THE HISTORY OF THE BASIC SCHOOL

The School of Application was established at the Marine Barracks in Washington, DC, on 1 May 1891 by the Commandant of the Marine Corps, Charles Heywood.

Nine months later, the first class graduated with seven newly commissioned officers. New lieutenants were instructed in weapons, tactics, and troop leadership: the art of war.

The school was either closed or experienced interruptions in training between 1898 and 1916; either the students transferred to combat duty or the school was relocated. In 1908, the school reopened in Port Royal, SC. (Parris Island), where it was renamed the Marine Officer's School. In 1910, the School moved again, this time north to Norfolk, VA. In 1918, the school was opened for the first time in Quantico following the establishment of Marine Corps Base Quantico and was renamed the Marine Officer's Training Camp.

In 1922, The School of Application became known as The Basic School (TBS), with the first class consisting of seventeen 2nd lieutenants and eleven warrant officers. TBS moved again in 1924 to Philadelphia while construction continued at Quantico. While in Philadelphia, TBS trained approximately thirty officers per year. By 1933, TBS's curriculum abandoned any dependence it previously had on Army and Navy Doctrine.

During World War II, TBS grew in size and varied the curriculum to meet the demands of the war. The peace following the war would not end the changes at TBS. In 1948, the first regular black officer began training followed by the establishment of the Woman Officer Training Program in 1949.

As hostilities in Korea developed, the impact was keenly felt at TBS. Most notably, the training curriculum was shortened from nine months to seventeen weeks. The shortened version of the officer course earned TBS graduates of the Korean era the title of "Special Basic Classes."

TBS moved to its present home at Camp Barrett in 1958, with Heywood and O'Bannon Halls the first buildings constructed aboard Camp Barrett. The development of Camp Barrett continued into the 1970s with buildings dedicated to heroic Marines who distinguished themselves throughout our Corps' rich history. As the Vietnam conflict erupted, officers were needed immediately and TBS once again shortened its program by five weeks.

On Dec. 20, 1973, the Woman Officer School aboard main side Quantico was disestablished and women became permanent residents at Camp Barrett. In 1977, female lieutenants were fully integrated into the training program at TBS. That same year saw establishment of the Infantry Officer Course, a formal occupational school for teaching specialized infantry skills.

Today, TBS trains over 2,200 new officers annually in six Basic Officer Courses and one Warrant Officer Basic Course, companies which convene year-round. To meet these increased demands, TBS is in the midst of a comprehensive Master Development Plan that will significantly change the landscape aboard Camp Barrett over the next five to seven years.

“The bravest are surely those who have the clearer vision of what is before them, glory and danger alike, and yet notwithstanding, go out to meet it.”

Thucydides

“I have only two men out of my company and 20 out of some other company. We need support, but it is almost suicide to try to get it here as we are swept by machine gun fire and a constant barrage is on us. I have no one on my left and only a few on my right. I will hold.”

1stLt Clifton B. Cates

Belleau Wood, 19 July 1918

“Leadership is the sum of those qualities of intellect, human understanding, and moral character that enables a person to inspire and control a group of people successfully.”

General John A. Lejeune

“Courage is endurance for one moment more...”

Unknown Marine 2ndLt in Vietnam

“The safest place in Korea was right behind a platoon of Marines. Lord, how they could fight!”

Major General Frank E. Lowe, USA

Korea, 26 January 1952

“The Marines I have seen around the world have the cleanest bodies, the filthiest minds, the highest morale, and the lowest morals of any group of animals I have ever seen. Thank God for the United States Marine Corp.”

Eleanor Roosevelt, 1945
