ANTI-AGING CONSULTATION

Anti-aging medicine is a healthcare model promoting innovative science and research to prolong healthy lifespan in humans.

During the session, the anti-aging doctor will review patient's health status, risk factors, medical and family history, metabolic imbalances and hormone deficiencies, as well as diet, lifestyle, exercise habits.

A comprehensive analysis of patient's current physical status can be determined after considering body fat, lean muscle, bone density and medical history along with the results of physical examination and review of the laboratory tests.

Armed with this information, our anti-aging doctor will be able to develop individualized program recommendations.
