Evaluation of Complementary Feeding in Emergencies IFE 2009	A preliminary scoping review to evaluate existing guidance, training materials and resources related to complementary feeding in emergencies (CFE) to help determine what is now required to fill the gap in training content, the associated implications for developing a specific CFE training resource (CFE module), as well as the requirements for its realization.
e. Guiding Principles for Complementary Feeding of Breastfed child WHO 2001	Scientific and evidence based document detailing the guiding principles for complementary feeding of breastfed child.
f. Guiding Principles for Complementary Feeding of Non-Breastfed child WHO 2005	Guiding principles for complementary feeding of non-breastfed child.
3.3. Management of Acute Malnutrition in Infants
a. MAM Decision Tool GNC 2014	A tool which reviews the current information on MAM to determine which intervention is appropriate for MAM treatment and prevention.
b. Update on Guidelines on SAM in Infants and Children WHO 2013	WHO guideline on prioritized areas for management of SAM in infants and children based on updated evidence and practice.
c. MAMI Project-Technical Review Report 2010
i. Contents	Table of contents and list of acronyms used in the MAMI project report.
ii. Introduction	This chapter provides an introduction to the MAMI project.
iii. Setting the Scene	This chapter illustrates why malnutrition is an important issue particularly for infants under 6 months, what policies are in place currently and what interventions are being carried out to tackle malnutrition.
iv. How Big is the Problem	This chapter highlights the global disease burden attributed to malnutrition and how different ways of measurement affect malnutrition related statistics.

IYCF-E TOOLKIT: Rapid start-up for emergency nutrition personnel

ix. Psychosocial Considerations	A review of available MAMI guidelines.
v. Review of MAMI Guidelines	This chapter presents individual level data on infants <6m gathered from therapeutic feeding programmes (TFPs) and supplementary feeding programmes (SFPs).
vi. Review of Field Treatment	This chapter comprises a review of field experiences on MAMI from qualitative data sources to explore priority areas for improving MAMI outcomes and to identify relevant qualitative issues.
vii. Key Informant Interviews	This chapter is a review of breastfeeding assessment tools used to identify feeding problems and monitor recovery.
viii. Review of Breastfeeding Assessment Tools	This chapter reviews the scientific basis of stimulation activities in the treatment of malnutrition while exploring some key influences of the maternal-child relationship on child malnutrition, especially that of maternal depression.
x. MAMI Considerations	This chapter addresses issues around admission criteria, inpatient and outpatient breastfeeding support in CMAM programs and clinical criteria to identify high risk infants while introducing topics of appropriate therapeutic milk selection and HIV.
xi. The Way Forward	This chapter provides the recommendations made throughout the MAMI report in response to identified gaps, in particular by highlighting key resources, good practices, and complementary initiatives to consolidate and build on.
d. IYCF Integration into CMAM_IFE_2009
i. Facilitators Guide	A training module for trainers to train health workers in integration of recommended infant and young child feeding (IYCF) practices with CMAM.
ii. Handouts	An easy reference to information on IYCF integration with CMAM in the form of hand-outs.
3.4. Micronutrient and Selective Feeding
a. Guidelines on Micronutrient powders 6-23 months WHO 2011	This guideline provides global, evidence-informed recommendations on the use of multiple micronutrient powders for home fortification of foods consumed by infants and young children 6–23 months of age.
b. Guidelines on Vitamin A Supplementation for Children 6-59 months WHO 2011	This guideline provides global, evidence-informed recommendations on the use of vitamin A supplements in infants and children 6–59 months of age for the reduction of morbidity and mortality.
c. Guidelines on Vitamin A Supplementation for Postpartum Women WHO 2011	This guideline provides global, evidence-informed recommendations on the use of vitamin A supplements in postpartum women for the reduction of maternal and infant morbidity and mortality.
d. Guidelines for Selective Feeding WFP 2011	A practical guide to design, implement, monitor and evaluate selective feeding programmes in emergency situations.
3.5. Relactation
a. Relactation Review WHO 1998	A review and guideline on relevant information for health workers implementing programmes that include relactation.
3.6. Maternal Nutrition
a. Technical Note on Maternal Nutrition in Emergencies EC 2013	A technical note summarising the current evidence on maternal nutrition including what is required to support maternal nutrition and where the gaps in knowledge are in addressing maternal undernutrition in emergencies.
b. Maternal Nutrition in Emergencies Reference list EC 2013	A list of references for the technical note on maternal nutrition in emergencies.
