FUTURE HORIZONS

World Leader in Resources and Conferences on Autism, Asperger's Syndrome, and Sensory Issues since 1996

From the Publisher

Dear Friend,

Future Horizons was created to meet the needs of teachers, therapists, and family members who face the challenge of autism. Our books, videos, and conferences are geared to bring you the most current information possible to assist in that challenge.

It is our strong belief that every child and adult with autism can improve and contribute to the lives of those who love them and, in many ways, contribute to society.

We at Future Horizons pride ourselves in bringing to the mission not only a strong sense of professionalism, but one that is also based on personal relationships. Virtually all of us have family members or friends who are affected.

Personally I am proud to be the father of a wonderful son, whom I had the immense pleasure of watching develop into a fine young man. Alex was a light that lit up lives wherever he went.

Whether working with TEACCH in North Carolina, speaking at Future Horizons conferences, attending the family gatherings he enjoyed so much, meeting people at our bookstores, working in the jobs he held, etc., his delightful sense of humor, courtesy, and caring improved the lives of all who knew him. You could not help but smile back at his infectious grin.

He never, never said anything disparaging or demeaning about another person. I never heard him say an unkind or hateful word about anyone.

Alex made me a better man and is the genesis for this company. People often compliment me or my staff as they relate how our offerings have made their lives easier and better. With due deference to the fact that I have a terrific staff, we and you owe it all to him. Without him, Future Horizons would not exist.

His memory lives on through our efforts.

Thank you, Alex. I'm honored that you called me Dad.

Keep Smiling!

Asperger's Syndrome
A Guide for Parents and Professionals
by Tony Attwood

Dr. Tony Attwood's guide will assist parents and professionals with the identification, treatment, and care of children and adults with Asperger's Syndrome. Beginning with a chapter on diagnosis, Dr. Attwood covers issues such as language, social behavior, and motor clumsiness. The book also includes a helpful FAQ section and case studies from the author's experience as a clinical psychologist, along with testimonials from people with Asperger's Syndrome.

The Complete Guide to Asperger's Syndrome
by Tony Attwood

Dr. Attwood offers a reader-friendly yet authoritative account of all aspects of AS from childhood through adulthood including possible causes of the syndrome, diagnosis and its effect on the individual, theory of mind, perception of emotions, social interaction, long-term relationships, bullying, sensory sensitivity, career development, and many other topics. An expanded version of his first book on AS, this book is a must-have.

Cognitive Behaviour Therapy to Manage ANGER

by Tony Attwood

Winner of a 2008 Teachers' Choice Award! When children have trouble understanding or expressing their feelings, the result can be difficulty with anger management. This book provides a guide for caregivers, and the workbook portion asks children to identify situations that trigger their anger. Listing possible responses to situations—and the likely outcomes—allows the child to make informed decisions about which responses to choose (e.g., walking away vs. hitting).

Exploring Feelings

Cognitive Behaviour Therapy to Manage ANXIETY

by Tony Attwood

Winner of a 2008 Teachers' Choice Award! Anxiety can be especially confusing for a child. But learning about emotions, and the effects they can have on the body, helps children recognize the connections between thinking and feeling. In this workbook, children identify situations that make them anxious—and then learn how to perceive them differently.

Temple Grandin

As a child, Temple Grandin could not speak. Her silent existence was broken only by rhythmic rocking and occasional fits of screaming and thrashing.

Diagnosed with autism, Temple's many caregivers eventually helped her contradict her doctors' morbid predictions and go on to become one of the autism community's most beloved success stories. Temple Grandin, PhD, is a popular international lecturer on autism and the author of Emergence: Labeled Autistic, Thinking in Pictures, Animals in Translation, Developing Talents, Unwritten Rules of Social Relationships, and The Way I See It. One of the world's leading experts in livestock facility design, over half of the cattle in North America are handled in facilities designed by her. Temple credits her visual thinking and her systemizing mind—both characteristics of autism—for her ability to be “the woman who thinks like a cow.” Temple continues to be an inspiration and role model to millions.

Ten Things Every Child with Autism Wishes You Knew

UPDATED AND EXPANDED EDITION

by Ellen Notbohm

A bestseller gets even better! Every parent, teacher, social worker, therapist, and physician should have this succinct and informative book in their back pocket. Framed with both humor and compassion, the book describes ten characteristics that help illuminate—not define—children with autism. A bonus section includes ten more essential, thought-provoking “things” to share with young people on the spectrum as they cross the threshold of adulthood, and an appendix of more than seventy questions suitable for group discussion or self-reflection. This new edition sounds an even more resonant call to action, carrying the reader farther into understanding the needs and the potential of every child with autism.

Ten Things Your Student with Autism Wishes You Knew

by Ellen Notbohm

Winner of an iParenting Media Award and Finalist in the 2006 ForeWord Book of the Year Awards! In this exciting sequel, a child's voice teaches caregivers of children with autism how to understand their thinking patterns, shape an environment conducive to their learning style, and communicate with them in meaningful ways. It's the game plan every educator, parent, or family member needs to make the most of every “teaching moment.”

1001 Great Ideas for Teaching and Raising Children with Autism or Asperger's

by Ellen Notbohm, Veronica Zysk

Silver Award Winner in the 2010 Independent Publisher Book Awards!

Respond to "I can't" with "Yes, you can. I am here to help. I have lots of ideas. We will try until we find one that works."

Ellen Notbohm and Veronica Zysk are authors who know how to take their own advice. Winner of Learning Magazine's Teachers' Choice Award, the first edition of 1001 Great Ideas has been a treasured resource in the autism community since 2004. Now, in this expanded edition, Ellen Notbohm (best-selling author of the revolutionary book Ten Things Every Child with Autism Wishes You Knew) and Veronica Zysk (award-winning author and editor of Autism Asperger's Digest magazine) present parents and educators with over 1800 ideas—try-it-now tips, eye-opening advice, and grassroots strategies.

More than 600 fresh ideas join tried and true tactics from the original edition, while many ideas pick up where the first edition left off, offering modifications for older kids, honing in on Asperger's challenges, and enhancing already-effective ways to help your child or student achieve success at home, in school, and in the community.

The Autism Trail Guide Postcards from the Road Less Traveled

by Ellen Notbohm

"Do not go where the path may lead, go instead where there is no path and leave a trail."

—Ralph Waldo Emerson

Ellen Notbohm's child-centered approach to autism is already having immeasurable effects on the autism community. A cohesive compilation of her best articles, The Autism Trail Guide: Postcards from the Road Less Traveled will help parents of children with autism take on everyday challenges while celebrating what their children bring to their world. Ellen offers advice on concrete issues such as math homework, video games, and tricky behavior. She also tackles the more abstract concepts of parenting: trusting parental instincts, when to take risks, how to hang on, and when to let go. This book is absolutely invaluable to all who are "on the autism trail."

Comic Strip Conversations Illustrated Interactions that Teach Conversation Skills to Students with Autism and Related Disorders

by Carol Gray

Carol Gray combines stick-figures with "conversation symbols" to illustrate what people say and think during conversations. Children can recognize that, although people say one thing, they may think something quite different—a concept foreign to "concrete-thinking" children. Children can draw their own "comic strips" to show what they are thinking and feeling about events or people. A great tool!

The Sixth Sense II Sharing Information about Autism Spectrum Disorders with General Education Students

by Carol Gray

This unique lesson plan was developed to share information about autism with general education students, to explain behaviors that might otherwise be misinterpreted as frightening, odd, or rude. Reviewing the five senses with students creates the perfect introduction to their sixth—or social—sense. Activities focus on how other people see, hear, touch, taste, and smell, and how that can affect the way they feel and think.

The Social Skills Picture Book

Teaching Play, Emotion, and Communication to Children with Autism

by Jed Baker

Winner of an iParenting Media Award, this book uses photographs of students engaging in a variety of real-life social situations. Color photographs illustrate the "right way" and "wrong way" to approach each situation—and the positive/negative consequences of each. An adult then explains each situation, asking questions such as "What is happening here?" Children can role-play skills until they are confident enough to practice them in real life.

Carol Kranowitz

Author of the best-selling “Out-of-Sync Child” book series, Carol Kranowitz, MA, has been a preschool teacher for more than twenty-five years. As she taught music, movement, and drama to her students, she observed that many kids seemed “out of sync.” To help them become more competent in their work and play, she began studying sensory processing and sensory integration (SI) theory. She learned to help identify her young students’ needs and to steer them into early intervention. In writings and workshops in the United States and abroad, she explains to parents, educators, and other early childhood professionals how sensory issues play out—and provides fun and functional techniques for addressing them at home and school.

Answers to Questions Teachers Ask about Sensory Integration Forms, Checklists, and Practical Tools

by Carol Kranowitz, Stacey Szklut, Lynn Balzer-Martin, Elizabeth Haber, Deanna Iris Sava

With up to 20% of the students in any given classroom affected by Sensory Integration Disorder, Answers to Questions is an invaluable resource for teachers of pre-school through high school. The easy-to-use checklists help you identify students who have difficulty processing sensory information. Then you’ll find tried and true instructions for developing fine motor, “organizing,” and motor planning skills.

Special Diets for Special Kids, Volumes 1 and 2 Combined

Over 200 REVISED and NEW gluten-free casein-free recipes, plus research on the positive effects for children with autism, ADHD, allergies, celiac disease, and more!

by Lisa Lewis

Praised as a modern-day classic by celebrities and readers all over the world, the first edition of Special Diets for Special Kids has been helping children and adults with autism, ADHD, celiac disease, and other disorders since 1998. Special Diets for Special Kids Two followed up in 2001 by providing more recipes and updated research.

Now, this revised and expanded edition offers both books in one, complete with the latest research, revised recipes, and color photos throughout!

The first part of the book describes dietary intervention in detail, from both a scientific and a personal approach (the author's son has autism and has been on a GFCF diet for many years). In a nutshell, certain enzymes are required to break down gluten and casein. If those enzymes don't function well, or are not present at sufficient levels, serious neurological problems can result. Studies have shown that children with autism have a marked deficiency of these enzymes, which may explain why GFCF diets have yielded positive results for many children.

The second part of the book is an easy-to-follow cookbook. This section contains nearly 200 recipes, including many you would have never thought possible on a GFCF diet.

Best of all, this book comes with a FREE CD of printable recipes, so you can easily print out recipes as you use them and keep the book away from counter spills and drips!

Eyegames: Easy and Fun Visual Exercises

by Lois Hickman, Rebecca E. Hutchins

Developing healthy visual-motor abilities is more difficult in the complex stimulus of today's world than ever before. Our visual experiences can be overwhelmed by the vast complexity of artificial colors and sounds which did not exist in our ancestors' lives. Much more time is spent indoors, exposed to a myriad of unnatural colors, movement and imagery. We hibernate inside, interacting with machines instead of being out in the sunlight, looking at the far horizons, exploring natural environments. More and more time is spent sitting rather than moving, watching rather than doing.

What I Wish I'd Known about Raising a Child with Autism

A Mom and a Psychologist Offer Heartfelt Guidance for the First Five Years

by Bobbi Sheahan, Kathy DeOrnellas

Bobbi Sheahan, mother of a child with autism, and psychologist Kathy DeOrnellas, Ph.D., did not write this book to lecture you on how to parent your child. Instead, they offer themselves as your scouts in the field, who have valuable information to share—from the moment you realize your kid is different ("My, what a quiet baby I have!"), to the self-righteous moms on the playground, to holding your marriage together in the realm of routines. They candidly tackle ASD issues such as: Picky Eating, Bedtime Battles, Potty Training, Speech Delays, Discipline, Early Intervention, Sibling Rivalry, and much more!

Sensory Parenting For Elementary Children

Everything Is Easier when Your Child's Senses Are Happy!

by Britt Collins, Jackie Olson

A child's sensory system affects their ability to learn, play, socialize and function. Maybe a child isn't able to sit still in class because his shirt tag is bothering him. Or a child isn't able to play with other children because his balance is off and other kids make him feel unstable and dizzy. Beginning with the age of five, Britt and Jackie walk parents through everyday situations and duties all the way through your child's elementary years. They explain the underlying reasons beneath your child's negative behaviors and the often simple fixes (sometimes not so easy, but steps that will lead you towards success). Parenting can be less stressful when you're not struggling with your child's sensory systems.

Navigating the Social World DVD

A Curriculum for Individuals with Asperger's Syndrome, High-Functioning Autism, and Related Disorders

by Jeanette McAfee

Through humorous skits, audience participation, and excellent presentations, Dr. Jeanie McAfee and her co-host Amelia Davies address the most urgent problems facing those with Asperger's Syndrome, high-functioning autism, and related disorders. Over three hours long, this workshop will guide you through steps that can be employed in the classroom or at home. Includes an 80-page booklet!

Jeanie McAfee was born and raised in the Los Angeles area, and received her B.S. and medical degrees from the University of California at Davis. After completing an internship in pediatrics at Children's Hospital, Oakland, she spent several years providing general pediatric care to underserved children and three years working with children of U.S. servicemen in Germany. While attending medical school, she met and married the man of her dreams, Keith, and they now have four wonderful daughters.

When Jeanie's daughter Rachel was diagnosed with high-functioning autism (HFA) at the age of ten, Jeanie began a search for an appropriate treatment program for her. However, after doing extensive research on autism and Asperger's Syndrome, she soon discovered that it was difficult to find an existing program that addressed Rachel's special needs while maximizing her unique combination of strengths. This is what motivated Jeanie to write Navigating the Social World. Combining her medical background as a pediatrician with her understanding of her daughter's specific needs, Jeanie developed one of the most effective social curricula ever created. She strongly believes that the more parents and educators work together to share ideas and experiences, the better we will be able to help our students, clients, and loved ones with Asperger's Syndrome, high-functioning autism and related disorders to live happier and more productive lives.

Visual Techniques for Developing Social Skills

Activities and Lesson Plans for Teaching Children with High-Functioning Autism and Asperger's Syndrome

by Rebecca Moyes

Social skills instruction for K-8th grade children on the autism spectrum requires an emphasis on visuals, or "show-teaching" techniques, rather than language-based instruction. This book fulfills that need, consisting of easy-to-use, step-by-step lesson plans with a wealth of visual tools and aids for teaching children with high-functioning autism and Asperger's Syndrome.

Building Sensory Friendly Classrooms to Support Children with Challenging Behaviors

by Rebecca Moyes

Rebecca Moyes, a teacher, author, renowned lecturer, and mother of a child with Asperger's Syndrome, helps walk any regular education or special education teacher through the process of setting up a sensory-friendly classroom in this easy to use book. This is currently the only book that discusses the importance of data-driven strategies, and then helps teachers implement them! Sensory integration disorder often presents as a behavioral problem; thus, although it's an internal state, it has to be addressed based on what observable behaviors are seen in the child.

Diagnosing Jefferson Evidence of a Condition that Guided his Beliefs, Behavior, and Personal Associations by Norm Ledgin

Historians have long remarked on Thomas Jefferson's "peculiarities." But it took author Norm Ledgin, whose son has Asperger's Syndrome, to see what others did not. Ledgin carefully constructs a convincing case for the likelihood that Thomas Jefferson had Asperger's. He matches Jefferson's behaviors with five diagnostic criteria: social impairment, preoccupation with "special interests," impairment in nonverbal communication, lack of emotional reciprocity, and inflexible adherence to nonfunctional routines. A fascinating read!

Succeeding through Autism DVD A Presentation by Sean Barron

by Sean Barron

In this compelling DVD, Sean Barron tells the story of how he went from being a child with low-functioning autism to the successful man, journalist, and boyfriend he is today. He shares the details of his life's journey, as he transitioned from an isolated child to a happy, successful man. In a bonus section, Sean's girlfriend Barbara Protopapa, a young woman with autism, shares insight into her life and her relationship with Sean.

Sean Barron is an interesting and intelligent man who has faced the challenges of autism. He and his mother have written an insightful book on their lives together. There's a Boy in Here has won many accolades for offering the unique perspectives of two people who look at the same world but see and feel entirely different things. Mr. Barron has progressed to the point that it is difficult to even realize that he once was truly impacted by autism/Asperger's Syndrome. He is now a freelance writer, lives independently, and recently co-authored Unwritten Rules of Social Relationships with Dr. Temple Grandin. Sean is a graduate of Youngstown State University and works as a reporter for the Youngstown Vindicator. He's pursuing a second degree in journalism.

Autistic? How Silly Is That!

I Don't Need Any Labels at All

by Lynda Farrington Wilson

This light-hearted but poignant book gently pokes fun of the label "autistic" from a child-centered perspective. Young readers feel better about themselves after meeting their new friend, the narrator, who has autism as well as many other more important characteristics. Having autism is just one part of his overall character so it would be silly to label him as simply "autistic," just as it would be silly to define him by his brown hair, talent for swimming, or his love for jelly beans!

Picky, Picky Pete

A Boy and His Sensory Challenges

by Michele Griffin, OT

Written by Michele Griffin, an occupational therapist, this picture book is a must for any child with sensory processing disorder. Pete finds his clothes uncomfortable and can't stand "paint, soap, and things with lumps." He explains this to his mother and the reader in this fun children's book, as he and his mother navigate a difficult morning in the life of a young boy with sensory issues.

Tote Bag

A Future Horizons exclusive! Our "Special People, Special Ways" tote bag, with art from our children's book of the same name, is a quality canvas bag that is great for conferences, going back and forth to work or school, or as a general carry-all. At 19" x 17", you can really cram a lot of stuff in there! Spread the message of tolerance and diversity with this brightly-colored accessory.

Feelings Magnet

How are you feeling today? This refrigerator magnet leaves no emotion to the imagination.

Just slide the little blue frame over the face that best describes your mood. It's a great way for children and adults to share how they are feeling on a particular day.

Bearing our contact info on the bottom, it is also a great way to share our resources with others in your workplace.

Tangle Toy

Kids of all ages will have great time tangling and turning this odd little toy to create different shapes and feels. Teachers have found that these fidget-friendly toys can actually help children pay attention in class. The rhythmic motion of spinning the sections is quite relaxing. These toys have replaced stimming for many kids on the spectrum. Warning: you won't be able to put it down!

Due to small pieces, this toy is not suitable for children under the age of three.

The Writing CLAW

As many OTs, parents, and teachers have discovered, the Writing CLAW (Controlling Letters of Adolescent/Adult Writing) is a miracle grip that works like magic to promote proper grip, good handwriting, and increased fine motor function. The CLAW can stretch and slip over a variety of implements, such as crayons, markers, chalk, eating utensils, and other hand-manipulated objects. Fits both left- and right-handed users!

SMALL: 2 years - kindergarten

MEDIUM: kindergarten - 6th grade (most older girls and women stay at this size)

LARGE: 7th grade - adult
