History of the Our Lady of Antipolo

The origin of our Virgin of Antipolo dates back to Spanish era in the Philippines, when galleon trade between the Philippines and Mexico were at its height. On March 25, 1626, Don Juan Nino de Tabora left the shores of Mexico aboard the galleon ship, El Almirante, to make its voyage to the Philippines. Governor Tabora, a devotee of the Blessed Virgin, brought along with him on board the ship, the image of Our Virgin Mother. During this voyage, the El Almirante safely and courageously sailed across the treacherous seas of the Pacific Ocean, arriving in the ports of Manila on July 18, 1626. Governor Tabora realized that the galleon's safe and successful journey was due to the presence of the image of the Virgin Mother on board the ship. Amidst the pompous celebration, pageantry and fireworks, there was a religious procession from the Church of San Ignacio, (the Jesuit Church in Intramuros), Manila, up to the Catholic Cathedral, which became the first house of the Blessed Virgin. Due to the events surrounding the safe voyage of the El Almirante, the Blessed Virgin was named Nuestra Senora de la Paz y Buen Viaje, Our Lady of Peace and Good Voyage.

When Governor Tabora died in 1632, the image of the Blessed Virgin was given over to the care of the Jesuits for the Church of Antipolo. Nuestra Senora de la Paz y Buen Viaje was proclaimed "Patroness of the Galleons."

The statue of Nuestra Senora de la Paz y Buen Viaje was "canonically crowned" on November 26, 1926, by the Most Rev. Michael J. O'Doherty, Archbishop of Manila, at Luneta, Manila, in the presence of thousands of devotees to the Blessed Virgin.

But why was the Nuestra Senora de la Paz y Buen Viaje called Our Lady of Antipolo?

*After the death of Governor Tabora, the Jesuits, who were then constructing a church for Antipolo, decided to build a church in a nearby barrio of Santa Cruz, specifically intended for the Virgin. The attempts by the Jesuit fathers to move the Virgin to Santa Cruz was futile because the image would disappear and was always found perched on a branch of a 'tipolo' tree (artocapus incisa), which grew in the original site of the old church. Because of these manifestations, a pedestal was carved out of the 'tipolo' tree, and thus the Virgin became locally known as the Virgin of Antipolo.*

During the Japanese occupation, the Virgin of Antipolo was evacuated to the mountains of Angono and Santolan. For a period of time, the image was housed in the Ocampo residence at Quiapo, until it was transferred to the Quiapo Church and stayed there until October 15, 1945, when it was finally transferred to its original and permanent sanctuary at the Church of Antipolo. Every year, devotees celebrate and commemorate this transfer with a procession known as the "Alay Lakad." This procession starts from Quiapo Church at around 8:00 pm (30th of April), winding up at the National Shrine of Antipolo Cathedral around dawn of the following day (1st day of May)

Rosary Prayers – Glorious Mystery

MEMORARE

Remember, O most Blessed Virgin, that never was it known, that anyone who fled to Thy protection, implored Thy help, or sought Thy intercession, was left unaided. Inspired with this confidence, we fly unto Thee, O Virgin of Virgins, our Mother. To Thee we come, before Thee we kneel, sinful and sorrowful. O Mother of the Word Incarnate, despise not our petitions in our necessities, but in Thy mercy, hear and answer them. Amen.

PRAYER TO OUR LADY OF PEACE AND GOOD VOYAGE

O Lady of Peace and Good Voyage, Virgin of Antipolo, look kindly upon the needs of your children, as we journey to our home in heaven. For you, O Mother, know full well what it is to travel on the road.

From that room in Nazareth where you received the joyful news from the angel, Gabriel, you taught us the generosity of a Christian obedience that surrenders and entrusts all to Divine Providence.

In your journey to that stable in Bethlehem on that first Christmas night, you taught us how to treasure in our hearts the overwhelming graciousness of Our Father.

In your flight to Egypt, with your newborn, you taught us the quiet courage that springs from a firm faith in God, even in the face of great danger and suffering.

In that sorrowful climb up to Calvary on that fateful Friday afternoon, you taught us how a human love can rise to greater heights by self-giving and forgiveness when transformed and united to ineffable Divine Love.

O Mother, you give us so much hope and encouragement by your example of filial love and discipleship. As you accompanied Christ in your journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem, from Egypt to Galilee and finally to Calvary, you discovered the loving presence of God in ever new ways.

O Mother, as we undertake our own journey on this road, accompany us in our discovery of God in our lives and in the lives of other people. Make us see with the eyes of our hearts, and help us to know Him and to grow deeper in His love through life's joys and pains. And at our journey's end, lead us to the doorsteps of heaven and bring us to your Son Jesus who has secured and prepared for us a place in our Father's home. Amen.

Hymn: Salve Regina

oculos ad nos converte.

Et Iesum, benedictum fructum ventris tui, nobis, post hoc exsilium ostende.

First Reading: 2 Kgs 4:42-44 (Proclaimed In Tagalog)

A man came from Baal-shalishah bringing to Elisha, the man of God, twenty barley loaves made from the firstfruits, and fresh grain in the ear. Elisha said, "Give it to the people to eat." But his servant objected, "How can I set this before a hundred people?" Elisha insisted, "Give it to the people to eat." "For thus says the LORD, 'They shall eat and there shall be some left over.'" And when they had eaten, there was some left over, as the LORD had said.

Responsorial Psalm: Ps 145:10-11, 15-16, 17-18

R. (cf. 16) The hand of the Lord feeds us; he answers all our needs.

1. Let all your works give you thanks, O LORD, and let your faithful ones bless you. Let them discourse of the glory of your kingdom and speak of your might.
2. The eyes of all look hopefully to you, and you give them their food in due season; you open your hand and satisfy the desire of every living thing.
3. The LORD is just in all his ways and holy in all his works The LORD is near to all who call upon him, to all who call upon him in truth.

2nd Reading: Eph 4:1-6 (Proclaimed in Tagalog)

Brothers and sisters: I, a prisoner for the Lord, urge you to live in a manner worthy of the call you have received, with all humility and gentleness, with patience, bearing with one another through love, striving to preserve the unity of the spirit through the bond of peace: one body and one Spirit, as you were also called to the one hope of your call; one Lord, one faith, one baptism; one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all.

Gospel Acclamation: Lk 7:16

Alleluia, alleluia, aalleluia!

A great prophet has risen in our midst. God has visited his people.

(Narito at dumating na, isang dakilang propeta, sugo ng D'yos sa bayan n'ya.)

Gospel JN 6:1-15

HOMILY

Nicene Creed

I believe in one God, the Father almighty, maker of heaven and earth, of all things visible and invisible. I believe in one Lord Jesus Christ, the Only Begotten Son of God, born of the Father before all ages. God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God, begotten, not made, consubstantial with the Father; through him all things were made. For us men and for our salvation he came down from heaven,

(bow) and by the Holy Spirit was incarnate of the Virgin Mary, and became man.

For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate, he suffered death and was buried, and rose again on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures. He ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father. He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead and his kingdom will have no end. I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and the Son, who with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified, who has spoken through the prophets. I believe in one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church. I confess one baptism for the forgiveness of sins and I look forward to the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come. Amen.
