Texas Ranger Day in Burton

Which famous Texas Ranger lived and died in Burton, Texas? Discover the answer to this question and much more at Texas Ranger Day hosted by the Burton Heritage Society.

The day begins with the Annie Maud Avis Memorial Fajita and Bean Cook-off, and live re-enactments by the Old West Rangers. The living history continues with a display of Texas Ranger 1880s camp life, and folk like demonstrations. The fun rivalry continues with a bean bag toss tournament and old-fashioned games for kids of all ages.

Tour the 1898 railroad depot (anytime), and the cotton gin at 10am & 2pm. Live music will include Abigail Taylor, Slim Bawb and the StumpGrinders, Trickdog and Lisa, "Steppenwolf guitarist," Danny Johnson and more! A silent and live auction round out the day and raise much-needed funds for Mt. Zion Historical Chapel at Mt. Zion Cemetery, our second historic site and location where Captain Leander McNelly is buried. So mark your calendars for March 8, a day of Texas history, food, fun AND do your part to preserve a vital piece of the Burton community. For more information visit our webpage at www.burtonheritagesociety.org or call 979-353-0050.

Find Military History in Belton

Are you a military buff?
Bell County is home to the largest military installation in the free world. Fort Hood, Texas.

The Bell County Museum, located in Belton, has a wonderful display on the origins of Camp Hood, later to be known as Fort Hood. Many families were displaced from long owned farms and ranches in order for the United States to build a new training facility for it's soldiers during WWII.

Belton was home to famous and no-so-famous military men. Among the notable names to be found in the annals of Belton history are Gen. Walton H. Walker and his son, General Sam Sims Walker, as well as Capt. Henry T. Waskow - who was made famous by Ernie Pyle's news article and subsequent movie "GI Joe." These men are just a small sampling of the importance Belton played in military history.

Make a day of it and visit:

The idea of the 'Bowie Knife Monument' was pitched to the Bowie Chamber of Commerce by the late Bob Hadley, local rancher and bronze sculptor. A monument was inevitable! "This is an exciting addition to our city. We look forward to the completion of the 3-dimensional replica of the Bowie Knife in 2014" says board member Van Baize.

Bowie can do this and be 'Officially Amazing'. You too can be a part of history in the making and permanently have a place at the site. Various sizes of engraveable granite will be used at the base of the knife monument and will be available to purchase.

 St. Michaels established as a Catholic church in 1875. Several structures served the people of the parish throughout the years, some with very interesting histories of their own. Finally, after outgrowing these other structures, the present church building was dedicated in March of 1931. The beautiful church was built by architect F.B. Gaensen in the Romanesque style. It is faced with tapestry brick and the trimmings and belfry are of tamped stone. There are many exquisite stained glass windows throughout the sanctuary. St. Michael's Church is an important and interesting part of the history of Dewitt County and a fine example of the great architecture of Cuero.

The History of Onalaska

When you stop to chat with local townsfolk and shop owners you find that Onalaska has quite a colorful history. The area was first settled in 1840, and was a farming area until the arrival of the Carlisle Company.

With the sawmill, Onalaska then became a boom town and was even larger than the nearby county seat of Livingston. The town had two hotels, a movie theater, a large park, a hospital, a large downtown which included many stores, a cold storage plant, its own electrical plant, a bank, a railroad depot, and a large general store where you could purchase almost anything.

The town's primary claim to fame was the largest sawmill in Texas. However, when the forest was depleted in the mid 1920's the sawmill closed. The loggers moved on and Onalaska shrank to a "sleepy little East Texas village". There are restored pictures of the original community hanging in the city hall council meeting room which can be seen Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
