Welcome to the 2017 AASA Top Automotive Aftermarket Suppliers

AASA, the Automotive Aftermarket Suppliers Association, is proud to present our 2017 Top Suppliers in the Automotive Aftermarket. This year, we are introducing a new addition to this listing: Emerging Technologies Providers List.

This value-added feature recognizes that suppliers today are at the cutting-edge of automotive technology. The aftermarket is a high-tech industry and suppliers are the driving force of this new technology. AASA suppliers also are a vital part of the motor vehicle supplier industry, which represents the largest sector of manufacturing jobs in U.S. Suppliers create 871,000 direct jobs and generate total employment impact of 4.26 million jobs.

We are pleased to include the Supplier Techline Directory again this year, a one-stop, pull-out section for use by countermen, service providers and technicians. The Supplier Techline Directory is supported by the AASA Know Your Parts® campaign and AASA member supporters: premier sponsor SMP and MAHLE, Spectra Premium and WIX. Know Your Parts was developed through a collaboration of AASA supplier members, some of the best product manufacturers in our industry. It continues to serve the industry by promoting high-quality products and brands that offer the assurance of safety, dependability and performance.

It is an exciting time to be part of the aftermarket as our industry grows and evolves to meet the needs of repairing and maintaining increasingly complex motor vehicles. AASA is committed to advancing its members' business interests and to the continued growth of the aftermarket industry.

NEW FEATURE:

The AASA Emerging Technology Providers List

AASA is introducing a new feature to the 2017 Top Aftermarket Suppliers List, reflecting the emergence of new, advanced technology providers in the automotive aftermarket. AASA's analysis and surveys of its supplier members indicate that new technology will disrupt "business as usual" in the aftermarket and will open new opportunities for both established companies and newcomers in the aftermarket space. These emerging technologies are broadly defined to include in-vehicle capabilities, data analytics and connected capabilities — the products and services associated with gathering and communicating diagnostic and prognostic data from a vehicle.

Below is the inaugural list of Emerging Technology Providers. It is intended as an introduction of this valuable feature, not a complete list of all companies, and AASA will continue to grow and expand this list in future issues of its Top Aftermarket Suppliers List. For more information about AASA's technology initiatives, visit www.aftermarketsuppliers.org or contact AASA Vice President Chris Gardner, cgardner@aasa.mema.org.

A black and white photograph of a mechanic in a workshop. The mechanic is wearing a short-sleeved button-down shirt, trousers, and safety glasses. He is looking upwards, reaching towards a yellow horizontal beam of a car lift. The car is elevated, and its undercarriage is visible. The scene is dimly lit, with the yellow beam providing a focal point of light. The overall mood is professional and focused.

WHAT ARE YOU REACHING FOR NEXT? WE'LL GET YOU THERE.

Whatever problem you're trying to solve, WIX Filters will never steer you wrong. We offer the ultimate protection for your customers' cars, trucks and off-road equipment with no returns and no do-overs. YOU KNOW THAT SQUEAL IS MORE THAN A WORN BELT.

Your customer doesn't. Educate them on how to Be System Smart.

Belt noise is a system issue and can be caused by loss of tension from a worn belt, a failing tensioner, or both. Placing a new belt on an old tensioner can decrease the belt's life by up to 50%. The difference between a quick fix and a quality repair is to Be System Smart.
