Sanibel Mayor Kevin Ruane was reelected to serve a second term as mayor and Vice Mayor Mick Denham likewise will serve another term in his role on the City Council.

The five-member City Council votes once a year in April to elect one of their own to take on the expanded duties as Mayor and Vice Mayor, Ruane and Denham took new Oaths of Office at the start of Tuesday's City Council meeting at City Hall before conducting other business.

The blockbuster announcement of the meeting was posed by Denham through his water quality campaign discussion.

"We must continue to fight for clean water," Denham said. "All 50 communities now have fertilizer ordinances, but we must go on the offense."

Denham proposes a two-pronged program through legislative channels and an education strategy.

"We have to control all harmful discharges by gaining the authority for local city and county governments to regulate it on a regional basis," said Denham. "We have to show the public that there are alternatives for shoyes@breezenewspapers.com A majority of the Sanibel residents that attended the latest open house on the Alternate Transportation Study as proposed for J.N. "Ding" Darling National Wildlife Refuge were pleased with the revisions.

"It's more palatable," said longtime Sanibel resident Karen Storjohann, who also called the revised proposal "a vast improvement" from earlier studies presented to the community.

The revisions were prompted by several workshops, additional brainstorming, data collection and input from the public since the Alternate Transportation Study was first introduced in May 2007. Representatives who have worked on this study were on hand at the open house to answer questions and give better details on the revisions. There was also a short slide show presentation.

Author to preside over tarpon 'court'

Celebrity author and former fishing guide Randy Wayne White will preside over the fun ceremonies accompanying the "Ding" Darling-Doc Ford's Tarpon Tournament on May 5.

The fishing tournament is based at Doc Ford's Rum Bar & Grille on Fort Myers Beach, where the captains meeting takes place on May 4, and the fishing from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m. on May 5.

White will call the shots in the "Kangaroo Court" for fishing participants wanting to "accuse" another of heinous acts of embarrassment or tomfoolery.

"I will be the judge, the jury, and the executioner," said White with a chuckle. "Anyone can accuse anyone of just about anything, and the fine will be sentenced accordingly. It all goes to benefit 'Ding'. Darling, so it's a great cause."

Registration is now open at www.dingdarlingsociety.org or by calling 239-292-0566. Entry fee is $400 per team of up to four ($100 for extras), 100 percent of which will be distributed as tournament awards.

Renovation completed at The Springs

The management of Shell Point Retirement Community recently completed the construction and renovation of its newest assisted living facility (ALF) called The Springs at Shell Point.

The Springs, formerly known as The Country Inn & Suites, is located at the corner of Shell Point Boulevard and McGregor Boulevard. The recent renovations included the construction of a full kitchen on the main floor, creation of additional common meeting spaces and offices, as well as targeted renovation in guest rooms. The new recre-ation rooms include a cinema, arts and crafts studio, and game parlor.

The renovations took approximately four months to complete at an overall cost of $2 million. The facility has 105 units ready for occupancy.

The facility has passed all final inspections with the Lee County

Building Department, The Lee County Health Department and the Iona-McGregor Fire Department. Once The Springs successfully completes the licensing inspection by the Florida Agency for Health Care Administration residents will be able to start the movein process.

The Springs is the third ALF at Shell Point. The community opened the King's Crown on The Island at Shell Point in 1987, and added The Arbor in The Woodlands at Shell Point in 2005.

"We are excited about the upcoming opening of The Springs," said Rita Southern, director of assisted living and resident support services for the community. "Both the King's Crown and The Arbor remain almost fully occupied and with the increased population of aging retirees in this area, there is a growing need for additional high quality assisted living options in Southwest Florida.'

The location of The Springs at the entrance to Shell Point is less than two miles from the Sanibel Island causeway. This location, in addition to Shell Point's comprehensive resident activities and healthcare services, are just some of the many benefits that residents of the facility will enjoy. The facility's amenities and services include a heated swimming pool, exercise facilities, transportation, dining, 24-hour healthcare staffing, and a professional activities leader who will coordinate high-quality events and activities, educational and entertainment programs, and opportunities for socialization and personal growth.

Thank you To the Editor,

My wife and I have lived on Sanibel since 1990, and have enjoyed virtually every minute, with the exception of the several days of Hurricane Charlie. But even Charlie was eventually tamed by the outstanding efforts of our Sanibel City employees, most especially by the day and night long work of Gates Castle, Director the Public Works Department, and his staff, who all worked diligently quickly getting Sanibel back on its Beach ... so to speak. For 20 years, Gates, with-out fanfare, has been doing the job of keeping Sanibel beauti-ful, safe, and welcoming, to residents, visitors and busi-Gates told me he didn't want a farewell party, and he didn't want any fuss as he

Those of us who have had the PLEASURE of knowing and working with Gates and his excellent staff, understand that Sanibel will sorely miss him as he ventures off to the East Coast to enjoy a well deserved retirement, even though we all realize that he'll continue his good deeds wherever he and his family eventually lay their heads.

To Gates' credit, he has been grooming his replacement for almost a year, thereby ensuring that Sanibel will continue to enjoy the "Gates Legacy of Public Service" in the years to come.

retires, so his wishes will be respected. But, since he didn't expressly forbid a letter on behalf of my family, my neighbors, and all the people of Sanibel, thanking him for his service, we now wish Gates and his family all the very best in the many years to come ... and say "THANK YOU GATES" for being a Great Guy, a GREAT LEADER and always doing jobs ... best described as WELL DONE !!! Legislation needed To the Editor.

On March 9, the 2012 legislative session concluded. Unfortunately, no legislation passed addressing the protection against arbitrary evictions for residents living in assisted living facilities (ALFs).

The need for legislation is apparent – the Governor's Assisted Living Facility Workgroup recommended enacting eviction protections for residents of ALFs, and several legislators proposed bills that included, additional protections for ALF residents from arbitrary evictions. However, lack of protections for ALF residents remains a reality. Why are additional laws

Florida law currently necessary? allows an ALF administrator to relocate or terminate a resident from an ALF for almost any reason, as long as the administrator provides the resident with 45 days' notice and documents the reason. Florida ALF residents, num-bering almost 80,000 cannot challenge their eviction in court even though they rent a unit just like an apartment dweller.

Although many residents have advanced care needs, similar to residents of nursing homes, they lack a process for an appeal of an involuntary discharge. This leaves Florida's elders vulnerable to threats of retaliation.

Because ALF residents do not have basic due process protections from being asked to leave their homes, administrators may decide to relocate a resident for making what may be legitimate complaints to state agencies. involving things like poor care or lack of food. For example, a resident was recently evicted after filing a complaint with the Ombudsman Program. What was the administrator's reason for evicting the resident? "The resident was not happy here." Incidents like these serve as an example to other residents that if they complain, they could be evicted too.

The Ombudsman Program investigated 75 inappropriate ALF eviction complaints and 72 fear-of-retaliation complaints during 2010-11. An even greater number of arbitrary discharges may have occurred, but were not reported to the Ombudsman Program. When a resident is relocated from an ALF, the facility is not obligated to report its action to any governmental entity, no matter the circumstances or the frailty of the resident.

How can ALF residents be protected? We need to pass legislation providing basic due process to ALF residents, including the ability to challenge proposed relocation in a neutral forum and the requirement that a 45days written notice be handed to the resident, and documented as being given. Establish standards for the appropriate relocation of residents, such as changes in medical condition, failure to pay, and behavioral changes necessitating a different setting. Require the ALF to notify the Ombudsman Program of any notice issued and permit a representative of the local ombudsman council to meet with the resident and work with the administrator to resolve the issue, if possible and appropriate.

These recommendations will protect ALF residents from inappropriate evictions, allowing residents to seek redress of any concerns about their care and quality of life without fear of retaliation.

If you would like to work with us to better the lives of all long-term care facility residents, please contact 1-888-831-0404 visit OF ombudsman.myflorida.com to find out how you can volunteer. If you do not have the time to commit to the program, urge your legislators to support positive changes for ALF residents, including protection from arbitrary evictions. Sincerely,

Jim Crochet State Ombudsman Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program

Healthy beach environment is important to Sanibel residents fo the Editor,

At the planning commission meeting on Tuesday, March 27, a consultant (and former planning department employee) stated that the requirement to conduct a beach carrying capacity study was added to the Sanibel Plan in 2006-2007 because the state Department of Community Affairs 2006-2007 insisted on it. A look at Sanibel city records indicates otherwise; the impetus for adding the study requirement seems to have originated with former Sanibel mayor and planning commission chair Carla Johnston, Natural Resources director Rob Loflin, and Sanibel-Captiva Conservation Foundation (SCCF) executive director Erick Lindblad.

In particular, the June 8, 2004, Sanibel planning commission minutes are an interesting read on this subject.

before it is taken to council for endorsement," said Joe Shoffner with Jacobs, the primary consulting firm out of Tampa.

The plan is an effort to reduce vehicle traffic along Wildlife Drive so more people can enjoy it by bicycle and trams that could run on renewable fuel. Elements of the revised plan include improving safety for wildlife crossing San-Cap Road, new connecting trails, enhanced Refuge and Bailey Tract wayfinding, expanded Refuge parking, bicycle rentals at the Refuge and enhancements to Refuge trams and a new Refuge shuttle service. "I was pleased with the responses we received at the Alternate Transportation open house," said Refuge Manager Paul Tritaik. "Most people supported the elements of the recommendation we proposed and thanked us for listening and incorporating public comments from the last meeting.

Tritaik said residents asked good ques-tions on how this alternate transportation will be implemented.

We aim to address (those questions) in the next stage of our planning process, if approved by the City of Sanibel, Lee County and U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service," Tritaik concluded.

Fish House reeling in Sanibel diners

It's called the Sanibel Fish House, but anyone who has dined at Fish House locations on Fort Myers Beach or Bonita Springs will recognize it immediately. Owner Barry Greenfield, who opened the first Fish House in the mid-1990s, wanted to expand his restaurant to the Sanibel market and settled on the vacant building at 1523 Periwinkle Way previously occupied by Mr. T's.

After 14 months of renovations inside and out, the Sanibel Fish House sign went up outside the very day the doors opened

To the left of the hostess stand diners can choose a sports bar area with 10 large screen TVs hooked up to satellite dish offering sports network broadcasts of all the major events with NFL Sunday Ticket coming in the fall.

Open to serve lunch and dinner guests from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week, diners also are seated in three other divided areas of the restaurant.

The same menu serves all three Fish House locations. A range of shrimp, oyster, clam, calamari, conch, wing appetizers and soups, called Fish House Firsts, lead guests to a selection of salads, sandwiches, baskets and Fish House Specialties entree choices with pasta, lobster and other surf and turf dishes.

The Fish House signature, of course, is fresh, locally-caught grouper served blackened, broiled, grilled, jerked, lightly fried or stuffed with a choice of two sides. Another House specialty are the two-for-one rumrunner drinks all day, every day. They also observe happy hour 3-6 p.m. with special pricing on domestic beer, wine and well drinks.

Guests might be compelled to purchase Fish House Tshirts that are on display at the main entrance.

Sanibel Captiva Trust Company (SCTC) founder, CEO and Co-Chairman S. Albert Hanser.

Trust founder a true benefactor

Submitted by Kathleen McClanahan-Gruhl

Websters' Dictionary defines Benefactor as "a person who helps people or institutions (especially with financial help). A photo of Sanibel Captiva Trust Company (SCTC) founder, CEO and Co-Chairman S. Albert Hanser should be placed next to the definition.

Along with Amanda Cross, Hanser is chairing the $10 million fundraising campaign for the Children's Hospital adjacent to HealthPark. Lee Memorial has agreed to name the new emergency department for the Sanibel-Captiva community. The project to build a new freestanding Children's Hospital is expected to cost $191 million. Through the generosity of individuals and organizations in Southwest Florida, more than $40 million has been raised so far.

For the past nine years, SCTC has been the master sponsor of Sanibel-Captiva Cares' island celebration to benefit the Children's Hospital. The latest event, held on March 18 at the Sanctuary Clubhouse, raised more than $475,000 to bring the total raised to $4 million toward the $10 million goal.

"We choose to sponsor most events on the islands because we believe that being a major part of the fabric of the community is really important," Hanser said of the on-going commitment. "We believe in giving back generously and supporting events like Sanibel-Captiva Cares that benefit children. It makes us proud because those children are the lifeblood of the community and the face of the future."

Hanser was a Board member at Abbott Northwestern Hospital in Minneapolis, served as Board Chairman for University Hospital in Minneapolis/St. Paul for six years and Chairman of the Cleveland Clinic in Naples for five years.

He graduated with a Bachelor's degree in economics and philosophy from Brown University in Providence, RI. He went on to earn an executive management degree from the Wharton School of Finance, which led him a 50-plus year career in the investment and banking industries. In 2001, he founded the Sanibel Captiva Trust Company after moving to Sanibel with his wife, Sally, in 1997.

He serves on numerous public, private, civic and philanthropic boards in southwest Florida.

The Hansers have four children and eight grandchildren.

"As grandparents, this hospital is so important to both Sally and me because of a wonderful experience we had almost 15 years ago with Lee Memorial when our grandson was born with numerous health issues," Hanser said. "The care and attention all the Hansers received allows us to smile proudly at the outstanding young man our grandson is today. We can never say thank you enough for those blessings."

Snowtarians will be missed

Friday,

It's happening, season is waning and our Snowtarians are heading back to their residences up North. Sanibel-Captiva Club Rotarians will miss them; they are an important and vital part of our club's success. Snowtarians work shoulder to shoulder with us during season, working on our fund-raising activities and on our on-going club service projects. They bring their vitality and energy to whatever our Club is involved in within the Community and go beyond just attending meetings. We thank-you and hope to see you next season.

Our club is also lucky, that family members and friends of Rotarians and Snowtarians find the Islands a very attractive place to come for vacation. Our speaker line-up has benefited, on more than one occasion, by having either a family member or friend share important and to be our featured speaker of the week. That was the case last Friday morning.

Sam Tucker has a very impressive title as Senior Advisor for the David and Lucile Packard Foundation but his other claim to fame is being the son-in-law of Rotarian, Dick Salerno.

Sam explained that the David and Lucile Packard Foundation (David Packard of Hewitt-Packard) is a private family foundation with approximately 6 billion dollars in assets. This foundation contributes approximately 234 million dollars a year to registered charities within the areas of work in: Conservation and Science, Population and Reproductive Health, and Children, Families, and Communities.

Sam Tucker's work involves grant funding with a focus on conservation work within the 73 million acres of the Colorado Plateau concentrating on: Private Land Protection, the Colorado River, Native American Lands, the Southern Utah Wilderness, and Yampa and White Basins.

'Buying of private lands is for the protection and preserving of natural habitat for the many species of birds, animals and plants in this astoundingly beautiful area. The Colorado River (1450 miles) flows from the Rocky Mountains to the Colorado Plateau and through the majestic Grand Canyons; non-profit organization are funded for work evolved in protecting the Colorado. River. The River is being threatened by increase demand to supply water to the populous of seven states; this drain on water resources is threatening the river's ability to replenish itself. The Colorado is the home of forty-nine species of Native American fish and they must be protected. Building dams and diversions, with water used and reused, create conditions very unfavorable to native fish species. Not only do dams block fish passage, they also reduce spring flows, trap silt, and alter water temper-ature, all to the disadvantage of native species. Further, regulated flow destroys inner canyon beaches and is detrimental to spawning habits of native fish. The introduction of exotic fish poses a further threat to native fish. Four species of native fish are endangered in the Colorado River Basin. In the Colorado River valley between the east end of Lake Mead and the international boundary with Mexico, the river is the principal source of water for agricultural, domestic, municipal, industrial, hydroelectric-power generation, and recreational purposes. The Packard Foundation helps our Native American Indian Tribes (12 Tribes in the Colorado Plateau) preserve and protect their Native Lands. The Foundation also is sup-

Sanibel partners with new soccer club

Global Premier Soccer (GPS) this week launched the Florida Knights Soccer Club to be based at JetBlue Park, which boasts six new Bermuda grass soccer fields.

The Florida Knights are an affiliate of Florida Premier Soccer . (FPS), which was launched in the summer of 2010, bringing a full-time professional soccer organization to the state of Florida.

"The launch of the Florida Knights brings a new and exciting professional youth soccer program to the Fort Myers community," said FPS General Manager Alan Hough. "The multi-million dollar JetBlue Complex provides a world class soccer facility which will be the base of operations for our coaching staff to deliver age appropriate, structured programs."

In partnership with North Fort Myers Knights Soccer Club, FPS will create a new model for a premier club infrastructure by providing full-time coaches, administrative support, technical department and a comprehensive college placement program. The Knights will provide an integrated player development pathway for players aged 3-18 years old and will strive to become the leading player development program in Southwest Florida.

Commencing next fall, Florida Knights will roll out programs which include First Touch Soccer (3-4 years old), School of Excellence (U6-U12), Junior Premier (U8-U12), Premier (U11-U12) & Elite (U13-U18) These programs will complement existing recreational and competitive programs conducted by North Fort Myers Soccer Club.

In addition to the partnership with North Fort Myers Knights, the Florida Knights also have partnered with Gateway Soccer Association & Sanibel Soccer Association & Sanibel Soccer. FPS has secured the services of John Robinson as technical director of the Knights. Robinson brings a wealth of experience as a former professional player in the English Premier League and a National Team player for Wales.

"At the Florida Knights, players will be placed in an integrated system from an early age with a clear development pathway aimed at maximizing the development of each individual within the club," said Robinson. "We will be recognized for our commitment to professionalism and development "

The Knights also will manage and run tournaments at JetBlue Park already scheduled in 2012: Soccerween (October), FPS Fantasy Festival (October-November) and FPS Labor Day Junior Tournament (September).

GPS has successfully developed a host of showcase tournaments including the largest weekend tournament in the US held over Memorial Day in Massachusetts, which has more than 800 teams.

Over the next 3 years, the Florida Knights expect to establish JetBlue Park as a national location for tournaments that will translate to a significant impact on the local economy.

Denham wants to earn regional support for a state bill to take to the next Florida Legislature session.

The idea has roots in fertilizer legislation in recent years as well as the South Florida Water Management District's recent decision to stop all freshwater flow from Lake Okeechobee to the Caloosahatchee River Estuary. SFWMD's decision leads to toxic algae blooms and fish kills in addition to the excessive levels of fertilizer nutrients dumped into our waterways through rainwater runoff.

Denham's details earned preliminary approval of all councilmen as well as several residents who expressed an opinion to the dais.

It is an ambitious undertaking given the fact Denham wants to have appropriate language drafted for the bill by the next council meeting on May 1. With council's backing, he will take it to regional governmental bodies to win their support and line up state bill sponsorship.

"I want this to be a regional thing, not just for Sanibel," Denham said. "The intent is not to make it statewide, but when other regions see and like the idea it surely will spread."

Two proposed trail extensions came before council for approval Tuesday and both the Community Park path at Frannie's Preserve and the Pond Apple Park connection to the Shipley Trail-projects will move forward.

The Community Park path is a half-mile long project at a cost of $5,800. Most of the cost, according to James Evans of the Natural Resources Department, is to construct an information booth and put up signage along the path.

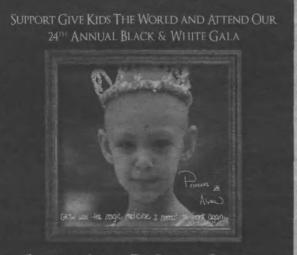

The Pond Apple Park project carries a heftier price tag of $200,000. Boardwalk stretches necessary through wetlands areas helps raise the cost of construction. SCCF, however, has stepped up to share the cost 50-50 with the city, confirmed by SCCF Natural Resource Director Rae Ann Wessel before council. The city also has applied for grants to help cover the cost.

"We can't count on the grants," said Ruane. "We will have to put it in our budget, and more likely send it through two budget cycles."

The city has been offered the opportunity to purchase a parcel of land along Tarpon Bay Road between Sanibel Captiva Road and a vacant former restaurant building that adjoins SCCF Sanibel Gardens preserve property.

Ruane said city staff will be asked to do its "due diligence" to evaluate and assess the property with regard to development or added to the preservation area before "spending taxpayer dollars" in a tight economy.

Council made several appointments Tuesday, including that of John Talmage to Here's another deal from Eddie Kantar's award-win-ning series "Thinking Bridge." "North does well to raise clubs as there may be a stam. In my view, after the four-level, game-forcing club agreement, four diamonds, not four no trump, should be Roman Key-Card Blackwood. Four no trump is clumsy when clubs is the agreed suit and often leads to trouble when two key cards or even one key card and the queen are missing. However, all's well that ends well. "East should signal encouragement at trick one by playing the eight of diamonds. Sometimes the easiest mads to play are 'one-suit problem' deals. This is one of them. The only loser is in clubs and the only thing that can go wrong is 4-0 clubs as the contract is frigid if clubs are 3-1 or 2-2. "Consider the two possibilities. First, East having A are 3-1 or 2-2. "Consider the two possibilities. First, East having A 10 9 2 of clubs. You should see that you cannot do any-thing about that, so forget it. What about West? Now we are talking. If you correctly start trumps with the king of clubs, West is helpless. Say West wins the king, remain-ing with 10 9 2. No problem. Dummy has the Q J 8 and you can easily pick up the remaining clubs with no loser. Playing the king of clubs at trick two is an example of asking yourself, 'what can go wrong?' and doing some-thing about it." According to those minutes, "Chair [Carla] Johnston asked Mr. Lindblad what he suggests the City should do to move forward to conduct a [beach] carrying capacity study and what can be done in the interim to address this issue. Mr. Lindblad said that the City, SCCF and Ding Darling could cooperate on a capacity study and the first thing to do is establish parameters to use for benchmarks. Mr. Lindblad said the SCCF [Marine] laboratory [and Wildlife Habitat staff] has started this work."

However, although the beach carrying capacity study was subsequently established by the City Council as a "goal," minutes from city council's goal setting workshop on April 13, 2006, indicate that the City "did not get a lot done" on the prior year's goal of establishing such a consortium to evaluate beach carrying capacity.

Thanks to the many Sanibel citizens who attended the March 27 planning commission meeting, the City of Sanibel has been reminded of how very important a healthy beach environment is to our sanctuary island and its residents. During the course of the meeting, it became clear that expert volunteer help is available to assist in the study, and that the study is most likely quite affordable.

SCCF and the City have gathered good data over many years regarding wildlife utilization of our beaches but the human-use aspect needs to be assessed. As the City prepares its goals and budget in the coming months, it should find a way to finally make the much-needed beach carrying capacity study happen. After that, annual reporting on the status of the beach environment can help guide decision-making to protect this important environmental and economic resource. Sincerely,

April fishing should be good in the area

April is a month that signals great fishing opportunities on the waters surrounding Pine Island. Sanibel and Southwest Florida for both the inshore and offshore anglers. With sunny skies and warm weather, the month is already off to a good start.

- SPORTS

Offshore, anglers are hooking into a variety of fish including snapper, grouper, kings and cobia. King mackerel or kingfish were reported in 60 to 80foot depths west of Boca Grande, taken while drift fishing with live thread herring and blue runners for bait. No schools were reported just singles spread out around bait pods. Bottom fishing was consistent in the 40 to 60-foot depths west of Captiva and Sanibel for a mix of fish including grunts, porgies, snapper, flounder and grouper. The best bet was to anchor up tide of structure and toss out a chum bag during times of day with a decent tide flow. The best baits were live shrimp and shrimp tipped jigs, plus live thread her-ring dropped back into the chum. A few hog fish up to 5 pounds were also caught west of Captiva on live shrimp fished on bottom.

Grouper'season opened on April 1, the grouper regulations are pretty confusing for those of us who don't fish offshore, so if you aren't sure on what is in season or where you can catch and keep them, go online to http://www.myfwc.com/fishing/saltwater/regulations, before hitting the water. If you are still confused, consult one of our great local tackle shops.

Inshore, weather was great, fishing was good at times and pretty slow at times. That's to be expected during the days each month that we have two tide changes a day resulting in periods of very slow water movement rather than our four tide changes per day (24 hours) that are the normal.

As we move into another month, trout fishing continues steady with fish reported pretty much anywhere there has relatively clear water and a grass bottom. Capt. Gary Clark reports plenty of slot trout from the mouth of the Caloosahatchee River west to Tarpon Bay over grass flats in 4 to 6-foot depths. Fishing live thread herrings under popping corks over grass bottom with sand breaks took fish up to 20 inches. The fish are moving each day so it is often necessary to spend some time moving around to locate the fish each day. Capt. Clark also reports several flounder with one measuring 20 inches, a 23-inch cobia, plus snook to 14 pounds near the mouth of the river.

Capt. Cliff Simer reports periods of slow fishing and periods of good fishing over each day. Live pilchards hooked both snook and trout in Pine Island Sound, plus a few big Spanish mackerel. The snook and trout were taken on the western side near Captiva Pass with the largest trout measuring 25 inches and the mackerel taken at the western end of Captiva Rocks. Redfish were a challenge with a few up to 23 inches caught in south Matlacha Pass under the mangroves on the rising tide.

Fishing the perimeter of Charlotte Harbor, Capt. Ken Honc caught redfish just shy of 27 inches plus trout to 19 inches. The redfish were tucked deep under the mangroves and the trout were along the bar edges in 3 to 5-foot water was moving and fishing was good and at times the water was almost stagnant and fishing was slow. With a sea breeze each afternoon this helped push the incoming water and jump start the bite. We found trout both in Pine Island Sound and Matlacha Pass with our largest measuring just over 24 inches. With a little effort a limit of fish averaging 16 to 20 inches was accomplished in the morning then we attempted to play with snook or reds.

Snook are showing up in decent numbers along shorelines throughout the area with some large ones as well. Our biggest of the week measured 37 inches and was caught and released on a live shiner in north Matlacha Pass. We had to work to catch a redfish with only one or two boated each day averaging 21 to 24 inches in length. The reds were caught either under the mangroves or on sand bottom along the shoreline. Some really nice flounder also showed up this week around Bokeelia. We caught one early in the week that measured 21 inch-> that doesn't sound es like much on paper, but let me tell you that was one big and hard fighting flounder.

> Tarpon and shark reports are beginning to filter in as tarpon were either sighted or hooked in Charlotte Harbor near Bokeelia, in the southern sound east of Chino Island, and just off the Gulf of Mexico grouper species open to harvest in state waters include red, black, yellowfin, yellowmouth, rock hind, red hind and scamp. This harvest season will remain open through Jan. 31. State waters in the Gulf are from shore to nine miles out.

Gulf of Mexico gag grouper also can harvested in state waters only in Taylor, Jefferson, Wakulla and Franklin counties, including all waters of the Steinhatchee River, Apalachicola Bay and Indian Pass. This season is for 2012 only and will remain open through June 30. Gag grouper are open to recreational harvest in Gulf of Mexico federal waters and the rest of state waters (not including Taylor, Jefferson, Wakulla and Franklin) from July 1 through Oct. 31. To learn more about the gag grouper season in the of Mexico, Gulf visit MyFWC.com/Fishing.

Anglers targeting Gulf grouper must use circle hooks and have dehooking devices and venting tools aboard their boats. Anglers targeting vermilion snapper in Atlantic state waters must also have dehooking devices aboard their vessel. Use of these devices helps increase the chance of survival for a fish that is caught and released.

Kevin Vertesch to speak at Sanibel Fish Club meeting

Submitted by Charles Sobczak On April 10, the Sanibel Island Fishing Club will be holding it's monthly meeting at 6:30 p.m. April 10 in the north room of Sanibel Community House, 2173 Periwinkle Way. The featured speaker will begin his presentation at 7 p.m. sharp. There is no admission charge for the event and the angling public (especially tarpon anglers) is cordially invited to attend.

This months featured speaker is the club's very own Kevin Vertesch, who will be giving an in depth presentation on the do's and don'ts of tarpon fishing. His talk will cover topics such as his favorite baits, rods, reels, hooks and all the techniques he uses to catch the elusive silver kings.

He will also discuss where the best locations are to find these fish, from inshore spots off of Picnic Island to Knapps Point, where the tarpon are most plentiful. With the upcoming Doc Ford's first annual tarpon tournament just around the corner, this presentation offers local tarpon hunters a rare opportunity to learn angling techniques from an experienced fisherman who knows how to catch, and safely release, these magnificent game fish.

After his presentation Vertesch will be on hand to answer any questions from the audience regarding tarpon hunting. If you've ever wanted to catch a tarpon, this is your program.

The Sanibel Island Fishing Club meets monthly through season and sponsors several group outings as well as lending support for various fishing related charities and organizations such as START, Lee Reefs and the Sanibel Sea School. For information on joining the club please contact Rol Campbell at 239-472-8994 or attend our next meeting.
