GROCO RAW WATER MANIFOLD

- While it is not recommended to supply raw or filtered water to multiple "consumers" from a single inlet source (i.e.,: toilets, washdown pumps, air conditioners, generators, etc) it is recognized that it is common practice to do so, particularly when one or more of the consumers is an intermittent consumer.
- If this is your intention, protect your equipment by installing a Groco Raw Water Manifold
- You will be guided to use proper pipe or hose sizes, thus reducing the possibility of imposing dangerous restructions to one or all of the consumers
- The barbed outlet is connected to the primary consumer (your main engine, for example), and is smaller than the threaded inlet which screws into a seacock or strainer outlet of the next larger pipe size (see sample installations)
- The larger threaded end requires that a larger strainer or inlet seacock be used, thus assuring adequate flow to all consumers
- The combined cross-sections of the primary consumer plus the threaded secondary consumer connections (to A/C and generator, for example) does not exceed the cross-section of the threaded inlet end

SEAHAWK TUFF STUFF LOW VOC HIGH-BUILD EPOXY PRIMER

Premium Blister Protection with Microsheet Silicate Technology

NEW!

The Tuff Stuff LOW VOC Epoxy Primer complies with rigid VOC limits set by the California Air Quality Management Board and offers a Low VOC alternative when applying water barrier or corrosion protection.

Tuff Stuff Low VOC is an extremely high-build two-part epoxy primer that dries fast, enabling application of a complete barrier system and bottom paint in just two days. Using microsheet silicate technology, millions of microscopic sheets overlap and build a 100% water barrier that protects the surface from moisture and water penetration.

Tuff Stuff Low VOC is extremely effective for blister prevention on fiberglass, or as a bilge coating, because it is resistant to oil and water. As a universal primer, it can be used for corrosion protection on most metals below the waterline, and for priming any metal. Tuff Stuff Low VOC creates an overlapping barrier to eliminate any direct path for water migration.

Consists of (2) 1/2 gallon containers = (1) full gallon product

Thermal Imaging Night Vision

FLIR Ocean Scout TK™

The FLIR Ocean Scout TK is a marine thermal camera that extends your vision on the water, day or night, for greater awareness and safety. As a thermal imager, the Ocean Scout TK creates images based on heat, not visible light. Vessels, watercraft, buoys, and other obstacles give off heat and appear clearly in all lighting conditions - from pitch darkness to blinding sun glare.

GREATER AWARENESS ON THE WATER
See obstacles and objects like boats, buoys, and channel markers up to 130 yards away, and steer clear of rocks and floating debris. Identify landmarks like docks, inlets, and jetties and locate people and pets overboard.

GRAB AND GO SIMPLICITY
Ocean Scout TK starts up in seconds, and with easy-to-use buttons no training is required. Submersible (IP67) and built to withstand harsh marine environments.
