GRADE 5 OPINION

Writing Topic:

Animals can be entertaining, caring, and helpful. Some animals assist people with day-to-day activities while others are members of the military or a police force. After reading these passages, write an opinion about how you think animals could be useful in a community, a school, or a place of work. Be sure to state your opinion and support it using information presented in both passages.

Before you begin planning and writing your opinion, read the two passages

- 1. "Animal Helpers"
- 2. "Military and Police Force Animals"

Animal Helpers

- 1 Animals can be trained to assist humans with everyday needs and be valuable companions. Even animals you might not expect can be trained to assist humans.
- 2 One example is the miniature horse. Miniature horses usually live to be thirty years old, much longer than an assistance dog. This is important because owners often bond with their helper animals. Over time, the helper animal becomes a close companion. These horses are strong enough to allow their human companions to lean on them for physical support. Miniature horses are also easy to train and are very gentle. As an added bonus, they also have excellent eyesight.
- 3 Ferrets can also help people with disabilities. They are especially helpful to people who have seizures. Seizures happen when the brain stops working correctly. People lose the ability to think or even use their muscles when they have seizures. This can be dangerous because the person can get hurt while his or her body is out of control. Some seizures can even cause damage to the brain. For reasons scientists don't understand, some ferrets can sense when a person is going to have a seizure. These ferrets give their owners warning by trying to get their attention. Some seizure patients have said their ferrets look unhappy when trying to give this warning. The owner can then take medicine so the seizure doesn't happen. If taking medicine is not an option, the owner can get to a safe place before the seizure happens.

- 4 Some people have problems with movement. Some can't use their hands properly. Others can't walk from place to place. These people can also get help from animals. Monkeys are sometimes used for this purpose. There are many different monkey species, but the capuchin is the most common helper animal. The capuchin monkey can do many things for its owner. For example, it can open doors and cabinets. A capuchin monkey may carry things or bring items to its owner.
- 5 Dogs are the most common type of service animal. They can be trained to perform certain tasks to help people with disabilities. Dogs can learn to pick up dropped items and to open and close doors. They can turn on and off lights and carry and retrieve objects. They can be used as guide dogs for people with sight problems. They can even be trained to listen for a door bell or a fire alarm and warn their owners who have difficulty with their hearing.
- 6 Service animals can help people live a better life, and humans are grateful for their help. However, these animals are just serving the purpose they were meant to serve and nothing more.

Military and Police Force Animals

- 1 Animals have been part of the military for hundreds of years. Dogs and horses have served as animal soldiers in times of war. They have also been trained to play an important role on a police force.

Four-Legged Fighters

- 2 Military working dogs have also completed missions under terrible conditions. One of these brave dogs was Buster. Buster served as a Messenger War Dog during World War II. Buster carried messages through heavy machine gun fire during a battle on Morotai Island. Buster carried messages telling troops to hold their position. The soldiers got the extra help they needed, and Buster's actions saved seventeen men. His bravery also helped the U.S. defeat the Japanese in that battle.
- 3 Military working dogs are still used today. A military working dog was a fundamental part of raiding Osama Bin Laden's hideout in 2011. In 2012, the U.S. Congress passed two bills to help the treatment of these dogs once their work overseas is completed. In the past, the military classified military working dogs as equipment, and they were left behind once a mission was complete. These new bills reclassify the dogs as "canine members of the Armed Forces," which means the dogs will be brought home and adopted by new families as part of their "retirement" from the military.
- 4 Horses have also been used by the military during wars. Reckless was a horse so heroic during the Korean War in the 1950s that she was promoted to Sergeant by the U.S. Marines. She was trained to step over communication lines and to get down when there was incoming fire. She also learned to ignore the sounds of battle. After just a couple of trips, she learned the routes to deliver supplies to the troops on her own. In one day, Reckless made 51 trips to carry supplies and ammunition to soldiers on the front lines. She became the marines' mascot and was allowed to roam freely through the camp. She even was allowed to come inside the soldiers' tents to sleep on cold nights. After the war ended, Reckless was awarded two Purple Hearts and a Marine Corps Good Conduct Medal.

Team Players

- 5 Dogs and horses also have been trained to work with law enforcement. Police dogs are often called K-9s, and the most common breed used is the German Shepherd. These dogs have a keen sense of smell. They can be trained to sniff out drugs and explosive materials. They are also used to search and find missing people or objects. They protect police officers and often help with crowd control. They also make good guard dogs. Police who patrol on horseback are called the mounted police. These horses are trained to keep order during major events. They learn to move through crowds and in heavy traffic and learn not to react to loud noises. Some are used for park patrol through wooded areas. Since horses can travel where vehicles cannot, they are used for search missions through rugged areas.
- 6 Over the years, working dogs and horses have played an important role in the military and on police forces. They have even helped save many human lives. These animals were able to get the job done during difficult times. They have been honored as important members of our military and police forces.

WRITING/CONSTRUCTED REPOSENSE RUBRIC

Grade 5 Writing Rubric

Each piece of student writing is given five analytic scores that focus on specific writing skills. These ratings range from 4 (the highest score) to 1 (the lowest score). Taken together, these scores provide a profile of the specific strengths and weaknesses of a student’s writing. The following are the actual scoring rubrics used to assign the five analytic scores.

*OAS objectives are annotated for each trait. Where no specific objective is listed (i.e. 5.3.W), the whole strand is intended.

Score	Ideas and Development—30%
4	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The content is well suited for the audience, task/purpose, and mode (5.3.W) • The focus is clear and maintained (5.2.W.1) • Ideas are fully developed and incorporate details, examples, reasons, facts, or evidence (5.3.W) • The writing expresses a clear, consistent perspective throughout the composition (5.2.W.1)
3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The content is adequate for the audience, task/purpose, and mode • The focus is evident but may lack clarity • Ideas are developed using some details, examples, reasons, and/or evidence • The writing sustains the perspective throughout most of the composition
2	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The content is inconsistent with the audience, task/purpose, and mode • The focus may be unclear or leave the reader with questions and making inferences • Ideas are minimally developed with few details • May simply be a list of ideas • The writing has difficulty expressing or maintaining a perspective
1	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The content is irrelevant to the audience, task/purpose, and mode • The focus may be confusing or missing • Ideas lack development or may be repetitive • The writing lacks perspective

Composite Score and Performance Level

A student’s composite score on the Writing section of the ELA assessment, in part, is derived by assigning various weights to the five analytic traits. The averaged analytic score for each category is multiplied by the appropriate weight (percentage) and summed.

Why animals are important

I think that animals would be good for helping in side and out side. Helping my dad out side, my ~~mom~~ grampa, and me. in side.

The reason is because my dad can't do big jobs like ~~the~~ Mom, grampa, and me are stuck in the house most of the time. My grampa can't do very much stuff and where busy doing other chors.

We need we need the hole family helped out. That is why I think animals are important because they help out.

Dogs and horses could be useful here at school. They can get our balls when we kick or throw them over the fence. They can help if some body gets hurt. Most people already have dogs and horses at home but having a dog that would help you with anything that you need. Having a horse would be cool you could ride it and it would help to get stuff. In school they would be useful because, if a person is blind almost any animal would help. They would also be useful in a nursing home to help people get around if a person can't get to the room in time to help. I also think that in case of a burglary, an animal would help escort a person with a problem get out.

Dogs and horses can be very useful. They can help you with school, work, or transportation. They can also help with the army.

Dogs can help with schools. If there is a lockdown the dog can bark loud. It probably will protect us too. Dogs can be really fast and strong. That can mean he will beat up the crook.

Dogs and horses can help with transportation. They are both fast and strong. I think the horse can be better because its ~~more~~ big. I could be wrong though. They both can help catch bad people too. They both have great senses. They both have great eyesight too. They help police men find drugs or dead bodies too. Horses have sent messages for years. They've helped in the military and with police. Reckless was a horse that was big in the Korean war. He was a messenger who told troops to stay in position. Animals Can help Disabled People in a Community. And People who have problems with hearing and seeing. And many more problems.

Have you ever thought about how much dogs or trained animals do for us? Well, they do a lot including these reasons: For older people they can assist you. Dogs may pick up items that have been dropped. Dogs go in extremely bad conditions. My opinion about if dogs help much I think they help a lot. Like I said before my first reason is for older people they can assist you. I saw a girl walking a dog and the dog had blind banner on. My last reason is dogs can go in extremely bad conditions.

According to the text, Military and Police Force Animals, "Military working dogs have also completed missions under terrible conditions." "One of these brave dogs was Buster". "Buster served as a

In my life I have learned that animals are spectacular. So, in my opinion having animals in a school, office, or community is a splendid idea. There are many reasons why, but here are a few. I'm going to explain these reasons, animals can help, they are important to local citizens, and improve our everyday lives.

My first reason is animals can help and work for us. If someone has difficulty seeing. Also, if a citizen is hard of hearing. By retrieving and putting away objects, they can help the senior citizens of the area. Which will make us feel better about leaving someone at home.

Secondly, these animals are important to local forces. They can help police officers and firefighters. Animals with the police, can help catch criminals. These animals can sniff out drugs, bombs, people, and dangerous objects. By having police and firefighter animals we should all feel safer.

Last but not least, animals are important to our everyday live. The youngsters will play with an animal instead of playing video games. While your at work it gives you som something to look forward to. Having an animal will teach the kids responsibility. This reason should make you feel better about many things.

All in all, having animals will help us, keep you safe, and improve our daily lives. Having animals everywhere we mainly go isn't such a bad idea after all. That's

I think animals are vary helpful. Their used in every day activities. Their also used in the police, Navy, U.S. marines, and in other armed forces.

In the armed forces animals like dogs, and horses are used to send orders and ammunition to people on the first line. The dogs also help the Military find Osama bin ladin in 2011. A dog named Buster saved 17 men and helped defeat the Japanese. A horse named Reckless was in the Korean war delivering messages to soldiers beond communication lines and was promoted to Sergeant by the U.S. Marines.

Animals are also good companions for people with disabilities. Ferrets are good because the can sense when seizures are about to happen. They can warn their owner by making a sound so the owner can take medicine or get to a safe place before it happens.

Their also used in every day activities They can be used to play with kids out side or just to sit down and relaxe. So I do think animals are varey helpful. They can do stuff that people can't do.

Most people think of animals as forms of entertainment and something to be responsible for but some animals can be trained to help people, the community, and in a certain job. Here are some things animals can do to help these places.

I think animals could be useful to the community if they helped the blind. One way animals can help the blind is by helping them navigate. Miniature horses can help some baby find their way to the grocery store to get food. Another way animals can help the blind is by opening things for them. Monkeys can be trained to open doors and cabinets for people who can't see.

Another thing I think would help the community is if they help the deaf. One way animals can help the deaf is by warning them when someone is at the door. Dogs can be trained to warn them if somebody is at the door. Another way animals can help the deaf is by hearing warning sounds. Dogs can also be trained to warn their owner if a fire alarm is going off.

And finally I think animals could help a job by working in the military and police force. One way animals can help the police force is by helping to find missing people or people that are hiding. If someone was stranded in the jungle the K-9s would go try to find them. And one way animals can help the military is by sending messages and supplies. One "heroic horse" named reckless who served in the Korean war brought supplies to the troops and was awarded two purple hearts and a marine corps conduct medal. Another brave animal was a dog named buster who served in world war II as a messenger.

As you can see animals can help many places and people. Animals are very useful to the community, jobs and to people.

The response addresses the prompt and provides ample detailed support as evidence: in the community, helping both blind and deaf individuals; military and police forces, finding missing, lost and hidden people.

A lot of people think that some animals can be used for eating, and sleeping, but, this is not true. Dog's, Monkey's, and horses are just some of them. They can be used for many things. They can be used for helping people, blind people, people that have a hard time moving, and they can be used for the U.S. army.

Animals can be used to help my community by helping the blind cross the street, getting supplies, and knowing what is what. Animals can also help people that have a hard time moving their hand, people that can not walk. Some animals have a good sense of smell and can help police find missing people. Animals can also help my community by going to hospitals. They can visit children and can give the children something to think about and not of their sickness, or the cause of why they are in the hospital.

Animals can also help my school. They can help my school by animals like dogs giving us a friend to be with. They can also give us confidence to be with people, and give us an example that we can make new friends every day. They can also help our school, if there's sick people the animals can help them move around, and show them which way to go.

Dogs and horses can also help the U.S. army. The army can use them in a lot of things, like the horses can go back and forth to carry people to different places. Dogs can also be used to carry messages to different people, like Buster. These animals can also help the police, by them trying to find missing people, or things they're looking for.

Animals can be helpful in many ways they help people, and they also help important people. Animals can also save lives, and if you need a friend an animal can be useful. Animals can help blind people, because they can't see where they are going, animals like dogs can guide them. When people are sick, like if they have a seizure ferrets can give them a sign and that person can do some thing about it on time. Animals can help you in a lot of things you just don't know, because animals can be really helpful.

In my opinion helpers are a great thing to have. We have in schools, police and military forces, communities, or place of work. If we had helper dogs in schools ~~over~~ across America they might be able to help warn when an intruder is in the building, or things of that sort.

Helpers in a community

I think it's a great thing to have helpers in communities, because helpers can patrol areas and help keep residences safe. K-9s are ~~help~~ very helpful in communities. They can help keep the elderly safe in and out of their homes. They can help keep children safe while playing in their communities. Miniature horses can also be useful in a community. They can let someone that might be weak and have trouble ~~to~~ standing, but weight on the horse for support.

Military and Police Force Helpers

In my opinion it's ~~super~~ awesome to have animals ~~one~~ on different forces today. It's amazing what animals can do be trained to do. It is very ~~sad~~ sad that the military used to create K-9 helpers like machines, but I am very glad that changed. It is very cool that the helpers are created just like a regular officer of the armed forces. It is also very cool that horses are apart of police forces across America today. K-9s are very important helpers in are police and military today. It is very important that we keep our helpers safe.

K-9 Helpers at School

K-9 helpers are a very good helper to have around. It would be a very good thing to have helper dogs at school, because she could be like an alarm system. Maybe for when there is an intruder, Maybe a student has drugs or a gun. Also she could help out on the playground playground so, maybe it could make sure there ~~was~~ ^{wasn't} any tobacco uses, or things like that. K- I helpers could maybe help ~~and~~ walk kids home or make sure they go to the right place.

Helicopters at Work

Helpers at work would be a great thing - I think the ferrets would be the best, because they are small. They could help warn the person if the were about to have a seizure. It could also warn the other employees so they might could help that person.

With all that said all helpers are important. With out them the world might not be what it is today.

Animals can be entertaining, caring, and helpful. Some animals assist people with day-to-day activities while others are members of the military or a police force. After reading these passages, write an opinion about how you think animals could be useful in a community, a school, or a place of work. Be sure to state your opinion and support it using information presented in both passages.

Animals can help in communities everyday. They can help in schools, a place of work, the military or the police force. Animals can also be entertaining and caring. They can assist people with day-to-day activities.

Animals can do certain things at a school. Animals can open doors for children and teachers with disabilities. When a person is sick and they are about to fall over, the animal would run to the child and allow them to lean on it for physical support. For example, our mascot would help Mr. _____ or

Ms. if they were to fall over on the floor.

At a place of work, a person can have a seizure, but with a pet ferret it probably won't happen. A ferret knows when someone is about to have a seizure. It will look sad and try to warn you to take some medicine or get to a safe place before it happens. Also, if a person with disabilities can't get something the animal will go and get that item for them.

In the military, animals can help with certain things. There were four main animals that helped in the military. These animals include dogs, pigeons, camels, and horses.

Dogs would help hurt allies if they are down. The dog can also sniff out the opponents, missing object or missing allies. They have great noses that help them smell way better than humans.

Pigeons were really helpful in the military. They were called "military messengers". The pigeons would have a recorder attached on them and fly to the opposite base and record everything that the opposite were saying.

Camels were used for traveling. People would ride on the camels during long journeys. People would ride on the camel just like a horse.

Horses were used for more than one thing. During journeys, the owners would hook a saddle on the horse and unlatch it. When they unlatch it pads would fall down and they could put their items on there like tents, clothes and food.

Animals can ~~also~~ be on a police force. The most common animal is the German Shepherd. With its keen sense of smell it can identify almost anything. When a person doesn't want to get caught, they will run and keep on running. With dogs, they will get that person because dogs run as twice as fast as humans. If they still don't want to surrender, the police officers will scream "Attack!" and the dog would run faster and tackle the person. The dog could even growl, bite and scratch that person. If a person goes missing, the dogs will get that person's scent and then the dog will sniff around and follow the scent. They would do that even if an important object or if a teammate goes missing. If a person has a gun and shoots one of the officers, the dog will drag that person away to a safe place.

Animals can be entertaining too. Movies starring animals are Mr. Peabody and ~~Shermans~~, Cats and Dogs, and more.

They can also be on tv shows, They can be the main star of the show.

They can be edited so it would look like they are talking.

Animals can be in animal shows.

Every year there is a Kernal Dog Show, Dogs perform very awesome tricks. They can do races or just normal tricks.

Animals can also perform in circuses. They can get trained to walk on ropes, jump on a trapezing or balance things on their noses.

In conclusion, animals are always around. They can help at schools, a place of work, the military, a police force and many more. Animals are always entertaining, caring and helpful in our community.

I think dogs are useful sometimes. Dogs can work in the police force, military and help you if you are blind.

In the police force dogs can sniff out drugs, explosive materials. They can bite someone if needed. Police dogs are called K-9s most of the time.

In military use dogs can carry messages through gun firers. Dogs that are going to retire are called "canine members of the armed force" and they can be adopted by families.

People that are blind can get a dog that can help them. Blind seeing dogs can open doors, close doors, turn on and off lights, pick up stuff and then drop it.

Horses are useful too. They can work in the police force. Police men can ride horses around the park or little comuty. Miniature horses can help blind people too, like dogs can.

Many animals are taught to assist humans. Dogs, horses, and monkeys are the most common to assist humans.

First, there are many dogs that assist humans with disabilities. Many dogs are animal troops and they help save many lives. Many dogs like K-9s help protect police officers. K-9s also help sniff out drugs and bombs. Also, many dogs help deliver supplies and messages to troops.

Second, horses are also great to assist humans. Police officers teach horses to go through large crowds.

Animals can be trained to assist humans with their everyday needs. Even some animals you might not expect can help humans. Here are some ideas.

One example, are service animals. Service animals are trained to assist humans with everyday needs. The most common type of service animal there is, are dogs. Dogs can help people with disabilities. For example, if someone is blind, and they can't see, dogs can lead them anywhere they want to go. Even though dogs are used to help humans, doesn't mean they aren't fun and entertaining with their activities.

Another example, are military animals. Some military animals have participated in wars. But before they do that, they have to go to training, where they complete missions. Two examples, of military animals are horses and dogs. Horses and dogs are very useful in wars, because of their sense of smell. Military animals have a very important role in wars.

Third, there are police force animals. Police force animals are usually german shepherds, which they call K-9s. K-9s go through a lot of training to be an important member of the group. Then, they become good guard dogs. K-9s are very brave also. Police force animals are a very important role on their job.

Have you ever been in a hospital? I have and it was scary. Well, I would have liked to have a dog to pet to calm me down. In this paper I will talk about what a hospital is like and why you need the animal to calm you, what kind of animal I think you might need, and what the animal should be trained to do. At the hospital I was in, they didn't have animals so it made it more scary than it should have been.

I have been in a hospital twice and they are pretty much the same even though they were different hospitals. I had to sleep at the hospital once. Their bed was comfy, but mine is ~~even more~~ comfy. The night was scary and it was hard for me to go to sleep so I wish I had an animal to help me. Also, surgeries can be scary as well as shots so I would like to have an animal by my side in that situation too.

Now, I kind of know what animals should be in the hospital business. Mostly I think you should have a dog. Also rarely a cat because some people are allergic to cats. Back to dogs. You should have a calm dog that loves people. I don't think you need a timid dog that barks his head off at everything because he is scared. German shaperd are easy to train to be a warm-hearted animal.

What should an animal be trained to do? Well, an animal should not bark or hiss at the person. Also, they should not jump on the person unless the person wants them to jump on their lap. People can also be scared of animals. So, the animal should be gentle with children. Don't let the animal growl or hiss at the person while the person is trying to pet the animal.

I think animals would be useful in a hospital because hospitals can be scary, animals can be loving and help people, and the training of the animal will help the animal help the people. I love animals!!!

OUC S.P. 4

I think animals are very useful. They are useful in houses, and they can help people with disabilities. They also help the military and the police.

I think animals are very useful, because in houses they can be the companion that everybody wants. They can entertain us, or if there are robberies in your neighbor hood you can get a guard dog.

Another reason I think animals are very useful is that animals help people with disabilities. Miniature horses and capuchin monkeys can help people who have trouble moving. Ferrets can help people who have seizures by warning them they are about to have one so they can take medicine or get to a safe place. Dogs can help people with bad hearing by barking when someone rings the door bell or by waking thier owner when the fire alarm goes off. To me it seems Like dogs are better alarm clocks than fire alarms.

 The third reason I think animals are useful is that dogs and horses are used in the military and police. Buster was a dog that delivered messages in machine gun fire in World War II. This is my personal opinion if animals would help a community, a school, or a place to work. I think they'll be useful in schools. This opinion will tell you why.

The first reason why is that some kids bring drugs, alcohol, guns, explosives, etc. Kids can bully other kids. Kids could goof around the bathroom, classroom, lunchroom, etc.

The second reason why is that is animals have eyes like cameras. Animals can also scout the school building at night in case of robbers. Animals can also entertain students.

What do you get when you put pets in a school?

A really fun zoo where you learn your A-B-C's of course! Animals would totally be helpful and useful in a school. I feel that animals could help teachers and students. Just like it said in animal helpers "Animals can be trained to assist humans with everyday needs and be valuable companions." I agree with this, animals can help us with many different things including learning!

Animals can help students who are having trouble learning. I believe that animals could help them and give them a kind of therapy. Animals could help the students clear their minds and focus on the work ahead of them.

Animals can also sooth teachers. I'm sure that teachers would love to spend time with animals after a stressful class or day.

Animals could also help students with health problems. Did you know that being introduced to animals such as dogs and cats early (like when children are in Pre-k or kindergarten) can reduce the risk of them contracting asma. And if they already do have asma the animals can help them not get asma as bad. Having anima's can help student with asma and other things as well.

Animals can also help people be safe. Like it said in Military and police force animals "Dogs have a keen sense of smell. They can be trained to sniff out drugs and explosive materials." Dogs, and other animals can help us stay safe. Some animals will do anything to help the humans they love. They will do everything they can to protect humans. If an intruder comes into the school and the animal senses danger such as a dog, the dog will bark to let humans know of the possible danger.

I love animals and, I believe that animals would be very helpful and useful in a school. They could help students and teachers. They would also keep us safe. Now if you will excuse me it's my turn to play with our school dog!

There are many ways a dog can help and here is a couple of ways. First off they can help the blind, make people happy and sometimes save people's lives in a fire they can save people's lives in a collapsing building and a prisoner who escaped from jail or prison who came to the school. Animal are very friendly and helpful. So having an animal that can help or protect you at school, work, or a community would be great.

If schools have dogs they can protect the children. Say that a stranger comes and tries to harm the children, but the teachers don't know. The dog stop the stranger and save everyone.

Having a dog or other Animals help humans every day. There are guide animals, military animals and many more. In this passage I will tell you about them. Guide animals are used for people with disabilities, and diseases. Many animals such as miniature horses, dogs, ferrets and even monkeys are guide animals. Horses are very stable and good for their masters to lean on. Dogs lead their master away from danger and into safety. Monkeys open doors and get their masters things they need. Guide animals are very helpful and good for people with disabilities. Helping Hand Animals

Does your family have a pet such as a dog, monkey, or maybe a horse? Well you may or may not have know that some animals are used to help disabled people with daily tasks. Where I think these animals would be most useful in my community are the nursing home, in the hospital, and at school.

The first place I think animals would be most useful is the nursing home. If you have a family member or friend in a nursing home its probably because they don't get around as well as they used to. Well now these animals can help them get to where ever they need to go. And with all that help the workers can help maintain the nursing home instead of helping the elders. For the blind, hard of hearing, and disabled these animals would be very useful.

The second place I think animals would be most useful is the hospital. Animals have a way of cheering people up or making them feel better. So with these animals in hospitals they can help cheer up the sick and hurting. Along with cheering people up animals are fun and energetic so the hospital will be less depressing. With a less depressing hospital patients can heal or start to feel better.

The third place I think animals would be most useful is the school. Do you have classroom aids in your classroom? Well they are big help in my school and work really hard. So assistant animals would be a big help to classroom aids. Assistant animals also give disabled children someone to love and care for. Other disabled children do not like school so these animals could be a reason for them to come to school.

Assistant animals are great helpers and companions.

And can help all kinds of people with different disabilities. In conclusion I think that in my community the nursing home, the hospital and the school are where animals would be most useful.

Pets Can Be Useful

Did you know animals play an important role in different areas? Dogs for instance can help in many ways. Horses can also help with very important business. I love that animals can help in many ways! I am going to tell you the reasons why they can be very important in your community.

My first reason animals are very important in your community is they will guard people. Dogs will bark when there is danger. Another reason animals are important is they will warn you if any danger is detected. Animals also will watch for intruders. They will also bark at any intruders and it is true it saved me once because someone tried to break into my house and my dogs scared them away.

My second reason animals are very important in your community is they help with people's needs. After reading "Military and Police Force Animals" and "Animal Helpers" they both tell how horses and dogs are great in battle, and they will help with peoples needs. They will also help guide people who have trouble seeing to places they need to go. Also they guard people who can't do as much as other people.

My finale reason animals can be important in your community is they help people that have disabilities. They warn people who can not hear by warning their owners that an alarm went off. Also they help with people who can not see as well as other people can see. In both passages they can help with people who often have seizures, and bring helpful items to people who are in terrible conditions.

So, to conclude this animals have a very important role in the community. Whether its helping people with disabilities or people who have got wounded in battle. Animals will help you with your needs. So you should get you an animal.

How do you think animals are useful in our community? I am writing about my opinion on how animals are useful in a community, a school, or a place of work. My writing will include how they help people, how they are entertaining, and how they are helpful in our community.

One of ~~the~~ ~~opinions~~ ~~how~~ animals are useful in our community is ~~that~~ they help people. Animals can help the blind, people that can't control their movement, and people who are sick. Dogs can guide a blind person. Ferrets can tell when someone is going to have a seizure. Monkeys can help people with movement problems. They can carry things, and help open cabinets. All these animals have a special ability to help people.

My second opinion on how animals are useful in our community is how they are entertaining. When someone has the blues animals can cheer them up. Pupils love animals. They like to pet, care, and love on them. Animals are entertaining to children and grown-ups. They can also be a man's best friend. When someone is nervous about a test animals can help them forget and be calm about it. Animals are playful and fun to play with.

Finally, I like to tell about how they are useful to our community. Animals helped in the battle with the Japanese. They got hurt and shot. I think these animals sacrifice their lives. They help our community find the bad guys and lock them in jail or prison. They had to go in rugged areas. They also help families find each other. Animals are like a strong, powerful,

Grade 5 WRITING

I hope I told you my opinion on how animals are useful in our community.

They are extraordinary and brave. They were with us through tough times. Animals can help people, entertain, and they are also helpful in our community. Thank you for reading this story.

Have you ever been in a hospital? I have and it was scary. Well, I would have liked to have a dog to pet to calm me down. In this paper I will talk about what a hospital is like and why you need the animal to calm you, what kind of animal I think you might need, and what the animal should be trained to do. At the hospital I was in, they didn't have animals so it made it more scary than it should have been.

I have been in a hospital twice and they are pretty much the same even though they were different hospitals. I had to sleep at the hospital once. Their bed was comfy, but mine is even more comfy. The night was scary and it was hard for me to go to sleep so I wish I had an animal to help me. Also, surgeries can be scary as well as shots so I would like to have an animal by my side in that situation too.

Grade 5 WRITING

Now, I kind of know what animals should be in the hospital business. Mostly I think you should have a dog. Also rarely a cat because some people are allergic to cats. Back to dogs. You should have a calm dog that loves people. I don't think you need a timid dog that barks his head off at everything because he is scared. German shepherds are easy to train to be a warm-hearted animal.

What should an animal be trained to do? Well, an animal should not bark or hiss at the person. Also, they should not jump on the person unless the person wants them to jump on their lap. People can also be scared of animals. So, the animal should be gentle with children. Don't let the animal growl or hiss at the person while the person is trying to pet the animal.

I think animals would be useful in a hospital because hospitals can be scary, animals can be loving and help people, and the training of the animal will help the animal help the people. I love animals!!!

Animal Helpers

I think animals can be useful for a lot of things, like a horse can be used to help you get some where. For example: A horse can transport you to walmart or any where.

Dogs can be used to help people who are blind or can't see good. They can help by guarding the house why your gon, and people who can't here good by listening for robbers' alarms.

Monkeys' can help by reaching things for people who engered their arms, they can help you if you are in truble like getting robbed or something, and little monkeys' can be your pet.

But also remember, they are well "trained" or they would not be able to help people.

Military and Police Force Animals

I think it's a great idea that "Animals" are helping "fight."

A dog can "fight" or be a messenger" being a messenger has won use lots' of wars.

Animals can be entertaining, caring, and helpful. Some animals assist people with day-to-day activities while others are members of the military or a police force. After reading these passages, write an opinion about how you think animals could be useful in a community, a school, or a place of work. Be sure to state your opinion and support it using information presented in both passages.

I think that animals are a great help to people. Also they could be helpful to a community, school, and work places. People love animals and they love them to. I think that animals are a great help to a community.

Animals can be helpful and a great working pet. However animals can help your community by working as a service dog helping people do stuff. Also they could be helpful in a school by bring supplies to the teacher and they could work as a locker search dog. Also they could help a work place by being a K-9 and searching for drugs.

Some animals that can help people, and communities, and a work place, are ~~can help people~~
 So it can help the blind and guide them.
 Also a ferret can help by warning someone who is about to have a seizure. Also horses can be helpful by delivering supplies and giving people transportation.
 Finally all animals can be helpful from day-to-day. Some are dogs, horses, and ferrets. They can help people in different times of situation. I think animals can help people from day-to-day and do a great job doing it!

People have pets because they want someone with them. Other people have pets because they really need them. Such as, blind people or people that have seizures. Ferrets can sometimes tell when someone is going to have a seizure.

The ferret often looks sad when their owner is about to have a seizure. So when the owner looks at the ferret he or she knows when to take medicine. Dogs can also be really helpful because they can guide blind people without having the person running into anything. Another reason is because the dog doesn't go too fast or slow when it is guiding someone.

Miniature horses can also be helpful too. The reason they can be is because they will let their owner lean on them. Regular sized horses can also be helpful. They can carry messages to and from their owner. Also, they can be used to go places cars can't go.

Overall people use animals for many different things. Some people use them for comfort and some people use them for defense. Another way to use animals is for the police and for the army.

Animals have been known to help humans with many things. They can help people with disabilities, in the police force, and even in the military. The most common service animal is a dog. Dogs can be trained to help people get around, turn off and on lights, warn their owners if a fire alarm goes off, and open and close doors.

Dogs aren't the only animals that can help humans. In the military horses can bring supplies and ammunition to soldiers in battle. Horses can also help in the police force. They can be trained to move through crowds and be used for park patrol.

Monkeys can do many things. A monkey can carry things for its owner, open, and close doors, and more. Ferrets can warn people if they are going to have a seizure so its owner can get medicine or get to a safe place to have the seizure. Animals can help people with many things either on the battle field or every day things.

I think animals could be ~~useful~~ in schools. I also think they could be ~~useful~~ in communities. They could be useful in a place of work, too. A lot of animals can be trained to be very useful.

Some reasons animals could be useful in schools are dogs can sniff out drugs and explosives. Dogs can also be very protective and can keep the school safe. Horses are also useful in schools. They are very strong and can stay calm in major situations. A monkey is another animal that could be useful in schools. One reason is that they can help disabled people. Another reason is that they can bring things to people. The third reason is that they can open doors and cabinets. Those are some reasons I think animals are useful in schools.

I think animals can be useful in communities. One reason is that a lot of animals can make good companions for people. Another reason is animals can help disabled people. Some ways are that dogs can be used as guide dogs for people with sight problems. Horses also have great eyesight. Some dogs can turn lights on and off and hear alarms and warn people. Ferrets can sense seizures and try to warn their owners. Horses are very strong and people can lean on them for physical support. Dogs and monkeys can carry things. Some dogs are very protective and can be very brave. These were the reasons I think animals would be useful in communities.

Some reasons animals are useful in places of work are monkeys can open doors and carry things. Dogs can sniff out drugs, turn lights on and off, be protective, and be brave. Horses can be strong, brave, and can ignore sounds. These are some reasons I think animals can be useful in places of work.

As you can see, I think animals are useful in schools, communities, and places of work. Dogs, horses, monkeys, and ferrets are all useful. They can help disabled or just be companions. Either way, they are very useful. That is why I think animals are useful in schools, communities, and places of work.

Are you or is someone you know disabled?

Animals could help! In the work place or at school, animals should be there.

First, there's the fire house. I think dogs should be here because, if there is a hard-of-hearing person in the building, dogs can go with the firemen and alert the person.

Next, there's school. Dogs, probably not miniature horses for obvious reasons, could lead teachers or students who have a hard time seeing down the hall. Epileptic students or teachers could have the ever-so-trusty ferret by their side. Not all, but some ferrets ~~can~~ sense when someone is going to have a seizure and can alert them so they can take medicine or get to a safe place.

At jail, dogs could sniff out the new inmates to see if there were any drugs, weapons, or alcohol that the officer had missed. Since miniature horses have good eyesight, they could be another set of eyes for the prison guard on duty.

At hospitals, capuchin monkeys could help the patients who can't get something due to muscle or movement problems. These monkeys would come in handy if a nurse wasn't in the room.

If you're a member of the armed forces, animals come in handy, too. In the army, dogs could deliver messages. Since horses are much bigger than dogs, they can carry more. Horses could take supplies to soldiers. In the navy, since dogs are good swimmers, they could carry messages ship to ship.

Animals could contribute to the community in different ways. For example, dogs could alert hard-of-hearing people for the fire department, ferrets could help prevent seizures at school, miniature horses could see for prison guards, capuchin monkeys could help patients in the hospitals, and horses could help the army. Animals could make a difference every where.
