Academic Jewish Studies Internet Directory

Academy of the Hebrew Language - The Hebrew Language Institute. Brought into being by legislation in 1953 as the supreme institute for the Hebrew Language, the Academy of the Hebrew Language prescribes standards for modern Hebrew grammar, orthography, transliteration, and punctuation based upon the study of Hebrew's historical development. The Academy's functions are: (1) to investigate and compile the Hebrew lexicon according to its historical strata and layers; (2) to study the structure, history, and offshoots of the Hebrew language; (3) to direct the development of Hebrew in light of its nature, requirements, and potential, its daily and academic needs, by setting its lexicon, grammar, characters, orthography, and transliteration.

Letters to Sala: A Young Woman's Life in Nazi Labor Camps (New York Public Library, Dorot Jewish Division)

An online presentation of the life of Sala Garncarz Kirschner, from 1939 to 1945, through over 300 letters, photographs, and documents sent to and kept by her as she survived five years in seven different Nazi forced labor camps.

Sala Garncarz and her family lived in Sosnowiec, an industrial city of 130,000 in Upper Silesia, Poland, a region noted for coal mining and manufacturing. The Jewish community of 29,000 was largely self-governed. Jewish organizations managed social services such as hospitals, schools, burial societies, and orphanages. In the fall of 1940, Sala's sister Raizel was ordered to report to a Nazi labor camp. Sala, two years younger, volunteered to take her place, believing that the timid, pious, intellectual Raizel would find it harder to adapt. Their parents acquiesced, never suspecting that the six weeks of required labor would become five years of slavery. On October 28, 1940, Sala and her mother joined hundreds of Jews at the Sosnowitz train station.

Leo Baeck Institute

The Leo Baeck Institute New York is a research, exhibition, and lecture center whose library and archives offer the most comprehensive documentation for the study of German Jewish history. It is devoted to studying the history of German-speaking Jewry from its origins to its tragic destruction by the Nazis and to preserving its culture. Dating back almost 2000 years, when Jews first settled along the Rhine, the Jewish communities of Germany, Austria, and other German-speaking areas of Europe had a history marked by individual as well as collective accomplishments in communal organization and welfare, commerce, industry and politics, the arts and sciences, and in literature, philosophy and theology.

One of the most prominent consists of the editions printed in the seventeenth century by Menasseh Ben Israel, who established the first Hebrew printing office in Amsterdam in 1626. In total he printed some 70 odd books, of which the greater part is in the collection of the Bibliotheca Rosenthaliana. Being almost complete, this collection is of great importance to scholars all over the world. Apart from the printed books, the Bibliotheca Rosenthaliana holds 6 autograph letters by Menasseh Ben Israel, which are rare as hardly any letters have been preserved. There is a copper engraving of his portrait by Salmon Italia. There is also an etching by Rembrandt alleged to be representing him but scholars dispute about this until this day.

YIVO Institute for Jewish Research

Founded in 1925 in Vilna, Poland (Wilno, Poland; now Vilnius, Lithuania), as the Yiddish Scientific Institute, the YIVO Institute for Jewish Research is dedicated to the history and culture of Ashkenazi Jewry and to its influence in the Americas. Headquartered in New York City since 1940, today YIVO is the world's preeminent resource center for East European Jewish Studies; Yiddish language, literature and folklore; and the American Jewish immigrant experience. The YIVO Library holds over 360,000 volumes in 12 major languages, and the Archives contains more than 23,000,000 pieces, including manuscripts, documents, photographs, sound recordings, art works, films, posters, sheet music, and other artifacts. YIVO also offers a series of cultural events and films, adult education and Yiddish language classes (including the pioneering Uriel Weinreich Program in Yiddish Language, Literature and Culture intensive summer program begun in 1968), various scholarly publications, research opportunities and fellowships.

Yizkor \(Holocaust Memorial\) Books (New York Public Library, Dorot Jewish Division)

The collection contains numerous resources for community and Holocaust records, including the NYPL's digital collection of 1379 Yizkor and Holocaust Memorial books, accessible online in their entirety (mostly Yiddish and Hebrew).
