Computerwocky

'Twas binary, and the wysiwyg
 Did gulp and gigo in the mips:
 All bubble were the memories,
 And bipolar were the chips.

"Beware the Jargontalk, my son!
 Like 'gigabytes' and 'Riscs' and 'rings'!
 Beware all technospeak, and shun
 Those dubious buzz-word things."

Base two! Base two! and through and through
 The packet-switch went buffer-stack!
 With multithread and thin-film head
 It went on looping back.

"And hast thou sussed the Jargontalk
 In interactive user code?
 O frabjous day! Callooh! Callay!"
 (in Lewis Carroll mode).

Pregensis

In the beginning there was maximum entropy. And then it came to pass that it decreased. Out of the chaos and darkness came order.

On the first day, matter was formed. It separated from the primordial energy and created space.

On the second day, baryons and leptons were formed. They took unto themselves positive and negative charges.

On the third day, atoms were formed. Great and small forces made baryons and leptons cling to each other.

On the fourth day, molecules were formed. They were of all types: small, large, polar and nonpolar, stable and unstable.

On the fifth day, molecular aggregates were formed. Water molecule cleaved unto water molecule, magnesium unto chlorophyll, globin unto heme.

On the sixth day, the molecules reproduced themselves. DNA separated and rejoined, RNS clung unto amino acids, amino acids clung onto proteins.
And on the seventh day, the entropy started to increase again....

Grammar Rules?

Don't use no double negatives.
Make each pronoun agree with their antecedent.
When dangling, watch your participles.
Don't use commas, which aren't necessary.
Verbs has to agree with their subjects.
About those sentence fragments.
Try to not ever split infinitives.
It is always important to use apostrophe's correctly.
Always read what you have written to see you any words out.
Correct spelling is esential.
... and remember: Dyslexia rules OK

Limericks

There was a young man of Japan
 Whose limericks never would scan
 When someone asked why
 He replied with a sigh
 It's because I always try to get as many words into the last line as I possibly can.

Another young poet in China
 Had a feeling for rhythm much finer
 His limericks tend
 To come to an end
 Quite suddenly.

That things were not much worse was a mercy
 You read the bottom line first
 Since he wrote all reversed
 He did every job arsy-versy
 A very odd poet was Percy

Two hunters were tracking a deer
 On a trail that was not quite clear
 When one of them said
 With a shake of his head
 "There's a sharp drop off right about h

You can't really call it a limerick e
 I guess it's more of a gimerick r
 'Cause this poem of mine e
 Stops at the fourth line !

When the 'Rose & Crown' signboard fell down
 George, the landlord, remarked with a frown
 "On the one to replace it
 We'll have much more space b't-
 Ween Rose and & and & and Crown"

McKnight, and irascible Col.,
 Had a temper simply infol.
 He often would try
 To slaughter a fly
 With a tightly-rolled paper or jol.

Inflationary Language

Twice upon a time there was a young lieuelevenant in the Army Air fiveces named Bob, who lived in sunny Califivenia with his sister Anna. They had been very close ever since Anna saw the light of day for the second time. They were very proud of the fact that their fivefathers had been among the crenineors of the American constithreeion.

Tonight they were commemornineing her engagement to Don Two, an assiten egotist who hadn't even shown up. The table was beautifully decornineed with Anna's favourite flowers, threelips. Bob looked at his sister and said elevenderly, "Darling, you look twoderful threenight, you never looked so lovely befive, but you have three of the saddest eyes I have ever seen." Anna really looked twoderful in spite of the illness from which she had not yet recupernineed.

It was midnight. A clock in the distance struck thirteen, and suddenly, there in the moonlight, stood Don Two, obviously intoxicnineed. Bob jumped to his feet. "You three-faced triple-crosser!". But Anna, trying to avoid a scandal, said, "Any two for elevennis?" Bob grabbed from the table in front of him a piece of marinnineed herring, but Anna warned, "Don't throw it! Remember you are an officer in the United States Air fiveces!" Don Two retorted, "Are you two? I am two three!" Then he left, and when he was one and a half way through the door he turned, "Anna", he said as he wiped his fivehead, "If I can't have you I shall never marry, I shall remain double. Goodbye Anna! Threedleoo!"

Programmer

"A programmer is a person who passes as an exacting expert on the basis of being able to turn out, after innumerable codings, an infinite series of incomprehensive answers calculated with micrometric precisions from vague assumptions based on debatable figures taken from inconclusive documents and carried out on instruments of problematical accuracy by persons of dubious reliability and questionable mentality for the avowed purpose of annoying and confounding a hopelessly defenseless department that was unfortunate enough to ask for the information in the first place."

The Turbo-Encabulator in Industry

For a number of years now work has been proceeding in order to bring to perfection the crudely conceived idea of a machine that would not only supply inverse reactive current for use in unilateral phase detractors, but would also be capable of automatically synchronising cardinal grammeters. Such a machine is the Turbo-Encabulator. Basically the only new principle involved is that instead of power being generated by the relative motion of conductor and fluxes, it is produced by the nodal interaction of magneto-reluctance and capacitive directance. The original machine had a base-plate of malleable aluminite, surmounted by a pre-fabulated logarithmic casing in such a way that the two main spurving bearings were in a direct line with the pentametric fan. The latter consisted simply of six hydrocoptic marzlevanes, so fitted to the ambifacient lunar vaneshaft that side fumbling was effectively prevented. The main winding was of the normal lotus-o-delta type place in panendermic semiboloid slots in the stator, every seventh conductor being connected by a non-reversible termic pipe to the differential girdlespring on the up end of the grammeters.

Forty-one manestically placed grouting brushes were arranged to feed into the rotor slipstream in a mixture of high S-value phenylhydrobenzamine and 5% ruminative tetryliodohexamine. Both these liquids have specific pericosities given by : $p = 2.5C^{6.7n}$ where n is the diathetical evolute of retrograde temperature phase disposition, and C is Cholmondeley's annular grillage coefficient.

Initially, n was measured with the aid of a metapolar refractive pilfrometer¹, but up to the present date, nothing has been found to equal the transcendental hopper dadoscope². Electrical engineers will appreciate the difficulty of nubing together a regurgitative pugwell and a supramitive wennel-sprocket. Indeed, this proved to be a stumbling-block to further development until, in 1942, it was found that the use of anhydrous nangling pins enabled the kryptonastic bolling shims to be tankered.

The early attempts to construct a sufficiently robust spiral decommutator largely failed because of a lack of appreciation of the large quasi-piestic stresses in the gremlin studs; the latter were specifically designed to hold the roffit bars to the spamshaft. When, however, it was discovered that wending could be prevented by a simple addition to the jiving sockets, almost perfect running was secured. The operating point is maintained as near as possible to the h.f. rem peak by constantly fromaging the bitumogeneous spandrels. This is a distinct advance on the standard nivelsheave in that no dremcock oil is required until after the phase detractors have been remissed.

Undoubtedly, the Turbo-Encabulator has now reached a high level of technical development. It has been successfully used for operating nofertrunnions. In addition, whenever a barescent skor motion is required, it may be employed in conjunction with a deep-drawn reciprocating dingle arm to reduce sinusoidal depletionation.

Laws of Project Management

1. No major project is ever installed on time, within budgets, with the same staff that started it. Yours will not be the first.
2. Projects progress quickly until they become 90% complete, then they remain at 90% complete forever.
3. One advantage of fuzzy project objectives is that they let you avoid the embarrassment of estimating the corresponding costs.
4. When things are going well, something will go wrong. When things just can't get any worse, they will. When things appear to be going better you have overlooked something.
5. If project content is allowed to change freely, the rate of change will exceed the rate of progress.
6. No system is ever completely debugged. Attempts to debug a system inevitably introduce new bugs that are even harder to find.
7. A carelessly planned project will take three times longer to complete than expected; a carefully planned project will only take twice as long.
8. Project teams detest progress reporting because it vividly manifests their lack of progress.

Phases of a project: 1. Exultation. 2. Disenchantment. 3. Confusion. 4. Search for the guilty. 5. Punishment of the innocent. 6. Distinction for the uninvolved.

Some seasonal poems

These two samples of verse have been taken from recently discovered 16th century French manuscripts. Translations and explanations of the text, together with many more examples, can be found in the quoted references. However, the first beats a remarkable resemblance to a traditional English Yuletide poem, and the second might be said to have some connection to Easter (very loosely!)

Exceptional Rule

If for every rule there is an exception, then we have established that there is an exception to every rule. If we accept "For every rule there is an exception" as a rule, then we must concede that there may not be an exception after all, since the rule states that there is always the possibility of exception, and if we follow it to its logical end we must agree that there can be an exception to the rule that for every rule there is an exception.

Rules of Life:

You have two chances, slim and non-existent
 You never get it where you want it
 If you think it's tough now, just wait
 There's more to life than increasing its speed
 Today is the last day of the first part of your life
 Mother said there would be days like this, but she never said there would be so many
 The alternative to getting old is depressing
 Just when you think you can make both ends meet, somebody moves the ends

 You turn the lights out for economic rather than romantic reasons

Your knees buckle but your belt won't
 Your back goes out more than you do
 The little grey-haired lady you help across the street is your wife
 You sink your teeth into a steak and they stay there

Metriculation

As I 2.54 centimetred my way along the ledge, I could feel my heart 0.454 kilogramming with the fear that I might fall like a 6.35 kilogrammes to the 0.914 metres below. I paused a 12.7 kilogrammes of the way along with one 30.5 centimetres 5.03 metred precariously on a short 5.03 metres projecting from the wall. 0.142 litres would be a 1.61 kilometres away by now but anyway I had no 1.29 grammes about her, as I'd had that 4.55 litres on my mind for far too long. I summoned every 28.2 grammes of strength, grasped a rusty 20.1 metres with both 10.2 centimetres and slid to the ground. I could hear a hen nearby 9.10 litring at some loose 0.0648g rammes. Once down, I tried to 1.83 metres why our plan had misfired, what was the 20.1 centimetres I had overlooked, the 1850 metres/hour I had yet to untie?

Lost extract from the Periodic Table

Element:	Woman
Symbol:	Wo
Discoverer:	Adam
Atomic Weight:	Accepted as 118, but is known to vary from 100 to 160
Occurrence:	Surplus quantities in all urban areas
Physical properties:	Surface usually covered in painted film Boils at nothing and freezes without reason Melts if given proper treatment Bitter if used incorrectly Found in various states ranging from virgin metal to common ore
Chemical properties:	Possesses great affinity to Au, Ag, Pt and precious stones Able to absorb great quantities of expensive substances May explode spontaneously if left alone with male Insoluble in liquids, but activity increased by saturation in alcohol Yields to pressure applied to correct parts
Uses:	Highly ornamental, especially in sports cars Most powerful money-reducing agent known to science Can be great aid to relaxation

Tests:	Pure specimens turn a rosy tint if discovered in natural state Turns green if placed beside a better specimen
Caution:	Highly dangerous except in experienced hands Illegal to possess more than one permanent specimen, although a certain amount of exchange is permitted.

The Theory of Big Game Hunting

- The following methods (a small selection from about 70 known) are restricted to the species Felix leo, in the domain bounded by the Sahara Desert. However they may be extended to encompass other locations and carnivores.
- The method of inversive geometry - We place a spherical cage in the desert, enter it and lock it. we perform an inversion with respect to the cage. The lion is then in the interior of the cage, and we are outside.
- The topological method - We observe that a lion has at least the connectivity of a torus. We transport the desert into four-space. It is then possible to carry out such a deformation that the lion can be returned to three-space in a knotted condition. He is then helpless.
- The Dirac method - We observe that wild lions are, ipso facto, not observable in the Sahara Desert. Consequently, if there are any lions in the Sahara, they are tame. The capture of a tame lion may be left as an exercise for the reader.
- The Schrodinger method - at any given moment there is a positive possibility that there is a lion in the cage. Sit down and wait.
- The thermodynamical method - We construct a semi-permeable membrane, permeable to everything except lions, and sweep it across the desert.
- Game theoretic method - A lion is big game. Thus a fortiori, he is a game. Therefore there exists an optimal strategy. Follow it.
- Method of analytical mechanics - Since the lion has non-zero mass, it has moments of inertia. Grab it during one of them.
- Method of natural functions - The lion, having spent his life under the Sahara sun, will surely have a tan. Induce him to lie on his back; he can then, by virtue of his reciprocal tan, be cot.
- Method of moral philosophy - Construct a corral in the Sahara and wait until autumn. At that time the corral will contain a large number of lions, for it is well known that a pride cometh before the fall.
- Cost-benefit method - For some lions the cost of avoiding capture (all that running, dodging spears etc.) is greater than the benefits of remaining free. These lions will surrender voluntarily.
- Method of international diplomacy - I would explain this, but it never works anyway.

Novel Inn Signs - AP Herbert

It has been suggested the modern inn should have a modern name. The "Four Jolly Post Boys" are out of place on a large building decorated with chromium and surrounded by petrol-pumps. Why not take inn-titles from the familiar activities of our public life.... "The Sabotaged Issue", "The Implemented Obligation", "The Crystallised Viewpoint", "The Biological Status", "The Liquidated Centre", "The Psycho-physiological Equilibrium", "The Frankenstein & Nemesis", "The Phenomenal Sensation", "The Measure of Agreement", "The Bourgeois Ideology", "The Acid Test", "The Unexplored Avenue" or "The Amazing Revelation" to name but a few.

Eminent Physicists

Nature, and Nature's laws, lay hid in night:
 God said "Let Newton be!" and all was light.
 It did not last: the Devil, howling "Ho!
 Let Einstein be!" restored the status quo.

The Oise Salon

Over a hundred years ago, a small band of writers from the département of Oise in France formed a literary salon in Paris. Led by Guillaume Chèquespierre, their number included Jean Quitte, Henri Longuevélo, A. Lefrette d'Enisone, Robert Brunenc, Guillaume Veuseveute, the mysterious A. Nonimousse and others. A brief extract from one of their works, which typifies the school, is given below:

Ail où on d'air de l'aune, liasse à clou de.
 Date flot s'en aille or vèle sénile ce.
 Où en haut la douane saillit sauré croûte
 À hausse t'oeuf gaule; d'haine daffût d'île ce.

Beasts and Birds - a schoolboy's essay

The Bird I am going to write about is Owl. The Owl cannot see at all in the daytime, and at night it is as blind as a bat. I do not know much about the Owl, so I will go on to the Beast, which I am going to choose. It is the Cow. The Cow is a mammal, and it is tame. It has six sides, right, left, fore, back, an upper and below. At the back it has a tail on which hangs a brush. With this it sends the flies away, so that they will not fall into the milk. The head is for the purpose of growing horns, and so that the mouth can be somewhere. The horns are to butt with. The mouth is to Moo with. Under the Cow hangs the milk. It is arranged for milk-ing. When people milk the milk comes, and there is never an end to the supply. How the Cow does it, I have not yet realized, but it makes more and more. The Cow has a fine sense of smell. One can smell it far away. This is the reason for fresh air in the country. The man cow is called an Ox, it is not a mammal. The Cow does not eat much, but what it eats it eats twice, so that it gets enough. When it is hungry it Moos, and when it says nothing it is because its inside is full up of grass.

A Selection from the Bestiary of Ogden Nash

The one-l lama, he's a priest.
 The two-l llama, he's a beast.
 And I will bet a silk pajama,
 There isn't any three-l llama

The oyster's a confusing suitor;
 It's masc., and fem., and even neuter.
 At times it wonders, may what come,
 Am I husband, wife or chum.

Tell me, O Octopus, I begs,
 Is those things arms, or is they legs?
 I marvel at thee, Octopus;
 If I were thou I'd call me Us.

The Lord in His wisdom made the fly,
 And then forgot to tell us why.

The cow is of the bovine ilk;
 One end is moo, the other, milk.

The trouble with a kitten is THAT
 Eventually it becomes a CAT.

O Kangaroo, O Kangaroo
 Be grateful that you're in the zoo,
 And not transmuted by a boomerang
 To a zestful tangy Kangaroo meringue.

Oh weep for Mr. and Mrs. Bryan!
He was eaten by a lion;
Following which, the lion's lioness
Up and swallowed Bryan's Bryanness.

The ostrich roams the great Sahara.
Its mouth is wide, its neck is narra.

It has such long and lofty legs,
I'm glad it sits to lay its eggs.

The truth I do not stretch or shove
When I state the dog is full of love.
I've also proved, by actual test,
A wet dog is the lovingest.

Bizarre Books

Since 1978 the Bookseller has run an annual competition to find the book title that "most outrageously exceeds all bounds of credibility". Some winners include:

Proceedings of the Second International Workshop on Nude Mice
The Madam as Entrepreneur: Career Management in House Prostitution
The Joy of Chickens
Last Chance at Love: Terminal Romances
Brace Owner's Manual
The Theory of Lengthwise Rolling
The Book of Marmalade: Its Antecedents, Its History and Its Role in the World Today

Some possible contenders in a scientific vein:

How to Draw a Straight Line
The Romance of the Holes in Bread
The Biochemist's Songbook
Fuzzy Reasoning and its Applications
Seven Years of "Manifold": 1968-1980
A Study of Splashes

And finally, some titles that have not yet been corroborated:

Be Bold with Bananas
The True Inwardness of the Oyster
Flashes from the Welsh Pulpit
Reminiscences of a Clachnacuddin Nonagenarian
Snoring as a Fine Art
Why Flies Buzz
Who's Who in Australian Embroidery

PC (politically correct) Lord's Prayer

Our universal chairperson in outer space, your identity enjoys the highest rating on a prioritised selectivity scale. May your sphere of influence take on reality parameters; may your mindset be implemented on this planet as in outer space. Allot to us, at this point in time and on a per diem basis, a sufficient and balanced dietary food intake, and rationalise a disclaimer against our negative feedback as we rationalise a disclaimer against the negative feedback of others. And deprogram our negative potentialities, but desensitise the impact of the counter-productive force. For yours is the dominant sphere of influence, the ultimate capability, and the highest qualitative analysis rating, at this point in time, and extending beyond a limited time frame. End of message.

Emoticons - Smiley Definitions - shorthand for use on computer networks.
Should be viewed by turning paper 90° clockwise

- :-) Your basic smilie. This smilie is used to inflect a sarcastic or joking statement since we can't hear voice inflection over the networks.
- ;-) Winky smilie. User just made a flirtatious and/or sarcastic remark. More of a "don't hit me for what I just said" smilie.
- :(Frowning smilie. User did not like that last statement or is upset or depressed about something.
- :~I Indifferent smilie. Better than a Frowning smilie but not quite as good as a happy smilie
- :> User just made a really biting sarcastic remark. Worse than :~).
- >:-> User just made a really devilish remark.
- >;-> Winky and devil combined. A very lewd remark was just made.

Those are the basic ones...Here are some somewhat less common ones:

Dictionary Definitions

Not all dictionary definitions are as clear, as explanatory, as helpful as the dictionary user would want them to be. Consequently, it is with a feeling of genuine pleasure that I point to the following definitions as examples of the ultimate in lucidity leaving nothing unsaid:

CACTOLITH. n. A quasi-horizontal chonolith composed of anastomosing ductoliths, whose distal ends curl like a harpolith, thin like a sphenolith, or bulge discordantly like an akmolith or ethmolith.

KOPHOBELEMNONIDAE n. A family of stelechotokean anthozoos, belonging to the alcyonarians, with a rachis longer than peduncle, cylindrical and with parachides provided with retractile autozooids in indefinite rows.

Words for those things that have not had words before.....

Aquadextrous - adj. Possessing the ability to turn the bath tap on and off with your toes.

Blithwapping - v. Using anything BUT a hammer to hammer a nail into the wall, such as shoes, lamp bases, doorstops, etc.

Burbulation - n. The obsessive act of opening and closing a refrigerator door in an attempt to catch it before the automatic light comes on.

Carperpetuation - n. The act, when vacuuming, of running over a string at least a dozen times, reaching over and picking it up, examining it, then putting it back down to give the vacuum one more chance.

Flannister - n. The plastic yoke that holds a four-pack of beer together.

Furbling - v. Having to wander through a maze of ropes at an airport or bank even when you are the only person in line.

Magnocartic - n. Any car that, left unattended in a supermarket car park, attracts shopping trolleys.

Mustgo - n. Any food that has been sitting in the fridge so long it has become a science project.

Narcolepulacy - n. The contagious action of yawning, causing everyone in sight to also yawn.

Nugloo - n. A single continuous eyebrow that covers the entire forehead.

Phosflink - v. To flick a bulb on and off when it burns out (as if, somehow, that will bring it back to life).

Purpitation - v. To take something off the supermarket shelf, decide you don't want it, and then put it in another section.

Scribline - n. The blank area on the back of credit cards where one's signature goes.

Slurm - n. The slime that accumulates on the underside of a soap bar when it sits in the dish too long.

Snacktrek - n. The peculiar habit, when searching for a snack, of constantly returning to the refrigerator in hopes that something new will have materialized.

Spagmumps - n. Any of the millions of polystyrene shapes that are used in packing irregularly shaped, fragile objects in regularly shaped boxes.

Spirobits - n. The frayed bits of left-behind paper in a spiral notebook.

Yinkel - n. A person who combs his hair over his bald spot, hoping no one will notice.

Celebrate Halloween at Christmas

These festive dates are in fact one and the same. Halloween is celebrated on the 31st of October, Christmas on the 25th of December. So,

Halloween = Oct 31

Christmas = Dec 25

In the octal system of notation (base 8) the number 31 is $3 \times 8, + 1$ which equals 25. This is equal to 25 in decimal notation (base 10), thus the two dates are equivalent, since Oct 31 = Dec 25!

A Rhyming Calendar (Anon. and very old)

JANet was quite ill one day, FEBrile troubles came her way.
 MARTyr-like she lay in bed; APRoned nurses softly sped,
 MAYbe, said the leech judicial, JUNket would be beneficial.
 JULeps too, though freely tried, AUGured ill, for Janet died.
 SEPulchre was sadly made, OCTaves pealed and prayers were said.
 NOVices with many a tear DECOrated Janet's bier.

Self Referentialism

Did you know that the word "gullible" does not appear in the Oxford English Dictionary?

- As Pandora gazed from the 14th floor of the executive office suite over the international fashion house she had established in New York, her mind drifted back to her humble beginnings as a bobbin ligger in a Lancashire cotton mill in the early, harsh, yet so vivid years of this century.
- "Miaou, miaou!"
- "A wee deoch an doris," said the bearded Highlander, raising his glass: "Many a mickle makes a muckle, and when all's said and done, one has tae dree one's weird."
- In the year 1897 Nikolai Aleksyeevich Shagalotsky (known to his friends as Kolia and to his closest business acquaintances as Nikolasha) settled with his wife, Anna Nazarovna Zeenaeda, whom he always addressed as Ziuziushka, in the city of St Petersburg, where his maternal uncle, Matveyi Yevgheniy Bogeov, and Ziuziushka's cousin, Marfa Yegorovna Voinitsjaiva, who insisted on being called Marfoosha, were already well established as maufacturers of fine samovars and balalaikas, in a firm originally owned by Dmitri Kruchich Bolokov, the paternal grandfather of Andrey Andryeevich Boozenbach, whom we shall meet later.

A long, long time

Far to the north, in the land called Svithjod, lies a black rock one hundred miles high and one hundred miles wide. Once every ten thousand years, a little bird flies to the rock and sharpens its beak. When all the rock has been worn away, one second of one day of eternity will have gone by.

Tongue twisters

A tall girl name Short long loved a big Mr Little. But Little, thinking little of Short, loved a little lass named Long. To belittle Long, Short announced she would marry Little before long. This caused Little to shortly marry Long. To make a long story short, did tall Short love big Little less because Little loved little Long more?

This one appeared in Grammatica Linguae Anglicanae in 1674:

When a Twister, a-twisting, will twist him a twist,
For the twisting of his twist, he three times doth intwist;

But, if one of the twists of the twist do untwist,
 The twine that untwisteth, untwisteth the twist.
 Untwirling the twine that untwisteth the twist between,
 He twirls, with his twister, the two in a twine;
 Then, twice having twisted the twines of the twine,
 He twisteth, the twine he has twine, in twain.
 The twain that, in twining, before in the twine;
 As twins were untwisted, he now doth untwine;
 Twixt the twain intertwisting a twine more between,
 He, twirling his twister, makes a twist of the twine.

A pamphlet from around 1830, of some two dozen rhymes, uses the much earlier Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled pepper as the basis for an alphabetic collection of characters from Andrew Airpump to Walter Waddle, each twister following a similar pattern. e.g.

Questing Quidnunc quizzed a queerish question.
 Did Questing Quidnunc quiz a queerish question?
 If Questing Quidnunc quizzed a queerish question,
 What's the queerish question Questing Quidnunc quizzed?

English is a crazy language

Scratch here to smell the characteristic fragrance of the new perfume
 H₂O from Yves Y'Ouattre.

In the English language no ham in hamburger, no cottages in cottage cheese. Blackboards can be green, hot dogs can be cold, darkrooms can be lit, and silverware can be plastic! A titmouse is not a mouse, wormwood contains neither worms nor wood, and bathrooms often don't have any baths in them. In fact, a bathroom isn't always a room since a dog can go to the bathroom under a tree. A woman can man a station, but a man can't woman one. A man can father a movement, but a woman can't mother one. A king rules a kingdom, but a queen can't rule a queendom. A writer is someone who writes, and a stinger is something that stings. But fingers don't fing, grocers don't groce, hammers don't ham and humdingers don't humding. If you rang a bell yesterday, why can't we say you also flang a ball? If you wrote a letter, why can't we say that you also bote your tongue? "I could care less" really means "I couldn't care less", "I literally fell over with surprise" means "I figuratively fell over with surprise". A near miss is really a near hit, to put on one's shoes and socks really means to put on one's socks and shoes. To be head over heels in love means to be heels over head in love, to go back and forth means to go forth and back. In what other language can a boxing ring be square, and a young Communist be called a green Red? Where else is a man with hairs on his head probably balder than a man with hair on his head? The weather can be hotter than hell one day and colder than hell the next! If a cavalier acts in a cavalier manner, he isn't being a good cavalier. If you decide to be evil forever, you have chosen to be bad for good. If you are wearing your left shoe only, then your right shoe is left. Right? Loosen and unloosen and ravel and unravel mean the same thing. "I want a piece of cloth that will wear" means the same as "I want a piece of cloth that won't wear". When the stars are out, they are visible, but when lights are out they are invisible. When we wind up a watch we start it up, but when we wind up a conference we stop it. When we trim a tree we can be either embellishing it or pruning it! You can make amends, but never just one amend. There are annals of history but never a single annal. You can never contract a measles or a heebie jeebie. Why in English aren't there any horseful carriages, or strapful gowns, healthless junk foods or beautiless paintings? Why don't we ever meet people who are spring chickens instead of meeting people who are no spring chickens? And why don't we run into people who are gainly or combobulated or chalant? Finally, your house can burn up and burn down at the same time, you fill in a form by filling it out, you add up a column of figures by adding them down, you first chop down a tree and then chop it up, to walk down a street is to walk up it, shameless behaviour is shameful, a slim chance is the same as a fat chance, and to drink up you down your drink.

What is Two + Two = ?

To a mathematician it's 4.

To a physicist it's somewhere between 3.5 and 4.5.

To a programmer it's 3.9999999.

To a statistician it's about 4, with a probability greater than 90%.

To an engineer it's 5, but we'd better call it 8 to be on the safe side.

To a sales engineer, "To you, three".

To a test engineer, "0.25, but that's close enough".

To the ICL service department, "We're not telling you".

To a trainee accountant, "Four".

To a qualified accountant, "Approximately four".

To a consultant accountant, "As an initial estimate I'd suggest somewhere between three and five".

To a senior consultant accountant, "Hmmm, a very good question. Tell me, what sort of figure did you have in mind?".

Fabricated names

Many fabrics take their names from the places where they were made or exported from. However, naturalization of exotic place names often hides the original location. What are the places for which these fabrics are named?

buckram, calico, cambric, cashmere, chambray, damask, denim, fustian, jean, lawn, lisle, muslin, satin, shaloon, spandex, worsted.

Bukhara (Uzbekistan), Calicut (India), Cambrai (France), Kashmir (India), Cambrai (France), Damascus (Syria), Nimes (France), Fostat (Egypt), Genoa (Italy), Laon (France), Lille (France), Mosul (Iraq), Zaitun (China), Chalons-sur-Marne (France), just kidding, Worsted (England).

An Etymologist's Bestiary

Fraca - a sweet and gentle animal by itself, but more than one means trouble!

Ir - causes great mischief but always looks innocent - no one thinks the fault is the irs.

Thog - a usually docile pig-like animal, but the war thog is belligerent.

X - a long legged dog used to guard treasures - invariably on maps an X marks the spot.

Ot - a jackal-like creature (friendly when small, but big ots take an irrational dislike to people).

Ety - a family of bird (the gay ety is carefree and has an alternative lifestyle; the notori ety and propri ety are antagonistic).

Flambo - a tropical region where the ants are brightly coloured and extroverted (similar ants are found in the neighbouring regions of Brill, Exuber, Jubil and Nonchal - however those from Eleph are grey and plodding).

Minton - a racing pigeon (bad mintons have their feathers plucked to make shuttlecocks).

Qualm - a small nervous rodent, often domesticated (many people have qualms).

Und - a social insect noted for over staffing (the red und ant colony has many unnecessary workers).

Va - a large hoofed mammal, related to the deer, that departs quickly when people are around.

The above list can be expanded with such notorious animals as the Bureau Crat, the Acro Bat, the Brie Fly, the Gist, the Red Ecorate, the Embarr Ass, and the Washb Owl to name but a few.

Administratium

The heaviest element known to science was recently discovered at one of the national laboratories. The element, tentatively named administratium (Ad), has no electrons or protons, thus having atomic number zero. It does, however, have one neutron, 75 associate neutrons, 125 deputy associate neutrons, and 111 assistant deputy associate neutrons. This gives it an atomic mass of 312. The 312 particles are held together in the nucleus by a force that invokes the continuous exchange of mesonlike particles called memoons.

Since it has no electrons, administratium is inert. Nevertheless, it can be detected chemically because it seems to impede every reaction in which it takes part. According to one of the discoverers of the element, a very small amount of administratium caused one reaction that normally occurs in less than a second to require over four days to go to completion.

Administratium has a half-life of approximately 3 years, at which time it does not actually decay. Instead, it undergoes an internal reorganization in which associates to the neutron, deputy associates to the neutron, and the assistant deputy associates to the neutron all exchange places. A tendency has been observed for the atomic mass to actually increase during each reorganization.

Relatively Speaking

Many, many years ago when I was twenty three,
I was married to a widow who was pretty as could be.
This widow had a grown-up daughter who had hair of red.
My father fell in love with her and soon they too were wed.

This made my dad my son-in-law and changed my very life,
For my daughter was my mother, 'cause she was my father's wife.
To complicate the matter, even though it brought me joy,
I soon became the father of a bouncing baby boy.

My little baby then became a brother-in-law to dad,
And so became my uncle though it made me very sad.
For if he was my uncle then that also made him brother,
Of the widow's grown-up daughter who, of course, was my stepmother.

Father's wife then had a son who kept them on the run,
And he became my grandchild for he was my daughter's son.
My wife is now my mother's mother and it makes me blue,B
Because although she is my wife she's my grandmother too.

If my wife is my grandmother then I'm her grandchild,
And every time I think of it, it nearly drives me wild.
For now I have become the strangest case you ever saw,
As husband of my grandmother I am my own grandpaw.

Rhodes' Law

When any principle, law, tenet, probability, happening, circumstance, or result can in no way be directly, indirectly, empirically, or circuitously proven, derived, implied, inferred, induced, deducted, estimated, or scientifically guessed, it will always for the purpose of convenience, expediency, political advantage, material gain, or personal comfort, or any combination of the above, or none of the above, be unilaterally and unequivocally assumed, proclaimed, and adhered to as absolute truth to be undeniably, universally, immutably, and infinitely so, until such time as it becomes advantageous to assume otherwise, maybe.

The Old Ones Are The Best - Modern invective pales in comparison to that of the past:

Away you scullion! you rampallion! you fustilarion! I'll tickle your catastrophe! Shakespeare (Henry IV pt 2)

Why dost thou converse with that trunk of humours, that boiling-hutch of beastliness, that swoln parcel of dropsies, that huge bombard of sack, that stuffed cloakbag of guts, that roasted Manningtree ox with the pudding in his belly, that reverend vice, that grey iniquity, that father ruffian, that vanity in years? Shakespeare (Henry IV pt 2)

Calling them slubberdegullion druggles ... ninny lobcocks, scurvy sneaksbies ... noddy meacocks, blockish grutnols, doddi-pol jolt-heads, jobbernot goosecaps, flutch calf-lollies, grout-head gnatsnappers, lob-dotterels, codshead loobies, ninnie-hammer fly-catchers ... and other such like defamatory epithets. Rabelais c. 1540

Extracts from the manuscripts of Dr. Gustav Leberwurst

Hol' mir der Hubert!¹ Wenn Tudor² kaputt,
Zu Gitter ... Porto Gabun?
Bat wenn sie Gott da, der kaputt Waschbär ...³
An Zoo-Depot doch hat Nonn'.⁴

- 1 Patron saint of hunters (Feast Day 3 November). According to popular legend he was converted after seeing a stag with a golden cross between the antlers, became Bishop of Liège (German, Lüttich) and died in 727. The saying "May Hubert fetch me (a set of antlers and a kilo of snuff)" used to be a familiar expression among the peasants of the Lower Rhine.
- 2 A rope for tethering cattle and other livestock. When it breaks, the farmer's wife goes to the post office grille and asks the postage to Gabon so that she can order a new piece direct from the native suppliers.
- 3 In spite of her prayers, however, she receives only a broken racoon.
- 4 She deposits the creature at the Zoo and goes into a convent.

Inder hohl Mann satt.

- 1 In this scene, which bears the stamp of the Industrial Revolution, a foundry worker is eating mashed gruel up a chimney.
- 2 He complains that he - or possibly the gruel - is going stale and calls on someone to polish the turkey in the doss-house.

Extracts from "The Meaning of Liff" - The real meaning of place names

Blean (n.) - Scientific measure of luminosity: 1 glimmer = 100,000 bleans. Usherettes' torches are designed to produce between 2.5 and 4 bleans, enabling them to assist you in falling downstairs, treading on people or putting your hand into a Neapolitan tub when reaching for change.

Beccles (pl. n.) - The small bone buttons placed in bacon sandwiches by unemployed guerrilla dentists.

Bolsover (n.) - One of those brown plastic trays with bumps on, placed upside down in boxes of chocolates to make you think you're getting two layers.

Clun (n.) - A leg which has gone to sleep and has to be hauled around after you.

Didcot (n.) - The tiny oddly-shaped bit of card which a ticket inspector cuts out of a ticket with his clipper for no apparent reason. It is a little-known fact that the confetti at Princess Margaret's wedding was made up of thousands of didcots collected by inspectors on the Royal Train.

Ely (n.) - The first, tiniest inkling you get that something, somewhere, has gone terribly wrong.

Fring (n.) - The noise made by a light bulb which has just shone its last.

Grimsby (n.) - A lump of something gristly and foul-tasting concealed in a mouthful of stew or pie.

Lindisfarne (adj.) - Descriptive of the pleasant smell of an empty biscuit tin.

Pudsey (n.) - The curious-shaped flat wads of dough left on a kitchen table after someone has been cutting scones out of it.

Spofforth (vb.) - To tidy up a room before the cleaning lady arrives.

Dear Ernest,

About that formula of mine, $E=MC^2$. I'm sorry to tell you I made a mistake. It is wrong. It should be $E=R^3 + 2/5(x^2-y)+1$. If you use the old formula it blows up. I know. I tried it. Sorry about this. Hope you haven't used too much time on the research.

Sincerely,
Albert Einstein.

Thingamabobs

Ever since Adam assigned names to all the animals, we human beings have come up with labels for almost everything on this planet - and beyond. Many of those names are so obscure that only dictionary editors know them, The rest of us are reduced to referring to them with words that mean "that object I don't know the name for". There are at least thirty ways of doing this:

dingus	dowhackey	jigger	thingammaree
dofunny	flumadiddle	such-and-such	thingammy
dohickey	gigamaree	thingum	whatchy
dojigger	gimmick	thingamabob	whatchamacallit
dojiggy	gizmo	thingumabob	whatzit
domajig	hickey	thingamadoddle	widget
domajigger	hootenanny	thingamajig
doodad	hootmalalie	thingamajigger

Here are some dohickies that you may or may not know:

- Aglet - the little plastic tip of a shoelace
- Bail - the wire handle of a bucket
- Bobèche - the circular wax catcher that fits over a candle
- Chimb - the rim of a barrel
- Escutcheon - the decorative plate around a keyhole or doorknob
- Ferrule - the shaft on the top of an umbrella
- Forel - the open-sided box in which a book is kept
- Harp - the metal hoop that supports a lampshade
- Keeper - the loop on a belt that secures the tip
- Muntins - the frames for holding windowpanes
- Neb - the pointy, curved end of a wooden knife handle
- Pintle - the vertical post that runs through a door hinge
- Tang - the thin end of a knife blade that fits into the handle
- Waist - the narrowest part of an hourglass

Highly Irregular Verbs

I am firm	You are obstinate	He is a pig-headed fool
I am a concerned parent	You tend to interfere	She writes in her daughter's diary
I am beautiful	You are pretty	She has a good personality
I have a dream	You are a dreamer	He lives in a dreamworld
I am affectionate	You are libidinous	She has hinges on her heels
I can eat off the floor	You do your best to be clean	She can eat off the floor because her floor is covered with food

Books

Books are immensely powerful vessels of knowledge and emotion that have shaped men and women for a thousand years. The following are but a few of the words penned to describe them.

- Books are not made for furniture, but there is nothing else that so beautifully furnishes a house.
- Of many books it is said that they are nothing but the echoes of echoing echoes.

- It is with books as it is with men - it is easiest to acquaint oneself with those least worth knowing.
- Books are delightful society. If you go into a room filled with books, even without taking them down from their shelves, they seem to speak to you, to welcome you.
- Finishing a good book is like leaving a good friend.
- Reading begets Reading
- There is no such thing as a moral or immoral book. Books are well written or badly written.
- Some books are to tasted; others are to swallowed and some few to be chewed and digested.
- Read a book - You can become friendly at least with the author. Write a book if you want to get instant enemies.
- Life is a mystery novel where the last few pages are torn.

A good book steals the mind from vain pretences,
 From wicked cogitations and offences,
 It makes us know the world's deceiving pleasures,
 And set our hearts on never-ending treasures.
 Men know not thieves from true men by their looks,
 Nor by their outside, no man can know books;
 Both are to be suspected, all can tell,
 And wise men ere they trust will try them well.

The impact of books on people is unique to the individual and some books have a profound effect on the reader - this is Keats' response to being introduced to Homer.

Then I felt like some watcher of the skies
 When a new planet swims into his ken;
 Or like stout Cortez - when with eagle eyes
 He stared at the Pacific - and with all his men
 Look'd at each other with a wild surmise -
 Silent, on a peak in Darien.

Rules in effect in every relationship

1. The female always makes the rules.
2. These rules are subject to change at any time without prior notification.
3. No male can possibly know all the rules.
4. If the female suspects that the male knows all the rules, she must immediately change some or all of the rules.
5. The female is never wrong.
6. If the female is wrong, it is because of a vagrant misunderstanding which was a direct result of something the male said or did wrong.
7. If rule number 6 applies, the male must immediately apologize for causing the misunderstanding.
8. The female can change her mind at any given point in time.
9. The male must never change his mind without express written consent of the female.
10. The female has every right to be angry or upset at any time.
11. The male must remain calm at all times, unless the female wants him to be angry or upset.
12. The female must under no circumstances let the male know whether she wants him to be calm, angry or upset.
13. Any attempt to document these rules could result in bodily harm.
14. The female always has the last word.

IT Terminology

EXTENSIVE REPORT IS BEING PREPARED ON A NEW APPROACH TO THE PROBLEM -

We just hired three kids straight out of college.

CLOSE PROJECT COORDINATION - We know who to blame.

MAJOR TECHNOLOGICAL BREAKTHROUGH - It works OK, but looks very hi-tech.

CUSTOMER SATISFACTION IS DELIVERED ASSURED - We are so far behind schedule the customer is happy to get it delivered.

PRELIMINARY OPERATIONAL TESTS WERE INCONCLUSIVE - The darn thing blew up when we threw the switch.

TEST RESULTS WERE EXTREMELY GRATIFYING - We are so surprised that the stupid thing works.

IT IS IN THE PROCESS - It is so wrapped up in red tape that the situation is about hopeless.

WE WILL LOOK INTO IT - Forget it! We have enough problems for now.

PLEASE NOTE AND INITIAL - Let's spread the responsibility for the screw up.

GIVE US THE BENEFIT OF YOUR THINKING - We'll listen to what you have to say as long as it doesn't interfere with what we've already done.

SEE ME or LET'S DISCUSS - Come into my office, I'm lonely.

ALL NEW - Code not interchangeable with the previous design.

YEARS OF DEVELOPMENT - It finally worked!

LOW MAINTENANCE - Impossible to fix if broken.

Explanation of some politically correct terms

aesthetically challenged	ugly	maintenance receptacle	man-hole
chronologically gifted	old	melanin-impoverished	white
creatively re-dyed	stained	metabolically challenged	dead
differently organized	messy	motivationally dispossessed	lazy
domestic engineer	housewife	musically delayed	tone deaf energy-efficient	off	other aged	too old/young
factually unencumbered	ignorant	people of height	too tall financially inept	poor	photonically non-receptive	blind
horizontally gifted	fat	residentially flexible	homeless

Risk

To laugh is to risk appearing the fool.
To weep is to risk appearing sentimental.
To reach out to another is to risk involvement.
To expose feelings is to risk exposing your true self.
To place your ideas, your dreams before the crowd is to risk loss.
To love is to risk not being loved in return.
To live is to risk dying.
To hope is to risk despair.
To try at all is to risk failure.
But risk we must.
Because the greatest hazard to life is to risk nothing.
The man who risks nothing does nothing... has nothing.... is nothing.....
He may avoid suffering but he simply cannot learn, feel, change, grow, love or live.
Chained by his certitudes, he is a slave.
He has fortified freedom.
Only the person who risks can be called free.

Finally, some complex statements for the simple-minded

Some people say that I'm superficial, but that's just on the surface.
Perspective is in the eye of the beholder.
What is the probability that something will happen according to the odds?
There's no such thing as nonexistence.
I always try to do things in chronological order.
A plateau is the highest form of flattery.
I'd give my right arm to be ambidextrous!
Free advice is worth what you paid for it.

Camouflage - from "Masquerade: The Amazing Camouflage Deceptions of World War II", by Seymour Reit

...Another enemy decoy, built in occupied Holland, led to a tale that has been told and retold ever since by veteran Allied pilots. The German "airfield," constructed with meticulous care, was made almost entirely of wood. There were wooden hangars, oil tanks, gun emplacements, trucks, and aircraft. The Germans took so long in building their wooden decoy that Allied photo experts had more than enough time to observe and report it.

The day finally came when the decoy was finished, down to the last wooden plank. And early the following morning, a lone RAF plane crossed the Channel, came in low, circled the field once, and dropped a large wooden bomb.

Department of Tourism

It is very necessary
That you be extremely wary
Of the products of the dairy
In this land of dysentery
And your hotel commissary
Ought to give you cause to worry
For their food's incendiary
And in items culinary
Little microbes tend to scurry
Down your gullet in a hurry
And soon symptoms sanguinary

Which are not imaginary
Cause upheavals that are scary
As a rule, involuntary
At which time it's customary
To see an apothecary
But the situation's hairy
For it's not just mal-de-mer-y
And relief is temporary
So without a guardian fairy
You'll wind up if you're not chary
At a nearby mortuary.

Airline Inertial Guidance Systems

The aircraft knows where it is at all times. It knows this because it knows where it isn't. By subtracting where it is from where it isn't, or where it isn't from where it is (whichever is the greater), it obtains a difference, or deviation. The Inertial Guidance System uses deviations to generate error signal commands which instruct the aircraft to move from a position where it is to a position where it isn't, arriving at a position where it wasn't, or now is. Consequently, the position where it is, is now the position where it wasn't; thus, it follows logically that the position where it was is the position where it isn't. In the event that the position where the aircraft now is, is not the position where it wasn't, the Inertial Guidance System has acquired a variation. Variations are caused by external factors, the discussions of which are beyond the scope of this report. A variation is the difference between where the aircraft is and where the aircraft wasn't. If the variation is considered to be a factor of significant magnitude, a correction may be applied by the use of the autopilot system. However, use of this correction requires that the aircraft now knows where it was because the variation has modified some of the information which the aircraft has, so it is sure where it isn't. Nevertheless, the aircraft is sure where it isn't (within reason) and it knows where it was. It now subtracts where it should be from where it isn't, where it ought to be from where it wasn't (or vice versa) and integrates the difference with the product of where it shouldn't be and where it was; thus obtaining the difference between its deviation and its variation, which is variable constant called "error". So now you know!

The Army's Definition of a Cow

- A cow is a completely automated milk-manufacturing machine.
- It's encased in untanned leather and mounted on four vertical moveable supports, one on each corner.

The Turkey

The turkey shot out of the oven
 And rocketed into the air,
 It knocked every plate off the table
 And partly demolished a chair.
 It ricocheted into a corner
 And burst with a deafening boom,
 Then splattered all over the kitchen,
 Completely obscuring the room.
 It stuck to the walls and the windows,
 It totally coated the floor,

There was turkey attached to the ceiling,
 Where there'd never been turkey before.
 It blanketed every appliance,
 It smeared every saucer and bowl,
 There wasn't a way I could stop it,
 That turkey was out of control.
 I scraped and I scrubbed with displeasure,
 And thought with chagrin as I mopped,
 That I'd never again stuff a turkey
 With popcorn that hadn't been popped.

- A journey of a thousand miles begins with a blister.
- There is nothing new under the bed.
- Don't count your chickens - it takes too long.

No Positives

It had been a rough day, so when I walked into the party I was very chalcant, despite my efforts to appear grunted and consolate.

I was furling my wieldy umbrella for the coat check when I saw her standing alone in a corner. She was a descript person, a woman in a state of total array. Her hair was kempt, her clothing shevelled, and she moved in a gainly way.

I wanted desperately to meet her, but I knew I'd have to make bones about it since I was travelling cognito. Beknownst to me, the hostess, whom I could see both hide and hair of, was very proper, so it would be skin off my nose if anything bad happened. And even though I had only swerving loyalty to her, my manners couldn't be peccable. Only toward and heard-of behavior would do.

Fortunately, the embarrassment that my maculate appearance might cause was evitable. There were two ways about it, but the chances that someone as flappable as I would be ept enough to become persona grata or a sung hero were slim. I was, after all, something to sneeze at, someone you could easily hold a candle to, someone who usually aroused bridled passion.

So I decided not to risk it. But then, all at once, for some apparent reason, she looked in my direction and smiled in a way that I could make heads or tails of.

I was plussed. It was concerting to see that she was comunicado, and it nerved me that she was interested in a pareil like me, sight seen. Normally, I had a domitable spirit, but, being corrigible, I felt capacitated -- as if this were something I was great shakes at -- and forgot that I had succeeded in situations like this only a told number of times. So, after a terminable delay, I acted with mitigated gall and made my way through the ruly crowd with strong givings.

Nevertheless, since this was all new hat to me and I had no time to prepare a promptu speech, I was petuous. Wanting to make only called-for remarks, I started talking about the hors d'oeuvres, trying to abuse her of the notion that I was sipid, and perhaps even bunk a few myths about myself.

She responded well, and I was mayed that she considered me a savory character who was up to some good. She told me who she was. "What a perfect nomer," I said, advertently. The conversation become more and more choate, and we spoke at length to much avail. But I was defatigable, so I had to leave at a godly hour. I asked if she wanted to come with me. To my delight, she was committal. We left the party together and have been together ever since. I have given her my love, and she has requited it.

Foreign Menus

The following are actual menu items in which people have made incorrect use of English words and created some rather bizarre dishes:

Beef rashers beaten up in the country peoples fashion	(Poland)
Boiled Frogfish	(Europe)

Distaff Quotes

- Any girl can be glamorous. All you have to do is stand still and look stupid.
- When women are depressed they either eat or go shopping. Men invade another country.

- I base most of my fashion taste on what doesn't itch.
- Behind every successful man is a surprised woman.
- Our struggle today is not to have a female Einstein get appointed as an assistant professor. It is for a woman schlemiel to get as promoted as quickly as a male schlemiel.
- In politics, if you want anything said, ask a man; if you want anything done, ask a woman.
- If I were going to convert to any religion I would probably choose Catholicism because it at least has female saints and the Virgin Mary.
- I have yet to hear a man ask for advice on how to combine marriage and a career.
- Sometimes I wonder if men and women really suit each other. Perhaps they should live next door and just visit now and then.
- I never married because there was no need. I have three pets at home which answer the same purpose as a husband. I have a dog which growls every morning, a parrot which swears all afternoon, and a cat that comes home late at night.
- Nagging is the repetition of unpalatable truths.
- I am a marvelous housekeeper. Every time I leave a man I keep his house.

Bit Creation

In the beginning, God created the bit. And the bit was a zero.

On the first day, he toggled the 0 to 1, and the Universe was. (In those days, bootstrap loaders were simple, and "active low" signals didn't yet exist.)

On the second day, God's boss wanted a demo, and tried to read the bit. This being volatile memory, the bit reverted to a 0. And the universe wasn't. God learned the importance of backups and memory refresh, and spent the rest of the day (and his first all-nighter) reinstalling the universe.

On the third day, the bit cried "Oh, Lord! If you exist, give me a sign!" And God created rev 2.0 of the bit, even better than the original prototype. Those in Universe Marketing immediately realized that "new and improved" wouldn't do justice to such a grand and glorious creation. And so it was dubbed the Most Significant Bit. Many bits followed, but only one was so honored.

On the fourth day, God created a simple ALU with 'add' and 'logical shift' instructions. And the original bit discovered that -- by performing a single shift instruction -- it could become the Most Significant Bit. And God realized the importance of computer security.

On the fifth day, God created the first mid-life kicker, rev 2.0 of the ALU, with wonderful features, and said "Forget that add and shift stuff. Go forth and multiply." And God saw that it was good.

On the sixth day, God got a bit overconfident, and invented pipelines, register hazards, optimizing compilers, crosstalk, restartable instructions, micro interrupts, race conditions, and propagation delays. Historians have used this to convincingly argue that the sixth day must have been a Monday.

On the seventh day, an engineering change introduced Windows into the Universe, and it hasn't worked right since.

Parental Observations

- A child will not spill on a dirty floor.
- A young child is a noise with dirt on it.
- A youth becomes a man when the marks he wants to leave on the world have nothing to do with tires.
- An unbreakable toy is useful for breaking other toys.
- Avenge yourself; live long enough to be a problem to your children.
- Be nice to your kids, for it is they who will choose your nursing home.
- For adult education, nothing beats children.
- God invented mothers because he couldn't be everywhere at once.
- If a child looks like his father, that's heredity; if he looks like a neighbor, that's environment.
- If you have trouble getting your children's attention, just sit down and look comfortable.
- Ill-bred children always display their pest manners.
- Insanity is inherited; you get it from your kids.
- It now costs more to amuse a child than it once did to educate his father.
- It rarely occurs to teenagers that the day will come when they'll know as little as their parents.
- Money isn't everything, but it sure keeps the kids in touch.
- Never lend your car to anyone to whom you have given birth.
- One child is often not enough, but two children can be far too many.
- You can learn many things from children... like how much patience you have.
- Summer vacation is a time when parents realize that teachers are grossly underpaid.
- The first sign of maturity is the discovery that the volume knob also turns to the left.
- There are three ways to get things done: 1) do it yourself 2) hire someone to do it 3) forbid your kids to do it
- Those who say they "sleep like a baby" haven't got one.
- The best thing to spend on your children is time.

Einstein's Cat Analogy

You see, wire telegraph is a kind of a very, very long cat. You pull his tail in New York and his head is meowing in Los Angeles. Do you understand this? And radio operates exactly the same way: you send signals here, they receive them there. The only difference is that there is no cat.

Albert Einstein, when asked to describe radio.

Quotes from Groucho Marx (1890-1977)

- Time flies like an arrow. Fruit flies like a banana.
- Room service? Send up a larger room.
- Who are you going to believe, me or your own eyes?
- Those are my principles. If you don't like them I have others.
- He may look like an idiot and talk like an idiot but don't let that fool you. He really is an idiot.
- I never forget a face, but in your case I'll be glad to make an exception.

- A child of five could understand this. Fetch me a child of five.
- From the moment I picked your book up until I laid it down I was convulsed with laughter. Someday I intend reading it.
- Ice Water? Get some Onions - that'll make your eyes water!
- You've got the brain of a four-year-old boy, and I'll bet he was glad to get rid of it.
- A man's only as old as the woman he feels.
- Why should I care about posterity? What's posterity ever done for me?
- Military justice is to justice what military music is to music.
- One morning I shot an elephant in my pajamas. How he got into my pajamas I'll never know.
- There is no sweeter sound than the crumbling of your fellow man.
- I must say that I find television very educational. The minute somebody turns it on, I go to the library and read a book.
- I have had a perfectly wonderful evening, but this wasn't it.
- If I held you any closer I would be on the other side of you.
- I must confess, I was born at a very early age.
- I don't care to belong to a club that accepts people like me as members.
- I was married by a judge. I should have asked for a jury.
- Either he's dead or my watch has stopped.
- Remember men, we're fighting for this woman's honour; which is probably more than she ever did.
- Women should be obscene and not heard.
- Do you think I could buy back my introduction to you?
- Time wounds all heels.
- Behind every successful man is a woman, behind her is his wife.
- As soon as I get through with you, you'll have a clear case for divorce and so will my wife.
- Marry me and I'll never look at another horse!
- I married your mother because I wanted children, imagine my disappointment when you came along.
- A woman is an occasional pleasure but a cigar is always a smoke.
- Outside of a dog, a book is man's best friend. Inside of a dog, it's too dark to read.
- Quote me as saying I was mis-quoted.

If's You Need to Know to Get Along at Work

- If it rings, put it on hold.
- If it clunks, call the repairman.
- If it whistles, ignore it.
- If it's a friend, stop work and chat.
- If it's the Boss, look busy.
- If it talks, take notes.
- If it's handwritten, type it.
- If it's typed, copy it.
- If it's copied, file it.
- If it's Friday, FORGET IT!!!

Proper Fits

What is a human resource? Here is a handy hint for ensuring success in job placement. Take the prospective employees you are trying to place and put them in a room with only a table and two chairs. Leave them alone for two hours, without any instruction. At the end of that time, go back and see what they are doing.

- If they have taken the table apart in that time, put them in Engineering.
- If they are counting the cigarette butts in the ashtray, assign them to Finance.
- If they are screaming and waving their arms, send them off to Manufacturing.
- If they are talking to the chairs, Personnel is a good spot for them.
- If they are sleeping, they are Management material.
- If they don't even look up when you enter the room, assign them to Security
- And if they've left early, put them in Sales.
