Teachers notes

It is important that children do this activity in class. Afterwards, the class teacher should go through the answers and supported commentary below, ensuring that children understand how they can keep safe and what they can do to get support.

- Games and apps are a great way to relax and have fun. But it's important to be careful about what we share online to keep safe.
- Age ratings (also called PEGI ratings) help make sure everyone can enjoy games without seeing things that might upset or disturb them. All boxed games and games on Google Play and the App Store will have an age rating and should say if the game includes inappropriate scenes, horror, or violence.
- Teachers could explore how children would feel if they seen something inappropriate online. They might feel frightened, uncomfortable or scared or they may be prompted to copy the observed behaviour.
- Most apps and games are given one of the following age ratings: 3, 7, 12, 16 or 18. This provides a reliable indication of the suitability of the game content for children.

If a child is ever worried about whether or not to play a game, it's important they speak to an adult they trust. Remember that nobody should pressure a child into playing games or going on other sites or apps that they are not comfortable with. Discuss reporting using the report abuse online (CEOP report button).
