The Family Tree of the Greek Gods is very large and confusing. It can be seen here: http://ludios.org/greekgods/

For this lapbook element you'll match up the gods of Mount Olympus with their purpose among the gods.

The Twelve Olympians, in Greek mythology, were the principal gods of the Greek pantheon, residing atop Mount Olympus. There were, at various times, fourteen different gods recognized as Olympians, though never more than twelve at one time. Zeus, Hera, Poseidon, Ares, Hermes, Hephaestus, Aphrodite, Athena, Apollo, and Artemis are always considered Olympians. Hestia, Demeter, Dionysus, and Hades are the variable gods among the Twelve. Hestia gave up her position as an Olympian to Dionysus in order to live among mankind (eventually she was assigned the role of tending the fire on Mount Olympus). Persephone spent six months of the year in the underworld (causing winter), and was allowed to return to Mount Olympus for the other six months in order to be with her mother, Demeter. And, although Hades was always one of the principal Greek gods, his home in the underworld of the dead made his connection to the Olympians more tenuous. The Olympians gained their supremacy in the world of gods after Zeus led his siblings to victory in war with the Titans; Zeus, Hera, Poseidon, Demeter, Hestia, and Hades were siblings; all other Olympians (with the exception of foam-born Aphrodite) are usually considered the children of Zeus by various mothers, except for Athena, who in some versions of the myth was born of Eus alone. Additionally, some versions of the myth state that Hephaestus was born of Hera alone as Hera's revenge for Zeus' solo birth of Athena.

These are 14 matchbook books. One for each god. Cut out the 2 large bases as two whole pieces. Fold them in half. Put them inside of each other and glue the bottom flaps of each together. This gives you a book with a front, inside top flap, inside bottom flap, turn the page and another whole inside spread. Cut out the matchbooks individually and fold like matchbooks. Glue the title page to the very outside flap. Glue the back of the base to your lapbook. Glue four matchbooks to top flap on the inside and four to inside bottom flap. Turn the page and glue three to the next inside top flap, and three more to the inside bottom flap. Cut out the pictures, names and descriptions of the gods and goddesses, keeping track of them, Glue the name of the god to the front of the matchbook. On the inside top flap of the matchbook glue the description of the god and in the inside bottom flap glue the picture of the god or goddess, do this for all 14 matchbooks.
