ALAN PARSONS

ALAN PARSONS' THE ART & SCIENCE OF SOUND RECORDING

KeyFax New Media Inc.

Nearly three years in the making, Alan Parsons' monumental ten-hour video series, The Art & Science of Sound Recording, is now available in a three-DVD boxed set! Narrated by actor and musician Billy Bob Thornton, the DVDs are divided into 24 sections, starting with a brief history of recording.

Parsons' illustrious career — as a recording engineer, producer, composer and artist — acts as both backdrop and inspiration for the series. Parsons worked with The Beatles on the albums Abbey Road and Let It Be, engineered Pink Floyd's Dark Side of the Moon, and produced a string of multi-platinum hits for The Hollies, Pilot, Ambrosia, Al Stewart and other artists, as well as for The Alan Parsons Project.

The Art & Science of Sound Recording looks at everything from soundproofing to mixing, and from recording guitar, bass, keyboards, drums and vocals, to recording a choir. Fellow professional engineers & producers join Alan Parsons in this top quality, practical, and cutting-edge guide, including Jack Joseph Puig, John Fields, Elliot Scheiner, Jack Douglas, Tony Brown and Chuck Ainlay. Artists and musicians interviewed include Michael McDonald, Taylor Hawkins, Nathan East, Rami Jaffe, Carol Kaye and Erykah Badu. This invaluable instructional DVD set applies classic, old school recording experience to the modern recording scene, and is certain to be a standard work on the subject for years to come. Along with its fully interactive website, The Art & Science of Sound Recording is a complete course in modern recording.

This independent documentary film reviews the partnership, music and impact of Lennon and McCartney as composers.

From the day they met in 1957 until the release of the Rubber Soul album at the end of 1965, the film dissects and contrasts, reassesses and ultimately provides one of the finest films made about the band during this period. Drawing on rare footage, classic performances and penetrating revelations from friends of the pair, Beatles academics and musicologists, this program discovers the true story of how those classic songs were written. It features contributions from: friends Barry Miles, Klaus Voorman and Maureen Cleaves; musicians Alan Moore and Chris Ingham; journalists Robert Christgau [Village Voice] and Anthony De Curtis [Rolling Stone]; authors Johnny Rogan, Pete Doggett, Steve Turner and Nigel Williamson and broadcaster Paul Gambaccini. 1 hour, 19 minutes. Songs: Love Me Do • She Loves You • Can't Buy Me Love • Hard Day's Night • Help • Yesterday • I'm a Loser • You've Got to Hide Your Love Away • Nowhere Man • Norwegian Wood • Michelle • and many others.

COMPOSING THE BEATLES SONGBOOK

Lennon and McCartney:
1966-1970

MVD

This independent documentary film reviews the partnership, music and impact of Lennon and McCartney as composers during this hugely creative period from 1966-1970. From the first bars of "Eleanor Rigby" to the closing Abbey Road song-cycle, this film shows how they barely put a step wrong in making the most joyous music the world had ever witnessed. Drawing on rare footage, classic performances and penetrating revelations from friends of the pair, Beatles academics and musicologists, we here discover the true story of how those classic songs were written. Includes contributions from friends Barry Miles, Klaus Voorman and Maureen Cleaves; musicians Alan Moore and Chris Ingham; journalists Robert Christgau [Village Voice] and Anthony De Curtis [Rolling Stone]; authors Johnny Rogan, Pete Doggett, Steve Turner, and Nigel Williamson and broadcaster Paul Gambaccini.

COMPOSING OUTSIDE THE BEATLES

Lennon and McCartney:
1967-1972

MVD

Composing Outside the Beatles: Lennon and McCartney 1967-1972 is an independent documentary film which reviews the music and impact of Lennon and McCartney as solo composers, during this first post-Beatles period. From the avant-garde, Yoko-influenced, brace of Lennon/Ono albums, via some superb singles and albums from both players, and culminating with the first Wings album from Macca, and Lennon celebrating his new city of residence on the most political record he ever made, this film shows how and why they composed the music they did during this era and illustrates their using of old and new techniques, and how they were still borrowing from each other despite being in both legal and personal disputes throughout these years. Drawing on rare footage, archive and exclusive interviews, classic performances and penetrating revelations from close friends of the pair, fellow musicians, Beatles academics and musicologists, we discover here the true story of how their music was composed when writing alone, or with new partners. 2 hours, 18 minutes.

Songs: Give Peace a Chance • Instant Karma • Don't Worry Kyoko • Momma Miss America • Maybe I'm Amazed • Mother • God • Ram On • Power to the People • Imagine • How Do You Sleep • Mumbo • John Sinclair • Dear Friend • Woman Is the Nigger of the World • Some People Never Know • Uncle Albert • Luck of the Irish • Back Seat of My Car.
