Qualification Overview

The aim of these qualifications is to recognise the application of a range of IT user skills and knowledge in the workplace or an educational setting. The flexibility of the ITQ will enable individuals' skills to be adapted for a specific work-based activity and/or employer requirement.

The ITQ allows for flexibility and choice through the use of optional units and spiky profiles. Learners, tutors and employers can identify the most appropriate units and levels of skills to meet their needs and candidates can have a range of competences recognised at lower or higher levels than the level of the award.

There are several features of these qualifications that make them very appropriate for their target learners:

- They are assessed through a portfolio of evidence, allowing the accumulation of evidence relevant to the learner's application of IT skills over a period of time
- Verification and certification can be offered throughout the year, allowing maximum flexibility for centres
- They can be delivered either as classroom-based courses or as a blended learning programme
- Evidence can be generated within a wide range of organisational contexts, allowing the qualification to meet the specific occupational requirements of the learners

Aims

The aims of the qualification are to enable learners:

- To gain knowledge, understanding and skills, specific to their individual IT needs either in a work or a school/college environment
- To study a flexible programme, combining bite-sized chunks of learning to build a complete qualification in a timescale convenient for them
- To study a wide range of IT-related units, combining them within a portfolio of evidence to complete a qualification

Target Group

These qualifications are aimed at a range of learners, including:

- Employees and work-based learners
- Full-time students, including those under 16 (Level 1 and 2)
- Unemployed learners wishing to enhance their work-related skills
