International Poster Gallery proudly announces its 16th Annual Summer Poster Show featuring a spectacular collection of original vintage travel posters from the last 100 years. Travel has been one of the most popular and widespread poster categories since the medium's birth in the late 19th Century. The exhibition focuses on the fascinating changes in travel and travel posters over four periods - the 1890s to WWI, the Twenties, the Thirties, and the Postwar era of the Fifties and Sixties. It traces the roots of the travel poster from the early days of train travel through the golden era of the ocean liner, zeppelin and jet plane. Selections are taken from International Poster's world-leading collection of more than 1200 travel posters.

Research Images

Striking images from Cardiff University

A major public display showcasing striking research images at Cardiff University is taking place at Amgueddfa Cymru – National Museum of Wales in Cardiff.

Bringing together 43 images made up of photographs, computer generated images and drawings; it represents the variety and benefits of research taking place in every academic school.

From striking images of microneedles from the School of Pharmacy, to an image of the back of the eye of a person with diabetes from the School of Medicine – the display provides an excellent opportunity to see images illustrating the breadth of research from all parts of the University.

The exhibition runs until 16 August 2009.

Legal Aid offers different kinds of help, depending on your legal problem. You may need a lawyer to go to court with you, or you may just need some advice or some assistance with court documents.

In family matters we cover the following cases:

- To get custody of your children or to change custody
- To set up, increase or decrease child or spousal support payments
- To help you if your partner denies you access to your children
- To get access for you to see your children or to make a major change to access arrangements that have already been made
- To stop your partner from selling or destroying your property
- To negotiate ownership of things like RRSPs or pensions that could provide you with some income
- To get access for grandparents or other relatives to see a child

Microsoft is running a promotion whereby upgrade editions of Windows 7 can be pre-ordered for as little as $50.

As one of the e-tailers participating in the promotion, Newegg still offers the Windows 7 Home Premium upgrade for $49.99 shipped and the Windows 7 Professional upgrade for $99.99 shipped. Once the promotion ends, those upgrades will cost $119.99 and $199.99, respectively. So, you know, don't wait around if you're planning to make the switch when the new OS comes out in October.

Again, these upgrades require a legit copy of either Windows XP or Windows Vista. You can grab any edition you want, though, regardless of which version of XP or Vista you're running.

If you've already gotten the upgrade (or if you just have other plans) there are other interesting deals lurking around. Race Driver GRID is available for $14.99 this weekend only on Valve's Steam online store—that's 50% off.

if you really want to see the wild life of the tropical rainforests of northern Queensland, you need to get out at night that is when most wildlife is active. This trip is an ideal way to do just that in a small group led by an accomplished guide.

Alberto Vale has been leading wildlife tours in the area for years, and his experience, knowledge and passion make him an ideal guide. Like the fact that he conducts his tours with an ecological bent, keeping the group size small and visiting his favorite secret spots in the forest. An extra bonus to this trip is the early evening behind the scenes visit to a working crocodile farm, where you can see these amazing creatures up close, and not in a typical tourist environment.
