NCAA rules.

The posts caused Tunsil, who a day earlier was considered the top offensive tackle, to drop to No. 13, costing him as much as $10 million. Tunsil was a linemate at Mississippi with of one of the 49ers' fifth-round draft picks, Fahn Coper, who was part of the trip to Facebook.

Tunsil might have avoided the embarrassment by using a secondary security option on his accounts. Facebook staffers helped the 49ers players take those additional steps on their accounts during their visit.

Blair said the ultimate protection is with the players.

"Just make sure your account is secure and keep off the stuff that you don't want your mom seeing," he advised.

Chip Kelly

Fit 49ers: Chip Kelly pleased with conditioning in spring practices

By Matt Barrows
Sacramento Bee
June 14, 2016

When the 49ers assembled for their first minicamp under Chip Kelly in April, there was plenty of huffing and puffing and hands on hips. On Thursday, the last day of their final minicamp, the 49ers were fast and efficient.

During team drills, the closest spring practices get to real action, the offense snapped the ball every 16 seconds.

"I think they're really good," Kelly said of the 49ers' fitness. "I mentioned it the other day -- their first exposure was that second or third week (of) April and that first minicamp. They're light years ahead of where we were in the first minicamp."

Kelly's emphasis on conditioning -- from the individualized shakes players get after practice to the GPS devices that track their every step -- received plenty of attention when Kelly coached the Philadelphia Eagles.

In Santa Clara it's not as big a deal.

For one, the 49ers strength and conditioning staff already has been doing most of the innovative things that got so much scrutiny in Philadelphia. There were 90 shakes waiting for players when they stepped off the practice field five years ago during Jim Harbaugh's offseason practices.

An exception is the daily urine testing that measured players' hydration levels and which some in Philadelphia found too intrusive. The 49ers aren't being asked to take a cup into the bathroom; Instead their daily fitness is monitored in other ways.

Kelly is not driving the team's fitness program. Instead that role belongs to Mark Uyeyama, whose title, director of human performance, speaks to the team's high-tech approach to conditioning.

"I think what he's doing and what we do out in the training sessions," Kelly said. "I think they have really complemented each other."

That the 49ers players mostly aced their spring conditioning test probably has more to do with the human factor than technology.

Kelly has a very young team, but with key veterans spread throughout. Linebacker NaVorro Bowman, tackle Joe Staley, safety Antoine Bethea and receiver Torrey Smith not only took to the pace of practice but also the new offensive and defensive systems, both of which are far different than what the 49ers have run in the past.

"It's just all about embracing it, not complaining or thinking negative about it," Bowman said. "Just embrace it. Ninety other guys are out there doing it. Just accept it and have that competitive nature … and let the coaches see that you don't care what he's going to throw at you, you're going to embrace it and try to do your best."

Kelly noted that the old timers also are among the most fit players on the squad.

"Those guys are kind of setting the tone for the younger guys on how it's supposed to happen," he said. " … Some of the best players I've been around have been the older veteran players because they actually take care of their bodies better than the younger guys do and that's why they've lasted so long. I think it's a credit to them. Joe Staley's played in this league for such a long time because Joe's always in shape."

Jim O'Neil

Jim O'Neil Brings Energy to 49ers, Wants His Defense to Be 'Relentless'

By Joe Fann
49ers.com
March 3, 2016

Jim O'Neil is a "football guy."

The San Francisco 49ers defensive coordinator's passion and energy for the game was more than evident in his recent sit-down conversation with 49ers Studios.

"I've been told I bring a lot of energy, a lot of intensity," O'Neil said. "It's easy for me though because I love what I do. I enjoy the hell out of coaching football. Every day I wake up, and I'm excited to go to work."

The old "practice what you preach" adage is a modern-day cliché, but it serves O'Neil well in what he tries to accomplish as a coach.

"It's hard to ask your players to be high-energy and be all-in and be present in meetings and work to get better everyday if you're not trying to do the same yourself," O'Neil said. "It's not fake for me, it's just who I am as a person."

O'Neil, who most recently spent the last two seasons as the defensive coordinator of the Cleveland Browns, has been coaching in the NFL since 2009. He coached defensive backs for the New York Jets from 2009-12 and linebackers for the Buffalo Bills in 2013.

The coach also played collegiately at Towson University.

O'Neil has taken bits and pieces from his experiences to help him connect with and earn the respect of his players.

"I think it's helped me see the big picture defensively," he explained. "I played defensive line. I've coached in the secondary. I've coached linebackers. When I'm building scheme, I can build it from each position group's perspective. I think it's helped me relate to the players."

The Philadelphia native has a proven track record, both in establishing a quality defense and grooming players to find individual success. In 2014, the Browns defense ranked in the top-10 in scoring under O'Neil's direction despite playing with the league's 27th-ranked offense.

Darrelle Revis, LaRon Landry, Antonio Cromartie, Donte Whitner and Joe Haden are among the players to make at least one Pro Bowl while playing for O'Neil.

"He's obviously from the Rex Ryan tree, and I really think if you look at the statistics from his first year in Cleveland that they did an outstanding job," Chip Kelly said of O'Neil at last week's NFL Scouting Combine. "They had the lowest opposing passer rating and were ninth in scoring defense. They were one of the top teams in takeaways.

"Then you go to last year – this is why you have to look at the whole story – they had a ton of injuries. Joe Haden missed nine games. They lost four or five key guys. But the job they did in Cleveland without a great offense was outstanding."

That's why when O'Neil and the Browns parted ways in January, it didn't take long for Kelly to inquire about the coach's interest in San Francisco's opening at defensive coordinator. The call came randomly on a Saturday afternoon and lasted 20-30 minutes.

By that Sunday, Kelly informed O'Neil that he wanted to formally interview him for the job.

"I was fired up about it," O'Neil recalled. "Coach was always somebody from afar that I had a lot of respect for, obviously his success at the college level and the NFL level. When I got out here and got around him, us talking, we are just two football guys that only care about two things: coaching ball and winning football games."

O'Neil won't get to interact with his new players in a football capacity until the team begins its offseason program on April 4. The coach did say, however, what trait he hopes the unit will embrace in 2016 and beyond.

"Be relentless," he said. "Be relentless and have fun."

Derius Swinton II

49ers Coordinator Derius Swinton II Details How He Motivates Players on Special Teams

By Joe Fann
49ers.com
March 4, 2016

Derius Swinton II attributes his special teams career path to Tom McMahon.

After spending two seasons as a graduate assistant at the University of Tennessee, Swinton was hired by the St. Louis Rams as a quality control coach. McMahon, who was the Rams special teams coordinator at the time, handpicked Swinton to take under his wing.

"He said, 'I want you,'" Swinton recalled. "He hired me right away, and I dove in. I had no clue what I was getting myself into. Once I was in it, I fell in love with it. It's an aspect of the game that doesn't get a lot of glitz and glamour, but you're a vital part of the game when you do it the right way."

Swinton hasn't veered from special teams since. The former two-sport athlete at Hampton University stayed with the Rams from 2009-11. Swinton then spent the 2012 season with the Kansas City Chiefs in the same role.

The Denver Broncos hired and promoted Swinton in 2013 to special teams assistant. After two seasons in the "Mile High City," Swinton transitioned to the Chicago Bears in 2015 with head coach John Fox.

Swinton said his three years spent with Fox will leave a lasting impact on his coaching style.

"When I think about 'Foxy,' the one thing I remember is that he would always say, 'I'm not going to treat you all the same, but I'm going to treat you fair,'" Swinton remembered. "That's the one thing I take from him, because you can't treat them all the same.

"They're all different: some have this skill set or that skill set. But I'm going to treat them all fair at the end of the day. That's the one thing I think I took away from him."

Every special teams coordinator around the league has different ways of motivating players and attracting them to the third – and much less publicized – phase of the game. In addition to special teams often times serving as the tiebreaker when deciding determining roster spots, Swinton has his own motivators.

"The thing I tell every player is, 'There are only 22 guys that start the game that we can call 'starters,' and they play special teams,'" Swinton said. "I'm yet to see a game that doesn't start with a kickoff or a kickoff return. That's my selling point to a lot of guys."

Swinton also noted that some of the NFL's best players got their start on special teams.

"I had (Rams defensive lineman) Robert Quinn rushing punts when Tom and I were in St. Louis. Then you have Emmanuel Sanders, Antonio Brown and Chris Harris, who just won a Super Bowl. I was with Harris, and he started as a gunner. Antonio Brown is the best receiver in the league, but he began his career returning punts."

Now at just 30 years old, the rising star in the coaching ranks has his first crack at being an NFL coordinator.

"When Chip (Kelly) gave me the call I was excited," Swinton said. "It was my first opportunity to interview with him. It was six hours of grinding it out and going through schemes. I think we connected right away.

"It was a fun process to go through, and I was happy when he offered (the job) to me. I think I accepted probably before he even finished his sentence."

Arik Armstead

49ers' Arik Armstead is a big guy with a big heart

By Joe Davidson
Sacramento Bee
June 15, 2016

The man of the hour was the last to arrive.

Then, there he was, at 6-foot-8 and 295 pounds, wading through a sea of people, towering over everyone, a shock of hair adding to the regal look.

"Wow," said a little boy, pointing, eyes bulging, "he's a giant!"

Actually Arik Armstead is a 49er, a defensive lineman from Pleasant Grove High School and Oregon preparing for his second NFL season.

On Tuesday, Armstead was the centerpiece of a free youth-football camp that carried his name at Hal Bartholomew Sports Park in Elk Grove. Armstead gives back to the community during the offseason with the same passion he has for his role as a run-stuffing, quarterback-chasing stopper.

After his rookie season, Armstead visited elementary schools throughout Northern California. He read to children, stressed school involvement and good grades, and he always made sure to take a knee to better look them in the eye.

"I want to be a positive influence on lives, show kids that hard work can get you a long way," Armstead said. "It's an honor to impact lives, and it's my duty. I know a lot of people had an impact on my life, and that's a big reason I am where I am now."

Before Tuesday's camp began, with 180 giddy kids eager to learn football drills, run and play, Armstead knelt next to Cooper Miller, a boy weeks shy of his ninth birthday who longed to meet the 49ers player. They spoke for a moment, the big guy's smile matching the little guy's. Armstead signed Miller's flat-brimmed hat and hugged him.

Miller, participating in the camp through the Make-A-Wish Foundation, left his Reno home at dawn. He endured three years of daily chemotherapy to treat leukemia, days when he was too ill to move. He has been cancer-free for 14 months.

"This is pretty incredible, very special, to see a 49ers player like Arik Armstead do this, to make so many kids happy," Alexis Miller, Cooper's mother, said. "We'll always remember this."

Armstead always has been able to charm a crowd, whether in sports or in church; parents Guss and Christa Armstead insisted their children experience a full life.

"Arik is very genuine," said Guss, a longtime area strength and conditioning coach for athletes from high school to the pros. "He spreads his gratitude and humility by doing things like this. And it wasn't too long ago that Arik was a kid attending a Bobby Jackson or Peja Stojakovic camp. He's not too far removed, so he can relate."

Armstead told the children to "work hard, listen to your parents, be accountable, be responsible, study. If you want to do something, want to achieve, you can do it by doing the right things. And be young, healthy, happy people, and have a good life."

After being drafted by the 49ers with the 17th pick in the first round in 2015, Armstead had a solid rookie season, playing in all 16 games.

In April, the 49ers drafted another defensive lineman from Oregon in the first round, DeForest Buckner, who was Armstead's teammate with the Ducks for three seasons. They also will be reunited with their college coach, Chip Kelly, who replaced Jim Tomsula as 49ers coach after last season.

"I think we'll be much better as a team this season," Armstead said. "I'm excited about it, the opportunity. And DeForest, that's my guy. It'll be super fun playing with him on the line again. I was ecstatic when we drafted him, and it'll be an awesome experience."

Armstead said the 49ers made a good choice in Kelly.

"Chip's a smart guy, and he makes you work hard, knowing that hard work pays off, and you win games that way," Armstead said. "It's very exciting to work with him again."

Armstead said he's in the best shape of his life, and he looked lean and sturdy, with broad shoulders, a narrow waist and big legs. But he said he has much more work to do on his game.

"I need to work on every aspect of it, and I'm constantly trying to improve in every area," he said. "I've been working hard, always have been. I always expect greatness out of myself."

Alex Balducci

49ers' Balducci impresses in early stage of O-line conversion

By Matt Maiocco
CSNBayArea.com
June 14, 2016

SANTA CLARA – Alex Balducci arrived at the University of Oregon in 2012 with fellow highly recruited defensive linemen Arik Armstead and DeForest Buckner.

Now, all three are reunited in the NFL with the coaches who recruited them -- Chip Kelly and defensive line coach Jerry Azzinaro.

While Armstead and Buckner came to the 49ers as the organization's first-round draft picks of the past two seasons, Balducci's route was not as direct or obvious.

After Balducci went undrafted, he chose to sign with the 49ers as a free agent and commence a project that would entail a position switch to become an offensive lineman.

"Alex is kind of built like a prototypical offensive lineman," Kelly said. "I think he's got really good feet and is very athletic, so I think it was a natural maneuver."

Balducci played offensive and defensive line in high school, but he settled in along the defensive line during his four-year career at Oregon. He concluded his college career with 28 consecutive starts as an interior lineman. As a senior, he recorded 40 tackles, including six tackles for loss, and was named All-Pac-12 honorable mention.

Yet, approximately half of the NFL teams in which he came in contact, did not envision a run-stuffing defensive lineman during draft workouts. It all made sense to Balducci when one NFL coach pulled him aside and explained the thought process, he said.

"Now that college football is going to spread offenses, it's vastly different than what NFL teams want from their offensive linemen," Balducci said. "So in a sense, they have to re-teach the college offensive linemen how to play offensive line. So sometimes their thought process is to get defensive linemen, who are more athletic and more aggressive, to move over on that side of the ball."

The Seattle Seahawks have implemented the concept more than any team in the league. Last season, the Seahawks' Week 1 starting lineup consisted of two offensive linemen who solely played defensive line in college. One of those players, guard J.R. Sweezy, signed a lucrative free-agent contract with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers this offseason.

"I don't know him as a defensive lineman, but I saw film of him when he worked out at his pro day as an offensive lineman," 49ers offensive line coach Pat Flaherty said. "What I saw was a guy who has very good strength, good leverage and good balance. Now he has to learn how to use his hands and get his feet in the proper position."

Azzinaro, who was his college position coach for one season in Eugene before moving with Kelly to the Philadelphia Eagles, saw the logic in the position switch.

"We saw a high-character guy who really loves football and knows a lot about football," Azzinaro said. "It's just a matter of where you want to place him.

"There are a lot of similarities in both of those jobs. Why not see if we can think outside the box a little bit with a guy like that? We know what he's going to do, as far as the love of the game. We know what he's going to do in the classroom, and the off-the-field issues are non-existent with him. Why not? It's a good investment. The risk-reward was pretty high."

Balducci (6 foot 3 5/8, 315 pounds) lined up at center and right guard during the 49ers' offseason program. And while there were the typical number of shot-gun snaps off the mark, Balducci was pleasantly surprised with the early results of the conversion and his work with Flaherty and assistant offensive line coach Eric Wolford.

"I honestly thought it was going to be a train wreck," Balducci said. "But I've been able to pick things up quicker than I expected."

Said veteran left tackle Joe Staley, "I never would've known that he came from the D-line. I actually didn't know until a week after he was here. (Moving from) defensive line to offensive line is so different, in terms of footwork. Offensive line is such a technical position. He had a lot of that stuff down from Day 1."

Perhaps the most unique aspect of the move is that Balducci immediately began lining up across the ball from Buckner, his college teammate for four years, during practices.

"It's pretty cool," Balducci said. "It's kind of weird. You're playing alongside a guy and now all of a sudden, you're going against him. He's got some pretty good moves."

And Buckner said he is impressed with what he sees from Balducci, too.

"He's been on my side the past four years. Going against him when he's at guard, it's different," Buckner said. "I can't let up because he's my friend. It's still competition. He makes me better and I make him better every day.

"He's looking like a natural at guard. He's working every day at his craft. For the short period of time he's been playing O-line, he's looking good."

Antoine Bethea Hosts Football Camp, Visits White House over Easter Weekend

Thought you had a productive Easter weekend? Get a load of what Antoine Bethea accomplished.

First, the Niners safety helped host a football camp on Saturday in Virginia at Denbigh High School – his alma mater. Nearly 700 local children attended the event, which featured NFL players not only coaching kids through drills but also giving them guidance in life.

"Outside of football there's so much more than you can accomplish and do," Bethea told 13NewsNow.com. "That's what we try to preach. We have a lot of mentors and tutors within the neighborhood who help these young men and women."

Shutdown Academy, created by Bethea's friend and former NFL player Keion Carpenter, organized the free camp and open house. Other players who participated were Tennessee Titans cornerback B.W. Webb and former Arizona Cardinals offensive lineman Elton Brown.

You can watch a full recap of the day in the video at the top of the page.

As if mentoring youth in his hometown wasn't enough, Bethea then traveled north to Washington D.C. on Monday for another event benefiting kids.

The veteran was one of several NFL players invited to the 138th edition of the White House Easter Egg Roll, which is the largest annual public event at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. Among the tens of thousands in attendance were Beyoncé, Jay-Z and Idina Menziel. The event included egg hunts, live storytelling, fitness zones and fun runs.

NaVorro Bowman

49ers LB NaVorro Bowman is Reaping the Benefits of His Perseverance

It's nearing the point where NaVorro Bowman's knee injury is an afterthought.

Gone are the days of rehab. No longer does the San Francisco 49ers linebacker have to stretch for two to three hours before each practice. Bowman told reporters during minicamp that when he's out on the field, the injury never crosses his mind.

"It's totally different. I feel great," Bowman said. "Adding on days on top of days, I feel it sometimes, but it's nowhere near what I went through last year with the constant attention I had to put on it. This year I'm able to wake up and ride.

"The road has continued to get better for me, just like I knew it would. I just had to stay on top of it and be disciplined. I had to work through the things that the doctors told me would come up."

That isn't to discredit what Bowman accomplished last season. After missing all of 2014, the linebacker returned in 2015 and led the NFL with 154 tackles. Bowman's 116 solo tackles, the category he said 'defines a middle linebacker,' were also tops in the league. The statistics earned him Pro Bowl and All-Pro selections for the third and fourth time, respectively.

Even Bowman admitted that his production was remarkable given the circumstances.

"I think it was," he smiled before pausing. "I work very hard, and I know the game. For me to get those accolades, and to know there's so much more that I can do, and some plays that I did leave out there on the field, that's what I'm chasing. I'm chasing to have a better year than I did last year."

Bowman's improved fitness level is being put to good use in Jim O'Neil's defense. The team's defensive coordinator is counting on his star linebacker to help get the unit up to speed.

That is meant quite literally as Chip Kelly's offense provides a daily challenge with its up-tempo nature. Bowman said the defense is embracing the extra conditioning, knowing full well that it will pay dividends in the fall.

"I've never met a defensive guy who didn't want to be on the field," Bowman said. "That's more plays and more tackles. It's going to work out. I think if the offense is doing their job and we're able to play with a lead, it will be better for us."

Now that the offseason program is complete, 49ers players have a month and a half-long break before picking up where they left off in training camp.

"I think we're in a good spot," Bowman said. "I think everyone knows and understands what coach is trying to get accomplished. Now that this break is coming up, we have to keep it in our heads, keep thinking about it and not forget the things that we've learned so far."

Trent Brown

Insults keep 49ers' Trent Brown grounded after standout preseason

By Eric Branch
San Francisco Chronicle
September 10, 2016

Last week, the 49ers' offensive players received a packet that included the game plan for their season opener Monday night against the Rams.

On the first page of his copy, in large writing, right tackle Trent Brown wrote himself a few reminders.

"You're sorry as hell."

"You haven't done s—."

"You suck."

"Get your ass going."

Don't worry: Brown, 23, doesn't suffer from a poor self-concept; he just doesn't want to suffer from a bloated head. The scathing messages come on the heels of a preseason in which the supersize Brown — 6-foot-8 ½, 355 pounds — received outsize praise.

Pro Bowl left tackle Joe Staley, 32, one of the 49ers' best players, said Brown could become one of the best players … in NFL history. Offensive line coach Pat Flaherty, 60, who owns two Super Bowl rings, said Brown has the size and athleticism that "would probably be in line with most guys that have ever played the position."

And Broncos outside linebacker Von Miller, the Super Bowl MVP who is among the league's premier pass-rushers, termed Brown one of the NFL's "better tackles" based on their recent meetings in two joint practices and a preseason game.

The praise from Miller left Brown "speechless," but it's also the type of did-he-really-say-that compliment that's inspired him to write on his playbook. During training camp, as Brown took X-and-Os notes during meetings, he also scrawled his insults.

After all, he's a 2015 seventh-round pick whose NFL career consists of two starts and 189 snaps. He might have all-world ability, but he hasn't done …

"I literally write them on a piece of paper in big bold letters and put it in quotations," Brown said. "Yeah, I tell myself that. Note to self: 'You suck.'"

The notes are necessary for Brown, whose biggest opponent has always been complacency, an enemy that explains why he was the 244th player (and 44th offensive lineman) selected in a 256-man draft. Many athletes are driven to achieve greatness because of a fear of failure. Brown has known, from an early age, that his size and skills made him immune to on-field embarrassment.

After dominating at lower levels, his spotty work ethic caught up with him at Florida, where he started just 11 of 23 games in two seasons. He tumbled down draft boards amid chatter that poor conditioning didn't allow him to play entire games. He's made significant strides in the NFL, but his teammates aren't satisfied.

Staley's compliments have been mixed with challenges. In discussing Brown, he's invoked Hall-of-Famer Jonathan Ogden, one of the best tackles in NFL history.

Staley was recently pressed on that seemingly hyperbolic comparison. Jonathan Ogden (11 Pro Bowls) and Trent Brown (five NFL games)? Really, Joe? Staley didn't backtrack.

"I feel very strongly about his talent," Staley said. "If he doesn't succeed, he has no one to blame but himself. He has all the talent in the world and it's up to him to take that next step. I've told him this and I have no problem saying it to you guys: He has to take that next step as far as how great does he want to be."

Brown possesses the raw materials needed for greatness.

For starters, his size: Brown, who wears size-18 cleats, was the tallest and heaviest player at the 2015 combine and his 36-inch arms gave him the longest wing span (87 3/8 inches).

And, yes, he's always been huge. At birth, he was slightly below averaged-size — at 6 pounds, 13 ounces — only because he arrived three weeks early. He grew up in Albany, Ga., playing basketball and football, and his father, Reginald, always had him compete against kids at least two years older because he dwarfed and dominated his peers.

As a high school freshman, Brown was 6-3, 215, but he didn't receive his first recruiting letter, from Auburn, just because of his dimensions.

Consider: Before he was refrigerator-size, Brown was a running back. That's the flag-football position he played as a 5-year-old, and he went on to play every other offensive spot until his size made offensive line the obvious choice in high school.

His dad, who is 6-7 and 275 pounds, played basketball at the University of Mobile. His older brother, Reggie, who is 6-7, played basketball at Fresno Pacific and has continued his career overseas. And Trent — the biggest of the Browns — also had the agility to play hoops beyond high school.

"He started out as a kid as a running back, he played quarterback, he was a point guard on the basketball team," said Reginald Brown, a major in the Albany Police Department. "He always had great feet. At an early age, I thought he could really be something."

His coaches along the way had the same belief, although they recognized he didn't yet have the grit to match his gifts.

At Westover High, where Brown played his senior season after transferring from private Deerfield-Windsor, head coach Octavia Jones recalls how the new guy immediately made a jaw-dropping impression. In the season opener against rival Dougherty, Brown nearly down-blocked an unsuspecting defensive end into Atlanta.

It was the type of highlight Brown routinely produced — without much effort.

"He was so big and gifted," Jones said. "He was able to rely more on his natural ability rather than the work-ethic part of it."

Brown didn't qualify academically to attend a Division I school, and he spent his next two seasons at Georgia Military College. Again, he dominated — he was a second-team All-American as a sophomore — despite less-than-stellar habits. After his freshman season, he gained about 40 pounds and topped out at 387.

At Florida, Brown spent part of his two seasons rotating with Tyler Moore, who is no longer in the NFL after spending training camp with the Bears last year.

NFL teams had questions about Brown's desire following his college career, and his performance at the combine didn't suggest he was a weight-room junkie: He had 20 reps of 225 pounds, matching the fourth-fewest among the 37 offensive linemen that lifted.

Even the 49ers didn't sound too smitten with Brown when he was still available at the end of the 2015 draft. Brown said he spoke with general manager Trent Baalke and then-offensive line coach Chris Foerster, who asked him if he wanted to be drafted by the 49ers or preferred to be an undrafted free agent who could choose his team.

"They asked me if I wanted them (to) pull my name," Brown said. "It was draft day. I definitely wanted to have my name called."

Sixteen months later, the 49ers are glad they called Brown, who has taken noticeable steps in advance of his first season as a starter.

After he routinely appeared winded during head coach Chip Kelly's fast-paced offseason practices this spring, Brown returned to Albany this summer and went to work in the six weeks before training camp.

Instead of preceding his workouts with a groan, his dad noticed he regularly left the house without complaint by 6 a.m. He ran at the nearby Fossil Sand Dunes, worked out at Westover High and pushed his Yukon Denali XL up and down a deserted road, while his dad steered.

"For some people, it takes a little longer than others," said Reginald, who met his wife, Tiffany, when they were in the Army. "He wasn't mature. He was just a big kid. Once he developed as a young man and realized what he had to do to keep his job and have a long career, he put in the work. He gets it now."

Indeed, Brown was stellar in training camp and flawless in pass protection in the preseason, not allowing a quarterback pressure in 41 snaps.

His performance this summer inspired gushing praise, but Brown insists it won't swell his head or dull his desire. In other words, he won't stray from the recent strategy he's adopted: As people keep talking him up, he'll continue to write his insults down.

"I am," he said, "my own biggest critic."

DeForest Buckner

Accomplishments just keep coming for 49ers' DeForest Buckner

By Mark Eckel
NFL Player Engagement
June 21, 2016

DeForest Buckner was a 2016 NFL first-round Draft pick, a top 10 pick at that, going No. 7 overall to the San Francisco 49ers. It wasn't his greatest accomplishment this year.

Buckner, the 49ers' rookie defensive end and one of the top rookies in his class, graduated from the University of Oregon in just three-and-a-half years and walked with his class earlier this month.

"That was really important for me," Buckner said of getting his degree. "That's why I went to college in the first place, to get an education. I was so close to being finished, I didn't want to leave without it."

He didn't. And he earned it midway through his senior year. So when his football career is over some time down the road, there will be other options for him.

"The NFL isn't for life," Buckner said "It's not a real long career when you compare it to other careers. You never know how long you're going to be able to play, so I wanted to have a back-up plan. Having my degree will make that a lot easier.

"I mean having a degree is just so important for anyone. But no matter how long I play in the NFL, I still wanted to make sure I had that."

Buckner received his diploma when he walked with his Oregon classmates on June 13th. Kent Alterman, a 1981 Oregon grad and the president of the cable channel Comedy Central, gave the commencement speech, but it was no joke.

"From day one, I wanted to graduate and then my advisor put me on track where I could finish early," Buckner said.

"(Walking at graduation) was important, especially for my parents. They watched me put all of this hard work in, so I wanted to do it for them. To see me up on stage and get my degree, it was great for them."

Buckner's parents, his grandmother, his younger brother, and several other family members made the trip from his native Hawaii to Eugene, Oregon for the ceremony.

"That was nice, real nice, to have that support," Buckner said. "Graduation is a time when everyone is moving on, it's as much about the future. A lot of guys aren't sure what they're going to be doing, luckily I do."

Buckner will be vying for a starting spot up front in the 49ers' 3-4 defense. As the No. 7 overall pick in the Draft there will be high expectations, but if he handles it the way he did in the classroom, it shouldn't be a problem.

"I'm adjusting well so far through the rookie camp, the minicamp, the OTAs," he said. "Things will ramp up when the pads come on in training camp. I'm excited to see how everything goes."

Buckner saw some familiar faces when he arrived in Santa Clara to join the 49ers. New head coach Chip Kelly recruited him to Oregon, defensive line coach Jerry Azzinaro was his position coach in college for a year and his former Duck teammate Arik Armstead is on the defensive line.

"Having coach Azz, coach Kelly, and (Armstead) there, it's a comfortable environment for me," Buckner said. "A lot of guys go places and they don't know anyone. I'm fortunate to go to a team where I know people and know the defensive scheme so well, too. It's a lot of the same plays we ran at Oregon just some different terminology.''

Phil Dawson

Secret to 49ers kicker's longevity: Don't train like an old kicker

By Matt Barrows
Sacramento Bee
March 15, 2016

Last year, just for kicks, Phil Dawson decided to see how he'd fare on the bench press. The result: 20 repetitions of 225 pounds and a lot of dropped jaws from the 20-somethings who had gathered around the then-40-year-old kicker.

"Sometimes they put down the kicker," said Brett Johnson, who trains Dawson in Austin, Texas in the offseason and who witnessed his feat of strength. "Phil always wants to be the guy who shows 'em he can mix it up with the big boys."

The younger boys, too. Last month at the NFL's scouting combine, for example, 13 of the 25 running backs who took on the bench fell short of 20 repetitions.

Therein lies the secret to Dawson's NFL longevity: He doesn't work out like a kicker.

When he was in his early 30s, he said, he started to feel stale and feared that he was loosing his edge. At age 35, he went to Johnson, who decided to train him not as a specialist but like one of the NFL hopefuls who trains with him in the months leading up to the draft.

So beginning in early February, Dawson does a lot of squats -- especially single-leg squats -- and other traditional, high-intensity exercises.

"If anything, I went back to how I trained when I was younger," Dawson said. "And had kind of gotten away from it. I've been very pleased with the results."

So have the 49ers.

Dawson missed only three field-goal attempts last year -- two were blocked -- and made all of his tries from 50 yards and beyond. At the end of the season, coaches voted him the team's MVP. On Monday, he signed a one-year deal reportedly worth $3.1 million.

Dawson's just-one-of-the-guys weight-room routine meshes nicely with his outlook on his job. He doesn't want to be treated differently than an inside linebacker or a guard.

"I try not to be that weird kicker over on the side who doesn't really get involved with the rest of the team," he said. "I try to be a guy who's engaged with his teammates, who communicates well with his coaches and goes out and plays hard, even in the role I'm in."

Johnson said Dawson is comfortable training alongside and interacting with athletes half his age. In fact, those young NFL hopefuls always perk up when the kicker speaks. After all, it's not every day you get advice from a player going into his 18th NFL season.

"He's getting to be sort of like the Yoda around here," Johnson said. "Even at 41 years old, he still works harder than most of the 20-year-old athletes I work with. He's just a perfect example, really, of what an athlete in his older age should look like."

Quinton Dial

Quinton Dial has a standard to uphold with San Francisco 49ers

By Mark Inabinett
AL.com
May 23, 2016

San Francisco 49ers defensive end Quinton Dial loves his hometown of Clay, the burgers at Milo's and the bass fishing on Lake Guntersville. But when he's away at work in California, the former Alabama standout would love to see the 49ers uphold the standard of the San Francisco teams of the past.

"Last year, the standard wasn't upheld," Dial said during an appearance on 49ers Radio on the NFL team's web site.

San Francisco reached at least the NFC championship game for three straight seasons in pursuit of its sixth Super Bowl victory before finishing at 8-8 in 2014, Jim Harbaugh's last season as the 49ers' coach. San Francisco posted a 5-11 record in 2015, ending Jim Tomsula's one-year stay as the 49ers' coach and bringing in Chip Kelly, the former Oregon coach who'd been let go after three seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles.

San Francisco used its first-round pick – the seventh choice in the NFL Draft on April 28 – on Oregon defensive end DeForest Buckner.

"Obviously, I'll take him under my wing and show him the ropes and try to give him a few tips here and there to help his game so he can help us in the long run," Dial said of Buckner.

But mainly what Dial wants to get across to Buckner and all the new 49ers is they have an obligation to "uphold this standard."

Pro prognosticators don't think the 49ers will be able to do that in the 2016 season. Vegasinsider.com has San Francisco at 80-1 to win this season's Super Bowl. The only teams with longer odds are in the AFC – the Jacksonville Jaguars, San Diego Chargers and Cleveland Browns. That has San Francisco being pegged as the worst team in the NFC, with 50-1 odds to win the conference championship.

"Everybody is counting us out now," Dial said. "And that's fine. I like to be the underdog. But at the end of the day, I just tell them the standard is what it is, and you've got to uphold it."

Dial's standards were set high before he got to the 49ers, too. In his two seasons with Alabama, the Crimson Tide won the BCS national championship each year.

"It was a great experience for me," Dial said of playing at Alabama. "It's one you really can't explain, like you just have to experience it because it's just so crazy, the atmosphere is so crazy on game day. You've got people who are best friends but are Alabama and Auburn fans that won't even talk until after the game or even if their team loses, they won't say nothing to each other for weeks at a time, which is crazy."

Dialed joined the 49ers as a fifth-round draft pick in 2013 after playing on Alabama's 2011 and 2012 BCS national-championship teams. After the Crimson Tide closed the 2012 season by thumping Notre Dame 42-14 in the title game, Dial had surgery for a torn ligament in a big toe, and he didn't start practicing with San Francisco until October.

Dial got into three games as a rookie. In 2014, he came on to start six of the 49ers' final seven games at nose tackle. In 2015, Dial became a full-time starter at defensive end, even though San Francisco used its first-round pick that year on an Oregon defensive lineman, Arik Armistead.

_____   _____

Now Dial faces the task of proving himself to a new coaching staff after San Francisco added another first-round defensive lineman last month.

"Just trying to get in and get acclimated to this playbook and the coaches," Dial said. "Just trying to show them that I want to be that guy they can count on in all situations."

Last week's NFL Draft in Chicago added to the league 16 players with Alabama football roots (that is, they played at a state high school or college). It also brought in 237 other players, creating new depth charts and layers of competition throughout the NFL. Here are 10 NFL veterans from the state whose pro situations were particularly affected by what went on in the seven rounds of the draft.

The 49ers started OTAs last week and have three more workouts this week. Dial is working under a new contract signed in February. The deal included a $3.2 million signing bonus and extended his pact with San Francisco through the 2019 season.

"I'm definitely blessed to have this opportunity to sign this extension," Dial said. "Just happy to be a part of this organization. It's a great feeling. Words can't describe how I feel about the opportunity that I have.

"But the grind won't stop just because I signed this extension. I still got that chip on my shoulder. I remember when I got drafted, a few people tweeted at me, 'This guy's going to be a bust' and things of that nature. I take that and I add fuel to the fire because them guys don't know what I had to go through to get to where I am today."

Dial earned the 2008 ASWA Class 6A Lineman of the Year Award playing for Clay-Chalkville High School.

NFL Stars Return To Alma Mater For Youth Football Camp In Moncks Corner

By Nikki Gaskins
Berkeley Observer
June 13, 2016

For the third year in a row, Andre Ellington and Bruce Ellington, hosted their popular Ellington Elite Youth Football Camp on Saturday in Moncks Corner.

More than a thousand children ages 6 to 16 took part in the one-day camp at Berkeley High School, making it the largest attendance to date.

Andre and Bruce, both cousins, played football for Berkeley High School before moving on to the National Football League following their college careers.

While they've both gone on to successful careers in the NFL, they clearly haven't forgotten their roots.

"It's an amazing feeling." Andre told Live 5 News. "Just coming out here and seeing all these kids, working the way they are, it's a sight to see and I love it.

Andre is entering his 4th season with the Arizona Cardinals. Bruce, meanwhile, is entering his 3rd season with the San Francisco 49ers.

"We're just lucky and blessed to be able to come out here and support the community and give back," Bruce told sports reporter Kevin Bilodeau.

Their annual event aims to teach Lowcountry youth values and ethics through the game of football.

While the camp focuses on developing athletic skills, Ellington's Elite Camp also teaches kids in attendance about healthy lifestyle options, stress management, and study tips to be the best student athlete possible.

The camp is offered free of charge. If you missed it this year, don't worry!

The two cousins plan to return with their camp next year.

DuJuan Harris

49ers' DuJuan Harris hopes to build on late-season success

By Eric Branch
San Francisco Chronicle
August 9, 2016

Last year, after the Seahawks became the latest NFL team to fire him, DuJuan Harris flew from Seattle to Tampa, Fla., and his post-release mood was brightened by the thought of reuniting with his then-fiancee, Keysha, at the end of his flight.

After his plane touched down, however, his phone rang. The Ravens wanted to sign him to their practice squad. Great news? Well, sort of. Last week, the 49ers' running back admitted to conflicted emotions in mid-December when he had a hello-and-goodbye airport lunch with Keysha before boarding a flight to Baltimore.

"I was happy about it," Harris said, "but, then again, I thought we would just be able to enjoy a few days together and breathe."

Don't misunderstand. Harris, 27, is passionate about his 9-to-5 job, but he's probably more candid than most NFL journeyman about the toll a stream of pink slips can exact.

Last year, Harris spent time with five teams in a three-month span in which he also had sports-hernia surgery in Philadelphia. Meanwhile, Keysha, whom he married in February, and DuJuan Jr., his 6-year-old son from a previous relationship, were both living in the Tampa area.

Since he entered the NFL as an undrafted free agent from Troy University in 2011, Harris' career has included eight teams, 107 carries and a one-week stint as a car salesman in Jacksonville, Fla. The rugged road of rejection explains why he pondered leaving the NFL during last year's odyssey.

"I thought about hanging it up twice because I'm away from my family," Harris said. "It started to get to me a little bit, but God kept me giving me chances. Kept telling me, 'You've still got to play.' I can't let him down. You bless me with a phone call from a team, I can't be like, 'Nah, I don't want it.'"

Harris' last phone call last year made his decision to stick with it worth it.

The 49ers, a going-nowhere team with an injury-ravaged running-backs corps, signed Harris off the Ravens' practice squad for the season's final two games.

Harris responded by flashing serious play-making ability in his brief audition, posting the longest run (47 yards) and reception (31) by a San Francisco running back in 2015. In fact, the 5-foot-7, 206-pounder had three runs of 20-plus yards in 27 carries and two of his nine catches went for 20-plus yards. The rest of the team's running backs? They had two carries of 20-plus yards (278 attempts) and one catch of 20-plus yards (68 receptions) last season.

"We weathered the storm," Harris said of his 2015 season, "and when we got here, there was a little sunshine."

Said Keysha, who was in Florida during her husband's two-game stretch: "Watching DuJuan (in those games) kind of brought tears to my eyes because we have been through so much. When he got that last phone call (from the 49ers), I just had a good feeling about it. And so far, so good. I feel like this might be it. I hope it is."

There is a reason for optimism given the 49ers' running-back depth chart.

After Carlos Hyde, the unquestioned starter, Harris is among a group of five largely unproven running backs. The others in the group: rookie sixth-round pick Kelvin Taylor and three men — Mike Davis, Shaun Draughn and Kendall Gaskins — who have combined to average 3.1 yards on 202 career carries.

Last week, head coach Chip Kelly was asked if Harris evoked any memories of Darren Sproles, a diminutive (5-6) running back he coached with the Eagles. Noting Sproles was an 11-year veteran with two Pro Bowls on his resume, Kelly pumped the brakes on the comparison before suggesting Harris has a chance to stick in Santa Clara.

"I hesitate when you've gotten someone that's as talented as Darren," Kelly said. "… But DuJuan's got a real good shot to give us some valuable depth behind Carlos."

For Harris, that qualifies as gushing praise after hearing so many we're-releasing-you talks from coaches and executives over the years.

He cried when he was released by the Jaguars as a rookie, but he since has held it together at the end of stops with the Steelers, Packers, Vikings, Saints, Seahawks and Ravens.

His highlight came in 2012 when he rushed for 157 yards and averaged 4.6 yards a carry in the final four regular-season games for the Packers. Before Green Bay visited Candlestick Park in the divisional playoffs, then-49ers defensive coordinator Vic Fangio noted the Packers' newest runner had been working at a Chrysler-Jeep-Dodge dealership a few months earlier.

"He must not have liked selling cars because he's running hard," Fangio said. "He doesn't want to go back there. ... They've stumbled onto a good running back."

Four years later, Harris hopes he'll have his best chance to play consistently since his brief breakout with Green Bay.

In the offseason, he trained for his opportunity and he also prepared for the time when his football career is over. He attended a weeklong NFL Players Association internship program in Ann Arbor, Mich., in which he learned about entrepreneurship.

His current focus, though, is to take care of business in football, the sport that keeps pulling him back.

"It's been a tough career, man," Harris said. "I've had some highlights and I've had a lot of lowlights, but I'm still here. God's kept giving me chances, so I've got to keep going."

Dontae Johnson Builds Inspiring Friendship with Injured Bay Area Youth Football Player

There was a time when Dontae Johnson employed a robotic mindset – mechanically executing steps he deemed necessary to reach goals for his NFL career. That stopped about two months ago when the San Francisco 49ers cornerback met Will Randleman.

Johnson, entering his third season after primarily serving as a reserve from 2014-15, doesn't know yet what his role will be on Sundays this fall. But one way or another, he will be playing the game he loves. The same cannot be said for his new friend – a person who has taught the 24-year-old to live in the moment and enjoy the journey in addition to the destination.

"He's changed my outlook on life," Johnson said. "We take a lot of things for granted – just as far as waking up and rolling out of bed.

"He's taught me to value everything and cherish everything. And more so, to respect it. You never know when something is going to get taken away from you."

For Randleman, that something was football. And it was taken away from him in late March. While playing for a Bay Area youth football team, the 14-year-old sustained a neck injury that left him paralyzed from the neck down.

Randleman underwent surgery at San Francisco General Hospital within three hours of his accident. Doctors inserted metal plates to replace his broken vertebrae and rods to fuse the other bones together. Surgeons told Randleman's family that he may never walk or use his arms again.

Following the injury, the president of the youth football league reached out to Johnson's girlfriend, Kayla, whose younger brother played in the same league. Johnson soon made his first visit to the hospital to see Randleman, a lifelong 49ers fan.

Initially, Johnson expected the meeting to be somber. Instead, he was greeted with smiles and laughter.

"He was in such amazing spirits," Johnson said. "As soon as I walked into the room, he lit up and was excited. When I was talking to him, I saw his passion and love for football. He said everything he did was geared for playing football. We connected over that."

Randleman arrived at San Jose's Valley Medical Center in April to begin his rehab. He spent six weeks at the facility before being allowed to return home on May 20. In that time period, Johnson visited Randleman three times – bringing along signed footballs, cleats, socks and anything else to show his support.

Randleman has bad days. How could he not? But for the most part, the teenager has been upbeat and resilient. His father, Randy, credits that attitude to Will's competitive nature.

"You never know how somebody is going to react to an event that changes your life like this," Randy said, "but he has been incredible through this process. He's showed a lot of courage. But more so he's showed a lot of humor, which I think has been important.

"He's also used to pushing himself. I think football teaches you to work hard, and how to get through obstacles. He's taken that attitude and applied it to his recovery."

Eric Rogers

49ers' WR Eric Rogers making good first impression

By Matt Barrows

SANTA CLARA -- Watch Eric Rogers' highlights on YouTube and a theme emerges: High passes seem destined to sail out of bounds until Rogers leaps, stretches and snags the ball out of the air.

The 49ers' new wide receiver had a few of the same during Tuesday's practice, including a pass along the sideline from quarterback Thaddeus Lewis that Rogers snatched from cornerback Kenneth Acker.

"When the ball's in the air, it's mine," he said afterward. "I don't like negative plays."

At 6-foot-3, Rogers is the team's tallest receiver, and he has long arms and leaping ability – he excelled at the triple jump in high school – to accentuate his height. Playing for the Calgary Stampeders last year, he led the Canadian Football League with 1,448 receiving yards and, as a result, was wooed by 16 NFL teams.

The 49ers, who gave Rogers a $125,000 signing bonus, were his strongest suitor and signed him in January. He made an immediate impression.

"He's huge," fellow receiver Torrey Smith said last month. "He's a very long athlete. His arms touch the floor. He's tall. He stands by us and he's bigger than everyone by a mile."

In another way, however, the 25-year-old Rogers is representative of a 49ers receiving corps that is certain to see plenty of action in coach Chip Kelly's high-intensity offense but that, aside from Smith, has no proven or prolific pass catchers.

The most favorable word to describe the group: intriguing. DeAndre Smelter has excellent size and power, but he's an ex-baseball player who has relatively little football background. Smelter, a fourth-round pick last year, spent his rookie season recovering from an ACL injury and is healthy this offseason.

Bruce Ellington is quick and explosive but has been slowed by hamstring strains and ankle sprains in his career. Quinton Patton, meanwhile, has had nearly as many silly penalties as big plays in his three seasons with the team.

Then there's Rogers, who has starred in two professional football leagues but is looking forward to his first catch in an NFL game.

His route to the 49ers began at Division III California Lutheran in Thousand Oaks, where he became the school's all-time leader in scoring and receiving but attracted only scant interest from the NFL.

Instead, he made a name for himself in 2013 with the Portland Thunder of the Arena League. On his most memorable catch – which can be found on YouTube – he not only leaps over a defender in the end zone but the wall of the end zone. He had 73 receptions for 903 yards and 27 touchdowns that season, which led to a two-year stint in Calgary.

He helped the Stampeders to a Grey Cup title in 2014. Last season, he ran past and leaped over the competition and was named to the CFL All-Star team.

In Kelly's three seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles, the team had two pass catchers each season with at least 800 receiving yards. The 49ers' top receiver last season, Anquan Boldin, had 789 yards. Boldin is a free agent who has had minimal contact with the 49ers since March and prefers to join a playoff contender.

Which is to say: If Kelly's offense is to take off this year, it likely will require the emergence of at least one previously unheralded receiver.

Rogers excelled in the open spaces and expanded end zones of the CFL and has a chance to shine during noncontact drills this spring. The question is whether he can duplicate that success when the pads go on in the summer, the defensive backs become more physical and there is less room to roam.

"I think you have to wait until training camp," Kelly said about his receiver prospects. "… It becomes a different game when you get to training camp and the pads come on and then you get to the preseason games and you really get to make an evaluation of what guys are like in contact."

Can a CFL Wideout Spark Chip Kelly's Niners Revolution?

By Robert Klemko

March 23, 2016

After an exodus of 49ers players in the months following Jim Harbaugh's departure in late 2014, many expected this offseason to feature a flurry of activity aimed at improving the San Francisco roster. The first move came Jan. 20 when Eric Rogers, the CFL's leading receiver from a year ago, picked the rebuilding 49ers and new coach Chip Kelly after a nationwide tour of 16 NFL suitors.

Rogers' story—his journey from Division III to arena football to Canada—is a remarkable one on its face. Yet no one imagined his two-year deal would be the biggest headline in the first three months of the Kelly era. But here we are: Colin Kaepernick sits in limbo as the team ponders its future at quarterback, and the former Eagles coach who dealt away LeSean McCoy and canned DeSean Jackson is preaching patience in roster-building.

"I just think you've got to look at who fits and who's the right fit for your organization," Kelly told reporters last week, after the Niners executed their biggest move in free agency: the signing of middle-of-the-road guard Zane Beadles. "Our guys do a great job of targeting what we want the San Francisco 49ers to be."

It's this conservative and very specific approach to free agency by the Niners, with a surplus of $60 million to spend, that makes the Rogers signing so unique. Just two hours after news broke of Kelly's hiring in San Francisco on Jan. 14, a 603 area code hit Rogers' phone.

"Chip gave me a call on the way to the airport," Rogers remembers. "He said I was the first person he called."

To Kelly, and awestruck coaches on the nearly two dozen teams which expressed interest this offseason, Rogers represents the latest of late bloomers, and a story of resilience not often seen even at the sport's highest level. He was a zero-star recruit who was meant to go into permanent hibernation at Division III California Lutheran University, but instead emerged as the most NFL-ready Canadian football leaguer since Cameron Wake. (Rogers' $125,000 Niners signing bonus and $100,000 base-salary guarantee also make him the most expensive Canadian import since Wake.)

"He loves the game," says 49ers G.M. Trent Baalke. "That really stood out to us. I think he really enjoys playing it. He's competitive, passionate, he works hard at it, and he's a fun guy to be around."

Before Rogers picked an NFL team, Cal Lutheran head coach Ben McEnroe fielded numerous calls from incredulous coaches and executives digging for the truth. Surely, they thought, Rogers must have some deep, dark secret that kept him off the radar of bigger programs. Six-foot-three 25-year-olds who can jump out of the gym and run clean routes don't just appear out of thin air.

"They've asked me, how did you get this guy?" says McEnroe, "In our program, we can't look at kids and say what can he contribute immediately. We have to look at what kind of player he can grow into. He wasn't even the best player on his high school team, but you can't coach 6-3."

The height is what helped get Rogers recruited to Division II Chadron State, the Nebraska school that produced Chargers running back Danny Woodhead in 2008. Chadron was the only scholarship option after Rogers finished his only high school varsity season with 22 catches. He accepted a scholarship in 2009 without ever visiting Chadron State, then quickly came to regret his decision. Cal Lutheran, a suburban campus in Thousand Oaks located a dozen miles from Malibu's horse trails, had a coaching connection with his high school—recruiting coordinator Anthony Lugo is the son of Rogers' head coach at the first of two Los Angeles-area high schools the Glendora, Calif., native attended. The NFL wasn't on

Rogers' radar; he wanted to be a police officer, and he wanted to stay close to home. "I wasn't really planning on playing football after college," he says.

So Chadron State released Rogers from his commitment, and he enrolled at Cal Lutheran. Rogers weighed about 175 pounds and was limited as a route-runner, but the high school long-jumper was magic with the ball in the air, and in his hands.

"At one point he's the best player in Division III football," Rogers' coach recalls, "and he's asking me which cleaner to use to get heavy grass stains out."

Division III meant Rogers needed money for school. His mother, Carrie Barron, raised three children on a home nurse's salary. Rogers never had a close relationship with his father, who is currently incarcerated. A family friend helped out with his freshman tuition: "As long as you're doing your job," she would tell him, "God will take you the rest of the way." At Cal Lutheran, Rogers took out numerous student loans, applied for financial aid and worked in the cafeteria, swiping meal cards. He also played intramural basketball.

"One day during his freshman year, half the campus came to my office to tell me about this dunk in an intramural game," McEnroe says. "It was legendary by lunchtime."

Well aware of that athletic potential, McEnroe grew frustrated with his offensive coaches' inability to get Rogers more touches. "I kept telling the offensive coordinator, Dumb it down and find a way to get this guy the football. In the middle of the season we were in a meeting and I threw a bunch of stuff off the table and said, Find a way."

They found a way. That first year, in 2009, Rogers caught 25 balls for 398 yards. The next season he caught 62 for 817. As a junior: 42 for 948. And then finally, as a senior in 2012, Rogers caught 91 passes for 1,298 yards and 18 touchdowns, earning D-III All-America honors. He says the thought of transferring to a scholarship program never occurred to him after any of his first three seasons because Lutheran had been a perfect fit. "I transferred in high school so I never really felt like I had a home before I got to college," Rogers says.

Plus, he was wildly popular on campus as the guy who worked the cafeteria line and caught touchdowns in his spare time. By his senior season, Rogers was going for 100 yards and a score or two on Saturdays and cleaning the game uniforms in the industrial washers in the football building on Sunday mornings for $40 a week.

"You parted the colors and whites the night before," Rogers says. "So it would take between three and four hours on Sunday and Monday."

Says McEnroe: "At one point he's the best player in Division III football, and he's asking me which cleaner to use to get heavy grass stains out."

Still a relatively unknown commodity among NFL teams, Rogers didn't hear his phone ring until the seventh round of the 2013 draft, when the Cowboys were corralling undrafted free agents.

Eric Rogers was in Cowboys camp in 2013 as an undrafted free agent but was cut before the season started.

He went to Oxnard, Calif., where the Cowboys hold training camp, but scratched for reps at the bottom of the depth chart. Three days before the final preseason game, he went up for a ball in a one-on-one drill with fourth-round rookie cornerback B.W. Webb and landed awkwardly on his hip, suffering a pointer. The Cowboys medical staff gave him a numbing shot after practice. Rogers said coaches told him they hadn't seen enough, so he ought to play through it. (The Cowboys declined to comment on Rogers' assertion.) He did, taking pain medication just to get through practice. It wasn't enough. After he was released, the Packers brought him in for a tryout. He never heard back. So he went back to SoCal and figured it was over. While his agents, Cameron Weiss and Joe Barkett, fished around for opportunities, he took a job packing UPS trucks in Commerce, Calif.

"That was the lowpoint," he says. "Seven a.m. every day. I didn't mind the work; I just knew I could play somewhere."

A fire was lit. He signed with the AFL's Portland Thunder in 2014, embracing the narrow field and padded walls. There was one spectacular catch, in May against the Arizona Rattlers, that Rogers believed changed his life. He cut to the left corner of the end zone in a game the Thunder would lose by a wide margin and climbed the wall for a too-high pass, vaulting over the camera guy and sending numerous beers into orbit. SportsCenter noticed. Said the late Stuart Scott: "How about Eric? Over the camera guy… the Russian judge gave him a 9.9 on the dismount."

Six weeks later the Calgary Stampeders and then-assistant general manager John Murphy came calling. Rogers found himself at the bottom of another depth chart, but this time he was ready. He stayed after practice with backup quarterbacks, adjusting to the far-wider CFL fields and a bigger playbook. Then, during the third week of practice, Rogers got a life-changing call. His ex-girlfriend was having his daughter back in California. She and Rogers were on good terms, and he wanted to be there for the birth, but he decided he couldn't risk it.

"He didn't tell us about that for months," Murphy says. "We would've let him go see the birth, of course. Later on, he told us he was just scared to death to lose the opportunity."

Says Rogers: "If I had to do it over I would've waited a few weeks before going up to Canada." Instead, he played special teams for three months, fought for offensive practice reps and kept his mouth shut.

"He's probably sitting there wondering why he left the arena league. Normally I'm getting calls from the agents or I've got the player asking when is he going to play," Murphy says. "Not with these guys. He just kept working."

That particular anecdote must have been music to the ears of someone like Chip Kelly, whose bid to build a team-first culture in Philadelphia was derailed by in-fighting, with management taking parting shots at his communication skills.

In November 2014, while Kelly was still in good graces with a playoff-bound Eagles team, the Stampeders entered the Western Division Final with two key injuries among receivers. Rogers sprung to action and delivered three catches for 60 yards and two scores.

"You could see the work he was putting in behind the scenes come alive," Murphy says. "Time after time the stage wasn't too big for him. We had to make some difficult choices that offseason."

The Stampeders parted ways with a popular veteran receiver and put Rogers in the starting lineup in 2015, with spectacular results: 87 catches for 1,448 yards and 10 touchdowns in 17 games. Along the way he built the same kind of cult following he'd attracted at Cal Lutheran as the All-America cafeteria guy. TSN ran a feature playing off his name and agreeable nature—Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood— complete with button-up sweater.

A total of 23 NFL teams came calling. First he heard from San Francisco (pre-Chip Kelly), Indianapolis, Philadelphia and Miami. Then everybody. Two years after being shuffled out the door in Dallas, Rogers was the most athletic, prolific and sought-after guy in the CFL. How had the Cowboys screwed this up?

"We're seeing it more and more," Murphy says. "This new NFL [collective bargaining agreement] cut down the time the teams have with players, and it hurts their evaluation and allows us to get our hands on better players."

Early in the 2015 season, San Francisco assistant director of pro personnel Quentus Cumby brought Rogers to the attention of Baalke, who immediately put his hat in the ring. "This is a very rare case," Baalke says. "Its not unheard of that small-school players make it in the NFL. But this is a young man who comes out of college not highly coveted, then works his way into the arena league, then up to the CFL, then the NFL. You can't find stories like that."

Kelly, coveter of big receivers, was prepping for a Week 15 game pitting the 6-7 Eagles against the playoff-bound Cardinals when Rogers came to visit. Rogers had a two-hour meeting with Eagles staff that Friday. Kelly was there for the last 30 minutes; most of the head coaches in other cities didn't offer nearly that much face time.

"I wrote that down in my notes," Rogers says. "I was very appreciative of that."

Kelly was canned 13 days later. After the Black Monday firings shook out, Rogers narrowed his choices to the Vikings, Jets and 49ers. He chose San Francisco, located in his home state, an organization that liked him earlier than most, and a coach who had shown, by far, the most interest. With his $125,000 signing bonus, Rogers back-burnered his student loans (he estimates them to be $35,000) and bought his mom a black SUV.

When he takes his first NFL snap he will have caught, since his high school graduation, 389 passes for 5,961 yards on three different teams in two countries. He harbors no resentment for the Cowboys, Packers or even the Calgary coaches who failed to unleash him on the CFL for months in the fall of 2014. He joins a team badly in need of wide receivers. More importantly, he joins a team reeling from defections and in desperate need of an identity.

"There were always deficiencies in my game, and there still are," Rogers says. "There are always ways to get better. But a lot of success depends on opportunity. I feel like I'm really getting an honest shot here."

Shayne Skov Hosts Football Camp in Mexico with Corey Lemonier

Earlier this year, the NFL announced that it would return to Mexico in 2016 for the first regular season game played south of the border in more than a decade.

But before the Oakland Raiders and Houston Texans square off at Azteca Stadium next fall, a couple San Francisco 49ers traveled to Mexico to promote the game on a grassroots level.

Shayne Skov, a San Francisco native who grew up in Guadalajara and speaks fluent Spanish, recruited fellow 49ers linebacker Corey Lemonier to help host a football camp for kids in Mexico City last weekend.

Skov first learned how to play football in Mexico and returns every year to give back to the community.

"It is difficult to get to the NFL, but we have seen in recent years several Latin players who have had a chance," Skov told a local newspaper. "I believe that with the growth of the sport, we will see more."

The 49ers were involved in the last NFL regular season game in Mexico, a 2005 matchup with the Arizona Cardinals.

Torrey Smith reflects on Ali, not afraid to speak his mind

By Matt Maiocco

Nearly four years ago, Torrey Smith met Muhammad Ali.

It was September 2012, and Ali visited the practice facility of the Baltimore Ravens when he was in the area for a fund-raiser. Smith, a second-year NFL player, was thrilled to be in the presence of Ali, the three-time heavyweight champion and a champion of human rights.

"It was awesome," Smith said. "All of us were starstruck. You see Ray Lewis starstruck. Guys were like, 'Man, this is Ali.' He's a greater man, and he means more to all of us out of the ring than in it, and that says a lot about him."

Ali passed away Friday in Phoenix, Arizona. He was 74. Smith posted a photo he took with Ali on social media and wrote the following:

Still can't believe I had the opportunity to meet this man...words can't describe how much I admired his confidence and work outside of the ring...it's important to recognize those who paved a way for you...and those who helped change the way folks view you...Muhammad Ali helped make this world a better place...Thank You!!!! RIP

On Tuesday, Smith said 49ers players and coaches have talked about some of Ali's quotes since getting back together for the final week of the team's offseason workout program.

"Everyone is affected by Ali in some way, shape or form, especially an athlete," Smith said. "And myself as a young, African-American male, I can appreciate everything he's done for, not only other African-Americans, but people in the world, in general.

"Since he's passed away, there've been so many new stories I've read and things I never knew about him."

Smith was born in 1989, eight years after Ali retired from boxing and five years after he was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease. Still, the influence has been great.

As he enters his second season with the 49ers, Smith has made it a priority to be a valuable member of society off the field.

In 2014, he was nominated for the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year. Smith created the Tevin Jones Memorial Scholarships Fund to provide scholarships for deserving high school seniors. The fund was named in memory of his brother, who passed away in 2012. And the Torrey Smith Foundation provides resources and opportunities for at-risk youth in Baltimore.

And Smith is not shy about speaking his mind via social media on any topic.

Within the past week, Smith has expressed support for the victim of former Stanford swimmer Brock Turner, who was convicted of sexually assaulting an unconscious woman. He has been critical of the judge who sentenced Turner to six months in jail.

Smith has also questioned people who respect presumptive Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump "as a man or a politician."

"Part of it is being myself," Smith said. "I never want to say anything that'll put the team in jeopardy. As long as I have a disclaimer in my bio that my thoughts and opinions are not those of the 49ers, I'll talk about whatever.

"There will be times when I talk about something on Twitter, and I'll come in here and have a discussion with Jed (York) about it. Just open dialogue, 'What do you think about this?' Things that are going on in society or things that are going on here. It's pretty cool. It's all communication, as long as I'm not out here doing anything crazy."

Torrey Smith Walks Runway to Help Animal Shelter

When the Niners signed Torrey Smith to a five-year deal last offseason, general manager Trent Baalke pointed to the wideout's outstanding reputation in the community as one of the reasons the club felt comfortable offering a long-term contract.

"There's not one person that has a negative thing to say about Torrey Smith," Baalke said at the time.

A year later and Smith has certainly lived up to his billing. Since this February alone, the wide receiver has hosted a charity basketball game, delivered supplies to fight the Flint water crisis and donated money to flash-fund school programs in east Baltimore.

This past weekend, Smith was at it again. The 27-year-old, along with his wife, son and nephew, participated in Pawject Runway – a fashion show featuring dogs and cats available for doption.

All proceeds from the event went to benefit the Baltimore Animal Rescue and Care Shelter. Check out photos from the show below.

49ers WR Torrey Smith Hosts Annual Charity Basketball Game

Torrey Smith's football career may have brought him to the Bay Area, but that doesn't mean he's forgotten about where he came from. One of Baltimore's favorite sons returned home this past Saturday for his annual charity basketball game.

The San Francisco 49ers wide receiver was joined by some of his peers around the NFL, including a few former teammates with the Baltimore Ravens. One of those in attendance was Smith's old quarterback, Joe Flacco, who didn't play in the game but showed up to support his friend.

"It's important to be here because of Torrey. He's just an awesome guy," Flacco told the Baltimore Sun. "What he did for this community and what he continues to do — he comes back here a ton — I love Torrey to death.

"He'll always be a part of what I consider Baltimore because we had such a great run together."

All proceeds from the game benefitted the Torrey Smith Foundation, which has the mission of providing Baltimore's youth with the tools they need to identify, unleash and reach their full potential.

"One thing I take a lot of pride in, and I said that when I left, I didn't want to be a guy that is committed to the city when you are there, and then when you leave, you forget about it," said Smith, who also played collegiately at the University of Maryland. "Baltimore is home for us now. To have a fun event like this and also raise money for the foundation, which gives back to kids in the city, is a blessing."

Smith's "red team" won the game, and the host of the event even showed off his athleticism with a few highlight-reel dunks.

The receiver did vow to the 49ers Faithful that next year the event would be scheduled at a time when his current teammates could attend. This year's game was scheduled before San Francisco hired Chip Kelly as head coach, moving the start of the team's offseason program to April 4.

The Ravens website put together a video recap of the event. Here are some other highlights from the game via social media.

NFL players Justin Forsett, Torrey Smith help students cope with Flint water crisis

By Eric Woodyard

February 10, 2016

FLINT, MI – Two surprise guests arrived in Miss Jeanette Rousseau's SAT Prep classroom around 11 a.m. at Flint Southwestern Classical Academy.

"Miss J" welcomed NFL players Justin Forsett (Baltimore Ravens) and Torrey Smith (San Francisco 49ers) into Room 30.

The longtime Flint Community Schools English teacher greeted them in her Seattle Seahawks sweatshirt as they motivated and comforted local students in five classrooms dealing with the water crisis.

"It's absolutely wonderful to see all the support from the celebrities taking time out of their life to come out and support a small town," said Rousseau, also respected as NFL running back Thomas Rawls' favorite teacher at Flint Northern.

"Flint is not that big in the grand scale of things, and they're coming and supporting us," she continued.

Newly retired Seahawks running back Marshawn Lynch also was expected to make the trip but had a change of plans at the last minute, according to Forsett.

Southwestern junior Deron Irving-Bey, 16, wasn't afraid to stand up and answer questions about the water crisis from Forsett and Smith in Miss J's class.

"We're living out of a bottle, really," said Irving-Bey, a three-year varsity football player for the Knights.

"I'm glad that people are finally concerned about our problems in Flint," he added. "I'm kind of hurt that things had to get worse for things to get better."

Smith and Forsett also spent time at Flint Northwestern, Loving Hands Adult & Senior Care, and enjoyed lunch at Arby's restaurant – which was broadcasted live on Periscope.

Forsett and Smith were part of nearly two dozen NFL players that donated $100,000 worth of ShowerPill anti-bacterial body wipes and water to Flint residents. The products are being distributed through the United Way of Genesee County for high schools and senior centers.

Forsett also appeared on Tuesday's ESPN Outside the Lines episode that was devoted entirely to the Flint water crisis. As a former Seahawk, and close friend of Lynch, Forsett said he now sees why Rawls and Mark Ingram of the New Orleans Saints both play with such ferociousness on the field being from Flint. Ingram's mother, Shonda, is in charge of distributing the ShowerPill wipes at Northwestern.

"This is a blue-collar city with a strong work ethic," Forsett said. "Just hearing stories about what kind of guy Thomas Rawls is, and how this guy came in hungry, humble and ready to work since Day 1 in camp when the odds were stacked against him.

"Then Mark with all of his success, you can see that this has definitely affected them in a positive way."

Both Smith and Forsett arrived in town early Wednesday. Their Flint visit started from an old Twitter conversation, and they initially didn't want any media tagging along for the scheduled events.

"Everyone and their mom wanted to come, but we just wanted to keep it personal and keep it genuine," Smith said. "It's not about that."

Riding around town in the snowy, 19-degree weather was humbling to Smith. Being so close to people that are really being affected by toxic water was surreal, but he's committed to being a part of the change.

They both said this won't be their last time coming to Flint.

"Just looking around, you don't know which one of these houses or buildings is affected by this," Smith said. "And more so it makes me mad at the people that are running the place.

"It's just very unfortunate with the poor leadership. We just want to let them know that someone cares and it's not for show."

Jaquiski Tartt

Jaquiski Tartt 'showed them' for Samford in his first NFL season

By Mark Inabinett
AL.com
July 14, 2016

Until the San Francisco 49ers selected safety Jaquiski Tartt with the 46th pick in 2015, the earliest a Samford player had been taken in the NFL Draft was with the 162nd choice, where the New Orleans Saints took cornerback Corey White in 2012.

So it's understandable Tartt thought he would have doubters.

"I feel I had a pretty good year as far as a rookie because I exceeded a lot of expectations," Tartt said. "Just from me being from Samford, I just felt like there were some that didn't think I was able to play on the next level. In my head, I think they thought I would mess up once I got out there and not be able to perform. But I feel like I showed them."

Tartt started eight of 15 games before missing the final contest with an injury. He made 64 tackles, including two sacks, and intercepted a pass. Tartt was on the field for 63.2 percent of San Francisco's defensive plays, which ranked fifth among the 49ers' defensive backs.

"I wish I was able to start the first game of the season, but I wasn't able to," Tartt said. "I was in different packages and played as much as I could."

Tartt's showing perhaps helped former Samford teammate James Bradberry's stock in the 2016 NFL Draft. The Carolina Panthers picked the cornerback in the second round with the 62nd overall choice on April 29.

Tartt and Bradberry are former Alabama prep standouts – Bradberry at Pleasant Grove and Tartt at Davidson in Mobile, although he played football only in his senior season with the Warriors.

"He's a good friend of mine," Tartt said of Bradberry. "Once I got adjusted, I told him, 'You're next.' Once my rookie year was over, I told him, 'It's the same. You've just got to apply yourself, and everything will fall in place.'"

Bradberry isn't Tartt's only good friend in the NFL. When he joined the 49ers, Tartt reunited with former Davidson teammate Jimmie Ward. Also a defensive back, Ward was San Francisco's first-round choice in the 2014 NFL Draft.

"That's my dude," Tartt said of Ward. "It's a great feeling to have him out there with me. I'm not down much, but if I mess up on a few plays or are just not being consistent how I want to, I'm like, 'I'm tripping, man. Get me right. Let me know what I'm doing wrong.' And he's right there to help me out."

Tartt reached his single-game high of seven tackles against the Cleveland Browns on Dec. 13. He made his first NFL interception in that game, too, returning the pick 25 yards.

Tartt said the interception was one of the highlights of his rookie campaign, made more memorable because it came off 2012 Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Manziel.

"Being able to get my first interception off Johnny Manziel, a kid I used to watch every Saturday making so many plays," Tartt said. "And I got an interception off him. It was a crazy feeling. And I was able to hit (running back) Marshawn (Lynch) for a tackle for loss in garbage time when we played the Seattle Seahawks at home. So that felt good."

One reason that Tartt got so much playing time as a rookie was safety Antoine Bethea's injury, which limited him to seven games in 2015. Bethea returns for an 11th NFL season and is projected to return to the starting lineup, paired with Eric Reid. Tartt figures to work as San Francisco's third safety, a position getting more and more field time around the NFL.

"I think, right now, he's just young," San Francisco defensive-backs coach Jeff Hafley told the 49ers' official web site about Tartt. "He hasn't played a lot of football at this level, so we're teaching him the game a little bit. He's another guy who has size, skill set and versatility to do a lot of different things. With him, it's just teaching him, pushing him on the field and working on his fundamentals. Hopefully, we'll be able to develop and use him in a lot of ways. ... He's physical enough to go down in the box. He's shown range to play in deep zones, and he's got coverage ability. He's very explosive."

The 49ers report for training camp at the SAP Performance Facility in Santa Clara, California, on July 30.

Tartt said he's "just taking it day by day, trying to get better every day."

Tartt used his break between San Francisco's offseason program and the start of training camp to hold a free Next Level Football Camp for youngsters in Mobile on Saturday.
