WELCOME TO ALL ICAS 10 PARTICIPANTS

On behalf the Local Organising Committee, I would like to extend our warm welcome to all participants of ICAS10, taking place from 20-23 July 2017 in Chiang Mai.

As the 10th edition of ICAS is taking place in Asia, it will be greatly beneficial and intellectually challenging to invite Asia scholars to use this platform to discuss and exchange ideas on how we can better understand the changes that are happening in this region today. The conference is envisaged as an opportunity for participants to question the old paradigms and to search for new ones that can help us to analytically investigate the emerging economic, political and social order, as well as to conceive a realisation of the need for a new methodology to help us in better dealing with the problems of environment degradation, migration, authoritarianism, ethnic conflict, inequality, commoditisation of culture, and so forth.

The emergence of the ASEAN community in Asia is a hope for economic, political and socio-cultural connectivity as well as a challenge for policymakers and the grassroots. ASEAN in Asia is, thus, one of the central themes of this conference. We hope that participants will find a chance to critically examine the role of the ASEAN community in the context of a neoliberal economy.

We are proud of the fact that Chiang Mai was chosen to be the venue for ICAS 10. It is situated in the middle of Asia, particularly in between China and India. It is a living ancient city of diverse ethnic groups, with a Northern Thai majority. It can be seen as an example of a place where two civilisations meet and are overlaid by modernity. Chiang Mai can present itself as a good example of an Asian city undergoing rapid changes while struggling to retain its traditions and cultures, with the active participation of local communities.

It is our honour to be part of this conference. We hope all Asia scholars and other participants enjoy the vibrant academic deliberations and intellectual exchanges during this conference, and invite you all to join us in the celebration of Chiang Mai's 721th anniversary.

On behalf of the Local Organising Committee,
Chayan Vaddhanaphuti, PhD.

WELCOME FROM IIAS AND ICAS

We warmly welcome all participants and visitors to the Tenth International Convention of Asia Scholars (ICAS 10) here in Chiang Mai, the ancient capital of the Lanna Kingdom, with its rich social and cultural heritage. Together with our local host and organiser, Chiang Mai University, ICAS 10 will bring fresh knowledge and perspectives to the city's relations with the rest of Asia, through exchanges between a wide range of international academic, social and cultural actors, on a vast range of subjects including urban development, social and economic transformation, migration and connectivity, history and cultural heritage.

In the lead-up to ICAS 10, it has been an honour and a great pleasure for us to collaborate with Chiang Mai University, in particular Acting Vice President for International Relations Prof. Dr Rome Chiranukrom, and the local organisers from CMU's Regional Center for Social Science and Sustainable Development (RCSD), Prof. Dr Chayan Vaddhanaphuti and Kanchana Kulpisithicharoen, in addition to many other persons and institutions in Chiang Mai, including our supporting partners: Thailand Convention & Exhibition Bureau (TCEB) and the Chiang Mai International Exhibition and Convention Centre (CMECC).

Established in 1997, ICAS is a global platform enabling individuals and institutions from different parts of the world to come together to exchange views on a variety of issues pertaining to Asia. Its Secretariat is hosted by the International Institute for Asian Studies (IIAS), Leiden, the Netherlands. IIAS operates as a network-based, research-driven organisation supporting the study of, with and in Asia. Informed by a humanistic agenda, the institute focuses primarily on three thematic clusters: Asian cities, Asian cultural heritage and global Asian interactions.

ICAS has contributed to decentring the field of Asian studies by including a wider variety of voices from Asia, but also from other regions of the world. It has succeeded in convening an open space in which Asia scholars and cultural and social actors from the whole world can directly interact. An illustration of ICAS's inclusive and global reach is the co-organisation with the Association of Asian Studies in Africa (A-ASIA) of its inaugural conference, "Asian Studies in Africa. Challenges and Prospects of a New Axis of Intellectual Interactions", with the University of Ghana in Accra in September 2015. This historic conference is set to have a follow-up at the University of Dar es Salaam in 2018. In the same vein, the workshop "Perspectives on Asian Studies in Latin America", held in November 2016, has given birth to a new Latin America network on Asian studies. An inaugural conference is planned for 2019. In the true ICAS spirit, these pan-African and pan-Latin American conferences on Asian studies set out to bring together a diversified range of individuals and institutions from these continents as well as the rest of the world, whose shared engagement with Asia will further deepen Asia-Africa and Asia-Latin America intellectual relations.

Another way IIAS and ICAS facilitate the confluence of localised 'connected knowledges', and the decentring of the landscape of knowledge about and in Asia, is the ICAS Book Prize (IBP). From the start, the IBP has had a broad interdisciplinary basis ('Social Sciences' and 'Humanities') instead of the traditional geographic or disciplinary compartmentalisations. The recent diversification of the IBP's language basis, in collaboration with partners and sponsors from other linguistic regions, is a clear example of this decentralising approach. In addition to the existing English Edition, the IBP will this year honour publications in the Chinese, Korean, French and German languages. To achieve this growth, prospective partners were approached to either organise and/or sponsor the respective language editions. We would like to thank the following institutes, which eagerly took up the challenge: The Education University of Hong Kong (Chinese Edition), Groupement d'intérêt scientifique Études asiatiques (GIS Asie) (French Edition), the German Institute of Global and Area Studies (GIGA) and the Schweizerische Akademie für Geistes- und Sozialwissenschaften (SAGW) (German Edition), and Seoul National University Asia Center (SNUAC) (Korean Edition). Together with the Asian Library/Leiden University (English Edition), the IBP is now shouldered by eight institutions in Asia and Europe. We hope to include two more book prizes in the future, in Japanese and Spanish/Portuguese.

We wish all participants, exhibitors and visitors a fruitful time at ICAS 10 and an enjoyable stay in the vibrant and heritage-rich Chiang Mai.

SPECIAL EVENTS / THURSDAY 20 JULY16.30 – 17.15 / PLENARY*OPENING CEREMONY

Dr Surin Pitsuwan, Former Secretary-General of ASEAN
Prof. Rome Chiranukrom, Vice President for International Relations and Alumni Affairs, CMU

KEYNOTE PRESENTATION17.15 – 18.15 / PLENARY
THE CHINESE SILK ROAD:
 RE-TERRITORIALIZING POLITICS IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

Aihwa Ong, University of California Berkeley, USA

On May 14, a Beijing forum introducing China's "One Belt, One Road" policy prominently displayed the 15th century voyages of Admiral Zheng He to the Nanyang and Africa. While OBOR intends to encompass 65 countries, the imagery of a maritime Silk Road signals that Southeast Asia is the most immediate and critical region for materializing China's foreign objectives.

OBOR has been presented as an avowedly non-political "win-win" policy initiative to improve economic and security conditions in the emerging world. Focusing on the Silk Road initiative, I explore the material power of infrastructure to reconstitute the political in Southeast Asia. By engineering roads and ports overseas, China aims to re-route flows and remake topologies.

First, I argue that the neoliberalization of infrastructure in China allows it to "rule beyond the state". Second, I view the Silk Road building of railways, ports and zones as a process that re-territorializes politics in SE Asia. PRC financing, technology, and expertise are engendering a cascade of zones, by repurposing manufacturing sites and by recasting Thailand, Myanmar, and Indonesia as nodal points in an emerging PRC-oriented trade and logistical system. Third, the inroads of The Silk Road compromise national power. Political exceptions made to accommodate PRC interests contribute to the effects of "graduated" or unevenness in sovereign rule. By shaping infrastructure, Chinese investors and developers come to control land use, property, and labor, thus re-territorializing politics, and embedding foreign spaces in host countries. Finally, what are the nationalist implications of China's infrastructural power for SE Asia?

Aihwa Ong's work has always dealt with the particular entanglements of politics, technology and culture in rapidly changing situations on the Asia Pacific rim. Currently, her work focuses on regimes of governing, technology and culture that crystallize new meanings and practices of the human. Her field research shifts between sites in Southeast Asia and China in order to track emerging global centers and biotechnical experiments in East Asian modernity.

As a foreign-born anthropologist, Aihwa Ong has approached research from vantage points outside or athwart the United States. This angle of inquiry unsettles and troubles stabilized viewpoints and units of analysis in the social sciences. From her early work on Muslim factory women in Malaysia, to the experiences of migrant Chinese and Cambodian refugees in California; from the selective deployment of neoliberal norms to the rise of biotech projects in Asia; Ong explores how the interaction between global forms and situated politics and cultures shape emerging globalized contexts.

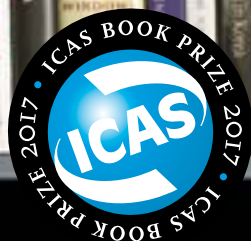

Ong's inter-disciplinary approach and her ideas – 'flexible citizenship', 'graduated sovereignty', 'global assemblages', among others – are featured in debates on globalization and modernity. She has lectured internationally and been invited to the World Economic Forum. Her awards include grants from the MacArthur Foundation and the National Science Foundation, and a number of book prizes.

Keynote presentation is followed by the ICAS Book Prize Award Ceremony and ICAS 11 Announcement

ICAS 11, Leiden, the Netherlands 16-19 July 2019

In 2019, ICAS 11 will return to Europe, to where it began; in Leiden, the Netherlands. The historic city of Leiden is home to one of the oldest universities and several of the most renowned Asia research centers. Leiden University will be the main host of ICAS 11, thereby partnering with the city, research institutions and museums, who share equally rich Asian and global connections.

The venue of ICAS 11 will be the imposing building of the Law Faculty, once a laboratory where the Nobel Prize laureate H. Kamerlingh Onnes discovered superconductivity, without which our digital world would never have come into being. Participate at ICAS 11 in Leiden and enjoy a multitude of networking opportunities, possibilities to share your research and to meet with publishers face-to-face.

SPECIAL EVENTS / SATURDAY 22 JULYPLENARY KEYNOTE ROUNDTABLE*16.30–18.15 / ROOM 14*UPHOLDING DEMOCRATIC VALUES IN SOUTHEAST ASIA: INTELLECTUAL FREEDOM AND PUBLIC ENGAGEMENT

This ICAS public plenary roundtable seeks to address the situation of democratic deficit prevailing in most Southeast Asian countries today by focusing on the social and political roles of three public intellectuals whose backgrounds and achievements make them unique as both actors and witnesses of their countries' recent history.

Maria Serena I. Diokno is a trained historian from the Philippines who teaches at the University of the Philippines at Diliman. She is the founder of the Southeast Asian Studies Regional Programme (SEASREP) – a renowned network of humanistic scholars from Southeast Asia. From 2012 to 2016, she served as the chairman of the National Heritage Board of the Philippines, a position she left in order to protest the policies of President Duterte.

Son Soubert is a trained art historian from Cambodia who teaches at the Royal University of Fine Arts, Phnom Penh. He has been involved in the political, diplomatic and humanitarian realms of action surrounding the return to peace in Cambodia since the wake of the UN mission there in 1992. He has served as both an opposition MP and a member of the Constitutional Council from where he has remained a vocal opponent to Prime Minister Hun Sen and his friends in power.

Jon Ungpakorn is a trained engineer and prominent human rights activist from Thailand who is considered by most as a founding father of Thai NGOs. Mr. Ungpakorn founded many civic organisations, starting with the AIDS-Access Foundation in the early 1990s. He first became involved in Thai politics when he was elected as senator in 2000, and when he joined the Health Committee and Social Development and Human Security Committee. He is also the founder of Prachatai, a web-based news website specialized in human rights and politics.

Some questions immediately come to mind: to what extent does the weakness of an entrenched culture of political and social democracy in many Southeast Asian countries today stem from difficulties – if not impossibilities – to articulate intellectual freedoms with acts of social and political public engagement? What could ideally be the role of civic, educational, cultural institutions and their members to uphold a real culture of accountability in Southeast Asian contexts?

All three speakers have played and continue to play an active part in the public life of their countries where they are regarded as inspiring figures. They share the same quest for justice and democratic rights for their countrymen and women. They will, in their own way, reflect on their capacity to stay free from the danger of turning into 'official intellectuals' serving the social and political status quo.

The three 20-minute public talks will be followed by an open Q&A session.

THE VISUAL DOCUMENTARY PROJECT

Organiser: Center for Southeast Asian Studies (CSEAS), Kyoto University

Overview

Southeast Asia is rich in ethnic, religious and cultural diversity. The region has maintained such diversity while at the same time achieving economic progress and becoming a hub for the flow of people, goods, money and information. Yet at present, the region is also confronted with serious issues such as a decrease in biodiversity and tropical forests, disasters, pandemics, aging populations, ethnic and religious conflicts, economic differentiation and poverty. In the face of this, how are coexistence and sustainability possible despite the diversity that exists? How can we make public resources out of the region's social foundations which are the basis of people's everyday lives?

In order to address these issues the Center for Southeast Asian Studies (Kyoto University) initiated the "Visual Documentary project" in 2012 to explicitly examine everyday life in Southeast Asia through documentary film making. This project aims to use visual forms of expression to complement the growing literature that exists on Southeast Asian societies. From 2014, the Japan Foundation Asia Center has participated in this project as co-organizer to help widely promote the richness of Southeast Asian cultures to people in Japan and stimulate dialogue with ASEAN nations. As of 2016, the project has linked up with numerous film schools in the region to help strengthen documentary filmmaking networks.

Center for Southeast Asian Studies (CSEAS), Kyoto University

For over 50 years the Center for Southeast Asian Studies (CSEAS) has conducted research in Southeast Asia to formulate and pursue original research agendas. Amassing an extensive body of information through integrated area studies, CSEAS seeks to develop research frameworks based on extensive fieldwork and on observations that derive from the region's diversity. Currently, CSEAS is promoting trans-disciplinary collaborative research to form academic communities that can deal with transnational issues; move toward life-oriented research approaches attuned to regional diversity; create socially innovative approaches to the needs of the environment; and share and use global information resources with the regional and global academic world.

FILM SCREENINGS / SYNOPSES

THE CLINIC

THURSDAY 20 JULY / 11.35 – 11.55

Director: Aung Min, Myanmar

2012 / 20 minutes

The Clinic shares the relationship between a 45 year old doctor and his clients. The protagonist, the clinic doctor, was brought up and trained under the education system of Myanmar socialist regime. Nonetheless, he made his own living as a clinic doctor. His clients come up with their different problems while he has own personal conflicts. This documentary developed as way to respond to his dilemmas.

CARING FOR THE CRADLE: MANGYANS AND MATERNAL HEALTH

THURSDAY 20 JULY / 12.25 – 12.45

Director: Jewel Ranier Ocampo, Philippines

2012 / 20 minutes

This documentary focuses on an indigenous group called the "Mangyan" (Alagan), in Mindoro Oriental, an island 6 hours away from Manila. It documents how their traditional birth methods are threatening them and why it's not so easy for them to get modern medical assistance. The documentary also shows how a simple idea can help the Mangyan reduce their maternal mortality rate.

GLASS MAN

THURSDAY 20 JULY / 12.00 – 12.20

Director: Zay Yar Aung, Myanmar

2012 / 20 minutes

Kaung Htet is 20 years old and only 3 feet 9 inches. He is suffering from osteoporosis, with bones like glass which have broken over 40 times since birth. When he was a child, he was afraid of going out in public and depressed about his situation. However, since he was sent to the School for Disabled Children, his point of view on life and his mindset have changed.

AGEING BANGKOK

THURSDAY 20 JULY / 12.50 – 13.10

Director: Yanin Pongsuwan, Thailand

2012 / 19 minutes

Population aging is becoming significant issue in Thailand, yet there is still a lack of state's policy to develop the well-being of the elderly. This documentary focuses on the life of an old woman aged 84 named Ood, who has to fend for herself. Ood, previously an actress for films and TV commercials until the age of 62, seems independent, yet this documentary unintentionally shows her loneliness.

FOR A RAINY DAY

THURSDAY 20 JULY / 14.20 – 14.30

Director: Nguyen Anh Phong VY, Vietnam
2013 / 12 minutes

In a small alley in Hanoi's old town, where lots of families have been living together, a woman lives with her second son together with the family of her first son. Her life is a series of relentless working years along with uncompensated losses. At an old age, she still sells green tea daily to support herself and her mentally incapable son.

PAMANA

THURSDAY 20 JULY / 14.35 – 14.55

Director: Giselle Joyce Nadine de la Peña, Philippines
2013 / 18 minutes

This documentary tells the story of an Agta-Dumagat-Remontado community in Quezon Province who face the threat of losing their ancestral land. Various developmental projects by lowlanders have caused socio-political, economic, and environmental consequences, affecting both Agta and lowland communities. The Agta-Dumagat continue to struggle for their rights throughout decades of oppression and marginalization. The documentary sensitively show how through self-determination, the community was able to put up their own school that teaches academics and cultural identity to their youth with the hope of fostering the next generation of cultural defenders who to protect the legacy left by their ancestors.

ON THE STREETS

THURSDAY 20 JULY / 15.00 – 15.15

Director: Mycuoung Le, Vietnam
2013 / 16 minutes

This film is about the lives of young men and women who earn their lives by selling sugar, singing and dancing on Ho Chi Minh city's busy streets. The film offers a window into the life of Dien whose job is just not a way to earn a living. It also comes from his love for singing, where the streets are his only stage. Bi and Ti a couple who fell in love with each other, live together like husband and wife and stick to this job just to earn money. The film also follows children who were born and grew up as street children. On the streets leaves the viewer with a question: when will it come to an end?

THE BURMESE IN THAILAND

THURSDAY 20 JULY / 15.20 – 15.35

Director: Kantayalongote Suree, Thailand
2013 / 13 minutes

Portraying the lives of Burmese workers in Thailand this documentary shows how they work and their living conditions. It focuses on a Burmese worker "Jet" who works in a "Tom Luead Moo" shop and spends 20 hours a day managing all the daily tasks.

FILM SCREENINGS / SYNOPSESCONSIDER*THURSDAY 20 JULY / 15.40 – 16.05*Director: Panu Saeng-Xuto, Thailand
2013 / 25 minutes

Tay is a teenage “kathoeay” (ladyboy) a member of the relatively well-tolerated transgender group. Kathoeay take on traditional female roles, and are sometimes described as a third sex. This documentary follows Tay and observes the acceptance of his orientation at his Christian school Saint Joseph Mueang-Ake. The documentary peers into the daily life of Tay, and those around them to paint a complex observation of how an individual’s gender is articulated in Thai society.

THE LAST GENERATION*FRIDAY 21 JULY / 9.40 – 9.55*Directors: Darang Melati Z / Riza Andrian, Indonesia
2014 / 13 minutes

This documentary explores the decline of fish resources on a coastal village in Greater Aceh Region, Indonesia. With detailed interviews with fisherman in the village, it introduces the human effects of illegal fishing on both communities and people. The documentary is framed in the context of the 2004 Indian Ocean Earthquake which devastated the coast, destroyed vast tracts of coral, and led to a decrease in fish stocks. Through interviews with fishermen who lost limbs through fish bombing, this documentary portrays the harsh reality and anxieties some fishing communities presently face in the region.

LIVES UNDER THE RED LIGHTS*FRIDAY 21 JULY / 9.20 – 9.35*Director: Hem Vanna, Cambodia
2013 / 13 minutes

Under the red light focuses on the lives of four persons who work as sex workers in Phnom Penh. Most of them were kicked out from their families and came to live in Phnom Penh and ended up working in the sex industry. This film sensitively deals with the daily discrimination they face. Sex work places them at risk to gang rape, sex violence, drugs and arrests by police. This documentary offers a window onto the lives of these sex workers in modern day Cambodian society.

MORE THAN A TREE*FRIDAY 21 JULY / 10.00 – 10.15*Director: Philipp Danao/ Khin, Myanmar
2014 / 16 minutes

Every year, coastal communities in Rakhine State on the northwestern coast of Myanmar are exposed to the threat of floods and cyclones. Between 2008 and 2011, Malteser International and Mangrove Service Network (MSN) helped two villages in Sittwe Township to plant and grow over 10,000 mangroves thus safeguarding the lives of more than 5,000 people. Punctuated by striking images of the coastal landscape, this short documentary describes the critical importance of mangrove restoration in reducing disaster risks aggravated by the changing environment. It also sensitively shows how in particular, the women of these villages have become an integral part of an eco-vision to protect and help their communities.

MY GRANDPA'S ROUTE HAS BEEN FOREVER BLOCKED

FRIDAY 21 JULY / 10.20 – 10.35

Director: Supaparinya Sutthirat, Thailand
2014 / 15 minutes

In this documentary, Supaparinya Sutthirat takes us on a journey down the Ping River, a waterway that has historically been used for trade. It reflects upon the evolving river-scape comparing the river of now to that of the one that existed during her Grandfather's time. In 1958, the Bhumibol Dam was built, effectively changing the landscape. Sutthirat takes the viewer on a journey down the present Ping River in an attempt to understand the past and observe issues in the present. Using an innovative split screen technique, the video invites viewers to reflect on small weirs, floodgates, and dikes lying sequentially from the source of the river to the Bhumibol Dam while taking the viewer on a boat cruise to contextualize the impact of changes on the river.

ECHOES FROM THE HILL

FRIDAY 21 JULY / 12.05 – 12.25

Directors: Jirudikal Prasonchoom
& Pasit Tandaechanurat, Thailand
2014 / 19 minutes

This documentary focuses on Karen villagers in the Northwest of Thailand, the "Pgaz K'Nyau" (Simple humans), who live in a village without running electricity far from highways. It voices and reveals their way of life, the nature around them, how they think, and how they believe and protect it. Jirudikal Prasonchoom sensitively captures their sacred beliefs and worldview and how they maintain harmony and preserve nature. The documentary juxtaposes their lives with the Thai government's recent attempt to make their forest a national park and build a dam on their land. This documentary explores the tensions that exist between people's relations to the nature around them and the way government attempts to justify development in the region.

SILENCE OF THE SUMMER

FRIDAY 21 JULY / 11.35 – 12.00

Director: Mai Dinh Khoi, Vietnam
2014 / 25 minutes

This documentary introduces different stories on the relationship between human society and the environment in Vietnam. During the summer in the parks of the city, people cannot hear the sound of cicadas and other insects even though it is their mating season. In the countryside, near the rice fields, children cannot hear the vital sounds of nature, as the fields are now sprayed with pesticides and herbicides. In the laboratory, an entomologist collects specimens of cicadas, crickets and other insects, fearing that they might disappear in the near future. This documentary is a poignant reflection on the changes taking place in the Vietnamese landscape.

This is a sensitive documentary about the life of a mother and a daughter portraying the trials of a mother and her relations with people around her.

CROSSING THE LINE (ICAS 10 SUBMISSION)

FRIDAY 21 JULY / 16.30 – 18.15

Director: Anita Barar, Australia

2007 / 75 minutes

In 1947 when British gave freedom to India, a line drawn on the map of India gave birth to a new nation - Pakistan. The division resulted mass killing and forced migration of tens of thousands. The generation old bonds disappeared and brutal attacks against humanity were witnessed. The feature documentary film 'Crossing the Line' documents the cultural memories of this partition and the human factor of borders and boundaries, politics of divide and the notion of identity by a few seniors living in Sydney of both the countries who crossed the border. It is a film about seniors' longing for their roots, their nightmares, their friendship, their quest and about a tragedy, which humanity had gone through.

DEDICATED TO GRANDPA DIEU

SATURDAY 22 JULY / 9.20 – 9.45

Director: Hien Anh Nguyen, Vietnam

2015 / 25 minutes

This documentary depicts the everyday life of an elderly person, Mr. Dieu, in busy Hanoi city. He leads a simple life in a modest house with a blue wooden door on a small corner of a busy street. The documentary focuses on Mr. Dieu – a man with strong ambition – who used to work as a freelance interpreter at the UN High Commissioner for Refugees in the mid-1960s. He works very hard, translating books he likes, but he has never tried to publish any of them himself.

MICHAEL'S

SATURDAY 22 JULY / 9.50 – 10.20

Director: Kunawut Boonreak, Thailand
2015 / 30 minutes

Among the different economic and religious networks that exist in Mae Sot district, a city along Thailand-Burma border, 'Michael Rofik' and 'Michael Mohamad' Yameen two Rohingyas, have been struggling for their livelihood while trying to maintain their Rohingya identity. The two Michaels come from the same ethnic group but their economic status and background differ. This story takes place in Mae Sot and Umpiem Refugee camps. Although both migrated a long time ago, they do not belong to either Thailand or Myanmar.

NYALON

SATURDAY 22 JULY / 10.23 – 11.00

Director: Ima Puspita Sari, Indonesia
2015 / 37 minutes

For many years husband and wife, Dini and Kardi, who cut hair in their own respective hair saloon in Wates village, Central Java have many loyal customers who often talk freely about family gossips, local politicians and even national politics. We can see and hear blunt, honest opinions of the customers about the chaotic presidential campaign and its divisive election. At the end of the day it seems like not a bad idea to learn about politics in a hair saloon.

SWEET MEDICINE (ICAS 10 SUBMISSION)

SATURDAY 22 JULY / 11.35 – 13.15

Directors: Juul Op den Kamp, the Netherlands and Ralph Pulanco, the Philippines
2017 / 75 minutes

"Sweet Medicine" follows Leo, who is a dealer of First Vita Plus, a multilevel marketing company in the Philippines that sells herbal food supplements. The documentary shows how in Palawan, where one third of families live in poverty and cannot feed their children well, Leo tries to convince people to buy First Vita Plus to treat and prevent all kinds of health conditions. Charismatic officials of the company suggest that Leo can become a millionaire if he works hard in recruiting new dealers and selling the product, while the government warns that the food supplements have no proven therapeutic value, and that they lack facilities to guarantee quality of these products. The film is a product of the ChemicalYouth project, funded by the European Research Council, and led by Anita Hardon. The film was made with a research team and crew from Palawan.

CALALAI IN-BETWEENNESS

THE ART OF THE CHAMPA KINGDOM: MEETING POINT OF MARITIME AND OVERLAND TRADING ROUTES IN ASIA

Royal Museum of Antiquity, Hue, Vietnam

Contact person: Huynh Thi Anh Van

The maritime trade was once the main economy of the Champa Kingdom (nagara Campa). Based on a coastline of more than 1000 kilometres long from Quang Binh Province to Binh Thuan province, the Cham people (urang Campa) have built a system of seaports to receive international merchant ships, which helped to facilitate the import-export activities of the region. These activities were important part of the "marine silk road" in connecting East Asia (China, Japan) with South Asia (India) and West Asia (Arabian countries) as well as neighboring states in Southeast Asia. Moreover, Champa Kingdom was also the last stopover of the overland trade routes connecting the other minor states in the Mainland Southeast Asia with the international marine trade route in the East Sea/Nan Hai which Arabian traders called "Champa sea" from the VIIIth century. In that context, the art of Champa Kingdom became the meeting point of the maritime and overland trading route in Asia. Some examples from the Section of Cham antiques (Hue Museum of Royal Antiquities, Vietnam) are taken as evidences in this exhibition.

SIAMESE JOURNEY IN MALAYSIA

Thai Studies Program, Department of Southeast Asian Studies, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, University of Malaya

Contact person: Mala Rajo Sathian

A Siamese Journey in Malaysia is a visual presentation of the outcome of a research aimed at documenting the history, cultures and identities of Thai (or Siamese) communities living in the northern Malaysian states of Kedah, Penang and Perlis, that partly border south Thailand. The photos capture the faces and voices of the Siamese in north Malaysia and show the significance of the community, as representing another minority group within the larger multi-ethnic society of Malaysia. About 70 photos covering seven major themes of the Siamese community and their heritage in Malaysia is showcased. The themes are:

1. Chronicling the Past: A Siamese History in Malaysia
2. Community
3. Dancing and Performing Arts
4. Renewal and Blessings: Songkhran and Khao Phansa
5. Thai temple and Architecture
6. Thai language through temple schools and Thai Oracle through Samut Khoi
7. Legacy of Thai Elite in Malaysia

The north Malaysia- south Thai border zone is indeed a region of vibrancy, diversity and inter-connectedness. Located within this realm of the Thai and Malay worlds are the Siamese communities on the Malaysian side of the border, who are mostly Thai speaking and followers of Buddhism living among neighborhoods that are predominantly Malay and Muslim. This photo exhibition informs us of their lived identities and heritage. The hybrid space encompassing both these worlds serve as a "living bridge" of the past and future relations between Thailand and Malaysia.

KINGDOM'S EDGE

Contact person: Richard Humphries

Kingdom's Edge represents British photojournalist Richard Humphries' eight year journey documenting Thailand's deep south region. Through his book of the same name, and this collection of 15 colour photographs, Richard, a fluent Malay speaker, examines the complex intricacies and subtle incongruities of daily life in South East Asia's deadliest conflict. Moving away from the mainstream media's monotonous coverage, Richard has found a region that teems and bustles with life and culture. It is a region of trade and commerce, of young people and free wifi, of tea shops and markets. A place where tudong clad girls ride four on a motorbike, where twice a day people freeze on the spot to the sound of the national anthem, and where the call to prayer fills the air five times a day. It is a complex society that is both Muslim and Buddhist, Malay and Thai. It is both old and youthful, calm and restive. It is a place that has more in common with Kuala Lumpur than distant Bangkok. Through this visual narrative Richard presents a timely and alternative view from one of the world's most underreported conflict zones, a largely forgotten pocket of territory at the farthest edge of the Kingdom of Thailand.

IN SEARCH FOR A JOB - ANY JOB

Contact person: John Hulme

The past thirty years has seen an ever-increasing global restructure of production and investment as capital moves freely from industrial centers in Europe and North America to countries with the cheapest labour. This, in turn, has produced vast numbers of migrant workers. But the free movement of finance capital stands in stark contrast to the plight of the millions of legal and so-called "illegal" migrants throughout the world who are confronted by a myriad of border controls, racist legislation and other measures blocking their efforts to escape poverty, famine, political repression or war. Illegal migrants scuttling across borders is a scene repeated daily in Europe and the Americas, Thailand, of course, is no exception with an estimated one and a half million migrants from Burma, now known as Myanmar, entering the country since the mid-1980s. In Search of a Job-any Job and the hope of a better life for their families. Internal conflict and human rights abuse by the military led government have accelerated this process. But life in Thailand for Burmese migrants brings new difficulties. More than half of these mainly young workers are undocumented, forced to eke out a living on rock bottom wages and in constant fear of deportation. They are employed in dirty, dangerous and difficult jobs in Thailand's fishing and construction industries, rubber plantations, dockyards and shrimp farms, as well as providing cheap labour for the tourist industry. Over the past eight years, I have been making regular visits to Thailand's western border with Burma, to record the plight of some of these desperately poor workers and their families. "In Search of a Job-any Job" is a selection of this work and one that hopefully reminds us of the difficulties facing migrants in every country.

CHILDREN ON THE MOVE

Coalition of NGOs working with children in Chiang Mai and Bangkok

Contact persons: Sudarat Suwannarat, Perada Suponpun
Traditional Thai brothels were as much a part of the Thai landscape as beautiful temples and rice fields. Although modern day sex workers are more varied (from street walkers to exotic dancers to massage girls to bar attendants) and more hidden (with services increasingly arranged for online) they exist nonetheless. Many would like to deny this "dark side" of Thai society. However, acceptance of its reality is an important step in combatting its harmful effects. Recent developments in the commercial sex industry include the trafficking and abuse of young girls and boys. Associated with this trend is the growth of online child exploitation (the use of technology to record victimization/create explicit material for sale, distribution, or for use in threatening the victim). We hope that participants who experience our exhibition will increase their awareness and understanding of these issues, and be prompted to take further action in their communities.

POPULATION AND AGING SOCIETY IN THAILAND

Mahidol University

Contact person: Suchada Thaveesit

Age structure of the population in many countries is changing into a more ageing society. This demographic phenomenon is a consequence of declining fertility and increased longevity. Thailand reached the demographic criteria for being labeled an "aged society" in 2005, when the proportion of the total population age 60 years old and over reached 10%. In 2016, Thailand had a population 64.4 million, with 9.8 million age 60 years old and over (15.2%). The proportion of the older population has increased rapidly. It is estimated that in the year 2019 older persons will for the first time outnumber children. Moreover, Thailand will become a super-aged society in 2031 when 28% of population will be elderly. These posters show the population aging in the world, ASEAN, and Thailand in 2015, including the situation of the Thai elderly, quality of life and wellbeing of the Thai elderly.

WATER & LAND IN THE MEKONG REGIONContact person: Tom Weerachart

What would happen if the Mekong river stopped flowing tomorrow? This is a scenario that could possibly happen to millions of people relying on the Mekong river after decades of exploitation and trial and error in governing the Mekong by different actors from upstream to downstream countries. The Mekong exhibition puts together stories from the beginning of the Mekong river to the mouth of the river, across China, Myanmar, Laos, Thailand, Cambodia and Vietnam. It aims to capture the Mekong phenomenon in the past years by looking closely at socio-cultural ecology, local livelihoods, development and the impacts and the struggles and movement of affected people in seeking justice for the Mekong river. The exhibition presents three thematic stories:

1. The River presents stories of lives, culture, ecosystem of the Mekong people from upstream to downstream.
2. The Devastation reflects problems and impacts of regional development trend such as hydropower development, rapids blasting and water diversion that affects the environment and the human rights of local people.
3. The Movement recognizes the struggles to protect the Mekong river and the local and regional social movement to seek justice for the Mekong and those impacted.

FOOD SYSTEM IN ASIA: FOCUS ON THE GLOBAL SOUTH CO-ORGANIZING THE EXHIBITION WITH SOCIAL MOVEMENTS AND LOCAL GROUPSContact person: Niabdulhafar Tohming

By examining food systems, we uncover a number of crucial challenges facing our society and natural environment. Food systems encompass the governance of land and natural resources, the rights of communities and workers, and the broader economic model and state policies. They also point to the rise of corporate power and the rapid destruction of our environment and traditional ways of living. In recent years, local food systems in Asia have come under threat on a number of fronts. We are witnessing the conversion of rural spaces into land for development/investment projects; the introduction of policies on forests, land and rivers that threaten traditional livelihoods; and the industrialization of food production. Domination and control of markets by large-scale agricultural and food corporations also pose a danger to small-scale food producers and farmers. The working conditions of labourers in the food industry, both in the formal and informal sector, are greatly deteriorating. However, people across Asia are coming together to fight these threats and defend small-scale, sustainable food production. This exhibition aims to show the importance of nature as a source of food and life, local food cultures and traditions, and peoples' struggles to protect and promote sustainable and traditional food systems. The exhibition will be divided into five sub-themes:

1. Local/Traditional Food.
2. Forest Food.
3. Land for Food.
4. Food Workers.
5. Reclaiming the Food System.

The exhibition will comprise about 20 photos and short videos on related issues. The exhibition space will be decorated with local foods and agricultural products.

THONBURI 250 YEARS

Thonburi Local Group

Contact person: Paranat Suksut

With its 250th anniversary this year, Thonburi, once the kingdom’s capital for 15 years, is being commemorated for its contribution. Historically, this riverside city has been settled long before. And, even without its absent role as the state’s administration hub in the present, its urban living spirit still continues and will absolutely live on. Despite its location on the different side of Chao Phraya river, in comparison to Bangkok’s main area, Thonburi gradually flourishes on its own manner. Its pace is without hurry, but with abundant soul of humanity. For instance, tiny orchards can be nestled behind myriads of shop-houses and sprouting mega-store. Unfortunately, today, Thonburi is in its turning point. Mushrooming mass-transit network introduces rails into the areas, once an orchard zone. Agricultural land plots shrink. Those running fruit and vegetable farms move out. They cannot cope with the soaring land price and the bombarding gentrification. Even old architectures like temples and palaces get affected by this drastic change.

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT IN RESEARCH UNIVERSITY

Research Administration Unit (RAC), Chiang Mai University

Contact persons: Avorn Opatpatanakit, Khun Pai

This exhibition will elaborate area-based and issue-based research initiated by Chiang Mai University in five major sites in Chiang Mai province, highlighting issues related to the city of Chiang Mai (urban issues e.g. smog, waste management, green and clean city, healthy city etc.), community development and other emerging issues. Community based research via participatory methods are applied and linked to both teaching and extra-curricular activities for students in the university.

COMMUNITY/SOCIAL ENGAGEMENT IN RESEARCH UNIVERSITY

Ratchamonkol Technology University of Lanna

The northern region of Thailand has long been known for its rich natural resources for producing unique handicraft. Communities of both lowland and mountainous terrain possess traditional skills of weaving natural materials into tools used for their everyday life activities. With the influx of modern plastic goods and change in agricultural pattern, handicrafts became outdated and making crafts unfeasible to continue. Rajamangala University of Technology Lanna (RMUTL) and King Mongkut’s University of Technology Thonburi (KMUTT) have played a vital role in revitalizing the handicraft in local communities as supplementary income and communities’ identities. For more than 3 decades, Assoc. Professor Vassana Saima of the Faculty of Art and Architecture at RMUTL has researched various weaving skills and technique from numerous villages in Chiang Mai region. Her work of redesigning bamboo basketry into organic-formed chandeliers has been displayed in international arenas. Latest efforts include the collaboration with Asst. Professor Woranooch Chuenruedeemol and Nanthana Boon la-or from the School of Architecture and Design, KMUTT, in designing bamboo products from the villages of Kai Noi in Mae Taeng and village of Tha Nue in Mae On District of Chiang Mai.

CORNELL'S ETHNOGRAPHY IN NORTHERN THAILAND

Contact person: Prasit Leepreecha

These photos of some tribal groups (Hmong, Lahu, Lisu, Akha, Mien) and Khon Muang (northern Thai) in Chiang Mai and Chiang Rai provinces are selected from the collections of Suthep Soonthornpasuch and Lucien and Jane Hanks'. The three researchers took these pictures during the two surveys of hill tribe villages in Northern Thailand in 1964, as part of the Bennington-Cornell research team. Suthep was a research assistant while main researchers were Lucien Hanks, Jane Hanks, Lauriston Sharp, Ruth Sharp, and Edward van Roy. During January – March 1964, the research team conducted a survey of hill tribe villages near the Chiang Dao Hill Tribe Resettlement and Development Center in Chiang Mai province. The survey's main task was to verify these villages' locations and names as initially appeared in the military map. In addition, the team also collected demographic data, and socio-economic, cultural and political information. During April – June 1964, the research team moved to survey hill tribe villages near the Mae Chan Hill Tribe Resettlement and Development Center, and along the Mae Kok River in Chiang Rai province.

IN MEMORY OF KING BHUMIBOL ADULYADEJ: THE UNITED STATES AND THAILAND, AN ENDURING FRIENDSHIP

U.S. Consulate General Chiang Mai

In remembrance of His Majesty the late King of Thailand Bhumibol Adulyadej, U.S. Mission Thailand presents a series of photos reflecting some historic moments of the enduring friendship between the United States of America and the Kingdom of Thailand. During his reign, the late King visited the United States twice: in 1960 and 1967. During the King's first visit, President Dwight D. Eisenhower hosted a state dinner in His Majesty's honor and received him in the Oval Office for a private consultation. Of the fourteen speeches the late King gave during the trip, the most remarkable was his address to the U.S. Congress on "mutual goodwill and close cooperation between our two countries." In 1966, Lyndon B. Johnson became the first President of the United States to visit Thailand. Four other U.S. presidents – including Presidents Nixon, Clinton, Bush, and Obama – have since paid state visits to America's oldest friend and ally in Southeast Asia.

Key Online Resources in Asian Studies

Encyclopedia of Chinese Language and Linguistics

Editor-in-Chief: Rint SYBESMA

Associate Editors: Wolfgang BEHR,
Yueguo GU, Zev HANDEL, C.-T. James HUANG
and James MYERS

In more than 500 articles, written by major specialists in the field, the Encyclopedia of Chinese Language and Linguistics offers a synthesis of the most important research in Chinese linguistics and up-to-date bibliographical coverage. It provides authoritative treatment of all important aspects of the languages spoken in China, today and in the past, from many different angles, as well as the different linguistic traditions in which they have been investigated.

Mobilizing East Asia Online Newspapers, magazines and books from the 1900s-1950s

Advisor: Peter O'Connor

Advisory Board: Robert Bickers
and Rana Mitter

Mobilizing East Asia offers a carefully selected collection of extremely rare, many times even unique English-language newspapers, magazines and pamphlets published in Asia, following the descent into war in East and South-East Asia from the turn of the twentieth century to the 1950s. This exciting collection of newspapers and illustrated magazines, often in colour, is now available online for the first time, exclusively from Brill. The Collection offers access to unique primary source material which can be used to pursue research topics in modern history, Asian studies, politics and war studies.

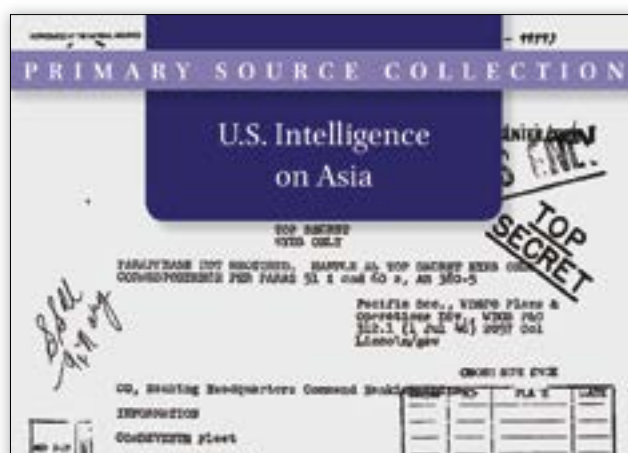

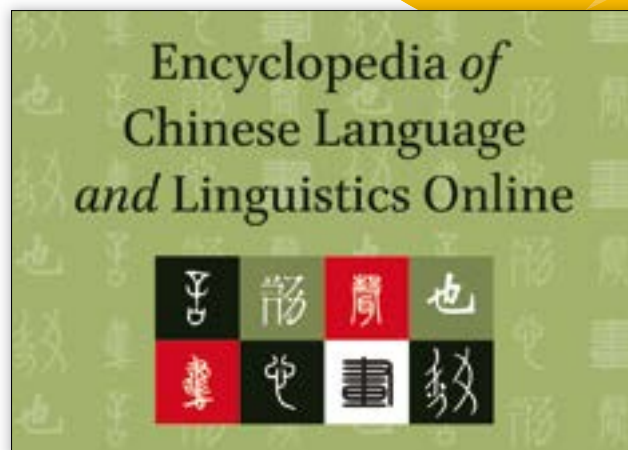

U.S. Intelligence on Asia, 1945-1991

Editor: Matthew M. Aid

Number of documents: 4,285

Number of pages: ca. 23,500

This unique online collection provides students and researchers with the declassified documentary record about the successes and failures of the U.S. intelligence community in the Far East during the Cold War (1945-1991). Particular emphasis is given to America's principal antagonists in Asia during the Cold War era: the People's Republic of China, North Korea and North Vietnam. However, countries such as Japan, Taiwan, Indonesia, Thailand, the Philippines, Malaysia, Singapore and Australia are covered as well.

CSEAS

CSEAS is Japan's premier research Center for Southeast Asian Studies (CSEAS), Kyoto University. Founded in 1963, the Center has been committed to research in the region and conducts transdisciplinary cutting edge research across a broad range of areas. CSEAS is oriented toward life-oriented research approaches attuned to region diversity and forming academic networks that deal with transnational issues.

RESEARCH

CSEAS offers scholars and post-doctoral researchers opportunities for interdisciplinary and international research. Its renowned fellowship program offers a space to conduct research and exchange ideas in a rich research environment.

PROJECTS

CSEAS promotes large-scale projects and is a founding member of the consortium for Southeast Asian Studies in Asia (SEASIA) (est 2013). It currently runs the Japan-ASEAN platform for transdisciplinary studies (2016-21) and the Japan-ASEAN Science, Technology and Innovation Platform: Promotion of Sustainable Development Research (JASTIP)(2015-19), among others.

LIBRARY

CSEAS houses one of the most comprehensive collections of materials on Southeast Asia in Japan. With over 250,000 items including special collections and original materials in vernacular languages, the library is an essential foundation for the promotion of research activities. It also receives visiting librarians as foreign fellows.

NEW TEXTBOOK ANNOUNCEMENT

Richard T. Griffiths, Revitalising the Silk Road, China's Belt and Road Initiative, Leiden, May 2017, 240pp, pbk.

This is the most comprehensive and up-to-date account of the OBOR initiative, launched in Autumn 2013.

Individual chapters describe developments in each of the six overland corridors as well as in the maritime silk route. The book takes the initiative at face value and analyses it as a development strategy. It also examines the difficulties experienced in its implementation and makes recommendations for its improvement.

Asian Studies in Asia

COMPARATIVE ASIAN STUDIES PHD PROGRAM

Officially launched in 2013, the Comparative Asian Studies (CAS) PhD program was founded as part of a broader initiative to position the National University of Singapore as a leader in global Asian Studies. Attuned to Asia's interconnectedness and its deepening integration at the local level, the CAS PhD program was established in recognition that future thought leaders would require a thorough understanding of Asian dynamics in breadth and depth.

LEARNING

One of the program's distinctive features is its attention to inter-Asian connections across regional boundaries and cultural zones. Our specially tailored curriculum provides an innovative, interdisciplinary training for students interested in the critical analysis of the myriad links that span Asia's regions and sub-regions.

COMMUNITY

Housed within a robust Asian Studies Division and complimenting existing PhD programs in East, Southeast, Northeast and South Asia, the CAS program is part of a vibrant intellectual community that is a pillar of graduate studies in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences.

LOCATION

The opportunity to experience Asia from the inside-out, rather than gazing at it from afar, provides a nuanced understanding of the region's dynamics and global trajectories. Our position within and proximity to Asia's many regions constitutes a distinct advantage for students in the CAS PhD program who are excited by the prospect of working and living in the field.

We look forward to you joining us in Singapore & becoming a member of the Asian Studies community at NUS.

Visit our website at <http://www.fas.nus.edu.sg/cas>.

RESEARCH INSTITUTE ON CONTEMPORARY SOUTHEAST ASIA

www.irasec.com

The Irasec (Research Institute on Contemporary Southeast Asia) is a French research center in Social Sciences and Humanities based in Bangkok. Irasec researchers develop strong partnerships with academic institutions in Southeast Asia and collaborate with an extensive network of researchers all over the world. Students working on Southeast Asian countries can take part in the activities of the Irasec as fellows and trainees.

The main objective of Irasec is to develop knowledge of the Southeast Asian region and to analyze the major developments that affect individually and collectively the Asean countries and Timor Leste. Country studies on specific issues and transnational studies from comparative perspectives are produced by French and international experts from various academic fields. Irasec is involved in editing and publishing in French and English and copublishes books with international academic editors. It also provides free access to its online publications.

Land and Development in Indonesia: Searching for the People's Sovereignty

edited by John F McCarthy and Kathryn Robinson

US$29.90 9789814762083

The contributors to this volume assess progress on these issues through case studies from across the archipelago: from large-scale land acquisitions in Papua, to asset ownership in the villages of Sulawesi and Java, to tenure conflicts associated with the oil palm and mining booms in Kalimantan, Sulawesi and Sumatra.

From Traders to Innovators: Science and Technology in Singapore since 1965

Goh Chor Boon

US$24.90 9789814695787

Today, more than ever, the state of a country's science and technology is a critical factor for economic competitiveness and long-term growth. This book traces the development of science and technology policies and initiatives in Singapore since 1965.

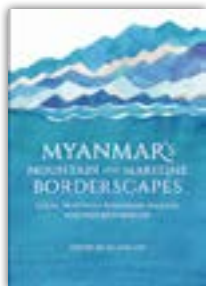

Against All Odds: Singapore's Successful Lobbying on the Cambodia Issue at the United Nations

Barry Desker

US$9.00 9789814762502

Vietnam's invasion and occupation of Cambodia on 25 December 1978 shattered the peace in Southeast Asia. The geo-political fabric of the region could have changed forever if nothing was done to oppose the invasion. Leading the charge was tiny Singapore, with her diplomats spearheading the thrust.

Myanmar's Mountain and Maritime Borderscapes: Local Practices, Boundary-Making and Figured Worlds

edited by Oh Su-Ann

US$45.90 9789814695763

This edited volume adds to the literature on Myanmar and its borders by drawing attention to the significance of geography, history, politics and society in the construction of the border regions and the country.

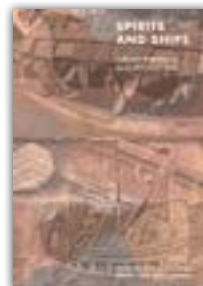

Investigating the Popularity of Surabaya's Mayor Tri Rismaharini

Ulla Fionna

US$7.00 9789814786041

Indonesia's decentralization and direct local elections have produced several credible popular local leaders. One of them is Surabaya's mayor, Tri Rismaharini (Risma), who gained much attention for her impressive work ethics and her commitment in improving the city.

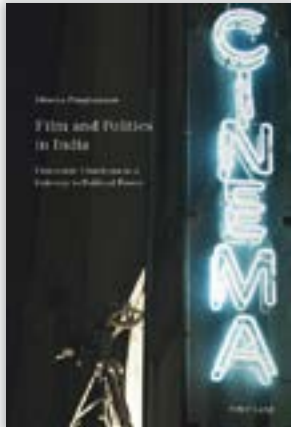

Spirits and Ships: Cultural Transfers in Early Monsoon Asia

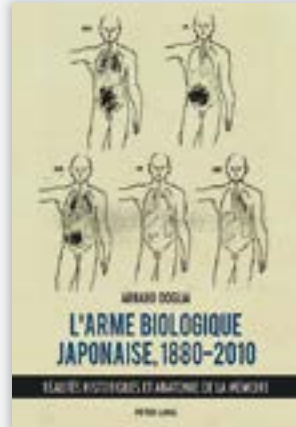

edited by Andrea Acri, Roger Blench and Alexandra Landmann

US$54.90 9789814762755

This volume seeks to foreground a borderless history and geography of South, Southeast, and East Asian littoral zones that would be maritime-focused from the early historical period to the present.

Book Series Asian Cultural Studies Edited by Koichi Iwabuchi

This series aims to advance transnational intellectual dialogue over diverse issues that are shared in various Asian countries and cities. While the examination of cultural issues in a particular socio-historical context is crucial, trans-Asia perspectives will further enrich such investigations by giving a fresh insight from other Asian experiences and through the consideration of transnational connections.

SOUTHEAST OF NOW: DIRECTIONS IN CONTEMPORARY AND MODERN ART IN ASIA

Editors: Isabel Ching, Thanavi Chotpradit, Brigitta Isabella, Eileen Legaspi-Ramirez, Yvonne Low, Vera Mey, Roger Nelson, Simon Soon, and Vuth Lyno

Southeast of Now: Directions in Contemporary and Modern Art in Asia is published twice a year (March and October) and it aims to look and listen closely to the discursive spaces of art in, from, and around the region that is referred to as Southeast Asia, from a historical perspective.

The inaugural March 2017 issue is now available. The next issue (Vol. 1, No. 2, October 2017) will feature articles by Yin Ker, Matt Cox, Fiona Lee, Leonor Veiga, Brian Curtin, S. Sudjojono, Brigitta Isabella, Clare Veal, and Fiona Amundsen.

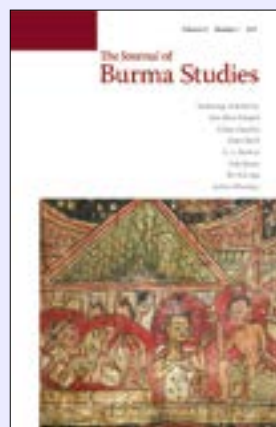

Free digital previews of Vol. 1, No. 1 (March 2017) and Vol. 1, No. 2 (October 2017) are available via Project MUSE (<https://muse.jhu.edu/journal/716>).

CHINA: AN INTERNATIONAL JOURNAL

Editor: Zheng Yongnian

Published quarterly by NUS Press, National University of Singapore, on behalf of the East Asian Institute, China: An International Journal focuses on contemporary China, including Hong Kong, Macau and Taiwan, and covers the fields of politics, economics, society, geography, law, culture and international relations.

JOURNAL OF BURMA STUDIES

Editors: Catherine Raymond, Alicia Turner, and Lilian Handlin

Published twice a year, the Journal of Burma Studies seeks to publish the best scholarly research focused on Burma/Myanmar and its minority and diasporic cultures from a variety of disciplines, ranging from art history and religious studies, to economics and law. The Journal is jointly sponsored by the Burma Studies Group and the Center for Burma Studies at Northern Illinois University.

CENTER FOR SOUTHEAST ASIAN STUDIES at the AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF PHNOM PENH

The Center for Southeast Asian Studies at AUPP brings an innovative and interdisciplinary approach to the study of Southeast Asia at a time of rapid changes in the regional and geo-political landscape. In our complex world, never has global citizenship based on cross-cultural understanding been more important.

The Southeast Asian Studies Minor

Featuring CSEAS scholars from around the world as visiting professors at AUPP, the CSEAS Minor emphasizes an interdisciplinary approach to exploring the pressing concerns of the region through arts and culture, economics, politics, law, and environmental studies.

The Research Hub

The center welcomes faculty, scholars, and graduate students to become affiliates to CSEAS@AUPP while undertaking independent research in Cambodia, and provides office space, access to academic resources and networks, and opportunities for public presentations.

Academic Exchanges

Targeted to undergraduate students outside of Cambodia, CSEAS@AUPP can help to arrange for academic study at AUPP and semester, year-long or summer exchanges.

Immersion

CSEAS @ AUPP can assist in the design and delivery of academic study tours in Cambodia and throughout the region, ensuring study trips are of the highest academic quality and immersion experiences promote cross-cultural understanding. Faculty from visiting institutions can also contact the center about the use of AUPP's state-of-the-art teaching facilities.
