FALL 2016

Take a look at our newly designed website:
www.solidwastesystems.com

The History of Marathon

Marathon Equipment Company began one evening in early 1966 when Lawson Acton, refuse hauling contractor, and Jack Wright, a manufacturer of car washes, were talking over the back fence. Acton wasn't happy with the stationary compactors of the day because they were built like "battleships", with complicated electrical and hydraulic systems. Only the "wealthy few" could afford them, which automatically left out retailers, shopping malls and smaller industrial companies. Acton envisioned a compactor which utilized material better and more economically priced within the reach of his waiting market. Combining his idea with Wright's manufacturing expertise, the first RamJet compactor was born. It was a struggle for the fledgling company that began producing compactors in its first "factory", an abandoned service station in 1967. Both resistance from a "wait and see" market and competitive activity combined to make the first years in Birmingham, Alabama, very difficult.

The obvious advantages of Marathon's more efficient use of materials finally began winning out, and the firm stepped up to a 7,000 sq. ft. plant, then 20,000 sq. ft. and in 1975, to their present facility in Vernon, Alabama. Since 1975, the company has continued its growth by expanding its facilities across the country. Privately held for the first 23 years, Marathon is now part of the Environmental Systems Group (ESG), a leader in waste reduction technology. Marathon was the flagship vendor for SWS and have grown to become their top distributor. Marathon's ability to continuously manufacture a high quality product has been a win win for both Marathon and SWS. With many satisfied customers we continue to grow alongside Marathon because of quality Marathon products as well as customer support from SWS.
