IDEAVIT introduces SolidDuo, the new series of wall-hung bath sinks in matte white solid surface material designed for optimal use of space in small bathrooms. Available from PSCBath, the simple lines of the basins feature additional benefits such as a small storage box and some counter space for keeping items organized.
Circle No. 175 on Product Card

The Herbeau Lille three-hole lavatory mixer is Inspired by the clean lines and luxe details of French Art Deco. Handcrafted in the French city of Lille, the faucet includes metal lever handles, a high arc spout and a 1-3/4" pop-up drain assembly. Shown in French Weathered Brass, Lille is available in 15 metal finishes.
Circle No. 176 on Product Card

Paying homage to the Australian beach, Bondi from THG Paris features a handle with a fluid design that recalls the kineticism of the ocean, notes the firm. The faucet is offered with a choice of lever and cross handles, in bronze, chrome and rose gold finishes.
Circle No. 177 on Product Card

Karran has introduced the Q-306 quartz composite vanity bowl in six rich color choices. Featuring a machined flat rim, the sink can be installed seamlessly into laminate and solid surface countertops. The bowl is fashioned from quartz composite material that is extremely durable, notes the firm.
Circle No. 178 on Product Card

Danish plumber designer and manufacturer QTOO is offering a trio of wall-mounted faucets that bring a sculptural look to the bath. The faucets feature a fixed spout, built-in aerator and an eco-friendly water flow rate of up to 1.3 gpm, with three spout projection options. The faucets are available in matte or polished finishes.
Circle No. 179 on Product Card

Manufactured in Italy, the new MB2 bathroom faucet collection from Aquabress delivers a minimalist design, highlighting fine lines and curves. The complete series from lavatory faucets to tub filler applications includes two handle inserts to choose from - knurled and smooth finish - and is offered in polished chrome and brushed gold.
Circle No. 180 on Product Card

Designed under the direction of Praxhar Kuman Jain, the Isenberg Design Lab has delivered the Serie 240 Collection. The series is distinctive for its graphic cross handles that are available in traditional metal as well as concrete and wood options. The 15 coordinating fixtures for the tub, shower and sink include wall- or deck-mounted sink faucets.
Circle No. 181 on Product Card

The Murano Collection from Native Trails is a line of glass vessel sinks crafted by the famed artisans of Murano, Italy. The colors and patterns of the sinks are created in the molding and spinning process. The collection consists of five design series - Beachcomber, Abyss, Bianco, Shoreline, and Abalone - each comprised of multiple sink styles.
Circle No. 182 on Product Card

"The demand for matte black continues to grow and we're working to add it to more and more collections as its elegant simplicity makes it a fit for any modern bathroom design," says Pien.

Sprangers agrees that matte black is being used more. "It's beautiful and bold all at once," she says.

Matte finishes in general are trending, McNeely believes. "People are utilizing the faucets to be more focal in the bathroom, and these matte finishes make them stand out," he says.

Variety in materials used can also create the unique look customers demand. Fireclay is being used to better execute the flat bottoms, straight lines and thin walls of many newer sink designs, McJoynt notes. "It is a slightly different material and process than vitreous china and the cost is a bit higher, but it allows some of these desirable design features."

Lacava notes, "The materials that allow a lot of freedom of expression are concrete, natural stones and marbles plus man-made materials, like solid surface and resins."

BOLD STATEMENTS

Each bathroom in the home has a unique and specific purpose, and the requirements of each space differ according to how they will be used.

Current design demands, however, mean that each must still feel connected to the overall design of the home.

"The new construction trends are to give the whole house a seamless design flow. This means all bathrooms follow the same design elements or feature complementary fixtures that fit the desired functionality of the space," Lacava says.

Bathrooms that visitors see are often where homeowners choose to express the individuality and flair they wish to project. "Guest baths and powder rooms tend to be the ones where people look to make more of a 'wow' statement...and think outside the box in terms of style, finishes [and] textures," Schroeder says.

"Typically, we see powder bathrooms being created around current trends," Sprangers agrees. "These are unique, one-off-type spaces where clients feel they can add more personality or do something bolder than they would usually do. These spaces may incorporate a different style of faucet or finish with a vessel sink using a unique material or pattern."

"As the bathroom most seen by guests, the powder room is a space where you can show off your personality," Kulig concurs. "People aren't as afraid to experiment and go big and bold in a smaller space as they might in a larger bathroom. Just like you would with artwork or wallpaper, you can make a design statement with your faucet or fixtures."
