MODULE 1

Audit & Control Considerations in Electronic Commerce

March 10, 2008

Early Registration: February 14th, 2008

This seminar provides insight to those professionals who have grappled with electronic commerce and information security issues surrounding the continued growth of virtual markets.

Unsecured electronic commerce presents risks which could create a 'black hole' of liability for organizations. Seminar attendees will be prepared for the challenges of auditing, assessing and securing automated financial electronic commerce applications, with an aim of avoiding such corporate liabilities.

MODULE 2

Fundamental Forensics for Auditors and Info Security Professionals

March 11 & 12, 2008

Early Registration: February 14th, 2008

This overview seminar will introduce the attendee to the broad field of cyber forensics and present the various tools and techniques designed to maintain control over organizational assets, digital or otherwise. This seminar covers computer forensics theory and methodology. It is not limited to the use of a specific software tool.

MODULE 3

Business Continuity, Disaster Recovery and Incident Management Planning

March 13, 2008

Early Registration: February 14th, 2008

This seminar examines the various causes of computer failure, and presents feasible alternatives for recovery. Session participants will examine the key components of disaster recovery, business continuity and incident management planning, how to measure the effectiveness of their organization's business recovery, continuity and planning program, and what questions they should be asking to determine their organization's overall preparedness to endure a disaster "event".
