SUE REYNOLDS RICE ('56)

Sue Reynolds Rice passed away on May 8, 2020. She is preceded in death by her parents Hassell and Kathryn Reynolds. Sue is survived by her loving husband, C. Fred Rice and her children, Linda Rice, Cindy Rice Grissom (Greg) and Jerry Rice; grandchildren Sarah and Justin Grissom, Sada and Simon Rice; sisters Rita Satterly, Jolene Scott (Bill); brother Jay Reynolds (Alice) and other dear family members. She has had excellent care and the family wishes to thank her caregivers. A special thanks goes to Ivanka Pala who has been her close friend and right hand for running the household for over 20 years. Sue was born August 19, 1936 and raised in the historic

"H. P. Bottom House" on their family farm in Perryville, Kentucky. She graduated from Campbellsville College in 1956, then taught grade school students in Perryville and attended summer school at Eastern Kentucky University for two years before deciding to attend EKV full time to obtain her B.S. in Elementary Education and her Masters degree in Guidance and Counseling.

Sue and Fred have been best friends since that beautiful summer day when they met on Boonesborough Beach while students at Eastern Kentucky University. She and Fred married on August 13, 1958 while still in college. After graduation, in their early years of marriage, they both taught school, first in Boyle County and then in Henry County. Fred also coached basketball and Sue enthusiastically attended every game. Their passion for basketball continued throughout their lives. Sue loved her students and enjoyed teaching but retired in the early 60's to raise their three children, support Fred's growing insurance career and have the freedom to travel with him on their many business and pleasure trips.

Sue loved to travel with her husband, her children and later her grandchildren. They had great times at conferences (which always seemed to be held in beautiful resorts). She was always an active participant at the social events and group dinners and enjoyed making friends from all parts of the country (and sometimes stealing their wine glass at dinner if hers was empty!)

Sue had a great passion for music and especially loved live performances, whether it was watching a grandchild singing or playing the piano, attending a rock concert or recently her Hospice pastor playing the guitar and singing hymns. Sue loved attending shows and plays (her grandkids' performances, Actors Theatre and Broadway Series) attending sporting events (including little league, high school and college). She especially loved attending University of Louisville (and University of Kentucky) college football and basketball events and went to most every game she could. Even during her last stages of life, she did not want to miss a ballgame!

Sue enjoyed playing tennis and made friends of all ages (she was more of a social player than a competitive player). She loved to shop (adored a good bargain!) and collected interesting and artistic clothing, accessories and jewelry. She and Fred loved eating out and supported local restaurants but would gladly drive miles for a good meal (or piece of pie).

Sue and Fred live in Naples, FL (and have homes in Louisville, KY and St. Thomas, USVI) where she enjoyed spending time outdoors, hanging out by the pool, boating, walking on the beach and watching sunsets. Sue is a member of the First Baptist Church (Naples, FL), Broadway Baptist Church (Louisville, KY), Quail West Country Club and Louisville Women's Club. She formerly belonged to Quail Creek Country Club, Naples Yacht Club, St. Thomas Yacht Club and Hunting Creek Country Club. She was adored by her family and friends and will be greatly missed. There will be a private service due to the current pandemic. Arrangements under the direction of Pearson's. Memorial contributions may be made to Hosparus or Fund for the Arts.

RUTH HARRISON ('07)

Ruth Harrison, wife, mother, teacher, musician, cook, athlete, decorator, gardener, went to be with her Lord Jesus on Saturday, June 20, 2020, at her home in Philpot, KY.

She was preceded in death by her mother, June Martell, and father, Richard Martell. She is survived by husband, Vic Harrison; sons, Andrew Harrison (Meagan) of Owensboro, and David Harrison (Emily) of Knoxville, TN; brother, Dan Martell (Christa) of Habit; and sister, Martha Hoskinson (Ed) of White Plains.

Born Ruth Marie Martell on Nov. 9, 1961, in Madisonville, Kentucky, Ruth grew up in Nebo, Kentucky, attending Nebo Elementary, where her mother was her fourth grade teacher. Ruth was a point guard on the region-winning West Hopkins High School Rebelettes basketball team, and also played softball and tennis, and played flute in the band. She graduated from Kentucky

Wesleyan College where she majored in vocal music/music education. She earned the fifth-year masters degree certificate from Northern Kentucky University and a Rank 1 in Special Education from Campbellsville University.

She was a substitute teacher in Hopkinsville, Madisonville, and Springfield, KY. She taught music at the St. Joseph's Children's Home in Louisville, KY, at Ockerman Middle School in Florence, KY, and at Seven Hills Elementary in Owensboro. Then she was a long-time special needs teacher at Foust Elementary until her retirement.

Ruth served the Lord by offering her gift of song and leadership to thousands. Her love for Jesus and her Christian witness was clear, whether she was sharing a word of encouragement with her co-workers, or singing before crowds large and small. She performed for weddings throughout the state, singing and playing piano. She served as the Minister to Children at Springfield Baptist Church and directed the children's choirs both at Springfield and at Burlington Baptist Church, Burlington, KY. She also directed Vacation Bible Schools, and organized and hosted senior adult "game nights" at both locations.

Since 1999 Ruth was an active member at First Baptist Church, Owensboro. While at FBC Owensboro she performed as a soloist, as a choir member, and sang with the ensemble, Rejoice. She served on several committees through the years and enjoyed playing on the women's softball team. She was a faithful partner and minister with her husband wherever he served, and continued that role as a co-teacher and "chief encourager" for the Adult 4 "Fellowship" class at First Baptist, Owensboro. Ruth was an encourager to everyone, making each person feel welcome and lending quick-witted humor at every opportunity in their Bible study classes and social gatherings. One of her greatest joys was sharing her home and gift of hospitality with her church family. She also enjoyed participating in mission opportunities in Owensboro, in Mexico, and in the American west with the music ministry and the youth ministry at FBC.

Ruth loved to raise her voice in song to the Lord. She also enjoyed playing piano, raising flowers, making flower arrangements, mowing the yard, playing with pets, playing ping pong, cooking, hosting "get-togethers", and decorating for the seasons. She was known for her elaborate Christmas trees filled with unique ornaments from across the country and the world and for her lantern collection. But what struck people most about Ruth was her quick, witty humor, and her contagious positive outlook. She had an uncommon zest for life.

At home she was a tireless cheerleader and supporter of her husband and family. She always wanted them to feel special and spared no effort or expense to make it so. She constantly found joy in doing small things and large things for them. Her gifts of song, hospitality, and humor made Ruth the perfect spouse to compliment her husband's ministry, and she was his best friend and advisor.

Services will be at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, June 24, 2020, at First Baptist Church, 230 J.R. Miller Blvd, in Owensboro. Those attending the service will need to enter the church on the Daviess Street entrance. Burial will follow at Resurrection Cemetery. Visitation was on Tuesday from 3 until 7 p.m. at James H. Davis Funeral Home & Crematory. Elam lived a full life and career as a beef and dairy farmer; real estate investor; insurance agency owner; an educator; and was active in local, state and national politics. His teaching career started in Spencer, TN in a one room school, then as a principal in a two room school and he taught elementary, middle and high school grades, (Van Buren Co Tennessee, Rockvale High School, Tennessee; Chattanooga Tyner High School, Tennessee; Hillsboro High School, Nashville, Tennessee; LaFayette High School, Georgia; and Louisville High School, Kentucky. He is a former principal in (Tennessee) at Van Buren Co., Woodbury High School, Rockvale Elementary School and Smyrna Elementary School.

He taught college at MTSU, University of Georgia and Campbellsville College, Kentucky, (as associate college dean in Science where he conducted research on radiation effects on food.) His areas of studies and classes taught include General Biology, Genetics, Entomology, Embryology, Ecology, Radio Biology, General Chemistry, Physical Science, Human Biology, and Botany.

Elam graduated from MTSU with a bachelor, master and an administrator-supervision in Education. He completed post masters work at Murray State University, Memphis State University, Mercer University, Colorado State University, Oak Ridge Associated University, Vanderbilt University; and attended YMCA Law School; conducted research at Colorado State University and Oak Ridge Associated University; and held a PhD in Physics. His research areas included radio isotopes, radiation poisoning antidotes and radiation effects on food.

Elam served as Rutherford County Schools Superintendent (1977-1982 and 1990-1994). Rutherford County qualified under numerous categories and received the recognition of the Tennessee Governors A+ program for school achievement and improvement under his last term in office for Rutherford County.

In 1994, he was selected by the Tennessee State Commissioner of Education to represent Tennessee out of 95 counties to the 53rd National Superintendent Conference, held in New York. At this conference, voted on for the number and amount of success of innovative programs implemented during his four years by his peers and he was awarded, "National Superintendent of The Year", receiving 49 out of 50 states' votes from recognized Superintendents chosen from their respective states.

Mr. Carlton retired as the last elected Superintendent of Rutherford County Schools; he also served as Metcalf County, Kentucky Superintendent of Schools; and interim Director of Cannon County Schools, where many board members and county commissioners were his former students during his time at Woodbury High School, many years prior.

During his terms in office as Rutherford County superintendent of schools he and the board oversaw additions to most all schools, he worked with Nissan to establish training for high school students interested in working at the car factory; planned and built Smyrna Elementary School, the first new school following Nissan coming to Smyrna; sold the idea on the tri-school complex; helped locate and obtain land for the Blackman schools; and located land for Rockvale, Lascassas, Kittrell, Walter Hill, and Buchannan current locations; and oversaw the building of four elementary schools, Stewartsboro, Rockvale, Kittrell and Lascassas; the rebuilding of Eagleville School following a fire; and opening of the new Rockvale Elementary school on Highway 99. As a parting gift, Elam was given the old Rockvale School bell for his retirement, which he put on loan and is displayed in the elementary school lobby.

Elam oversaw the closing and festivities of the old Rockvale School, even acting in the reproduction of his 1951 senior class play, "Here Comes Charlie". Rather than seeing the old Rockvale school site completely torn down, he arranged for part of the old building to be leased for a community center and ball field. That arrangement continues to exist today. The community center is operated by the Rockvale Ruritan Club and the annual 4th of July picnic was changed to a fundraiser to support the center.

Some of the accomplishments during his term benefiting Rutherford County include: The change to pitch roofs for lower maintenance cost featured first by Rockvale Middle School; implemented a county school proactive maintenance program; regular roof inspections to control repair cost; implemented a standardized pay model; established the counties first Alternative School, to work with students expelled from regular schools. Elam and Sheriff Truman Jones established the first school resource officers in county schools.

Mr. Carlton implemented a 20 year technology plan for teachers and students in all Rutherford County schools. This technology plan included adding technology teachers, computer labs and a general upgrade to all schools to accommodate for wiring in old and new school buildings. Rutherford County schools became ahead of the rest of the state with this move toward technology. He felt strongly, it was the future, and a necessity for students to be competitive in the 21st century workplace. He went to IBM, personally, and solicited an arrangement for IBM to partner with Rutherford County Schools, arranging for each computer the schools bought, IBM would donate a computer, and the school system would add computers each year for additional grades.

Other initiatives implemented during his terms involved teacher mentor programs; a teacher work center and students reading and doing math at their own level; the computerized reading program and the hands on science programs; all these efforts raised test scores significantly in Rutherford County schools and some of these programs continue in schools, today.

DR. KENNETH H. POPE

In his book Outliers, the researcher and author Malcom Gladwell reports that in terms of career opportunities, the best year to be born in the 20th century was 1935. Kenneth Harden Pope had the good sense and foresight to come in to this world on May 9th of that year in Shubuta, Mississippi. He was the first child of Matt and Roma Ree Pope. He was soon joined by his sister Roma Jean and then his brother Bernard. Some years later, the baby brother, Jimmy Lee rounded out these Mississippi siblings.

Due to the depression and then WWII, the family moved numerous times between Mississippi and Baton Rouge, Louisiana while Ken was a boy. When he was in 9th grade the family landed in Jackson, Mississippi where they remained. It was in high school in Jackson that he met his first love, Fay Touchstone. They married on April 22, 1956 and were together until her death in 2012.

Dr. Pope attended Mississippi College along with Fay. He put himself through school by delivering mail for the US Post Office. In 1959, their daughter, Robin, was born. After graduating with his BS in Mathematics, Dr. Pope then earned a MS in Mathematics from the University of Mississippi. During this time he also served in the Mississippi National Guard. At some point during his early 20s he felt the call to ministry. More on that in a moment.

He graduated from Ole Miss in the Spring of 1962. Dr. Pope sometimes liked to point out that James Meredith, the first African American student at the University of Mississippi began classes in the Fall of that year. Upon graduating Dr. Pope had several job opportunities. One would have taken the young family to California to work for Boeing, but this seemed way to far away from home for them. He settled instead to venture part way into the “North” and accepted a faculty position at Hannibal La Grange College Extension Center in St. Louis. While the family was in St. Louis, John Pope was born.

In 1964, Dr. Pope began a PhD program in math at the University of Missouri in Columbia. The following year he was offered a faculty position in Mathematics at Hannibal La Grange College in Hannibal Missouri. There he remained until 1982 serving as Math professor, Dean and eventually Vice President of Financial Development. During those years he was continually seeking out more knowledge, eventually earning his PhD in Higher Adult Education at the University of Missouri.

While working full time and taking courses at the University of Missouri during some summers and in Chicago at other times, he followed his call to the ministry and served as interim pastor in rural churches in North East Missouri and Western Illinois. His children have fond memories of playing in church graveyards and marveling at the outhouses in use in many of these churches. They have less fond memories of sitting on pews in unairconditioned buildings trying to get a breeze going with the funeral fans.

Not to be content with a full-time job, a rural pastorship, and traveling to attend university classes, Dr. Pope earned his private pilot's license in his "spare" time. He could rarely persuade Fay to get in a plane but he certainly enjoyed being in the air. At least one time he and his friend had to land their plane in a convenient field rather than on an airstrip.

In 1982 with a partially empty nest, Dr. Pope accepted a Vice President position at Campbellsville College (Now University). He kept that position until "retirement" when he launched a career as a Certified Financial Planner with New York Life Insurance. He also stepped in to preach when needed at churches in the Campbellsville area. Because apparently he was not busy enough, he was a member of and held office in the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs. He also was a 32nd degree Mason. Ken and Fay enjoyed their retirement by traveling and taking care of their grandchildren, Christopher Hackett, Lydia Pope-Clark, and Gabriel Pope.

After the death of Fay in 2012, Dr. Pope surprised himself by falling head over heels in love with Susan Tesseneer. They had a joyous wedding on June 20, 2014. They were truly soulmates and enjoyed every moment of their too short time together. Dr. Pope took his last breathe with his dear Susan at his side.

Besides his wife, Susan Lee Tesseneer-Street-Pope of Campbellsville, he is survived by one son and one daughter: John Harden Pope and his sweetheart, Erica Ullman of Lexington and Dr. Robin Pope Santa-Teresa and husband, Ben of Silver City, New Mexico; two step-sons: Robert Beni Street, II and Ralph Calvin Street, Sr.; one daughter-in-law of the heart, Susan Pope; three grandchildren: Christopher Hackett and wife, Amanda Brusich-Hackett of Milwaukie, Oregon, Lydia Pope Clark and husband, Matthew of Seoul, Korea and Gabriel Pope of Milwaukie, Oregon; seven step-grandchildren; one brother, Jimmy Lee Pope and wife, Glenda of Metairie, Louisiana; several nieces and nephews and many other relatives and friends.

He was also preceded in death by one brother and one sister: Bernard Pope and Roma Jean Dykes.
