PRESERVING OUR HERITAGE.

MAGNIFYING THE CHARM.

From our Images of Sanford Calendar and our Historic District lighting project, to the annual Holiday Tour of Homes (now in its 29th year)—the Sanford Historic Trust says, “this is Sanford.” Our members are proud of our city, its historic heritage, and its drive to preserve that history. The Holiday Tour of Homes this year is happy to feature Sanford and historic preservation both in residential and commercial spaces. This may be the 21st Century, but we are beholding to our 19th Century heritage and celebrate it at every turn. We encourage you to explore and enjoy all of Historic Sanford, and join the Sanford Historic Trust as we strive to further our mission to preserve Sanford’s architectural and historical heritage through our various programs. It is our members who make us strong and your generosity that helps further this mission all year long. Thanks for coming on this year’s tour—we hope you’ll continue to support us in our efforts all year long.

Sincerely,
Leon G. Konieczny

 REFRESHMENTS

The beginnings of the Church of Christ in Sanford date back to 1919 when members met in private homes to worship. The years passed and the congregation grew. By 1945, the church held services at the Woman's Club on Oak Avenue. Within two years, the church moved into its own building at 201 Elm Street and had a full-time pastor. But by 1956, the congregation outgrew the Elm Street facility and soon purchased the property at the current location on Park Avenue. Construction began in 1960, with church members providing the majority of the labor. The building is concrete-block construction and the floors are terrazzo. The 1970s saw more church growth with the addition of a fellowship hall, classroom, and office suite. An exterior renovation took place in 1991.

116 W. 16th Street Brian & Nancy Buck

📷 PHOTOSTOP 🎁 TABLESCAPE

In an effort to downsize, Brian and Nancy Buck moved from neighboring Winter Springs and have been in their home for three years. The 1942 home had the charm they were looking for, but it was the sense of community that really attracted them to Sanford. Brian jokingly says, "We bought a garage, and it came with a house." The garage is the envy of many neighbors and was an addition of a prior owner whose trade was in the construction business. The home was originally a three bedroom/one bath, and the Bucks have converted one of the bedrooms into an en suite bathroom and closet. They have also made changes to the original bathroom and refinished the original floors throughout the home. An interesting fact about the house is that it was at one time owned by the neighboring church, which was confirmed by a member of the Church of Christ who shared that the Buck home was the venue for his wedding reception.

Summer Santa's Workshop Photostop

Hang out with Summer Santa as he prepares for Christmas in his Wonderland Workshop. Designed by A. Clore Interiors, a Downtown Sanford design firm.

212 W. 16th Street John & Sarah Miller

📷 PHOTOSTOP

This 1948 New England Cape Cod immediately caught the eye of owner Sarah Miller. She was born and raised in Sanford but has spent half her life in New England. The house captivated her and John with its sprawling park-like lawn and location next to a park. They purchased the home in 1996, shortly before John's retirement. Sarah and John are only the third owners. The house was built in 1948, by Chow and Dorothy Harkey. After their death, it was deeded to their nephew Bill Cagle. The Millers have tried to maintain the house's original style from the '40s. Sarah particularly enjoys the family room which juts out from the main house and offers a panoramic view of the lawn and oak trees. John favors his home office, with access to a private veranda through French doors. They most recently remodeled the kitchen/breakfast room, which also provides a beautiful view of Sarah's gardens. The grounds are often the venue for local photographers and weddings of family and friends.

Miller Lights Photostop

Picture yourself among the grand old live oak trees in this lovely park-like setting.

201 W. 16th Street Trey Laramor & Kayli Wicker

This 1935 home was originally owned by a tax collector. Currently, engaged couple Kayli Wicker and Trey Laramore reside there. The house was renovated in 1970 and then again in 2005, but happily, the renovations left the original hardwood floors throughout. The thing that attracted the couple most about the house were the 100+ year old oak trees in the front and side of the house, providing shade for the majority of the lot. Something else that caught their eye was the adorable mother-in-law cottage that sits behind the house, across the patio; it's currently home to Trey's sister. According to the Sanford Museum, the house had only two owners between 1935 and 2000, and one of them owned it for forty-eight years.

The couple is set to be married in April, in another of Sanford's historic buildings, The Sanford Grammar School, now known as Preservation Hall.

201 W. 17th Street Lyla Maurer

This charming house, built in 1937, is currently the home of Lyla Maurer. Lyla is the 12th owner of this property and has been renovating since she purchased it two years ago. She loves the vintage character of the house and the big fenced back yard shaded by oaks. Lyla and her fiancé, musician Dutch Uithoven, love Sanford's small town historic feel and quirky sense of fun. Lyla's Cottage is occasionally host to orchestra rehearsals and neighbors are treated to impromptu concerts.

Although the house is still a work in progress, Lyla is happy to welcome visitors and will be displaying her collection of vintage Christmas ornaments and memorabilia.

1818 S. Oak Avenue
Randy Hitchcock

TABLESCAPE

Randy Hitchcock is the third owner of this house, which was built in 1948. The original owner, Albert Kipp, an employee at Naval Air Station Sanford, lived there from 1948 to 1999.

Randy purchased the house two years ago because he was attracted to Sanford's old-town charm. He has improved the house with a new roof, insulation, plumbing, and air-conditioning unit. In addition, Randy has painted, added new tile in the bathroom, and installed new countertops in the kitchen.

204 W. 18th Street John & Audra Dupuis

John and Audra Dupuis' love of Sanford brought them to this 1920s-era Colonial Revival style house in 2012. John and Audra were especially attracted to the size of the yard and the pool, which has been there since the 1940s.

The hardwood floors in the main rooms, the stairs leading to the second floor, and the family room fireplace are all original. At some point in the past, a porch was enclosed and an additional section added to the back of the house. The owners have added a bathroom and updated the living room.

220 W. 18th Street Greg & Joni Giraulo

Greg and Joni Giraulo have lived in their house for just over a year, having moved in just in time for the home's 100th birthday. One of the many reasons they were attracted to Sanford was that they did not want a cookie-cutter home, and they also needed to find a home big enough for a family.

The house had undergone several renovations through the years before the Giraulos purchased it, and the Giraulos have made improvements including plumbing, paint, landscaping, and irrigation. The house has hosted many family gatherings and weddings.

110 W. 19th Street Fredette-Lowe Residence

In 2001, the Fredette family moved to Sanford to be close to relatives, and fell in love with this charming 1926 bungalow. The property features a beautiful arched portico, heart of pine wood floors, original windows, a large brick fireplace, and a giant oak tree adorning the front yard. Improvements have been made over the years, including interior and exterior painting, a bathroom renovation, kitchen updates, and a metal roof. They prefer to support local businesses and enjoy all the local entertainment.

This house was on the very first Tour of Homes in 1990. Here is an excerpt from the brochure:

Built in 1926 by local attorney G. W. Spencer, this cottage has been home to Robert, Beverly, and daughter Emily Elliot since 1985. Canopied by an enormous 300-year-old live oak, the tidy bungalow embodies the very essence of "Smalltown, America."

 TICKETS  RESTROOMS  TABLESCAPES

Come by and visit the many "Tablescapes" designs sponsored by local businesses and residents.

This Classical Revival building, constructed of red pressed brick trimmed in Georgia sandstone, was built in 1917 by architect James Wetmore. Over the course of its history, it has served several different functions, including housing the Sanford Library and serving as the downtown police substation.

With its intact original facade and two original lampposts, it greets guests from the Sanford airport, Amtrak passengers, and Sanfordites riding the city trolley. In 2016, more than 17,000 people visited the Welcome Center and gift shop.

The Center hosts the monthly Alive After 5 street party and the Art Walk and is the location for the new Tourism Office. Come by and celebrate the building's 100th anniversary!

Nancy Lake has lived here over a year and loves living on the water. This house was featured on Tiny House Hunters!

531 N. Palmetto Avenue Verrastro Houseboat (Closes at 7:30 PM)

Rebecca and Michael Verrastro purchased their houseboat in 2012, intending to take it to Palm Beach Gardens, where they had resided for 20+ years. While making arrangements for the move, they visited Sanford many times and fell in love with the friendly atmosphere and hometown feel. Needless to say, the boat never went south.

Instead, the Verrastros sold their home and moved north. Their biggest surprise has been all Sanford has to offer. "It seems like there is always something going on here, be it a play, musical act, festival, the zoo, Blue Springs, or just spending quiet time watching the birds, manatees, and alligators on Lake Monroe." (The houseboat was built in Georgia and stayed on Lake Lanier before being trucked to Florida in 2009.)

📷 PHOTOSTOP 🚻 RESTROOMS (ACCESSIBLE)

Visit the new branch office for Neel-Schaffer, a regional engineering firm. Neel-Schaffer boasts 38 local offices throughout the South to serve their communities. The firm chose Sanford to establish an office because of the city's unique character and friendly people along with the commitment of this community to sustainability. The office is located in the Downtown Historic District in a 1950s era business office. The office décor reflects the firm's commitment to sustainable design, with upcycled and reused furnishings, low-energy lighting, and Neel-Schaffer's own brand of quirky Sanford style.

Candyland Photostop

Hop, skip and jump through Candyland sponsored by Neel-Schaffer. Harken back to your childhood with this whimsical life-sized interpretation of the beloved game! Music will be provided by Lochwood Academy. And yes, they are giving out candy! Photostop is located next to Neel-Schaffer office at Palucci Park - Sanford Ave and First Street.

109 S. Palmetto Avenue Sanford Fire Station

📷 PHOTOSTOP 🎁 TABLESCAPE

Blake Suddeth, Adam Barney, and Mike Richardson have owned this amazing urban apartment since March 2017. The attraction was obvious: unique details, the recent renovation, and the prime location. The apartment was renovated by long-time resident Barbara Ferrell. The only upgrading the new owners had to do was put in furniture to open it up as an Airbnb.

While the property is known for being a fire station, it has also been used as city hall, a police station, a courthouse, and a jail. This unique building was built in 1887 and originally had three floors, but the third was removed to stabilize the building.

Photostop | Fire Station Santa

Have a toast with "Fire Station Santa!" Enjoy a cocktail tasting sponsored by The Imperial, a Downtown Sanford craft beer and wine bar.

211 E. First Street Jeanine Taylor Folk Art | Gallery on First

🎁 TABLESCAPES

Jeanine Taylor's Folk Art Gallery has been housed here since 2005. What attracted Jeanine, a Florida native, to move her gallery (and later her home) to Sanford was the historic downtown, its potential, and an invitation from Howard & Robin Marks. During the buildout, eight working artist studios (Gallery on First) were created. The upstairs apartments were also refurbished and are used for out-of-town artists in residence. The biggest challenge was the recession, as the gallery had just moved from Winter Park. However, Jeanine and her crew dug in and got through the hard times. "I feel such support from my Sanford community" says Taylor. Jeanine will be hosting many of this year's Tablescapes. Don't miss these gorgeous displays by local merchants and residents!

"The original 1886 building was destroyed by the great fire of 1887. Local legend has it that rubble from the first building was embedded in the pediment corner of the roof of this Romanesque revival building when it was constructed for Frederick Hotchkiss in 1887. For many years, (1952-85) this housed Manuel Jacobson's department store." It is now owned by Howard Marks, a local attorney and Sanford aficionado.

 TROLLEY STOP  PHOTOSTOP  TABLESCAPE

Discover the beautiful hidden Horstmeyer residence, the ultimate space for hip, urban living. Close to everything and a short walk to work, Doug and Annie Horstmeyer have renovated a special place to call home that is tucked away next to their popular Feed Store. Built in the early 1920s, this building originally served Seminole Fire Equipment for over 25 years.

Horstmeyer Farm & Garden

A feed store took occupancy in 1972, the original owners were Cecil & Margaret Tucker. Doug and Annie Horstmeyer purchased the building and the business from the Tuckers in 2004, maintaining the character of this historic building. A unique transformation was the build out of the owner's offices from an open storage area upstairs, which includes vintage windows, repurposed from a Sanford demolition. They have made many improvements and expanded last year with the acquisition of the Saddler Tack & Apparel business. They also hosted a nondenominational church in the building from 2011 to 2016.
