BEAN! THERE!

~ DONE THAT ~

"The smell of freshly brewed coffee would get most of us out of bed in the morning. Unfortunately, most of us have to settle for a swig of instant as we rush out the door. Natalie Hilleli meets Pino Picone, a man who takes coffee very seriously."

The image of an Italian man in a white robe, mixing different blends of coffee together as if he were inventing the next age-defying night cream is not one you get to see every day. Pino Picone, who is well into his fifties, has more gusto and energy than a man half his age. Whether this is from the large quantities of espresso he consumes daily or from his true passion for coffee nobody can be sure, but his magnetic personality is infectious and since his days running the Brazillian coffee store, Picone has earned a reputation as a ture expert in the coffee industry.

When Picone was a lil boy he used to go with his dad to a small coffee shop in "Lil Italy" in Orange Grove where he spent so much time he eventually started working there serving ice-cream and making coffee. Often the men that used to hang out in the store playing games and socializing, would come over to his house to do the same, and he started making them espresso in the family's traditional Moka pot. "I found a passion for making coffee for that" re-calls Pino Picone. It came as no surprise then when he got involved with the Brazillian coffee store in the 80's. The company was a great success with over 50 stores, including some overseas.

Since then, Picone has moved to bigger things, growing a following of coffee lovers and creating a brand. Keeping the Espresso in the veins, he and his family run the CAPPELLO franchise, and exclusively supply the Caffè Da Pino coffee brand to all their stores. He initially headed up the Hyde Park CAPPELLO and his faithful fans followed him there but with the growing interest of the CAPPELLO concept, stores started popping up nationwide and they chose to sell the Hyde Park store, giving Picone the time to open up his own roaster Caffè Da Pino. "We roast different blends of coffee for different franchise brands, in traditional Italian packaging" says Picone. "The beans are mainly South American and are all 100 percent top quality Arabica"

Beans are imported from Guatemala, Costa Rica, Colombia and Brazil. Picone takes pride in his personal service and customer relations, and shows that he is involved in production at every level, from conception to delivery. "I roast and blend every bean that comes out of our factory." Picone enjoys doing specialized roasting as well, and he enjoys the fact that his mixes and blends are a family secret. The roaster offers different styles from Decaf to Filter to OldVienna and the Pino blend. The brand is growing at a rapid pace, producing two and a half tons of coffee a month.

A coffee habit that had one friend telling him that his mother must have dropped him in a bowl of espresso as a baby, Pino's love for coffee is combined with a love for people. "At the end of the day, all we want to do is make an excellent cup of coffee"
