Seasonal Fresh Focus

This may not be the coldest month but the brief daylight hours and bare countryside give it a bit of a dismal feel so it is a good excuse to enjoy all the seasonal produce available. Not all are popular though. Brussels sprouts can get such bad press, probably for being overcooked, but are very nutritious. The parsnip was also associated with poverty, and was used as a staple food when grain harvests weren't good. The boiled juice was also used as a substitute for honey but they are a very hardy crop and a hard frost improves the sweet flavour.

Vegetables - Brussels sprouts, butternut squash, white and red cabbage, carrots, cauliflowers, celeriac, celery, chicory, chestnuts, horseradish, Jerusalem artichoke, kale, kohlrabi, leeks, parsnips, maincrop potatoes, pumpkins, salsify, shallots, swede, turnips.

Fruit - apples, clementines, grapefruit, kiwi, lemons, mandarins, oranges, pears, quince, nuts.
