Road closures and detours scheduled for Downtown

BY MATTHEW HALL Editor-in-Chief

4TH AND COLORADO Two transportation-related construction projects are scheduled to start in the coming weeks, and the city has issued a statement describing the reconfigured traffic patterns.

Construction of the Colorado Esplanade will officially begin on Monday, March 16, with installation of a railing at 4th Street and Colorado Avenue. The project will overlap with continued construction of the Expo Light Rail station at the same location.

According to the City, one northbound lane on 4th Street, between the I-10 Freeway and Colorado Avenue will be closed starting March 16. Left turns from northbound 4th Street to westbound Colorado Avenue will also be prohibited from about 9 p.m.

Council to consider curb-space for Uber, Lyft, town cars

Regulations could come for in-city vehicles for hire

BY DAVID MARK SIMPSON Daily Press Staff Writer

CITY HALL City Council will consider revamping its approach to taxis and vehicles for hire at its meeting on Tuesday.

Changes could include the addition of curb-space for town cars, Uber drivers, and other vehicles for hire that are currently excluded from freely utilizing these pick-up zones.

Additionally, they'll consider asking city officials to amend the soon-to-be expired taxi cab franchise — altering, for instance, the number of taxicabs authorized to operate in the city. Council will also consider establishing minimal regulations for in-city vehicles for hire.

The Daily Press, earlier this year, inaccurately reported that these regulations would extend to operators of ride-hailing apps like Uber and Lyft.

City officials believe that the California Public Utility Code gives the state exclusive authority to regulate these ride-hailing apps.

Regulation is only being considered for drivers that don't enter or leave the city with passengers.

"These are vehicles for hire that do not cross jurisdictional lines

Art is often a personal endeavor, a vision devised and executed by one person. But, as the upcoming Santa Monica Airport ArtWalk will show, it doesn't have to be.

Collaborative and communal projects will be highlighted throughout the ninth-annual event, which will be held from noon to 5 p.m. Saturday.

The free, family-friendly afternoon in the airport's converted hangars will also feature open studios, live music, art and theater workshops, children's performances and food trucks.

It's all part of a festival along

Broad Stage

Carnegie Hall's Musical Explorers makes its West Coast Debut at The Broad Stage

The Broad Stage has launched a musical partnership with Carnegie Hall's Weill Music Institute with the West Coast debut of Musical Explorers. In this celebration of Los Angeles' rich and diverse musicians, families will discover a world of music in their own backyard. Playful and informative, this inventive program will get children listening, singing, and thinking about musical traditions both familiar and yet to be explored. The program will consist of three groups from very different musical backgrounds.

Changüí Majadero brings authentic Changüí & Son Cubano music deep from the island of Cuba, attracting people to dance and celebrate to traditional Caribbean folk rhythm and melody from Guantánamo, Cuba. The group delivers stunning vocals, fiery bongo de monte, marimbula-bass thump, driving guayo and maracas, and blazing tres-cubano solos. Changüí Majadero captures the essence of "musica campesina" of Cuba, inspiring and captivating audiences with its high energy, lyricism, and soulful syncopated swing.

Jesse Palter Quartet is led by the jazz vocals of Jesse Palter. Through both training and pure instinct, Jesse has grown into one of the most accomplished and dynamic vocalists (and composers) in the jazz and overall music scenes. Her voice is a flexible, facile instrument wielded by an ambitious and visionary player; it can be sweet or salty, polished or raw, wide in range and broad in stylistic scope, channeling and combining influences such as Ella Fitzgerald, Betty Carter, Sarah Vaughan, Patsy Cline, Joni Mitchell, Stevie Wonder, and Carmen McRae. It's the voice of someone who has a voracious appetite for growth and is fearless in that pursuit – the perfect equation for a promising future.

Classical Indian Ensemble is comprised of Varshini Muralikrishnan on vocals and keys, Deepak Kumar Chandla on tabla, and Janani on thambura. The ensemble brings to life a genre of music incorporating diversity, vibrancy, soul, and tradition. They seamlessly integrate their classical Carnatic music roots with hip-hop, R&B, jazz, and other global influences.

Performances will be Saturday, March 14, at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Broad Stage, 1310 11th St. Tickets are $15-$25, visit www.thebroadstage.com or call (310) 434-3200 for more information.

on Sunday, March 22 until late Wednesday, March 25.

Debbie Lee, Communications and Public Affairs Officer for the City, said the lane closures are related to Expo but the City is taking the opportunity to begin work on the Esplanade to minimize disruptions.

The Esplanade is a pedestrian-friendly corridor on Colorado that will connect the Expo Light Rail station to Ocean Avenue, the Pier and the future Palisades Garden Walk park. According to the City's description of the project, "The reconfigured roadway will expand bicycle and pedestrian facilities and increase landscaping and public art to create a visual and functional focal point between the Downtown and Civic Center."

On March 26, Colorado between 4th and Ocean will permanently become one-way westbound to facilitate the Esplanade vision. According to the city, eastbound travel will be redirected to Broadway or the newly constructed Olympic Drive.

An official notice said walkways would be open to ensure access to all businesses in the area. Officials said the Esplanade should be finished within a year and in advance of Expo opening.

Additional road closures will begin in April for a second project, the replacement of the California Incline. The project includes a separated bike path, walkway, enhanced stability of the bluffs and widening of the bridge.

"The California Incline was last renovated in 1930, and the existing structure must be reconstructed to meet current seismic standards," the city's statement reads.

The road will be closed in both directions for the one-year project. Southbound traffic on Pacific Coast Highway will be redirected to the Moomat Ahiko Way off-ramp onto Ocean Avenue. Westbound traffic coming from the I-10 will be redirected to Lincoln Boulevard.

Lee said the City is working to provide residents with ample information and communication about the projects. Residents will receive a notification 30 days prior to the start of Incline work and the city is hosting weekly meetings about both projects. The construction updates will be held on Thursdays, beginning on March 12, from 5-7 p.m. at the Ken Edwards Center, 1527 4th St., Room 106.

"Though we have key information available online and through social media, we want to make sure that people have the opportunity to learn about the projects, ask questions and voice concerns in-person, directly to the team working on the Esplanade and Incline projects," Susan Cline, Interim Public Works Director, said in a statement. "We know there will be inconveniences during the construction phase and we are committed to working with the community to make the next year run as smoothly as possible."

For more information about the Colorado Esplanade Project and California Incline Reconstruction, visit www.smconstructs.org. Hotline numbers are available for each project: Esplanade Hotline (626) 344-4248, Incline Hotline (888) 303-6026.

Let's be clear

THE DOCUMENTARY "GOING CLEAR: Scientology, Hollywood and the Prison of Belief" by Oscar-winning filmmaker Alex Gibney, based on the book by Pulitzer Prize-winning writer Lawrence Wright, will open in limited release at The Arclight Cinema in Hollywood on March 13, followed by HBO screenings beginning March 29. The cablecast date was originally slated for March 16, but was pushed back; it has reportedly taken 160 lawyers to clear the release of "Going Clear."

The film's premiere at Sundance generated positive reviews and raised the hackles of Scientology's top brass. Full-page New York Times ads and rebuttal videos have attacked the filmmakers as liars.

Allen Barton is a playwright and pianist who took over the reins of the Beverly Hills Playhouse, founded by legendary acting teacher and director Milton Katselas. Katselas's long association with Scientology brought many new acting recruits to the Church, including big names and award winners.

But according to some reports, Katselas chose not to fully advance "up the bridge to freedom," as Scientology characterizes its hierarchy, and was perceived as being insufficiently committed to the Church. It wasn't long before students were allegedly instructed to cut their ties with him, followed by what's been characterized as a smear campaign. Katselas died shortly thereafter.

A timely show, the Skylight Theatre Company production of Allen Barton's "Disconnection" at Beverly Hills Playhouse is based on his own experiences with Scientology, and on his personal relationship with Mario Feninger, a concert pianist who was his music teacher, a member of Scientology and an old friend of founder L. Ron Hubbard.

A former member, Barton chose to remove himself from Scientology's sphere after witnessing its treatment of Katselas. Reconnecting with Feninger and helping him financially, Barton was identified as "a suppressive personality." Feninger received word that he could no longer communicate with Barton and should not accept his money.

Although denied as a tactic by members of Scientology, "disconnection" aims to alienate, isolate and discredit former members and provides the inspiration for Barton's play.

A pianist desperate to recover from the guilt over his responsibility for an accident that killed his wife joins a church that offers solace, but now is looking to leave it. An added plot point involves his daughter, from whom he has been estranged due to the accident, and who, as she advances up the church ladder, is pregnant and beginning to question its role in controlling her life. As both father and daughter begin breaking away, intimidation, physical violence, shaming and disconnection are among the tactics employed to prevent them from slipping out of its clutches.

This is revealing, complex and subtle stuff, but it's done in a somewhat static and verbose way; more talk than dramatic action. Nevertheless, for anyone who worries about a loved one being caught up in a cult-like organization, "Disconnection" is worth seeing and discussing, and the actors' performances are solid and persuasive.

"Disconnection" is scheduled through March 29 at Beverly Hills Playhouse, 254 S. Robertson Blvd. For more information and tickets, visit <http://skylightix.com> or call (213) 761-7061.

DEAD MAN WALKING

I wish you could still see the Opera Parallele production of "Dead Man Walking," but there were only two performances at the Broad Stage last weekend.

I went knowing that I am not a big opera buff nor terribly fond of contemporary classical music.

But I walked out a fan. I can't hum any of the music or remember any of the words, but boy, oh boy, what a dramatic stage production this is.

Generally, the cliché of opera is that the heroine/hero dies at the end after some romantic plot twist. In this drama, the heroine is trying her best to bring comfort and justice to a death row inmate, his family and

Mental illness does not mean violent

THE SANTA MONICA DISABILITIES

Commission would like to formally respond to Dr. Barge's March 2nd column "Life Matters". While Dr. Barge's advice to leave the coordinated provision of outreach and services to homeless individuals to the professionals is sound, she goes on to paint a broad picture of people with mental illness (and those experiencing homelessness) as unstable and violent. This overly simplistic and negative portrayal of homelessness and mental illness sends a dangerous message to the public because it serves to further isolate and disempower a population already marginalized and subjected to daily discrimination. It is even more stigmatizing when a mental health professional like Dr. Barge incorrectly tries to make a link between a mental health diagnosis and a violent, dangerous or menacing behavior. The Commission would like to take this opportunity to provide some facts and extend an invitation to Dr. Barge and the community to learn more about the realities of mental illness.

The tragic reality is that people with psychiatric disabilities are far more likely to be victims than perpetrators of violent crime. Researchers at North Carolina State University and Duke University found that people with severe mental illnesses like schizophrenia, bipolar disorder or psychosis, are 2 times more likely to be attacked, raped or mugged than the general population. When you consider the added dangers associated with living on the streets and the threat of violence against individuals who are homeless, one can start to understand the ongoing trauma experienced by those who live under these conditions every day.

According to the U.S. Surgeon General, the inaccurate linkage between mental illness and violence in the minds of the general public leads to the discrimination and stigma associated with mental illness. Stigma leads others to avoid living, socializing, working with, renting to, or employing people with mental health disorders - especially severe disorders, such as schizophrenia. It can lead to low self-esteem, isolation, and hopelessness for the one-quarter of Americans that will experience a mental illness in their lifetime. Mental illness is just like any other disability except that the discrimination associated with it is often fueled by fear and sometimes even hatred for the individual with the condition. As underscored by the doctor's commentary, the stigma associated with mental illness contributes to a troubling cycle that compromises community support for solutions to homelessness and treatment for mental illness.

Unfortunately, our media is full of these negative portrayals. Most news accounts portray people with mental illness as dangerous or focus on other negative characteristics related to people with the disorder. In an attempt to counter these harmful stereotypes, the Santa Monica Disabilities Commission will be joining the City in recognizing May as Mental Health Awareness Month. We will be showing the Oscar winning film "Silver Linings Playbook" at the Santa Monica Main Library on May 16th, followed by a panel discussion with clinicians and people in recovery from mental illness and substance abuse. These stories of recovery will help highlight the realities of mental illness - that people can and do recover. It takes a lot of work and, more often than not, the assistance of friends, family and the community to support that recovery.

TJ HILL is Vice-Chair of the Santa Monica Disabilities Commission.

The Unbearable Lightness of Being Spider-Man

IN A DEAL BETWEEN MARVEL STUDIOS and Sony Pictures, Marvel has gained use of Spider-Man within their own cinematic universe. Terms allow Spider-Man to exist in Sony and Marvel films at the same time. Curiously, there were two words missing from Marvel's press release: Peter Parker, Spider-Man's alter ego. Which begs the question: Who is Spider-Man? It's a headline worthy of The Daily Bugle. It has been reported that Sony is looking to stick with Peter, while rumors swirl around Spider-Man's future in the Marvel Cinematic Universe, home of the Avengers.

The buzz is that Marvel's Spider-Man could be the mixed-race (Black and Latino) Miles Morales, currently the Spider-Man in Marvel's Ultimate line of comics, a universe that exists separate from Marvel's main line of books. It would be a fresh direction that would help add diversity to future Marvel Studios films.

Here is where the Internet's collective gnashing of teeth begins. When the rumor was floated, people cried out with fallacious furor. Comment sections, Twitter accounts and message boards filled with complaints from self-identifying white males who see a non-white Spider-Man as a terrible idea. At worst, it has been claimed, it's the destruction of Spider-Man by progressive "social justice warriors." At best, a cash grab by a studio out of ideas. I can kind of understand. As a Latino, I loved the characters from my childhood I could identify with — even if they weren't that great. I could only imagine what it would be like if I could see myself in one of the coolest heroes in history.

When established characters are re-imagined as minority or female, a lot of the same demands pop up, earnest and facetious: Either there should be more original characters who are female and/or people of color, or we should turn iconic black characters like the Black Panther white — carefully avoiding the fact that characters like the Black Panther were explicitly created by Stan Lee and others to confront the lack of diversity in the universe they saw at Marvel Comics in the 1960s.

Dan Slott, a perennial Spider-Man author, made the point that Spider-Man's race is not inherent to his character. If you were to list the qualities of what makes Spider-Man, he stated, being white shouldn't be on there. Unfortunately, it seems, that the only way to get the masses to demand new female and minority characters is to threaten to take away a white male character. Why make Spider-Man a minority? Why not?

Airport Avenue that is organized each year by the Santa Monica Airport and the city's Cultural Affairs Division.

Among the collaborative projects planned for the ArtWalk involves Santa Monica College's ceramics and art mentor studios, which are located at the college's airport campus. Children are invited to make shapes to add to a large ceramic vessel that will be covered with others' designs.

SMC students and alumni will also demonstrate their molding, wheeling, baking, glazing and Raku firing techniques throughout the afternoon. A sale of student ceramic and glass work will be held as well, according to a news release.

The ceramic arts program, which is led by Franklyn Phillips and which provides technical instruction while encouraging creative expression, includes courses in hand-building, mold-casting and wheel-forming and also covers surface decoration.

Another collaborative project will highlight the city's expanding curbside composting program. Young attendees will help turn hundreds of recycled bottle caps into a collective artwork that will be displayed at the Santa Monica Festival in May.

In the early afternoon, artist Laraine Mestman — whose work has been shown in exhibits throughout Southern California — will facilitate a communal chalk mural at Studio G. "ArtChalk" aims celebrate ArtWalk by inviting attendees to draw their favorite parts of the event.

There's even a sense of collaboration at the Arena 1 Gallery, whose exhibit showcases artists who use movement in their work to explore gesture. The exhibit at Arena 1 was curated by Carl Berg.

Other participants in the ArtWalk include Santa Monica Art Studios, Santa Monica Airport Artist Studios, the Ruskin Group Theatre and the Museum of Flying.

The Ruskin Group Theatre will perform show highlights and organize improvisation activities for kids.

At the Museum of Flying, where Mike Machat will be painting a mural over the next few months, the artist will draw any aircraft from memory.

and would otherwise not hold a state permit such as TNC [transportation network companies, like Uber] or TCP [transportation charter permit vehicles, like town cars] would," Acting Chief Administrative Officer Sal Valles said of the regulations. "Once a vehicle for hire operates in more than one city/jurisdiction it is required to hold a state issued permit (except for taxicabs which are required to have a city issued permit)."

Vehicles like Free Ride Santa Monica, which is like a souped up golf cart that takes tourists and residents around the city for free, are not currently required to have driver permits or minimum insurance or vehicle standards. Right now, all they need are business licenses to operate within the city.

City officials would like to establish regulations for these kinds of in-city drivers.

Currently the city allots 35 zones for taxicab pick-up and only five zones for all vehicles, including vehicles for hire, through a 15-minute parking zone.

"TCPs and TNCs are not authorized to pick up passengers unless the trip is pre-arranged, meaning that these for hire vehicles cannot legally accept a passenger who simply approaches the vehicle or hails the cab from the sidewalk or street," city officials said in a report to council. "Therefore, zones that might be created for these types of vehicles would likely need to be set up as loading and unloading or for a short time limited parking depending on the location of the zone."

City officials recommend that they come back with an ordinance regulating vehicles-for-hire no later than July. They also recommend amending the taxi franchise system — which the Daily Press will cover in-depth in tomorrow's paper — during the same time frame. The five-year taxi franchise expires at the end of this year and city officials are recommending that council address renewals and vehicle allocations no later than September.

Los Angeles on Feb. 10.

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department identified Carrillo as the suspect through the use of video surveillance and witness statements. Officers arrested Carrillo in Santa Monica after a multi-hour standoff that included the use of the Sheriff's helicopter, the SWAT team and a K-9 unit. The arrest shut down the area around the 800 block of Ocean Park Boulevard for several hours.

Detectives are still seeking the public's help in identifying possible witnesses to the original crime.

"Detectives are requesting the public's assistance in identifying several witnesses to the murder," officials said a statement issued on March 2. "Detectives are attempting to identify a female depicted in surveillance video wearing a white shirt with red stripes that appears to be with the victim in a store. In addition, detectives are trying to identify a black male wearing a green shirt who arrives in a Cadillac STS. It appears that this male not only witnessed the murder, but also videotaped it using his cellular phone."

Anyone with information is urged to contact Homicide Detective Francis X. Hardiman or Sgt. Jeff Cochran at LASD Homicide Bureau at (323) 890-5500.

Information can be shared anonymously through Crime Stoppers at 800-222-8477 or using the website lacrimestoppers.org.

the families of his victims. The act of violence that put him there is acted out in the opening so there's no doubt about his guilt, but he is trying to get his execution stayed by denying he did it.

He is also seeking spiritual comfort; but without coming to terms with what he has done, it won't be possible to achieve. It's hardly the stuff of love songs and arias but brilliant in the dynamic between nun and convict and absolutely gripping as a staged drama-sung instead of spoken-about redemption and love.

Baritone Michael Mayes, with his six-pack abs, tattoos and white supremacist hairstyle, is the killer. Demure, modest and earnest, Jennifer Rivera is gentle Sister Helen Prejean. Along with the other cast members, these singers aren't just vehicles for the delivery of music; they're utterly believable, acting and putting across a drama that is dense, emotional and very powerful, supported by the music and the book.

I am sorry that this was such a limited run, but if you ever have an opportunity to see and hear "Dead Man Walking," don't miss it.

FREE CONCERT

It's not everyday that a TED Senior Fellow plays Beethoven in an award-winning historic landmark.

But that is what's happening this Saturday as violinist Vijay Gupta of the L.A. Philharmonic appears as guest soloist with Santa Monica Symphony Orchestra at the spectacularly refurbished Wilshire Boulevard Temple, recognized for its preservation efforts by the Los Angeles Conservancy. And it's free!

Hear Beethoven's Violin Concerto in D Major, the achingly poignant "Theme from Schindler's List" by John Williams, and the Brahms Symphony No. 3 in F Major conducted by Guido Lamell, music director of Santa Monica Symphony.

Find out more and help Santa Monica Symphony continue to keep these concerts free at www.smsymphony.org. The music begins at 7:30 p.m. on March 14 at Wilshire Boulevard Temple, 3663 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 90010.

Sudoku

Fill in the blank cells using numbers 1 to 9. Each number can appear only once in each row, column, and 3x3 block. Use logic and process of elimination to solve the puzzle. The difficulty level ranges from (easiest) to (hardest).

Difficulty Level ★★★

GETTING STARTED

There are many strategies to solving Sudoku. One way to begin is to examine each 3x3 grid and figure out which numbers are missing. Then, based on the other numbers in the row and column of each blank cell, find which of the missing numbers will work. Eliminating numbers will eventually lead you to the answer.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD BY CHUCK SHEPARD

■ Margurite Haragan, 58, was charged with two harassment counts against a Jewish woman in Boise, Idaho, in February after the victim complained of being screamed at and roughed up by Haragan, who was trying to pressure her to acknowledge a belief in Jesus Christ. After Haragan allegedly stepped on the woman's neck and pulled her hair upward, the victim promised to become a Christian. Haragan then departed but returned two days later to continue the alleged harassment. (The genesis of the women's relationship was unclear from news reports.)
■ The "Pedophile Loophole":

The Mississippi Department of Education reported recently that federal student privacy law bars local schools from alerting the MDE about college-age student teachers who might be having inappropriate relationships with the K-12 students they teach. The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act apparently controls regulation of the student teachers during on-the-job classroom training (or, as a reporter for the Clarion-Ledger of Jackson wrote, "What happens in college, apparently, stays in college"). The MDE, which issues educator licenses, thus may never learn of the inappropriate behavior of the student teacher.

HANG OUT WITH A FRIEND, AQUARIUS

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ You will be acting quickly on a long-term desire that perhaps you had not even been aware of until now. Your imagination soars to new levels, especially if you are willing to be spontaneous. Feelings could surprise you as they come up. Tonight: Worry less.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★ A friend could add an element of confusion to your plans. You might decide to invite someone who has been a bit off to a spontaneous dinner. You are likely to gain some insight into this person's personal life as a result. Tonight: Reveal more of your thoughts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ Let others have their way. You might need to change the way in which you explain how you want something done. By speaking more clearly, you will help people learn faster. Reach out and make a call to a special friend whom you care a lot about. Tonight: Chat up a storm.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★ You might be looking at the long-term ramifications of continuing on the path you currently are on. Reach out to someone who often gives you good advice. A boss or someone you must answer to could be demanding. Tonight: Your imagination provides a fun solution.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Tap into your positive energy when dealing with others. Someone who is very different from you will provide some interesting news. Surprises are likely to surround certain events. A close associate might not be getting the gist of a conversation. Tonight: Movie night.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★ Tension seems to build as you deal with a personal matter. Recognize that you are creating this stress through your own judgments. Just do what you feel is necessary. Read between the lines with a key associate who might not be clear. Tonight: Take a walk by the water.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ Make the first effort to reach out to someone at a distance. Communication will flourish, as long as you verify what you hear and confirm meeting times and places. Unexpected developments with a child could demand your attention. Tonight: Allow your creativity to speak.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★ You'll be ready to make a major purchase, but what you desire might not be in line with your budget. You could be a little too direct or demanding when dealing with others. Try a different approach, and you will like the results. Tonight: Treat a friend to munchies.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ You tend to express a lot of enthusiasm, no matter what you are doing. You add extra "oomph" to others' days as well. Don't be surprised if others seek you out; they respect your opinion and appreciate your strong drive and powerful energy. Tonight: All eyes turn to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★ You have been stepping back more than usual. Others need to understand the workload that you carry every day. In the process, you might discover that someone who performs as well as you can be helpful in taking the reins. Tonight: Get as much R and R as possible.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ You are a sign that honors friendship. You will have plenty of opportunities to interact with friends, whether you plan on meeting up or just end up running into each other. Try not to rush yourself, as you easily could make a mistake. Tonight: Hang out with a friend.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★ Others seem to have a lot of expectations. You'll sense these implicit demands and respond accordingly. Know that you won't be able to please everyone. Don't push beyond your limits. Your imagination might be out of control today. Tonight: Use your imagination.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The stars show the kind of day you'll have:
 ★★★★★ Dynamic ★★ So-So
 ★★★★ Positive ★ Difficult
 ★★★ Average

This year you begin a period where you see expansion in your daily life. There will be a new factor, such as a hobby that you are passionate about, or perhaps a rewarding job situation. You will start taking better care of yourself and paying more attention to your health. If you are single, after August you easily could meet someone who will live up your love life. You will experience a profound closeness with this person. If you are attached, the two of you will develop a new mutual hobby, which could add a lot of energy to your bond. You often are seen out on the town together. SAGITTARIUS admires you.

CRIME WATCH

BY DAILY PRESS STAFF

Crime Watch is culled from reports provided by the Santa Monica Police Department. These are arrests only. All parties are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ON MARCH 5 AT APPROXIMATELY 12:30 P.M.

Two suspects entered the TJ Maxx store at 1251 4th St. and started looking at different items. Shortly afterward, one of the suspects took off a belt he was wearing and put on a belt from the store. The suspect then walked out of the store without paying for the belt, while the other suspect, identified as Michael Gomez, continued looking around. Loss prevention agents who witnessed the theft followed Juarez out of the store and asked him to stop so they could talk to him about the belt. Juarez stopped, but pulled a knife out of his pocket and threatened them with it. As the agents backed away, for fear of being stabbed; Juarez ran away from them and fled the area. While viewing security camera footage of the theft, officers recognized the suspect from previous arrests and identified him as Allan Israel Juarez. At about that same time, Gomez was still in the store and paid for some items. Gomez was detained as he left the store however, to determine whether or not he was involved in the theft as well. During a pat down search, officers found a baggie of methamphetamine in one of his pockets. Gomez was then taken into custody and booked at the Santa Monica. An arrest warrant was also issued for Juarez, who was stopped by Culver City police officers the following day and taken into custody for the robbery. The knife Juarez used in the crime was also recovered. As Juarez was being booked at the Santa Monica jail, officers learned he was also in possession of a meth pipe. Juarez, 21 of Santa Monica had bail set at $50,000. Gomez, 20 of Los Angeles had bail set at $1,000.
