| Nightingale, Florence 1820-1910 | Notes on hospitals....With evidence given to the Royal Commission ERS on the state of the army in 1857 | London: John W. Parker and Son, 1859 | First edition. In the present work, Nightingale applied her extensive knowledge of military hospitals to their civilian counterparts, which she discovered to be just as poorly designed and administered. It was her revolutionary thesis that the high rate of mortality, then invariable in large hospitals, was preventable and unnecessary. It was the most exhaustive study to date of hospital planning and administration. |
