

JOIN HAI

FOR MORE THAN 70 YEARS, HAI HAS REPRESENTED ALL aspects of the vertical flight industry, promoting safety, professionalism, innovation, and economic viability.

HAI advocates for expanding the use of vertical flight, on behalf of our members and for the benefit of society, with legislators, regulators, and government agencies around the world. HAI's diligent work for safety and against burdensome regulations is at the forefront of everything we do. Ensuring a safe, sustainable, and economically viable future for our industry is how we help you keep your rotors turning.

Current HAI priorities include:

- Advocating for performance-based solutions to ensure industry viability
- Advancing industry integration of unmanned aircraft systems and advanced air mobility aircraft
- Developing the global vertical flight workforce
- Strengthening safety collaboration within the international vertical flight industry.

“HAI is our industry advocate; they need to hear from you so they know what to fight for and what is important to you as a pilot or organization.”

– Grayson Barrows, repair station general manager

ADVOCACY

DEMONSTRATING STRENGTH IN NUMBERS

As an HAI member, your views will be heard in Washington and in US state capitals. Our Government Affairs team works to ensure that legislators understand the full implications of proposals that restrict airspace and operations or impose additional regulatory burdens. Below are some of HAI's positions on critical issues facing our industry.

HAI SUPPORTS

Finding performance-based safety solutions that ensure industry viability

Preserving federal authority over the National Airspace System

Increasing access to financial aid for flight education and training

Expanding state and federal resources for aviation workforce development

Investing in heliport and vertiport infrastructure for expansion of advanced air mobility technologies

Integrating unmanned aircraft systems safely into the National Airspace System

Protecting safety-critical aviation systems from 5G interference

HAI OPPOSES

Splitting the National Airspace System into a tangle of competing state and local jurisdictions

Imposing overburdensome regulations and costly requirements that threaten industry viability

“ We need HAI to keep us accountable, to keep us informed and to help us out.”

– Pam Landis, flight school manager

“ I attended HAI HELI-EXPO 2019 in Atlanta to better understand how and where my skills and experiences could be best utilized in today’s civil aviation industry, as I was planning on retiring from the military that year.

The moment I walked into the convention, my expectations were exceeded one hundredfold. In addition to all the activities sponsored by HAI to promote discussion and learning about the helicopter industry, I participated in military-to-civilian transition programs and job fairs, built my network of peers, and was introduced to potential employers and industry leaders looking for new team members.

In less than a year, I not only found employment opportunities but was able to choose between a couple of different options. Today, I work for a great employer that is part of the helicopter air ambulance (HAA) sector, where I fly helicopters and support my community. I’m continuing to grow and learn through HAI’s articles, webinars, and other resources.

HAI membership is a must for anyone who loves helicopters and wants to work in that field.

– Joseph Kaplan, HAA pilot

HAI MEMBER CATEGORIES
