HIANG Dedicates Newest Aircraft

by 1st Lt. Charles Anthony

A blessing ceremony for the 154th Group's newest aircraft will take place at 2:00 p.m. tomorrow in Hanger 35.

The blessing will be for a C-130H-3 Hercules transport that rolled off the Lockheed waii sometime today with Lt. Col. Ed Miyahira at the controls.

Col. Miyahira piloted the C-130A model to Hawaii when the HIANG received that plane in 1984. In 1989, Col. Miyahira piloted the C-130H to Hickam AFB. After the HIANG took possession of the updated aircraft. He will now enter the history books as the pilot who delivered the C-130H-3.

The C-130H-3 looks very much on the outside like the version that was first introduced in 1955, but the inside is state-of-the-art. Its avionics has been upgraded and its payload and range have

Ground Breaking

Before the weekend is finished, the 154th Group will have broken ground for two new facilities. At 9:00 a.m. today, a ceremony will mark the beginning of construction for the 154th Air Control Squadron's Forward Air Control Point (FACP) facility. The $8.67 million project will be located at Barking Sands on Kauai. The new facility will have space for communications/electronics training, vehicle maintenance, aerospace ground equipment maintenance, supply

Legal Line

by Maj. James Itamura

With the onset of football season and the advent of elections, what a better time to review good old Standards of Conduct than now!

Remember, gambling and betting on government property or while on duty are prohibited. This includes those fun office pools.

Various state and federal laws limit the political activity of members. For instance one cannot participate in political activity such as soliciting votes for a particular candidate, selling fundraising tickets, while on duty or while in uniform or when on government property. Members must not use their position in the Guard to give the impression that they represent the Guard in their endorsement of the candidate by distributing political literature, etc., displaying large political signs on private vehicles.

Conflicts of interest and the appearance of conflicts of interest between a person's official duties and his personal affairs and interest are to be avoided. These include conflicting financial holdings, the use of inside information or of one's official position, personal commercial solicitations to service members junior in rank.

Gratuities from government contractors or from those whose business interests are affected by DoD functions should not be accepted. Gifts to superiors are generally prohibited with the exception of nominal gifts presented on appropriate occasions.

Use of government property for personal reasons are illegal.

Members are required to make good on all legal and just financial obligations such as loans and child support payments.

Discrimination based on race, color, religion, age, sex, national origin, political affiliation, handicap or marital status is prohibited. Additional sexual harassment in any form that results in the creation of a hostile or offensive working environment will result in serious penalty.

Announcement: A legal technical position for the 154 Group JAG office is currently available. The position is promotable to Master Sergeant. Cross trainees must attend the Legal Services Specialist course at Montgomery AFB, AL., course length is six weeks and must be completed within a year of entering.

Applicants should have the following minimum: General AQE score of 50 percentile (60 preferred); minimum typing speed of 40 wpm; average combined score of the eleventh grade or higher on reading comprehension and vocabulary examination by an Air Force Education Office.

Prior qualification in any AFSC at the 5-skill level or higher. Applicants must be computer capable. Submit resume to Maj. Itamura at 154 GP/JA.

directives addressing this issue. TSgt Coulborune does however deserve the majority of the credit for taking the initiative to get the equipment installed and put the finishing touches on the facility as well as volunteering to oversee its care and usage. He will also help develop an exercise program for individuals desiring assistance and can be reached at the CAMS Engine Shop. My hat's off to him for his initiative and willingness to help.

CONCERN: When speaking with other Guardsmen in the Group I realized that a lot of them have no idea what part my shop plays during exercises, deployments, day-to-day activities and so forth. Perhaps a short article in the Kukuilimoku for different shops or sections would help us all to have a better understanding of the Air National Guard as a whole.

ANSWER: Great idea and I agree! The small Kukailimoku staff is severely limited by time constraints and depends heavily on the submission of articles by the units. I'll be encouraging the squadron commanders and section supervisor to crank up the submission rate.

CCAF Graduates -

Congratulations are in order for four additional guard members. They received an associate in applied science degree for their respective fields. Those members are:

SMSgt. David Leynes -
 292 CBCS Mechanical and Electrical Technology

TSgt. Doug Awana -
 154 CAMS Aircraft Systems Maintenance Technology

SSgt. Vicki Pratt -
 203 AREFS Aircraft Powerplant Technology

SSgt. David Sala -
 293 CBCS Electronic Systems Technology

Stop by the Career and Education office to check your requirements for your CCAF degree.

MY BOSS IS A PRO - Employer Support Guard & Reserve Program - It's not too late to nominate your employer for a "My Boss Is A Pro" award. If your boss is supportive in your Guard activities, show your appreciation by completing a nomination form with your unit career advisor or the Career and Education office. An invitation will be sent to your employer and the certificates will be presented at a luncheon scheduled for Sunday UTA, November 6, 1994. It will be held at the Hickam Officers Club with a work site tour to follow. The nomination will also be sent for competition at the national ESGR level.

Unit Career Advisor Workshop - The annual Unit Career Advisor Workshop held on the August 25-26, at the Kauai Coconut Beach Resort Hotel was a success. The first day was dedicated to quality training conducted by Capt. Linda Birge. Updated UCA training was discussed on the second day. The UCAs that could not attend need to contact the Career and Education office to request for their material folders.

The FY95 UCA Workshop is scheduled for August 24-25, 1995. UCAs - please ensure your calendars are marked.

Another brand new C-130H-3 is expected to arrive later this month. Those two along with two C-130H models will form the 204th Airlift Squadron (204 AS).

Col. Michael Tice, commander of the 154th Group, who attended the roll out ceremony in Georgia, said it was quite exciting to sit in the cockpit of the brand new plane. "We'll have a much greater capability to perform our airlift mission now—in the state, in support of Hawaii Army and Air Guard missions, as well as in support of PACAF and even mainland units," said Tice.

LEAD POISONING

Lead is perhaps the oldest known health hazard, going back to the 4th century B.C. It is a poison and serves no useful function in the body. Large doses of lead can kill in a few days while chronic buildup can damage vital organs.

Lead paint is the largest culprit in lead poisoning. It is used as a rust inhibitor on steel structures. If lead paint is left undisturbed, it is of little hazard. In construction projects, this disturbance occurs when arc welding, or abrasive blasting is performed on painted steel surfaces. High temperatures generated during welding melt the lead and convert it into a fume.

Abrasive blasting pulverizes the lead into a fine dust. In this form, lead enters the body through the respiratory system and the body cannot rid itself of it.

Lead can enter the body through ingestion. Children are especially at risk when lead paint is peeling. They will consume it, not knowing any better.

Engineering controls that eliminate lead dust and fumes generated in industry are local exhaust system at the worksite, wet blasting, and vacuum blasting. Other controls are handwashing before and after meals and after work, and respirators are sometimes recommended.

Air Guard Needs Actors

The Air Guard Recruiting office would like to interview any current member of the Hawaii Air National Guard currently enrolled at the University of Hawaii and taking advantage of the tuition waiver and the Montgomery GI Bill for participation in a new public service announcement to be aired on television.

Member must be articulate and adherence to AFR 35-10. Any interested members, please contact SSgt. Komine in the Air Guard Recruiting office at 449-5601.

Complete schedule and Tournament booklets are being printed and will be distributed to team managers by next week.

Traditionally, keen competition exists between the services (including that island pride) at these state tournaments. These tournaments affords us the opportunity to renew old friendship and to start new ones. We must exhibit good sportsmanship at all times and insure that the Ohana spirit prevails throughout the tournament.

Good luck to all Air teams, managers, and players. Have a good, safe, and enjoyable tournament.
