Weatherford Art Association holds February meeting

Darla Hobbs was the guest speaker at February's Weatherford Art Association meeting at the Doss Heritage Center. Darla has a unique abstract art which has earned her many awards since 2005 using acrylic paints.

WAA also awarded its Artists of the Month, as voted on by members.

This month's first place was Sarah Fino with her 'New Mexico Scene' acrylic. It will hang in the upstairs gallery at the Doss Heritage Center along with several of her other paintings.

Second place went to Jon Vandagriff for 'Toothy.' This photo will be hanging at First National Bank of Weatherford for the month.

Third place was awarded to Kathy Cuning for 'Vintage Lincoln.' This watercolor painting will be showing at Fort Worth Community Credit Union for the month of March. Kathy also has a show at Stage West for the month of March.

What is art?

By AZALEE TATUM

Just a bit over 50 years ago, the Weatherford Art Association established a visual arts program. This article addresses the various concepts of art which daily surround us. Look at the work of art in the buildings, the street lights or advertising signs

Think of a world without art and just the impact of a movie or video without graphics. Art stimulates laughter and healthy emotions. Art is a much bigger part of life and makes us more thoughtful and well-rounded people. Vision your desk or table as a piece of art. Your shoes and clothing convey art. Your coffee cup is art. Art is something that is functional and pleasing to our eyes. Art is subjective and means something different to delight every person.

Weatherford is a country city with an impressive businesses including one art association which has now lost its lease and is appealing to citizens to help find a place that is large enough for monthly demonstrations, classes and space to hang the works. Weatherford is called to move forward not backward.

Johnny MAHTO Hogue, a native born Texan, is a self-taught artist, and is a member of WAA. He began drawing with passion at an early age. He sat for hours reproducing the line drawings in a large dictionary. His drawing skills have helped in his oil, pastels and watercolor techniques. Mahto tries to draw something every day if time allows. Mahto understands color techniques from studying and copying the Old and New Masters of Fine Art. He is primarily a portrait painter. He does enjoy designing still-life and landscapes. Mahto accepts commissions, invitations for workshops and demonstrations. You will see his passion in all of his subjects.

The Weatherford Art Association encourages the skilled and unskilled to be creative, more thoughtful and experience a well-rounded life. Help us find a new location.

Azalee Tatum is a member of Weatherford Art Association, which meets monthly on the fourth Monday at 6:30 p.m. Temporarily, the meeting will be at the Doss Center, 1400 Texas Drive.
