INTRODUCTION :

Jeevan Jyothi School of Nursing is a Christian minority educational institution established and managed by the sisters of the congregation of Jesus, Mary & Joseph. The congregation was founded by Rev. Fr. Mathias Wolff S.J. in 1822. The medical apostolate of the congregation began in India in the year 1904 with the arrival of Seven Dutch sisters at the invitation of his grace J Alen the then Archbishop of Madras. Planted as a mustard seed, the congregation spread its Medical Apostolate to various parts of India. At present the congregation has 4 Colleges of Nursing at Guntur, Dargamitta Hyderabad and Bangalore, Seven Schools of Nursing and two multipurpose Health Worker's Training programme.

Late Rt. Rev. Dr. Joseph Rodericks, the then Bishop of Jamshedpur, invited the Sisters of the congregation of Jesus, Mary and Joseph to establish and conduct a School of Nursing at Jamshedpur. Tata Motors Hospital, which has 404 beds established in 1969 in the Telco Town, offered to provide clinical experience to the student nurses. Thus the idea of the Jeevan Jyothi School of Nursing came into existence. The first batch of G.N.M. student nurses were recruited in January 1986. The school obtained recognition from the Bihar Nurse's Registration Council and the Indian nursing council in the year 1987. And the Mid India Board of Education (M.I.B.E) IN 1997.

The school, together with Tata Motors Hospital, provides good educational facilities and a wide scope for clinical experience to the students.
