Coronado Treasures Roadshow Discovering Hidden Treasures and Antiques

What a time we had. Wow!

Participants arrived with their personal treasures and stories of items to be appraised at the 2nd Annual Coronado Treasures Roadshow held October 10th.

One such family treasure was brought in by Susan Keith. She arrived with a chair given to her by her father, Vice Admiral Stanhope Cotton Ring. He served in Washington D.C. as aide to the Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, then served as President Herbert Hoover's naval aide. The chair was a gift to the Vice Admiral from the Blair family. Later the Blair family home became Blair House, the official government guest home for the White House. The chair is still adorned with the original leather, walnut frame and hand-forged screws.

For the Keith family, sitting in the chair evokes a special reverence and emotion, knowing that President Lincoln once sat in it. "Sometimes it gives me the willies to sit in it, knowing its history," Keith said. The chair was appraised with significant value, but the real worth is in sharing it with family and friends. "All my grandchildren enjoy sitting in the chair- it is special to all of us."

The most spectacular item of the day was a hand inscribed presentation sword, also passed down through generations. The sword was given to a lieutenant

A Shining Moment this December!

A RATHER MOMENTOUS MILESTONE IS OCCURRING THIS DECEMBER--ONE YOU DON'T WANT TO MISS.

Coronado's December focus will be the formal celebration of the city's 125th anniversary and the Mayor's Dinner event scheduled for December 11th at the Hotel del Coronado.

That is also the day that CHA unveils its most important project of the year, the release of a newly remastered 4th Edition of the preeminent work of Coronado history — Coronado: The Enchanted Island!

"Remastered" is an understatement. It's been 17 years since a fresh edition of Enchanted Island was released.

The 4th Edition features a ton of new research into Coronado history, a reformatted, easy-to-read size and font, many fresh and exciting images drawn from our archives, and inclusion of a first-ever "Coronado Almanac." In addition, we worked hard to correct the occasional factual inaccuracies from previous editions that have been reported by both the CHA staff and folks in town.

With all these improvements, we have been very careful to maintain the tone and flow of the original authors (Katherine Eitzen Carlin and historian Dr. Ray Brandes). We added material from new research, or information not available to the first authors. We have clearly indicated these additions through the use of subtle background shading in the flow of text.

It's been said that Coronado has more history per square inch than any other community in San Diego County. But history, indeed, never sleeps. So, the story of Coronado has now been updated and expanded through this, its most recent and most impressive version.

We think that the 4th Edition is a Coronado collectable all by itself, but we are going to reinforce that standing by releasing a special limited edition of this volume on December 11th. In commemoration of the city's 125th, this limited edition will be a hard cover book, restricted to only 125 signed and numbered copies, and sold for $125.

We plan to open pre-sales of the 4th Edition Limited Edition on November 11th, through both the CHA website and our Museum Store, and the book will be available in time for Christmas. We plan to release a soft-cover and eBook version of the 4th Edition sometime in 2016.

We are deeply indebted to the sincere generosity of those who responded to our Annual Appeal a year ago that helped set us on the path to develop this breakthrough volume. More than anything, a 4th Edition is proof of the depth and complexity of the Coronado story, and of its boundless fascination for readers across so many years.

Coronado is a community rich in heritage, community pride, and small town atmosphere and equally rich in promise for the future. Our inspiring future, as we all know, is directly built upon the firm foundation of the community's past.

We think our fresh new account of Coronado's treasured past is an important addition to the historical record, and will earn a place on every Coronadan's bookshelf.

Coronado, a world away from the California mainland.

Coronado Art Walk 2015

The 10th Annual Coronado Art Walk brought 96 artists and thousands of attendees to the Coronado Ferry Landing for a two-day festival. Handcrafted one-of-a-kind art was the star, enhanced by live music and kids art activities. With the San Diego-Coronado Bridge as a backdrop, guests meandered throughout Coronado Art Walk while enjoying blue skies above and maritime activities on San Diego Bay.

Many of the artists traveled long distances to participate in this juried show. Carol and Stelios Paraskevas traveled from Connecticut to Coronado. The last six years they have come to display their wearable art pieces. They first attended the show as visitors then decided to participate as artists. For organizers the decision to include them in the show was an easy one. Stelios Art is sold through the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, the British Museum in London, and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington D.C. Pieces have been showcased in many fashion magazines and are featured several times a year in Opera Magazine.

When asked why they travel year after year, Carol shared; "The Coronado Art Walk is a fantastic show. It has a great venue, delightful and helpful staff, and a sophisticated customer base. Many Coronadans have become long time customers."

The children had fun too with free craft activities provided by the Rad Hatter, Emerald C Gallery, Dick Blick, the San Diego Creative Weaver's Guild and Face Painting by Teri.

With the City of Coronado's free summer shuttle, guests could park anywhere along Orange Avenue, enjoy the event and spend time exploring Coronado. Others took the pedestrian ferry provided by FLAGSHIP to and from San Diego.

As one of CHA's premiere events, much time was invested in a careful juried process to create a unique experience. "This is an opportunity to enjoy some of the best artists from around the Country," stated Bruce Linder, Executive Director, Coronado Historical Association. Courtenay McGowen, the founder and event producer, has been the backbone of the Coronado Art Walk for 10 years.

McGowen and a team of dedicated committee members, sponsors and volunteers pulled off a great event again this year." Premier Sponsors included the Port of San Diego and The Ferry Landing.

Our thanks go out to our many sponsors, donors, Coronado Ferry Landing and the Unified Port of San Diego and to Event Chair Courtenay McGowen.

New Exhibit Opens!

STOCKDALE

Character, Community, Leadership

Sybil Stockdale attended this reception with her sons, Jim, Sid, and Taylor as well as their families. Six surviving POWs were also in attendance, several with their wives who had been active members of Sybil's National League of Families of American Prisoners Missing in Southeast Asia. Sherry Martin, wife of recently deceased former-POW Vice Admiral Ed Martin, received a rousing round of applause.

A surprise attendee at the museum's opening reception was Ross Perot and his wife Margot. Perot was an independent presidential candidate in 1992, with Admiral Stockdale as his running mate. Perot has always been an inspiring supporter of American POWs, and spoke to the guests at the reception.

The Coronado Museum also offers a parallel story to Admiral Stockdale's Medal of Honor, with a display featuring Coronado's very first Medal of Honor recipient, Willy Cronan who was awarded his Medal of Honor in 1908 for courageously saving shipmates from the Navy's steel gunboat Bennington that sank in

THE CORONADO MUSEUM has opened a bold and inspirational new exhibit entitled "Stockdale: Character, Community, Leadership," honoring the Coronado story of Vice Admiral James Stockdale. The exhibit featured the in-depth and stirring tale of Admiral Stockdale's captivity as a POW at the "Hanoi Hilton" during the Vietnamese War that ultimately resulted in his award of the Medal of Honor.

The exhibit also honors Admiral Stockdale's wife, Sybil. She raised the family's four sons in Coronado during Stockdale's long captivity and fought tirelessly to bring worldwide attention to bear on the plight of POWs who were surviving terrible torture in Vietnam. She later became the recipient of the Navy Distinguished Public Service Award, the highest award given by the Department of the Navy to a citizen not employed by the Department. She is the only wife of an active-duty officer to receive this award.

The entire Coronado Museum exhibit has been fully supported and endorsed by the Stockdale family who loaned many of the display items so that the public could become fully immersed in the details of this extraordinary saga. Important elements of the exhibit at the Coronado Museum were once highly classified.

The Stockdale exhibit at the Coronado Museum was opened at a private, invitation-only reception on September 17th for Coronado Historical Association members and invited guests

Issues are transient"

San Diego Bay from a boiler explosion. Cronan Park is located on Pomona Avenue in Coronado. These two "Coronado" Medals of Honor sit next to one another in the exhibit.

The Coronado Museum is the first museum to tell the exhilarating story of the Stockdale family, an exhibit that is destined for showing at other locales throughout the country.

Children can experience the exhibit by engaging in a scavenger hunt, ask for it at the information desk at the entrance to the museum. In addition to the Stockdale exhibit, attendees can enjoy The Enchanted Island Gallery and the Hotel Del & Tent City Gallery of the Coronado Museum.

Goodbye “Inspired! 100 Years of Coronado Schools”

After a six-month run “Inspired! 100 Years of Coronado Schools” said goodbye. The featured exhibit focused on the excellent tradition of education and school spirit in Coronado; from the earliest ‘beach school’ to the building of the parochial and various public schools. The exhibit featured cherished memorabilia and photographs that illustrated the history of schools in our unique hometown.

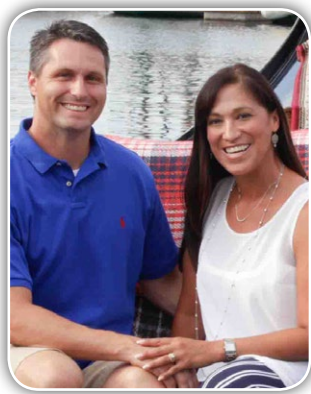

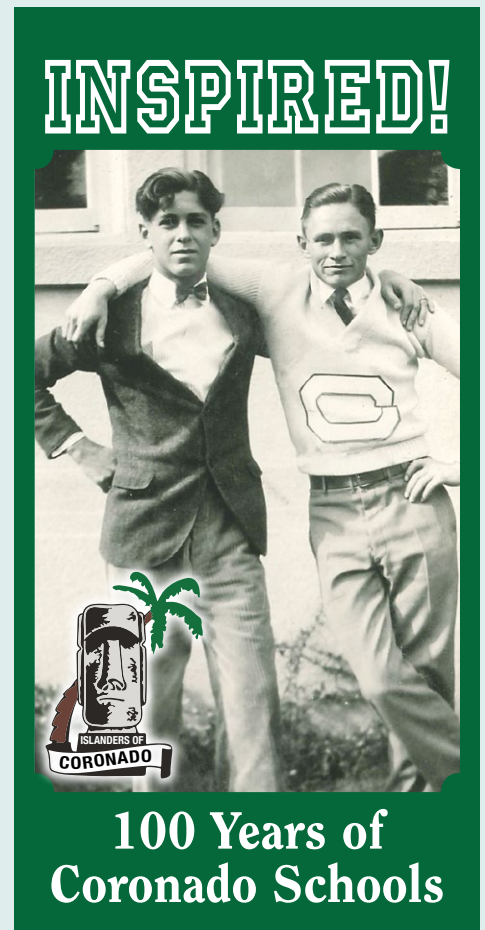

The archivist, collections staff and volunteers took immense pleasure researching and producing the expansive exhibit and are glad that all that great work won’t be lost.

Coronado Historical Association was thrilled to donate the exhibit panels to the Coronado Unified School District. Of the donation, Principal Jennifer Moore shared:

“We look forward to displaying the panels donated from CHA in the hallways, library, and other public spaces at Coronado High School to share inspiring photos and history with our students and the community. Recognizing where our current students, staff, traditions, and facilities exist on a larger continuum anchors students and gives them a sense of belonging to something greater. We are grateful for the work of CHA in compiling artifacts and telling our story...it’s an honor to display the work of the community of generations of Islanders.”

— Jennifer Moore, Principal, Coronado High School

The Coronado High School plans to expand the exhibits and displays over time. What a great way to continue to share the story of Coronado.

— Welcome Maria Obst — Assistant Manager, Coronado Visitor Center

It’s our pleasure to introduce you to Maria Obst, CHA’s new Assistant Manager, Coronado Visitor Center. Maria and her husband have lived in Coronado twice. She is a Navy veteran, having served on active duty and in the reserves from 1993 to 2001. She was the first female hovercraft crew member in her capacity of Gas Turbine Engineer. She served in the Mediterranean and received a number of awards, including Sailor of the Year. Her husband is currently on active duty as a Chief Warrant Officer for the Navy Special Warfare Community.

Maria has an MBA from the University of Phoenix. Her experience includes logistical support for military camps, domestically and internationally. She also worked for DHL providing logistical support for military accounts in San Diego and Los Angeles. Other roles have included a Fitness Manager and Office Assistant in her home town of Laredo, TX.

Maria has two sons; one is a sophomore at CHS and the other an 8th grader at Coronado Middle School. She and her family enjoy bike riding, hiking, camping and restoring vintage cars. Maria will be handling the scheduling of volunteers for the Visitor Center and Tours, coordinating private tours, helping with events in the Lecture Hall and creating the monthly Community Calendar.

With Maria’s appointment, Janet Francis will expand her role to include Public Relations efforts for CHA as well as the Visitor Center.

Spreckels Summer Party

Each year CHA hosts a special get together for those in our most exclusive membership circle, the Spreckels Society.

This year's elegant, tropical themed celebration came together under the skilled direction of Caroline Murray with assistance from Mary Ann Chapple and Charlotte Harris.

Gracious hosts Carolyn Elledge-Baker and Bud Baker opened their home at the corner of Ocean and Alameda. The lush gardens and brilliant Point Loma sunset were unforgettable. The festive and celebratory mood was enhanced by the Baker's beautiful historic English Tudor home, designed by Requa & Jackson, built in 1925.

Past CHA Board Member Tom Mustin was presented the Spreckels Society Award for his many years of community leadership to celebrate and preserve Coronado history. Tom has assisted CHA across a broad spectrum of activities over the years, including opening his home for the 2014 Historic Home Tour.

CHA Event Director Mary Farley summed up the night: "This wonderful evening of gathering dear friends, sharing memories and laughter reminds us that the history of Coronado is comprised of the people who have come to love her and make her their home, and want to share Coronado with generations to come."

Focus on the Archive

Stephanie Washburn, Registrar

As with most museums, Coronado Historical has a Collections Committee that determines what items should be accepted into the museum collection. In July, an amazing number of stories and accompanying artifacts were accepted into the archives.

One close to my heart is an archival piece of wood measuring no more than 3 inches wide and 12 inches long; a piece of the flight deck from the USS Saratoga! Generously donated by Susan Keith, the piece of wood has significant ephemera detailing the crew's affection for 'Sara', the nickname the crew affectionately called her.

As a recent transplant from the National Museum of the Marine Corps and an Army brat, the military is a large part of my life. While interning with the United States Marine Corps History Division, I conducted hours of research for the Marine Aviation Centennial in 2012. I combed through numerous resources in preparation of a paper highlighting the history of the transition of battle cruisers to aircraft carriers. So you can imagine my shock and joy when Susan Keith carried a piece of 'Sara' through our doors. There in my hands was a piece of one of the very first aircraft carriers commissioned in the United States Navy.

The US Navy originally intended to build a battle cruiser when the keel of the USS Saratoga was laid down in 1920. However the Washington Naval Treaty of 1922 limited the armament of national navies. As a result, the US Navy transitioned both the USS Saratoga and the USS Lexington from battle cruisers to aircraft carriers.

Commissioned November 16, 1927, the USS Saratoga was a masterpiece alongside her sister ship, the USS Lexington. With an 874 foot wooden flight deck, over 111 feet wide, the USS Saratoga (CV-3), easily accommodated 83 aircraft.

For ten years, the USS Saratoga called San Diego Bay her home. She demonstrated vulnerabilities of Pearl Harbor as a military hub during Fleet Problem XIX, three years before the bombing of Pearl Harbor. She survived the Battle of the Solomon Islands and provided air cover during Tarawa in World War II. In 1946, the USS Saratoga participated in Operation Crossroads, where atomic bomb testing sunk her off the coast of the Bikini Atoll on July 25, 1946.

This small portion of the massive flight deck provides a window into the vast history that the USS Saratoga can tell.

for his service in the war of 1812, while serving aboard USS Constitution. Never to be used for battle, the sword is unique in every way; including a hard-engraved photo of 'Old Ironsides' and a handle of gold.

The USS Constitution, named by President George Washington is most famous for her actions during the War of 1812. The battle with HMS frigate Guerriere in 1812 earned her the nickname of "Old Ironsides".

Incredibly the Coronado Treasures Roadshow appraiser valued the sword at nearly a quarter of a million dollars due to it's historical significance.

Education Corner

Summer History Camp returned in a big way this year! Education Director Katelynn Estrada revitalized the program to include more activities and field trips than ever before. Campers experienced the history of Coronado through a jam-packed schedule of hands-on crafts, activities and field trips.

Campers learned how and why museums preserve history for future generations, and how they can be a part of history. Sticking to the theme learning is fun, campers participated in activities designed to foster both creativity and a passion for history.

With a focus on the arts, campers learned about the excellent traditions of theater, architecture and visual arts in Coronado. Campers were treated to a private tour of the Coronado Playhouse by Amanda Everett, who educated the children about how to produce a play. This year also included a return of field trips to the Hotel del Coronado, where hotel staff graciously greeted campers and answered their questions about the beloved landmark. A tour of the Maritime Museum of San Diego led by Executive Director; Bruce Linder was a camp favorite.

Campers created their own Kumeyaay pots, painted canvas prints and learned to record and preserve their own family history.

The CHA Education Department would like to thank the Coronado Playhouse, the Hotel del Coronado, the Maritime Museum and Flagship Cruises for their generous support and involvement with this year's program. With the official start of fall, the Education Department is already excited about plans underway for Summer 2016.

In Memoriam

With sadness and sincerest condolences, we honor the passing of loyal members and supporters of the Coronado Historical Association.

Sheila Sanders Robertson, a treasured member of the Coronado Community passed June 13, 2015. Her generous personality and smile will be missed. At the request of the family, Coronado Historical Association accepted donations in her honor.

Fittingly, CHA will use the generous donations to enhance the education program for children, continuing Sheila's valuable legacy.

"Thank you to those who donated to CHA in Sheila's memory."
