California State University, Dominguez Hills

Located in the South Bay of Los Angeles (25km south of downtown Los Angeles, and 15 minutes away from Los Angeles International Airport). Established in 1960, and the university was named after the area and not by the name of the city (Carson). Accredited by Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC). Number of students: 15,000. Number of international students: 128. Our campus is nestled in a modest residential area of the City of Carson and provides an escort service for students who have night classes. There are red emergency towers throughout campus, allowing a quick access to campus police. As part of the California State University System, international students at CSU Dominguez Hills enjoy reasonable academic costs while engaging in academic activities. Dominguez Hills never recruited international students like other campuses, so this would be a perfect time for international students to join the university. Since there is not enough international students on campus, international students enjoy special attention given to them.
