

Accreditation

Accreditation is an effort to assess the quality of institutions, programs, and services, measuring them against accepted quality standards. There are two types of accreditation: Institutional and Programmatic (or specialized). CAAHEP is a programmatic accrediting body, which examines specific schools or programs within an education institution. The CAAHEP accreditation process is designed to evaluate and ensure that the Standards of each profession under the CAAHEP umbrella are met by each program. In addition, accreditation in the health-related disciplines also serves a very important public interest. Along with certification and licensure, accreditation is a tool intended to help assure a well-prepared and qualified workforce is providing health care services.
