ROMERO PLEADS GUILTY.

The Brutal Murderer, at the Preliminary Hearing, Said He Was Guilty.

District Attorney Finical, through the selsiant attorneys, opposed the granting of the adjournment.

Justice Chavez concluded to let the wo men separately.

Romero was then brought up, and the complaint, charging him with nurder, cad to him the plead guilty to the charge, offering in extenuation of his charge, offering in extenuation of his conduct that he was too drunk at the time to know what he was doing. He was remanded to the county juil, with at ball, to await the action of the gran ry. A recess was then taken

The following article was prepared for publication in The Citizen of yesterday afternoon, but owing to an accumulation of good news on Decoration day it was of good news on Decoration day it was crowded out:

Though Romero tries to place the guilt of the crime on tracta the result of an investigation by a Cirtizen representative, who was detailed to marn the facts in the case, proves concusively that Romero did the shooting.
Garcia was an accessory after, if not before the fact, and he will doubtless have difficulty in proving that he was have difficulty in proving that he was not a direct accomplice in the murder. Homero fired the gun, but Garcia made no effort to restrain him, and if not equally guilty with Romero, the man deserves severe punishment for his part in the crime.

SEE A DEERIGERATORS and ICE-BOXES, Save more ice SURANCE Gasoline Stove. "The Safe Gasoline Stove." The ALASKA REFRIGERATORS and ICE-BOXES, Save more ice that the man riding the roan horse was the one that did the shooting. When Romero was interviewed on Saturday last he stated that he was riding a bay horse, and Sheriff Hubbell agreed that when Romero was captured he was mounted on an animal of this shade of color, Garcia had the roan horse. So THE CITIZEN hesitated about charging either one or the other as the actual murderer. It now deciares however, that an exchange of horses was made after the men crossed the bridge. Garcia, whose horse was a much stronger and swifter animal than the one Romero rode. gave this horse to the murderer that h might more readily escape and then him self proceeded with the roan horse to the camp where he was caught.

This action of Garcia's, it is easily seen, would in all probability have placed him in the light of being the one who did the shooting, were it not for other circumstances which go to show that Ro-mero is the man who had the gun at the time of the killing of young D'Bannon.
Another actual witness of the murder has been found in Louis Aragon, a brother of one of the little fellows among whom the shots were fired. Louis is a lad of 15 Shirt Waists, Red, White and Blue, the National colors. years. He was in a garden opposite the O'Bannon home when Romero and Garda rode along. He saw the man who had the revolver flourishing the weapon, and fearing the man might turn the gun on him he started on a run for the house.
