12:21:59 From Roxanne Cheney to Everyone:
Question: Hybrid Church: Combination of in person and on line, with both participating in dialogue equally. So far, what you are describing is a digital church, not hybrid. Can you clarify?

12:22:29 From Ryan Blazer to Everyone:
We never had compline services at our church (St. Luke's Long Beach, CA) until we went virtual. It was born out of Zoom and something we will continue with at our parish.

12:22:49 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
@Roxanne, thanks for the question

12:22:52 From Grace Camblos to Everyone:
Ditto Roxanne's questions -- our church has been meeting on Zoom and we want to figure out a Zoom-in person hybrid.

12:23:25 From Kathy Clausen to Everyone:
Ditto Roxanna's question

12:23:37 From Bob Leopold to Everyone:

12:25:33 From AnneMarie Richards to Everyone:
In the 80s the rector of my current parish had a weekly radio broadcast that drew many folks to the church. He was broadcasting a very progressive message just as the religious right was rising.

12:25:38 From Brainerd Dharmaraj to Everyone:
Would appreciate some guidance on integrating zoom with an onsite service.

12:25:40 From Natalee (she/her) to Everyone:
Will we also discuss getting online folks who are local to the church making the move to coming in person?

12:26:05 From Elizabeth Hardin – UNC Greensboro to Everyone:
But will get worse before it gets better (I voted better)

12:26:24 From AnneMarie Richards to Everyone:
@Brainerd Exactly. This is very much our current struggle.

12:26:41 From Kathy Collett to Everyone:
Yeah, we have to work hard to make it get better. I voted worse, but really believe better – depending on what we do!

Enjoy the music!

12:44:06 From Cynthia McKenna (she,her) to Everyone:
Can't do breakout rooms today. I like the music

12:45:20 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
Welcome back, everyone! Please enjoy Lorenzo's singing!

12:46:23 From Jenni Ovenstone Smith to Everyone:
Lorenzo - the desert is the best, right?

12:46:37 From Rosemary Beales, Alexandria, VA to Everyone:
And no cicadas, like we have here in VA???

12:46:45 From Daniel Robayo to Everyone:
Just brush off the mildew, Lorenzo :-)

12:47:10 From Judith Moeckel to Everyone:
Love the high prairie!

12:55:51 From The Rev. Mthr. Kassinda Ellis to Everyone:
ny weather is awesome

12:55:51 From The Rev. Kim Hardy - Vermont to Everyone:
Sounds like you have done the radio buzz before Fr. Lorenzo

12:55:51 From Mary Kisner to Everyone:
Too short. Some people didn't get a chance.

12:55:52 From Rev. Lydia Knizley Johnson (she/her/hers) to Everyone:
Always love meeting a new person

12:55:52 From Sharon Steele to Everyone:
good people

12:55:53 From Chris - Christ Church, Columbia, MD to Everyone:
Could have used another minute or three. Great people

12:55:53 From Elizabeth Hardin - UNC Greensboro to Everyone:
Enjoyed meeting the range of people. Would have liked a few more minutes.

12:55:53 From Rinda Skaggs to Everyone:
Enjoyed, but not enough time for our last breakout with 9
folks

12:55:53 From Robert Mitchell to Everyone:
Breakout Rooms were outstanding

12:56:01 From john bertelsen-All Saints, Vermont to Everyone:
breakouts too short we didn't make it through the intro's

12:56:01 From Paul Bolles-Beaven to Everyone:
Love seeing the larger church!

12:56:01 From William Buenzle to Everyone:
Loved the breakouts

12:56:01 From R.C. Laird (he/him/his) to Everyone:
It was too fast to make an effective connection

12:56:02 From Michael Paul to Everyone:
Met lots of people

12:56:04 From Ryan Blazer to Everyone:
I got a connection locally that will be a great resource.

12:56:06 From Rosemary Beales, Alexandria, VA to Everyone:
I like the breakouts and the pace

12:56:07 From Amy Spagna to Everyone:
Stressful for introverts.

12:56:07 From Robbin Ahrold to Everyone:
NO time to speak!

12:56:08 From bralston@stmarksnewcanaan.org to Everyone:
Good

12:56:08 From Betty Glover to Everyone:
not enough time to really connect

12:56:09 From Ken Kroohs to Everyone:
will we get list of participant contact info?

12:56:09 From Lee and John Cheek to Everyone:
3 of us from the same church

12:56:09 From Marta Maddy to Everyone:
Too fast – good to hear where others are

12:56:11 From William Gregg to Everyone:
Good, but as a “W” can we start at the end of the alphabet in the next round?

12:56:12 From Miriam Acevedo to Everyone:
didn't meet a partner.

Hello Anne Marie Richard

12:57:05 From James Pratt to Everyone:
Enjoyed meeting people, though I didn't find anyone in a comparable context to mine. Did add someone to my network of American expats in Canada

12:57:06 From Pat K to Everyone:
Holy Spirit tossed Nancy and I in same room all three rooms...
how do I connect with her?

12:57:08 From Cathy Carpenter to Everyone:
8 people in 7 min. doesn't have enough time

12:57:13 From Chris – Christ Church, Columbia, MD to Everyone:
Could've used another 3 minutes or so

12:57:17 From sarahcowan to Everyone:
mutual invitation works well and keeps the flow going

12:57:22 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
Oh, no! I'm sorry not everyone got to speak!

12:57:25 From john bertelsen–All Saints, Vermont to Everyone:
some people went long with there intro's

12:57:44 From Elizabeth Hardin – UNC Greensboro to Everyone:
Charlotte NC here 250 ASA, using FB Live, Zoom, YouTube depending on the purpose. If I fit your need, be in touch

12:57:51 From Jill Sautkulis to Everyone:

livestreaming to a non-interactive format—a web stream w/ no chat options.

13:00:00 From Vicki McGrath to Everyone:

Yeah, Tricia!

13:00:23 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
Welcome, Dr. Lyons!

13:00:35 From Chris – Christ Church, Columbia, MD to Everyone:
Have done around 700 livestream broadcasts (Eucharist, prayer services, music livestreams) since the start of the pandemic. Happy to help others, if I can.

13:00:37 From Millard S. Cook to Everyone:
Howdy, Dr. Lyons.

13:00:39 From Ken Kroohs to Everyone:
my passion is to volunteer to help churches reach out to new people in the geographic area. TryTank is hosting an exciting process for helping churches use the Blessing of the Animals for this. www.TryTank.org/BOTA Starting in the next couple weeks. KenKroohs700@gmail.com

13:03:57 From Rev. Lydia Knizley Johnson (she/her/hers) to Everyone:
All the places! Lovely!

13:04:09 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
The call to be church in all the places where people are is what Dr. Lyons means when she says "hybrid church"

13:06:37 From Rev. Lydia Knizley Johnson (she/her/hers) to Everyone:
Yesssss, preach!

13:07:42 From Daniel Robayo to Everyone:
Our simple little livestreams have gone to multiple countries –Mexico, Ecuador, Colombia, Venezuela, Chile, Argentina, Spain and even Uganda!!

13:08:02 From Jack Alvey to Everyone:
In the beginning God moved with people in cloud, tent, tabernacle. The Temple was a human invention (under David) – God advised against it but we humans anyway. Jesus is restoration of the original idea that God moves with the people and goes with the people.

13:08:04 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Daniel, awesome!

13:08:18 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Jack, yes!

13:08:19 From Lisa Burbank to Everyone:

13:16:12 From Carrie T. She/her to Everyone:
Heard this in a copyright webinar. Could the content you are using stand alone, and should money have changed hands. so individual screen shots is probably fair use
13:16:37 From Laura White to Everyone:
Copyright for such a time as this is something I think TEC should have devoted some resources into making it simple, legal, and affordable. So much clergy time has been spent trying to understand and do it correctly.

13:17:53 From Ryan Blazer to Everyone:

I stand corrected on licensing - <https://www.onelicense.net/how-it-works#podcast>

13:18:08 From VTS - Josh to Everyone:

Church Music Director (part-time gig) here: yes, if you're livestreaming your service you'll need to make sure your license(s) - we use OneLicense and CLLI to cover more things (CLLI is more contemporary-ish) - covers all music you're including in the service. And it has to be a streaming specific license, not just print. Hope this helps!

13:19:06 From Claire Woodley to Everyone:

Can't count the number of vestries I have heard say this!

How do we invite those watching online to become active participants--and to have a transforming encounter with the Loving Christ?

13:35:41 From Benji Reed to Everyone:

Total respect for everyone! :) It's ok for each to have their style and preferred mode of listening and hearing. It's a good reminder that we need to have multiple modes of communicating with our communities to bring people to God's Love through their own language and experience.

13:36:23 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Millard, great question!

13:36:26 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:

What if Jesus were shouting? Would we tune out to him? Just because something is outside our cultural comfort, doesn't mean we shouldn't step outside of our comfort zone to see what the Spirit might be saying to us...

13:38:09 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:

What an AMAZING image. Thank you!

My soul is on fire – thank you Dr. Lyons.

13:40:42 From Brainerd Dharmaraj to Everyone:

Wondering if Dr. Lyons' would have any thoughts on the embodied human nature and how that can be related to an online worship experience theologically

13:40:48 From Ginny Wilder to Everyone:

Is this permission to stop worrying about people choosing to continue to worship online when the church is open for service? Because that is where I am experiencing great anxiety.

13:41:11 From Ruth Beresford to Everyone:

Question on the image of the tree, new life, absorbing and raising it all up. One of the Narnia images from "The Last Battle" is through the Stable and finding everything as it was yet with more color, life, flavor -- more life. Reepicheep was mended and yet the same character. The tree absorbs a bicycle, but the bicycle can no longer be a bicycle. We are called into the more "farther up and farther in" but never stop being our true selves – just healed and made more by the power of new life. In the same way, is the church crumbling like Cair Paravel or struck in the tree no longer able to be what it has been, or

13:41:12 From Claire Woodley to Everyone:

AWake My Soul Stretch Every Nerve!

13:41:51 From Kate Malin to Everyone:

Yes, but just as a Broadway actor needs to use certain techniques to reach the back of the house, if we are on camera, we need to use different communication tools to effectively communicate. This is as true for a webinar as for hybrid worship. It's key for us as preachers, leaders and teachers to WATCH our livestreams and learn from them.

13:41:52 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Brainrd @Ruth and @Ginny, we've added your questions to the list and see how many we can get to!

13:42:00 From Elizabeth Hardin – UNC Greensboro to Everyone:

Ephesians 3:20-21

13:42:03 From Malinda Collier to Everyone:

Ginny - look at it as possibility instead of problem, as one of our Vestry people said, "we now have an infinite number of pews."

13:42:08 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:

Holy Spirit, You Are Welcome Here; Made a Way

13:42:21 From Millard S. Cook to Everyone:

From my Roman Catholic past, "All that we have and all that we offer comes from a heart both frightened and free . . . "

13:42:34 From James Stambaugh to Everyone:

Question for Dr. Lyons: How is the internet a different kind of "place" than physical places and does that matter? What theological resources are there to think through the right use of technology that is grounded in something bigger than mere pragmatism? Technology is not innocent or neutral, any more than any other "palace." How can we theologically interrogate our use of technology so that we do not re-inscribe our sinfulness and brokenness on an accelerated platform?

13:42:34 From Becky C. to Everyone:

In God, all things are possible.

13:43:09 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@James, thanks very much, our team is adding those questions to the list

13:43:09 From James Pratt to Everyone:

Ginny, for me the anxiety is not how to convert online congregants to in-person, but how to engage them where they are comfortable, and how to make them feel like participants rather than passive spectators.

13:43:21 From Jimmie Sue Deppe to Everyone:

Thank you!

13:43:21 From Michael Paul to Everyone:

Thank you, my sister, Tricia this was my gift on the 20th anniversary of my ordination to the priesthood.

13:46:27 From Ken Kroohs to Everyone:
When I taught at Cornell I told the students that if I was not providing something worth their time they should not attend -- church is NOT the same, but its worth some thought

13:47:05 From Nathan Wilson to Everyone:
Thank you so much, Dr. Lyons! We must be active in our love, our faith . . . Just going on auto pilot . . . spiritually . . . will serve only ourselves. We must re-create or fade away.

13:47:12 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
@Dana, thanks for asking! Dr. Lyons teaches courses at Virginia Theological Seminary. Check out Lifelong Learning's website and you can learn how to take a course, see our Eventbrite (where events are posted), etc. I'm not positive when/what Dr. Lyon's next

13:55:35 From Laura White to Everyone:
I excited this class to help me connect my in-person crowd and my online crowd, and make sure we have a solid connection with the online crowd, and thus far I don't know if that will happen. BUT, this kind of ministry – at the golf course if that's where people are, or in the state park, etc., has absolutely been on my mind lately. It might not ever affect our ASA, but as long as we are feeding people, it doesn't matter where, right? Many are seeking God's love but they will never step foot inside a church.

13:55:57 From Laura White to Everyone:
Expected, not excited.

14:14:28 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Natalee, it probably resurfaced last year when it was so real for all of us!

14:14:38 From Robert Mitchell to Everyone:
Ah yes, I remember that adorable moment.

14:15:02 From Natalee (she/her) to Everyone:
@Katherine, ah perhaps so.

14:15:24 From VTS - Josh to Everyone:

14:17:57 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
@Adam, absolutely!

14:18:07 From Robert Mitchell to Everyone:
Agreed

14:18:10 From Candice Frazer+ to Everyone:
the only thing consistent in the last year for us, was a lack of consistency--every few months/weeks we had to PIVOT!

14:18:10 From Natalee (she/her) to Everyone:
They've built consistent relationship and therefore trust, yes?

14:19:50 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
@Natalee is that a question for Nick? I think so

14:20:30 From Ruth Beresford to Everyone:
Dr. Morgan, please give an example of empathy in a wholly online/digital relationship.

14:20:34 From Natalee (she/her) to Everyone:
Well, a response to Adam, but also I guess a question for Nick on how to build what he was referring to.

14:20:47 From Natalee (she/her) to Everyone:
*he Adam was referring to

14:20:55 From Chris - Christ Church, Columbia, MD to Everyone:
We've learned that pivoting and adapting has been ever-changing (esp as we start to get back to a "normal" and bridge the two worlds), but maintaining a similar tone week in and week out goes a way towards establishing comfort with your audience.

14:21:34 From Fr. Lorenzo - TryTank to Everyone:
I read the Book!!!

14:21:47 From Jack Alvey to Everyone:
Is he on different slide than the one posted?

14:21:47 From Fr. Lorenzo - TryTank to Everyone:
:-)

14:22:26 From Carrie T. She/her to Everyone:
How do you do that, ie edit and archive, without the staff or technical know how. It doubles the work

14:22:32 From Grover Saunders to Everyone:
@jack I also wondered that.

14:22:33 From Benji Reed to Everyone:
agreed, points don't match the slides

14:22:47 From Pr. Betty to Everyone:
Is this slide accurate?

14:22:52 From Lou Divis to Everyone:
Thanks, I thought it was me....

14:23:03 From Barbara Little to Everyone:
Glad to know it's not just me!

14:23:48 From Fr. Lorenzo - TryTank to Everyone:
Yes, the slide is not matching. We'll make sure the toolkit has the extra one!!

14:24:31 From Cara Rockhill (she/her) to Everyone:
What's the research to back up the idea that virtual relationships degrade over time? I think all relationships degrade unless you put in effort to nurture them and allow space to grow. I just disagree that meetings must happen face to face in order to save them.

14:24:50 From Adam Detzner to Everyone:
Like a prayer book?

14:25:03 From Vicki McGrath to Everyone:
Like the Sunday service leaflet?

14:25:05 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:
Not every relationship can be face-to-face...

14:25:13 From Fr. Lorenzo - TryTank to Everyone:
@cara, his point is about the "death by a 1000 cuts"...I'll Bring it up in the q&a

14:25:30 From Lee and John Cheek to Everyone:
Through the glass darkly

14:25:33 From AnneMarie Richards to Everyone:
Really? I don't think ALL digital relationships degrade. There is plenty of research to suggest that well-maintained relationships online can last as long as IRL ones.

14:26:31 From Sarah Martinez to Everyone:
Am I the only person who has discarded the term "virtual"? It's online worship, etc., in my world. Our digital ministry is growing and quite successful. We have more parishioners who love the online connection. It's real to them, and to us.

14:27:08 From amywelin to Everyone:
We use online instead of virtual

14:27:09 From Mercedes Clements to Everyone:
Recent Brene Brown podcast with Dr. Priya Parker made a really good point about not just the tactical difference with virtual meetings, but how lack of intentionality can lead to power differentials that are not inclusive.

14:27:19 From Carrie T. She/her to Everyone:

I agree. I think if we continue to think that online is lesser, we lose the opportunities to reach those online. Revolution and community can and has happened online

14:27:26 From Fr. Lorenzo - TryTank to Everyone:

@AnneMarie, I think his point of creating safe spaces goes exactly to your point. It's a way of keeping it well-maintained

14:27:30 From AnneMarie Richards to Everyone:

The assumption that in-person communication is the gold standard isn't sitting well with me. Sends the message that those connecting electronically only are getting second class attention.

14:27:44 From amywelin to Everyone:

concur with AnneMarie

14:27:45 From Sarah Martinez to Everyone:

Thank you, Anne Marie. Same here.

14:27:45 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:

i feel the same...

14:27:51 From CHARLIE BARTON to Everyone:

Sarah - we speak of a community that has an incarnational campus and an online campus

14:28:06 From Grant Abbott to Everyone:

Seems there are generational differences with his discussion. I suspect there may be cultural differences as well. Need to enhance what the speaker is offering by experience with people from different generations and different cultures.

14:28:07 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:

some of my online groups have gone much deeper on zoom than when in person

14:28:09 From Gillian Barr (she/her; Calvary, Stonington CT) to Everyone:

Indeed, @AnneMarie, I have online friends I've never met in person and have known for almost 30 years and are among my most intimate friends.

14:28:13 From Maryann Younger to Everyone:

@Sarah, thank you for making that distinction. This worship is real. It occurs online.

14:28:19 From Gillian Barr (she/her; Calvary, Stonington CT) to Everyone:

Our coffee hour goes much deeper on Zoom than in person.

14:29:07 From Judith Moeckel to Everyone:

What about the issue of who gets to speak with Zoom? In my experience, the delay can cause problems. Someone who wants to add something may be unsure as when to speak. I realize having people raise their hands may help, but, with that, you still need to have a convener or leader.

14:29:25 From Michael Valliant to Everyone:

@Gillian - we have noticed the same thing with Zoom coffee hour

14:29:27 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Mercedes, yes, I heard those two episodes. They were fantastic and I bought Priya Parker's book as a result!

14:29:32 From Christian Perritt to Everyone:

I was taking away that there's a balance we need to try and maintain - just being intentional about recognizing what's not present in digital communication. It's a good point

14:29:33 From Greta (she/her) to Everyone:

Perhaps the church/spiritual experience is different enough from the business experience, which seems to be his expertise.

14:29:36 From Carrie T. She/her to Everyone:

Are we only looking at this from our old eyes? I see the "younger" generation changing and connecting and affecting change, creating community, all online

14:29:38 From Michael Sitton to Everyone:

However, a coffee hour problem in Zoom: only one person can speak at a time. Introverts may feel uncomfortable "holding the floor" for informal chat.

14:29:54 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:

we used breakout rooms for coffee hour

14:29:59 From AnneMarie Richards to Everyone:

@Grant Totally agree. Big generational and cultural gaps.

14:30:27 From Greta (she/her) to Everyone:

We do too - great way to have smaller group conversations. Even folks who have known each other for years are learning more about one another

14:30:28 From Anne to Everyone:

But, @Gillian Barr, are those one-on-one relationships, or, if a clergy group, for example, they are focused around actual deep communication? It does get harder (at least for me) when it's an online group, and I'm not always sure who's attending or what their connections are, and especially when the communication is mostly outgoing, not incoming.

14:30:29 From The Rev. Mthr. Kassinda Ellis to Everyone:

Again someone who has grown up with technology and online groups. You can find real relationships and deep conversation online. But I know for those in older generations connection means in person.

14:30:30 From Tim Helton Ph.D. - St. Columba's, Camarillo, CA to Everyone:

I'm not clear on what an update video is. Can Nick elaborate?

14:30:40 From Jack Alvey to Everyone:

@Tim - ditto

14:31:14 From Grace Camblos to Everyone:

14:31:19 From to Everyone:

14:31:48 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:

i look forward to even more emojis - sometimes i can't find exactly what i'm looking for!

14:32:04 From Mercedes Clements to Everyone:

I find the difference isn't business vs. spiritual world, it's the intentionality and norms that often exist in small groups. If this intentionality is transferred to online meetings, it allows those deeper conversations.

14:32:29 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

Thanks for all the great questions so far, friends. We'll get to as many as we can!

14:32:31 From Grace Camblos to Everyone:

Would you text that update video to just one person, or what?

14:33:31 From Michael Paul to Everyone:

Is it appropriate to interact with worshipers on Facebook Live during the service or should you wait until the end?

14:33:44 From Lee and John Cheek to Everyone:

That feedback happened on chat during Dr Lyons talk

14:33:51 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Grace, I think that can go either way. It definitely depends on the video content and intent

14:34:17 From Sarah Martinez to Everyone:

Definitely appropriate to interact on Facebook Live while it's happening. We have a lay team of Digital Ambassadors that do this.

14:34:26 From Ryan Blazer to Everyone:

We interact to keep engagement on our FB Live Feed (shouldn't be the camera operator).

14:34:29 From Ruth Frey to Everyone:

You recommend checking in face to face every once and a while to keep the relationship strong. What do you recommend for people who we cannot meet with face to face? Many people are joining us from across the country and will never be with us in person?

14:34:30 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Michael, great question. I think absolutely yes

14:34:47 From Elizabeth Hardin – UNC Greensboro to Everyone:

Here's an empathy example: We do a worship service on FB Live that has an emcee. We invite prayers throughout that are read at a point in the service. IF a person adds a prayer after the point when the prayers are transmitted to the priest, the emcee will respond with a prayer. In the extreme, we will jump back on FB Live after the service to pray those that were inadvertently omitted.

14:34:54 From Ryan Blazer to Everyone:

@Sarah – perfect.

14:35:05 From Elizabeth Hardin – UNC Greensboro to Everyone:

Should clarify: an EMCEE for the chat

14:35:37 From Vicki McGrath to Everyone:

@Michael Paul: On our nightly Facebook Live Compline services, the Compline minister will sometimes interact with a parson in the online congregation if they have put something in the chat (prayer request for a death, birthday, anniversary, etc.).

14:36:14 From Rhett Wiley & Jill Dumser, Trinity Church in Towson, MD to Everyone:

I would appreciate more detail about the role of the MC.

14:36:24 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Ruth, I think in live time is the equivalent. So meet with them via Facetime or something similar

14:37:01 From Sara Cureton to Everyone:

I still try to incorporate chitchat the beginning of online meetings. I may ask everyone to report on the weather. Sometimes I have asked everyone their favorite show tune, or recommendation for a new restaurant. I have found this works well online, as something of an icebreaker. I often see everyone on the call relax and smile afterwards.

14:37:25 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Rhetta and Jill, great question. Some folks refer to folks like this in the church setting as "Digital Ushers"

14:37:41 From Millard S. Cook to Everyone:

How can we solicit feedback if we do not have time to ask each person?

14:37:42 From Kathy Collett to Everyone:

But I think we have gotten accustomed to people taking a few moments to unmute and take account of that in our response to their response.

14:38:07 From Michael Paul to Everyone:

Thanks. I was thinking it needed to be a dedicated person.

14:38:40 From VTS – Katherine Malloy to Everyone:

@Sara, great idea

14:38:42 From Ruth Frey to Everyone:

These are great ideas for an online community but what about offering a program with people who are "on site" and those who are online at the same time.

14:38:43 From The Rev. Mthr. Kassinda Ellis to Everyone:

I still do not agree

14:38:49 From Adam Detzner – Christ Church, Columbia, MD to Everyone:

It could be that it is easier to cultivate and maintain digital / online relationships in a setting of Christian community than in an office.

14:38:51 From Anne to Everyone:

@Kathy—maybe, but even 15 months into Zoom meetings, it still feels stilted, because I'm looking for cues about whether it's my turn, or who's going to talk next.

14:38:52 From Rev. Lydia Knizley Johnson (she/her/hers) to Everyone:

I agree cara

14:38:52 From Rhetta Wiley & Jill Dumser, Trinity Church in Towson, MD to Everyone:

@vts – Katherine Malloy That sounds interesting, but I'm not clear on how it works.

14:38:53 From Jenni Ovenstone Smith to Everyone:

Yes, it does to me, too Cara

14:38:57 From Stan Baker (he/him) to Everyone:

So much of this is like the work I do with the many clients on the Autism Spectrum with whom I work – developing nuance, perspective-taking, etc. From them I've also learned how powerful and important online relationships are – they feel much more control over them simply because they are not exhausted by reading the many, and un-patterned, facial and body expressions of the Neural Typical World. I've learned not to judge online experiences/relationships as inferior, and – hopefully – they have learned from me about how to exist in the nuanced world of "virtual" relationships. Thanks Nick Morgan for this excellent and thought-provoking presentation.

14:39:15 From Jenni Ovenstone Smith to Everyone:

And what simply about temperaments and communication styles?

14:39:46 From Cara Rockhill (she/her) to Everyone:

I'd have fixed my hair if I knew I was going on screen!

14:39:46 From Carrie T. She/her to Everyone:

Five or so years ago, we had a big kerfuffle when a young person shared what seemed to us "adults" to be too personal of information. Youth do not have the walls that prevent them from being open and honest with each other, they state it outright. Us adults get scared of that honesty

14:39:48 From AnneMarie Richards to Everyone:

I really could not disagree with him more on this point. There is nothing two dimensional about human beings, whether on the screen or in-person.

14:39:50 From Grover Saunders to Everyone:

This conversation is in some ways a demonstration of the point Nick is making. Many people went "Hey!" when you felt like Nick was diminishing online relationships. I wonder if a better way to put it would be that in-person relationships get a leg up just by nature of those physical social cues.

14:40:06 From Victor Friedrich to Everyone:

Cranmner: "There was never any thing by wit of man so well devised, or so are established, which in continuance of time hat not been corrupted" – so what's new online ?

14:40:06 From Bishop Shannon to Everyone:

We elderly people showing up once or twice a day for prayer, support and conversation – since March 15th, 2020.

14:40:09 From Becky C. to Everyone:

My experience is that some people are "early adopters" and want to try new things, others are not.

14:40:10 From James R Brown, M.D. to Everyone:

Very good point Jenni. Communication styles are so important.

14:40:11 From Christian Perritt to Everyone:

Exactly, Grover :)

14:40:27 From Joanna Hollis (she/her) to Everyone:

Thank you, Grant, for bringing this point up!

14:40:34 From Ken Kroohs to Everyone:

Not just generational. Many older people are 'exploring' churches on video because it is safer and less of a commitment.

14:40:38 From Betty Glover to Everyone:

There are many folks who are joining our FB Live worship services (Sunday mornings, and NoonDay Prayers...and Compline) who are either in remote Villages (I'm in Fairbanks, Alaska), or in other states, and even Internationally...we will almost certainly not meet them 'in person', but the messages I get certainly lead me to believe that we have 'relationship'...we do respond to comments, and prayer requests, and that seems important...but I do believe that they feel 'connected'...even though it's on-line only...

14:40:40 From CHARLIE BARTON to Everyone:

For many older folks, digital is a second language.

14:40:42 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:

THANK YOU for raising the cultural differences, Grant! This is a very white group...

14:41:22 From Daniel Cooper(He/Him) to Everyone:

My experience as a young person is that as the first generation to grow up without a time without the internet, it IS so much easier for young people to make relationships online. Consumption of online media is so much easier for those who grew up with it, growing up with online friendships and relations are easier when you grew up with the internet. Especially with COVID, a lot of kids don't know consumption off of the online medium to an extent.

14:41:29 From Sara Cureton to Everyone:

Perhaps it is best to focus on the concept of online communication simply being different from in-person.

14:41:34 From Kathy Collett to Everyone:

Maybe generational on average, but I think there are plenty of older people who are also very comfortable with growing and developing online connection – especially when we have children or grandchildren that we've been doing this with for years!

14:41:39 From Michael Paul to Everyone:

That would be great. Email: jmhp419@gmail.com Biggest reason we changed was being able to have in person worship.

14:42:47 From Benji Reed to Everyone:

I think it depends on how you define "negative"

14:42:48 From Robbin Ahrold to Everyone:

Is there a difference if you watch own a large screen, i.e.computer/iPad,TV?

14:43:01 From Brainerd Dharmaraj to Everyone:

@AnneMarie, would you be able to expound a little more on your comment: "There is nothing two dimensional about human beings, whether on the screen or in-person."

14:43:01 From CHARLIE BARTON to Everyone:

I wonder if it is a "bandwidth" issue. More processing power is required to interpre

14:43:09 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:

but everyone's brain is different...

14:43:33 From CHARLIE BARTON to Everyone:

to interpret that which is being communicated

14:43:34 From Benji Reed to Everyone:

Brains are incredibly adaptive and there are many kinds of brains. I have a fundamental disagreement that we are all that uniform.

14:43:57 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:

me, too, benji

14:44:00 From The Rev. Mthr. Kassinda Ellis to Everyone:
I agree with Cara

14:44:26 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
I can't even @ all of you quickly enough! Lots of great thoughts here

14:44:33 From Victor Friedrich to Everyone:
We do manage to misunderstand each other in person, also.....

14:44:40 From Millard S. Cook to Everyone:
I love the avatars that I use on Facebook!

14:44:43 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
@Vistor, that's right!

14:44:52 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
@Victor*

14:45:00 From Cris to Everyone:
My son has thrived in college since being online- better grades than ever before. He has grown up with this and is much more comfortable online than I will ever be.

14:45:01 From The Rev. Mthr. Kassinda Ellis to Everyone:
I think in person and online there is miscommunication

14:45:05 From AnneMarie Richards to Everyone:
@Brainerd I think what I was trying to get to was that maybe the pixels can only display two dimensions, but incarnational thinking means the being I'm interacting with is more than the display. That sense of seeking and serving Christ in all persons.

14:45:11 From Chris - Christ Church, Columbia, MD to Everyone:
Spending time contextualizing our conversatinos matter.

14:45:34 From Robert Mitchell to Everyone:
yes, technology that can transmit human expressions better, that is what's needed

14:45:46 From Benji Reed to Everyone:
the danger is assuming that the ways things that were done before is the way that they should continue to be done. back to Dr. Lyons points theologically.

14:45:59 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
@Benji, so true!

14:46:05 From Gillian Barr (she/her; Calvary, Stonington CT) to Everyone:
I think the biggest difference is the temptation to multitask when on video which you would not do in the flesh. If we would all commit to being uni-tasking and had equality of lighting, screen size, audio quality etc. I think it could be very similar.

14:46:27 From Dawn Allen-Herron (she/her) to Everyone:
Bottom line, for most of us, we are intending to communicate and create community with folks who are digital natives, and folks who are not. If we are disinterested in learning about how either experiences hybridity, then we seem to short-change our ability to do what we intend

14:46:54 From Brainerd Dharmaraj to Everyone:
@AnneMarie: Thank you so very much. Much appreciate it.

14:46:56 From mary norton to Everyone:
The multitasking thing? Absolutely.

14:47:04 From CHARLIE BARTON to Everyone:
Part of the "benefit" of the pandemic is that we can't do things the way we've always done them. By changing what we do, we'll change what we can learn/experience

14:47:05 From Benji Reed to Everyone:
@dawn well said

14:47:07 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:
I'm with gen z there

14:47:07 From Chris - Christ Church, Columbia, MD to Everyone:
Well said, Dawn.

14:47:17 From Aileen (she/her) to Everyone:
So interesting. Thank you for this discussion

14:47:21 From Victor Friedrich to Everyone:
I think we are ignoring the very important dimension of smell in defining the limitation of purely online interactions. Olfactory bulbs (and hippocampus-memory- are the oldest parts of our cerebral cortex

14:47:53 From VTS - Katherine Malloy to Everyone:
@Victor, great point, but there is some benefit to NOT having that as part of the interaction ;)

14:47:54 From Pr Marjo Anderson to Everyone:
i can't wait until someone invents a way to send smells and tastes through cyberspace! :D

14:47:54 From Marta Maddy to Everyone:
Thank you for much to think about

14:48:25 From Muriel Witham to Everyone:
What is the name of Dr, Morgan's book

14:48:26 From +William Gregg to Everyone:
There is a large body of research and literature, as well as educational videos coming out of higher education that do much to address presence, communication, building and sustain relationship in online work. Educational context, but I think helpful here.

14:48:30 From Sarah Martinez to Everyone:
Anne Marie's "incarnational" concept is speaking to me.
Deeply.

14:48:36 From Robert Mitchell to Everyone:
Fantastic conversation

14:48:54 From Christian Perritt to Everyone:
Excellent conversation - agreed

14:48:58 From The Rev. Kim Hardy - Vermont to Everyone:

Appreciated this segment very much. Thank you.

14:49:00 From Aileen (she/her) to Everyone:
Great day today! Thank you. Looking forward to next week

14:49:00 From Deborah Webb to Everyone:
Bottom line...beyond generational and everything else, virtual IS DIFFERENT than in person. Connecting in the real world will always be a richer experience because you can use all 5 senses. I think that is all he is saying. When you use generational speech I think people revert to us versus them scenario which just divides people more.

14:49:01 From Grover Saunders to Everyone:
@William Yes, the overlap with higher ed is very high.

14:49:02 From Amy Spagna to Everyone:

One of the issues is the stewardship of God's gift of time.
When meetings have become online, folks have commute time - when we

Thank you!

14:58:57 From Gillian Barr (she/her; Calvary, Stonington CT) to Everyone:
Assuming that our people are happy once we are 100% back to in person and would gladly ignore online again, to do hybrid is 150-200% work for an invisible gain they don't see.

14:59:01 From CHARLIE BARTON to Everyone:
see you all next week. Thx1

14:59:15 From Robert D Foreman (Lancashire Collaborative Ministry)
to Everyone:
Thank you God Bless

14:59:51 From Jenni Ovenstone Smith to Everyone:
Gillian - "our people are happy" is the missional question though right ... ?

14:59:55 From Ruth Beresford to Everyone:
@ Gillian, That's right - but it's the mission field for those not already connected to the gospel and a community for faith work

15:01:19 From Libby Wade to Everyone:

Thank you!
