OVERVIEW

WHERE ARE WE?

Utah is facing a housing shortage, with more people looking for a place to live than there are homes. Low unemployment and an increasing population are driving a demand for housing. Growing SLC is the City's adopted housing plan and is aimed at reducing the gap between supply and demand. Growing SLC includes a number of policies to increase the housing supply including ADUs.

Accessory dwelling units are part of a range of housing types that can help increase the housing supply with minimal impacts to the scale of an existing neighborhood. This makes ADUs a good option to help provide more housing in parts of the city where other types of housing may be too tall, too wide, or too bulky with the surrounding structures.

In addition to the zoning ordinance, ADUs are subject to building code requirements, utility requirements, fire codes, and other applicable regulations that apply to all new buildings and additions to buildings. These codes will add construction costs that may be significant. Before you apply for an ADU, it is recommended you meet with the City's Building Services Division and schedule a Development Review Team meeting to discuss applicable building code requirements that may make it costly to build an ADU.

WHAT IS AN ADU?

An accessory dwelling unit (ADU) is a complete secondary residential unit that can be added to a single-family residential lot. ADUs can be attached to or part of the primary residence, or be detached as a separate building in a backyard or a garage conversion. An ADU provides completely separate living space including a kitchen, bathroom, and its own entryway.

WHY BUILD AN ADU?

Building a new ADU or converting existing space into one, can be a smart investment for many single-family homeowners.

WHAT ARE THE REQUIREMENTS FOR AN ADU?

- An ADU is allowed on any property in a residential zoning district that includes a single-family home, townhome, or rowhome, that is located on it's own individual lot.
- If the property is in an FR or R-1 zoning district, then conditional use approval is required.
- The property owner or an owner's family member, must live either in the principal home or the ADU.

There are rules about the location, size, and design of ADUs that are discussed in this guidebook.

ELIGIBILITY

Every neighborhood in Salt Lake City falls within a specific land use zone. To build an ADU, your current home must be located in a residential zone and your property must contain a single-family home, townhome, or rowhome.

Any lot in these zones may build an ADU if the ADU complies with the rules. Your lot must have an existing single-family home, only one ADU per lot is permitted, and the ADU cannot be sold separately from the house.

Check your eligibility on the Salt Lake City Zoning Lookup Map // <http://maps.slcgov.com/mws/zoning.htm>

HISTORIC DISTRICTS

A Certificate of Appropriateness is required for properties located in a Historic District. The Historic Landmark Commission can modify certain lot and bulk standards to ensure compatibility in the historic district.

For more information about a Certificate of Appropriateness Contact the Planning Division // 801.535.7700

WHAT IS BUILDING COVERAGE?

Building Coverage is the percentage of a lot covered by principal and accessory buildings.

An ADU must comply with the building maximum coverage requirements of the underlying zoning district or applicable overlay zoning district, whichever is more restrictive.

WHAT IS REAR YARD COVERAGE?

When it comes to accessory buildings, the rear yard is considered the area between the rear of the house and the rear property line. Accessory buildings, detached garages, sheds, and ADUs cannot collectively cover more than 50% of the rear yard. If you have an existing garage or shed and want to build an additional building with an ADU, the following regulations apply:

- The size of the ADU cannot exceed 50% of your home's footprint, or can be up to a maximum of 650 sq ft, whichever is less.
- All of the accessory buildings in the rear yard cannot cover more than 50% of the space between the rear wall of your home and the rear property line.
