In the Name of Art

After Jesus Christ, Napoleon is the most famous man in history.

To mark the 200th anniversary of Napoleon's death, this documentary explores the complex relationship between Napoleon, culture and art. It is about the language he used to build a new imperial iconography and a new architectural style, in a reconstruction that will also allow us to reflect on the relationship between power and image mediated by art, as well as look at the regimes of the twentieth century and the world today. A unique tour from Brera Academy in Milan to the Louvre in Paris in the company of the best art historian experts and Jeremy Irons who passes his fascination to the viewers.

Tutankhamun

The Last Exhibition

To mark the centenary of the discovery of Tutankhamun's tomb in 1922 when Tut-mania took over the world. This documentary offers a unique opportunity to meet the Pharaoh, and to follow exclusive coverage of how 150 items from among his treasures, were moved to become part of the biggest international exhibition ever dedicated to the Golden Boy. "Please watch them, before they return back to Egypt forever," said Mostafa Waziry, secretary general of the Egyptian Ministry of State for Antiquities. Much will be revealed through high-resolution photographs by Sandro Vannini. Tutankhamun is a name that has become part of the collective imagination worldwide. This doc shows the stubbornness of the British archaeologist who discovered the tomb, when methods of mass communication were just beginning to completely revolutionize our lives and offers exclusive access to some of the places which continue to pulsate with its history.

Marco Pantani

Here is a film that, with tenderness, empathy and love, tells the story of the man and the sportsman that was the legendary Marco Pantani, “the pirate”. “The first real film about Marco” his mother said and we are particularly proud of it. Through public and private archive material and intimate, moving conversations with family members, his coach and close friends, “The Natural” retraces the life of a great cyclist against the backdrop of his home town of Cesenatico, a small town overlooking the Adriatic Sea, a town with the warmth to never stop believing that “someone like him would ever give in”. This is a portrait that restores vitality and dignity to an iconic figure that has been trampled on.

Raphael

The Young Prodigy

Marking the 500th Anniversary of his death, an immersion into the Renaissance to explore his sublime art.

This documentary explores the story of the artist from Urbino, starting with his extraordinary female portraits: mother, lover, client, goddess, figures that all played a role in Raphael's life, making it possible for the painter's story to be told from a new perspective, and for his continuous search for absolute beauty to be examined. It places particular emphasis on the artistic transformation of the painter and his ability to make his art evolve continuously without ever repeating himself. The documentary also makes use of special graphic animation by award-winning illustrator Giordano Poloni that, by using evocative and dreamlike language, gives shape to the key moments in Raphael's life where myth, legend and reality continuously intermingle. Thanks to contributions from internationally renowned experts, this documentary film will also enable us to discover the most significant cities and places in the life and times of one of the Renaissance master.

Dance-Hall Punk

Dancing until Dawn

An intense cinematographic portrait of the legendary dancehall punk band Extraliscio. How the folklore of Romagna ballroom dancing encounters new sounds, bending genres from rock and pop to electronic music. Directed by the filmmaker, publisher, and 'memory hunter', Elisabetta Sgarbi, it adds an exclamation point to the anthropological culture of experiencing social relations with their inevitable soundtrack included. Writer Ermanno Cavazzoni is the narrator and poet on stage to tell us about the tradition of sounds, joy, dance, madness that becomes «We will dance until dawn».

Disabled people like Claudia, a twenty-year-old woman with a serious motor disability, have long been denied the pleasures of sex.

Marco, a Love Giver, comes into her life. He has just attended his first course in helping disabled people discover their bodies and their sexuality. It's an experimental programme, because a law on the matter is yet to be developed in Italy. Supported by a team of specialists, Claudia and Marco embark on a series of meetings that become ever more intimate. However, the project is subject to protocol which includes a rule that is difficult to enforce: never fall in love.

Munch

Love Phantoms and Lady Vampires

There is no painter in the world both more famous and less known than Edvard Munch.

The debt contemporary culture has towards Munch is impressive, from Andy Warhol to Ingmar Bergman, from Marina Abramovich to Jasper Johns. If his painting has become a symbol and at the same time an omen of the tragedies of the twentieth century, his art has travelled new and experimental roads of extraordinary modernity. Today, however, it is his city, Oslo, which sets a turning point for the knowledge of Munch: the birth of a new museum, opening in Fall 2021. The documentary will start from there to shed light on a man and an artist with singular charm, a precursor and a master.

Venice

Infinitely Avant-Garde

This documentary is a compendium of the 1600-year history of Venice and its openness to the world, and to the future, through its art and its museums, its canals and its narrow streets (calle).

This tour of the city takes in masterpieces by Tiepolo, Canaletto, Rosalba Carriera and the intellectuals who fell in love with Venice: from Canova to Goethe, Byron to Walter Scott, down to the great Hollywood stars drawn to its unique, yearly Film Festival. 1600 years after its legendary foundation, Venice continues to be unique: for its urban environment, made of stone, earth and water, and for its history, that has entered the realm of legend. But above all, Venice is unique for its identity, which combines contrasting DNA blueprints: the charm of decadence and the excitement of being on the cutting edge. Cosmopolitan from the outset, Venice has always been a city of commercial and cultural exchange with the East and, taking into account its fragility, has always had vision and been inspired by the future.

Looking for Chekhov

The words and spirit of Anton Chekhov. A journey into the staging of his masterpiece "Uncle Vanja" set against Italian post-earthquake immobility.

Through an ideal dialogue between director Vinicio Marchioni and Chekhov - to whom Toni Servillo lends his voice - this documentary is a multiple journey: within the theatrical work, to earthquake locations, into Chekhov's words and places. It mixes genres and languages. But it is first of all a simple act of love, towards theater, literature and human resilience.

Botticelli

Florence and the Medici

From Salvador Dali to Andy Warhol, David LaChapelle to Jeff Koons and Lady Gaga, no one appears to be immune to the eternal fascination of Botticelli and his works.

A journey through the art of the Maestro enshrined in the open-air museum that is Florence: an unprecedented itinerary to discover the artist who invented a new model of beauty, overcoming the barrier of the centuries to inspire our contemporaries. Dreamlike re-enactments, spell-binding images of the city and filmed footage of amazing works of art, are intertwined with the voices of leading experts, and international art historians as they narrate the splendor and contradictions of the Florence of Lorenzo de 'Medici. Botticelli asserted himself as the inventor of an ideal Beauty, which found its maximum expression in works such as The Allegory of Spring and the Birth of Venus.

Artist Maudit, scandalous genius and indisputable master of 20th Century Art:

a portrayal that goes beyond the legendary to celebrate the 100th Anniversary since his death. Narrated here from the original point of view of his young wife, Jeanne Hébuterne who committed suicide two days after his death. Jeanne together with the Russian aspiring poetess Anna Achmatova, and the English journalist Beatrice Hastings were the women he painted portraits of, and whose faces, almost caryatid-like, became the very icons of his art. The action of the film unwinds through museum halls, enriched by the works of the Albertina in Vienna and the splendid exhibition dedicated to the artist at Livorno's City Museum, as well as the National Gallery of Art in Washington and the great museums and art collections in Paris.

An Impressionist painting of a nude woman, likely by Berthe Morisot, showing soft, visible brushstrokes and a focus on light and color. The woman is depicted from the waist up, with her arms raised and hands near her head. The background is a mix of blue and white tones, suggesting an outdoor setting.

Secret Impressionists

50 unseen masterpieces unveiled for the first time: Manet, Caillebotte, Renoir, Monet, Cézanne, Signac, Sisley and Berthe Morisot.

A cinematic journey to discover the art revolution caused by the Impressionist movement through fifty paintings that have been on display in Rome at Palazzo Bonaparte, in an exhibition of the same title. How did the Impressionists view the world? What was the reception given to their works? How did they go from being rejected by critics and the public to becoming, in just a few short years, some of the best loved works of art in the whole world? The two curators of the exhibition, Claire Durand-Ruel (Paul Durand-Ruel, the most important Impressionists' art dealer was her great-great-grandfather) and Marianne Mathieu, will accompany audiences along a complex and intriguing path.

To celebrate the centennial of the Maestro's birth on January 20, 1920, the documentary will explore, for the first time, "the hidden world" of Federico Fellini.

It will draw on plenty of unseen materials from the archives of pubcaster Rai and state film entity Istituto Luce, in addition to film clips, to reconstruct and depict Fellini's rapport with the spiritual and the supernatural. Besides Chazelle and Friedkin, the doc also features interviews with Terry Gilliam and Fellini's collaborators Fiammetta Profili and Filippo Ascione, with his close friend journalist Sergio Zavoli and Italian scholars Andrea Minuz and Aldo Tassone, among others.
