ADMINISTRATIVE EMPLOYMENT

- 2010- Present Program Coordinator, Texas A&M-San Antonio Communications-Journalism Program

Responsible for overall operation and development of the Communications-Journalism program. Under my direct supervision, the program has tripled enrollment (to 100 students), secured resources for low-income minority students, and is the only 2-year communications-journalism program at a public institution of higher learning in San Antonio, TX. The academic program was launched in 2009 and currently offers two B.A. degrees: the B.A. in Communications-Journalism and the B.A. in Communications with Photography-Business Administration Emphasis. Upper-division coursework is offered in Mass Media Studies, Journalism, Photography-Business, Digital Media and Public Relations.

Program Coordinator Activities and Accomplishments:

Curriculum Coordination (new course development, revisions, scheduling)

- Establishes new partnerships with leading media corporations including Univision and other major networks and media outlets
- Coordinates production-level skills courses and collaborative projects across multiple course sections
- Researches communications programs and curriculum innovations across the U.S.
- Travels annually to visit programs, meet with deans and faculty to assess sweeping curriculum changes in journalism education
- Proposes new degree plan concentrations and courses

Faculty Management (hiring, contract renewals, annual evaluations)

- Recruits and hires adjunct faculty and lecturers
- Develops annual evaluation protocol
- Performs faculty observations and feedback

Program Recruiting (student recruiting, incentive programs, retention)

- Responsible for highest percentage enrollment growth (64%) in College of Arts & Sciences (Fall 2013)
- Recruits actively from the Alamo Community Colleges; schedules regular site visits to meet with faculty coordinators to process transfer and articulation agreements between institutions
- Schedules open houses and orientation sessions for prospective students
- Establishes recruiting incentives including scholarships

Budget Management (purchasing, maintenance)

- Oversees program budget and purchasing including equipment, software, and supplies

- Attends university budget training seminars/workshops as needed
- Program Assessment (reports and evaluations)
 - Lead Faculty for Institutional Effectiveness Plans (IEP) and Reports (IER)
 - Assesses learning outcomes and addresses proposed changes to syllabi and courses
- Internship Coordination (advisor, director, community relations)
 - Identifies local, regional and national internship opportunities for undergraduate Communications majors
 - Maintains relationships with internship coordinators and regularly assesses intern performance
- Faculty Advisor (student publications, Society of Professional Journalists student chapter)
 - Lead advisor for student publications, including The Mesquite, www.mesquite-news.com
 - Lead advisor for Society of Professional Journalists Student Chapter

Institutional / Educational Collaborations – Collaborations initiated by A&M-SA's Communications program are an outgrowth of the university's mission to create a culture of service and prepare workforce ready graduates and are specifically designed to broaden opportunities for low-income Hispanic students. Collaborations include:

- Educational Pipeline Partnership w/ University of California at Berkeley Graduate School of Journalism (Established 2013) - Undergraduate partnership between A&M-San Antonio and UC Berkeley providing 1-2 Rodgers Fellowships for graduating seniors (or program alumni) to attend the graduate school's annual Open House annually in mid-October.
- Town Hall w/ Texas Public Radio and League of Women Voters (Established 2013) – Undergraduate partnership between A&M-San Antonio and Texas Public Radio station to plan a civic engagement project, including co-hosting city council forums and town halls.
- Undergraduate Reporting Project w/ John S. and James L. Knight Foundation and NOWCastSA.org (Established 2012) - Undergraduate partnership to plan an immersive health reporting project that sheds light on the prevalence of diabetes in South Texas.
- Mobile Newsroom / Texas A&M-San Antonio w/ College of Arts & Sciences (Established 2012) – *Undergraduate partnership between student reporters and the College of A&S to design a collaborative forum with students majoring in History and Political Science to broaden communications students understanding of other disciplinary areas.
