Taking a Team Approach to Safety

Mitzi Jump

Safety Specialist, Fisher Scientific
Grafton, Ohio

As a Fisher Scientific Safety Specialist, I've visited many customers over the last 20 years. What makes our interactions so unique is the way our team collaborates — with each other, and with our customers — to provide a total safety solution.

It starts by sitting down with our customers to really understand their needs. Then we work with other internal teams and departments to deliver to customers the right products to do their jobs and the right products to protect their people.

The relationship doesn't stop there. Once we start working with customers, we become an ongoing support system, helping them through their most critical moments. While visiting our customers, I've had the privilege of witnessing and consulting on major advancements in science and industry. To me, that's the biggest reward — seeing our customers succeed.
