Education

A DUTY UPON EVERY MUSLIM

A successful and progressive individual is one who leads a harmonious lifestyle in accordance with the wishes and commandments of the creator.

Islam encourages acquisition of knowledge so as to enable an individual to develop an understanding regarding the expectations from the creator.

Verses of the Glorious Qur’ān and statements of Prophet Muhammad ﷺ (Ahādeeth) are replete with virtues of striving for and acquiring knowledge.

Indeed the acquisition of such an amount of knowledge whereby a believer may develop a basic understanding of responsibilities is compulsory according to the laws of Islam.

Those dedicated individuals who are fortunate enough to devote significant parts of their life to the acquisition of knowledge are also granted much respect by the verses of the Qur’ān and the statements of Prophet Muhammad ﷺ. He ﷺ has declared,

‘Whomsoever Allah ﷻ decrees goodness for, is granted an in depth understanding of Deeni matters.’ (Tirmidhi)

A person cannot truly practice upon the teachings of the Qur’ān and Hadeeth, without first and foremost acquiring an in depth understanding of these sources of knowledge and associated sciences.
