C. READING

I. Read the following passage then choose the best option to each question or statement.

Many people still believe that natural resources will never be used up. Actually, the world's energy resources are limited. Nobody knows exactly how much fuel is left. However, we also should use them economically and try to find out alternative sources of power. According to Professor Marvin Burnham of the New England Institute of Technology, we have to start conserving coal, oil and gas before it is too late; and nuclear power is the only alternative. However, many people do not approve of using nuclear power because it is very dangerous. What would happen if there were a serious nuclear accident? Radioactivity causes cancer and may badly affect the future generations. The most effective thing is that we should use natural resources as economically as possible.

31. How much fuel is left?

- A. No one knows exactly. B. It will never be used up.
C. There is a lot of fuel. D. Let's use it as much as we would like.

32. We should use coal, oil, and gas

- A. as much as possible B. carelessly
C. as economically D. all are incorrect

33. According to Professor Marvin Burnham,

- A. nuclear power is the only alternative B. we have to conserve coal, oil, and gas

III. Read then answer the questions.

A rocket uses fuels to make power for the engine. The fuel is set on fire inside the rocket. As the fuel burns, it creates gases that have great pressure. These gases are blasted out of the rocket engines. These gases all go out the bottom of the rocket engine where it is open. They come out so fast and with so much power that the rocket is pushed up. It is pushed up so hard that the rocket overcome the force of gravity, which always tries to keep everything on the ground. The force that pushes up against the front of the rocket is called thrust. Unlike an airplane, a rocket doesn't use wings to help it fly. It just uses the power and force created by the burning fuel to make enough thrust.

46. Where is the fuel set on fire?
47. How do the gases come out to make the rocket be pushed up?
48. What does the force of gravity do?
49. What is thrust?
50. What does an airplane use to help it fly?

London has one of the largest urban transport networks in the world, with integrated bus, river and road systems spanning the city's 32 boroughs. Buses: London's iconic double-decker buses are a quick, convenient and cheap way to travel around the city, with plenty of sightseeing opportunities along the way. Underground: The London Underground rail network or "the Tube" is a great way to travel to and from central London and will be an integral part of most people's stay in the UK capital. Docklands Light Railway: London's innovative, driverless Docklands Light Railway (DLR) serves parts of East and South East

London. River buses: Travelling by river is a great way to get around London. You'll beat the traffic and enjoy fantastic views of London along the way. Local train: Use London's over ground train network to travel across the city and beyond the Tube. Trams: Trams run in parts of south London between Wimbledon, Croydon, Buckingham and New Paddington. The services are frequent and accessible. Accessible public transport: Find your way around the capital with our helpful guide to accessible and wheelchair-friendly travel. Cycle hire scheme: London's public bicycle scheme is a great way to travel around the city - and the first half hour is free! Grab yourself a bike and get riding today. Taxi: From iconic London black cabs to local minicabs, we've got all the traveler information you need to help you travel around London by taxi. 56. How to Use Less Paper
57. Save Fuel
58. How to Use Less Electricity at Home
59. Conserve Water at Home
60. How to Cut Food Waste at Home

A. Taking these steps to conserve water can make a big difference: Only wash full loads of laundry; Fill a bucket while showering and use it to water plants; Install water-efficient appliances and showerheads.

B. From production to distribution, food eats up a lot of natural resources before it even finds its way to your grocery cart. And once eaten, the leftover plastic wrappers, cardboard boxes and uneaten scraps find a more permanent home in the landfill, emitting greenhouse gasses as they slowly decompose. Here are a few tips for eco-friendly eating:

Plan your weekly meals to waste less food; Only buy food on your shopping list; Start a compost pile; Start a community garden.

C. There’s no doubt that the emissions from traffic pollute the air. Switching up your driving habits can make a bigger environmental impact than you think. Not only will you spend less money on gas, but you will also significantly reduce your carbon footprint.

D. It’s crammed into your mail box, piled on your desk and sometimes recycled. But more often than not, unread mail, old phonebooks and other paper products sit in landfills, while more and more forests are cut down each year to produce even more products. Here’s how you can limit your paper use: Switch to online bill pay; Opt out of junk mail subscriptions; Think before you print; Recycle according to your local guidelines.

E. The byproducts of power plants can have a negative impact on the environment and human health. Limiting your family’s electricity use can make a big difference, while also saving you money. Here’s a few ways you can conserve electricity at home: Unplug chargers and appliances when not in use; Open your windows instead of running the A/C; Close shades during sunny hours; Turn lights off before leaving your home.

John Smith is a very busy man. He is 60 years old and he has a lot of jobs. He is a policeman, a fireman, a school bus driver, a postman, a taxi driver, a boatman, an ambulance man, an accountant, a petrol attendant, a barman and an undertaker. Also, he and his wife, Susan, have a shop and a small hotel.

John lives and works on the island of Gingham in the west of Scotland. Only one hundred and twenty people live there but in summer this number will be doubled because of tourists who come by boat every day.

Every day John gets up at 6.00 and makes breakfast for the hotel guests. At 8.00, he drives the island's children to school. At 9.00, he collects the post from the boat and delivers it to all the houses on the island. He also delivers the beer to the island's only pub. Then he helps Susan in the shop.

He says, “Susan likes being busy, too. We never have holidays and we do not like watching television. In the evenings, Susan makes supper and I do the accounts. At 10.00, we have a glass of wine and then we go to bed. Perhaps our life isn’t very exciting, but we like it”.
