Emergency Contacts

- General emergency number: 911

Essential Information

The third largest city in the US is also one of its most historic and cultural – a place where a wide variety of attractions and activities are available. The central business district is full of architectural gems and art installations, and there are dozens of outstanding museums and galleries showcasing awe-inspiring art and educational exhibitions. Nature lovers aren't given short shrift either – the shores of Michigan lake are lined with vast golden beaches and parks just made for picnicking, running and spending free time. Chicago is also a city of music – jazz and blues fans will be happy to find bars with live music and amazing ambience, old recording studios and vinyl shops.

Time Zone

Central Time (CT) – UTC/GMT -6 hours, Daylight Saving Time +1 hour is in use from March to November.

Contacts

Tourist Contacts

- Non-emergency hotline (traffic, information on events, reporting crime): 311
- Chicago Convention & Tourism Bureau: +1 312 567 8500
- Chicago Hotel Association: +1 312 346 3135
- Illinois Bureau of Tourism: +1 800 2CONNECT

Currency: United States dollar, $1 = 100 cents.

There are money changers nearly on every corner of the city centre. A more convenient way to get cash, however, is to withdraw money from an ATM – they are plentiful and the rates are better than in the exchange offices.

All major cards are widely accepted, the most useful are probably Visa and MasterCard – always double-check the door stickers. Paying with credit cards is much more common than in Europe and there are some transactions you can't even carry out without using your card, such as reserving tickets by phone or renting a car.

Tax Refunds

There is no VAT refund system in Illinois. The price displayed is generally without sales tax, which is added at the register. The local sales tax for non-food items is 9.75%.

Prices

Chicago is known for expensive accommodation. On the other hand, going out and dining is relatively cheap, and there are variety of free days and discounts for attractions so overall your stay in Chicago may not necessarily be expensive.

- Meal, inexpensive restaurant – $10
- Meal for 2, mid-range restaurant, three-course – $45
- Combo Meal at McDonald's – $6
- Bottle of water at supermarket – $1.30
- Domestic beer (0.5 liter, draft) – $3.75
- Cappuccino – $3.45
- Souvenir t-shirt – $20
- Gasoline (1 liter) – $1
- Hostels (average price/night) – $29
- 4* hotel (average price/night) – $180

- Car-hire (medium-sized car/day) – $60

Tipping

Tipping is common and is, in fact, expected. It is a way to show that you're satisfied with the service – if you're not, tip less or not at all and complain. You should generally tip between 10-15% of the total bill. It is customary to tip hotel door-men, bellhops and car valets around $2 for every service. Taxi drivers expect a 15% tip, too.

Electricity

The standard electricity supply in the United States is 110-120 V with North American Grounded socket type (two parallel flat pins and a round ground pin). If you're coming from outside America, you will need a voltage transformer as your appliances are most probably built for 220-240 voltage. The primary exception is computer/laptop/tablet/phone power supplies – check the label, a transformer is probably not necessary.

Languages

The dominant spoken language is, of course, American English. There are significant Spanish and Polish minorities but they are rarely engaged in the tourist industry.

Mobile Phones

There are two standards in use: GSM and CDMA. The latter one is used almost exclusively and unfortunately may not be compatible with your phone if coming from outside of the USA. The GSM standard is operated by T-Mobile and AT&T. However, the frequencies of the North American GSM are different from the rest of the world and not all phones can handle them.

The international access code for the USA is +1, the area code for Chicago is 312.

Internet

Almost every café offers free Internet connection – just ask the staff. The major chains such as Starbucks usually have free Wi-Fi for their customers. The services vary – sometimes there are computers for use or you get an access code good for some two hours, sometimes you get an unlimited access.

The Chicago Public Library offers free Internet access through terminals as well as Wi-Fi. You only need to show your ID to prove that you're not from Chicago and you will be granted temporary access.

There are also many hotels that offer Internet connection for free.

All offices and the majority of museums are closed on the major holidays, but malls and shopping centers usually stay open, and are closed or have reduced opening hours only on Easter Sunday, Thanksgiving and Christmas Day.

Opening Hours

The shopping hours are usually Monday to Saturday 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sundays, and extended hours during holidays. Office hours are typically 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Chicago museums tend to stay open until late, at least until 7 or 8 p.m. throughout the week.

Public Transportation

The public transportation system operated by the Chicago Transit Authority (www.transitchicago.com) covers the entire city and is cheap and efficient. Before getting on a vehicle, you need to get a stored-value fare card from a vending machine in the nearest CTA station or have the exact fare in cash (no change provided). Depending on how much you plan to travel, you can also purchase a CTA Unlimited Ride Card (one-day for $10, three-day $20, seven-day $28). The single fare is $2.25 (or $2 with farecard), reduced fare is $1.

- Trains – the system is very comprehensive, all train lines connect at the Loop.
- Buses – The buses run in a dense net and cover almost all major streets. The route is mapped at every stop.
- Metra trains (metrarail.com) – commuter trains connecting the city with the suburbs. They also run the Electric Line connecting Loop, Convention Center, Museum of Science and Industry, and Rainbow Beach – check the schedule beforehand. You need to buy a ticket from a vending machine before getting on board.
- Pace suburban bus service (pacebus.com) – several lines connect the CTA stations. Seventeen of its routes also serve O'Hare and Midway airports. The regular fare is $1.75 and the Transit card can be used on their routes.

Taxis

When compared to other US cities, taxi fares are very low in Chicago. There's plenty of them and they can be conveniently hailed from downtown streets. The initial charge is $3.25 for the first 1/9 mile and $0.20 for each additional 1/9 mile or 36 seconds elapsed. The surcharge for the first additional passenger is $1.00 and $0.50 for each additional passenger. There are no other surcharges. If travelling to or from the airports, the fare is one and half times the metered rate.

Alternatively, you can use the services of the Chicago Water Taxi (www.chicagowatertaxi.com) if you are visiting the city in spring or summer. A single ride costs $3 and a day ticket costs $7. The taxi goes from Chinatown to Michigan Avenue with stops at Madison Street and LaSalle/Clark.

Regional Transportation

Amtrak – operates trains on five lines between 28 downstate cities and Chicago. The trains are often delayed but otherwise convenient. It is good to book longer-distance trips in advance.

Buses – operated by Greyhound, Megabus and Coach USA. The tickets can be purchased in advance at the respective offices, with agencies or online.

Driving

You will do best if you avoid driving in Chicago downtown. The parking is very expensive and traffic slow, often congested. When parking on street, always check the signs if it's not residential parking. On the contrary, driving in Illinois is a pleasant experience. There is a dense net of highways and interstates generally in a good condition and only highways around Chicago are subject to toll.

- Speed limits in urban areas – 30 mph
- Rural interstates – 65 mph
- Highways and interstate highways near or in major cities – 55 mph
- Highways – 100 km/h (62 mph)
- Blood alcohol limit – .08% BAC (0,8 pro mille)
- Always use hands-free for your phone when driving.
- Using seat belts is compulsory even in the back seat. Children under 8 must travel in a child seat.

Walkability

Chicago ranks among the most walkable cities in the US. The most walkable neighborhoods are Printers Row, Near North and Sheridan Park. Overall, walking in Chicago is a pleasurable experience and a great way to get to know the city well.

Disabled access is also outstanding. The majority of train stations have rails or lifts and all trains and buses are wheelchair accessible. Almost all attractions also take the disabled into account – the access information is usually included on the website and the places are mostly well-accessible. You can find useful information on the Easy Access website (easyaccesschicago.org) or by calling +1 773 388 8839.

- Deep dish pizza (or Chicago-style pizza) – baked in a pan with a high rim, with a thick layer of tomato sauce, meats and vegetables.
- Italian Beef sandwich – slow-roasted, shaved steak in Italian-style bread.
- Chicago hot dog – beef sausage served in a poppy-seed bun, topped with huge portion of pickled and fresh vegetables.
- Maxwell Street Polish – same as hot dog, topped only with grilled onions, mustard, and chili peppers.
- Chicago-style fried chicken – fried in mix of beef fat and vegetable oil.

The most common way to enjoy a night out in Chicago is bar-hopping. The city is reputed to have the second highest density of bars in the US. The most popular alcohol is probably vodka and cocktails based on it. There is also a great selection of local craftbrews – there are more than 30 of them! Try McCarthy Red Ale or 5 Lizard.

Shopping

Chicago is the shopping city. Wander along The Magnificent Mile to buy clothes, accessories and designer goods. You can also visit Lincoln Square and the Wicker Park area for music gifts. The most popular souvenirs from Chicago are Frango Mints, traditional chocolate sweets and blues or jazz CDs (Chicago is a city of music after all). A little tacky, but still beautiful, are snowglobes with Chicago's distinctive skyline.

- DO dedicate some time to Chicago architecture – there are many real gems.
- DO visit a professional baseball, basketball, hockey or football game.
- DO visit also some lesser-known museums – there are plenty of interesting ones.
- DO enjoy the lake during the summer – Chicago has beautiful beaches.
- DO NOT waste your time on Navy Pier if you want to get to know the real city.
- DO NOT buy souvenirs in Chinatown – the prices are outrageous.

Safety

Your safety in Chicago heavily depends on which neighbourhood you find yourself in. There are many run-down streets and districts in central Chicago, some practically a few steps from the major sights.

At night, be cautious in the Loop – after regular working hours, this area is more or less abandoned. It might be also best to avoid certain neighborhoods on the South and West Sides, particularly the areas around Washington Park, Englewood, Fuller Park and Garfield Park, where the crime rates are highest.

In general, avoid badly lit or abandoned streets and always use your common sense. Always keep an eye on your belongings, especially in crowded areas and when traveling on public transportation.

There are many beggars on the downtown streets, but they don't pose any danger. There's one common scam, though – they offer to polish your shoes but then claim an outrageously high price after they're finished.

The tap water should be safe to drink but it may have an unusual odor. There have been some problems with its quality recently, though; it might not be a bad idea to buy bottled water.
