Frank Lloyd Wright's Hollyhock House

Donald Hoffmann

Lavishly illustrated and carefully documented, this study recounts the turbulent history of one of Wright's most imaginative and controversial residential designs. Conceived and executed amid a cloud of rancor and anguish, Hollyhock House was built in 1920–21 for oil heiress Aline Barnsdale. More than 120 black-and-white photographs, floor plans, elevations, and sketches complement this perceptive account of the building's design and construction. 128pp. 9 1/4 x 10 3/4.

Unique take on the works of Franz Kafka by 2016 Eisner Award-winner for Ruins — includes three all-new tales

KAFKAesque

Peter Kuper

In this hardcover collection, Eisner Award-winning artist Peter Kuper recaptures the dark humor underlying Kafka's fiction with these graphic interpretations of a dozen tales — three of which are brand new. Moody, woodcut-style images reminiscent of the German Expressionist style bring a dramatic energy to these evocative adaptations. "The ride from book to comic can be bumpy, [but] Kuper navigates the transition with precision." — The New York Times. 96pp. 6 1/8 x 9 1/4.

Time Breakers The Complete Collection

Rachel Pollack
Illustrated by Chris Weston

Everyone knows that those who venture into the past have to be careful not to change the future. But what if a crew of adventurers created time paradoxes instead of avoiding them? And what if the universe itself depended on these paradoxes? This single-volume edition comprises all five issues of the acclaimed limited DC Comics series tracing the rollicking exploits of a band of time travelers. 160pp. 6 5/8 x 10 1/4.
