The Federal Supreme Court (BGH) has ruled in the measles virus trial. The First Civil Senate of the BGH | Higher Regional Court of Stuttgart (OLG) of the 16 February 2016. The sum of €100,000 which I had offe of the existence of the alleged measles virus does not have to be paid to the plaintiff. The plaintiff also w costs.

Five experts have been involved in the case and presented the results of scientific studies. All five expert Podbielski who had been appointed by the OLG Stuttgart as the preceding court, have consistently found which have been introduced to the trial, contains scientific proof of the existence of the alleged measles '

Genetics falsifies thesis of existence

In the trial, the results of research into so-called genetic fingerprints of alleged measles virus have been laboratories, including the world's largest and leading genetic Institute, arrived at exactly the same result that the authors of the six publications in the measles virus case were wrong, and as a direct result all n today: They have misinterpreted ordinary constituents of cells as part of the suspected measles virus.

Because of this error, during decades of consensus building process, normal cell constituents were menta measles virus. To this day, an actual structure that corresponds to this model has been found neither in a results of the genetic tests, all thesis of existence of measles virus has been scientifically disproved.

The authors of the six publications and all other persons involved, did not realise the error because they duty, which is the need to work "lege artis", i.e. in accordance with internationally defined rules and best carry out any control experiments. Control experiments would have protected authors and mankind from became the basis of belief in the existence of any disease-causing viruses. The expert appointed by the c answering to the relevant question by the court, as per page 7 of the protocol explicitly confirmed that th control experiments.

The OLG Stuttgart on 16 February 2016 overturned the judgment of the court of first instance, dismissed to the central message of Prof. Podbielski with respect to the six publications. The plaintiff filed an appea to the Supreme Court. As reason he stated his subjective, yet factually false perception of the trial seque the assertion that our naming of facts about measles posed a threat to public health. The plaintiff's posit Court in plain words. Thus, the Supreme Court confirmed the judgment of the OLG Stuttgart from 16 Feb

Conclusions

The six publications submitted in the trial are the main relevant publications on the subject of "measles v publications there not any other publications which would attempt by scientific methods to prove the exis Supreme Court judgment in the measles virus trial and the results of the genetic tests have consequence statements on the alleged measles virus, the infectivity of measles, and on the benefit and safety of vacca then of no scientific character and have thus been deprived of their legal basis.

Upon enquiries which had been triggered by the measles virus contest, the head of the National Referenc Robert Koch Institute (RKI), Prof. Dr. Annette Mankertz, admitted an important fact. This admission may vaccination-induced disabilities, namely of vaccination against measles, and why and how specifically thi increasingly trigger autism.

Prof. Mankertz has admitted that the "measles virus" contains typical cell's natural components (ribosomes). Since the vaccination against measles contains whole "whole measles virus", this vaccine contains cell's components. The vaccination against measles causes frequent and more severe allergies and autoimmune reactions than the natural virus. expert Prof. Podbielski stated on several occasions that by the assertion of the RKI with regard to ribosomes the existence of measles virus has been falsified.

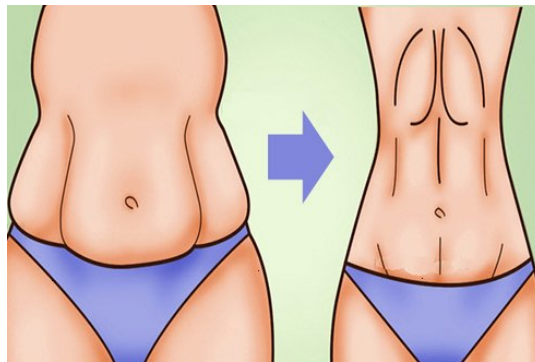

In the trial it was also put on record that the highest German scientific authority in the field of infectious diseases, the Robert Koch Institute (RKI), has failed to create tests for alleged measles virus. The RKI claims that it made internal studies on measles virus, however refuses to hand over or publish the results.
