Riverbend

Riverbend is a sixteenth-century English Tudor-style mansion built in 1921 and finished in 1923 as a family residence for Walter Kohler. Walter Kohler served as Wisconsin Governor from 1929 to 1931, thus Riverbend is often referred to as the Governor's Mansion.

Situated on a landscaped rise overlooking a bend in the Sheboygan River, Riverbend was built on a site that was formerly an Indian camp known as Longbend. Riverbend's name was created from a combination of the words Longbend and Riverside (the original name of the Village of Kohler).

It is considered one of the 30 most beautiful homes in the 1930s and is featured in the book Great Houses of America.

Listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1980. The Olmsted Brothers designed Riverbend's landscape. Private membership club opened in 2001; Club and Golf memberships are available. The renovated estate offers 31 guest rooms and occupies 51,042 square feet on four levels. Initiation deposit at time of joining, plus annual dues.

KOHLER GOLF | Kohler, Wisconsin

Whistling Straits®

The facility was named by Herbert V. Kohler, Jr. While walking the land during construction, he noticed the wind was whistling along the shoreline—or straits—of Lake Michigan. The logo is a Celtic Wind God.

Whistling Straits offers two courses of dynamic contrast and world-class prestige designed by Pete Dye. Open, rugged and windswept terrain defines The Straits®, sculpted along two miles of Lake Michigan shoreline. Just inland, interspersed by four meandering streams, The Irish is a deceiving tranquil landscape. The Straits® opened in 1998 and The Irish in 2000.

The Straits hosted the PGA Championship in 2004, 2010, 2015, the US Senior Open in 2007, and will host the Ryder Cup in 2020.

The clubhouse, built in 1998, greets golfers with the warmth and rustic charm found in the Scottish countryside. The restaurant and pub are open April through December. The Champions' Locker Room was built in 2004 to host players of the PGA Championship. The Irish barn, built in 1999, is a pavilion structure with solid stone walls on three sides and an open face toward Lake Michigan and the golf course. It was designed to be used for group functions.

KOHLER GOLF | Kohler, Wisconsin Blackwolf Run®

The facility was named after Chief Black Wolf of the Winnebago Indians (now known as Ho-Chunk Nation).

Over two centuries ago, Chief Blackwolf and his Winnebago tribe resided in the Sheboygan River Valley. Today, melded into that very same river basin formed by the flows of glacial runoff, you'll find The River and The Meadow Valleys at Blackwolf Run®.

Blackwolf Run opened for play in June 1988 and was named that year's "Best New Public Course" in the country by Golf Digest. Regarded as one of Pete Dye's crowning achievements, Blackwolf Run has hosted a number of professional championships: the Andersen Consulting World Golf Championships in 1995, 1996 and 1997 as well as the U.S. Women's Open in 1998 and 2012.

The 39,923-square-foot clubhouse at Blackwolf Run was constructed by Alpine Log Homes of Victor, Montana. The clubhouse is available year-round for meetings, parties and special events and includes three banquet rooms: Treaty Room, Wolf Pack and Bear Clan. The restaurant is open throughout the year for lunch and dinner. Breakfast is served during the golf season.

The Duke's

Despite the Old Course Hotel's unrivaled position on the edge of the famous 17th Road Hole of the Old Course, no hotel has privileged access to the Old Course for which St. Andrews is so famous. As a five-star golf resort, it is essential to be able to offer guests guaranteed tee times on a superb Championship course. The only way to do that was to build our own.

That decided, The Duke's was carefully planned and designed to complement the five classic Links courses along the coastline and to enhance St. Andrew's standing as the leading destination for golfers. Designed by Peter Thomson, five-time Open Champion of the 1950s and 1960s, The Duke's was revised and renovated with five completely new holes by Tim Liddy in 2006. Tim's philosophy is one of allowing a golf course to "grow out of the land" rather than be imposed upon it. The course now displays all the hallmarks of the great heathland courses of the early 1920s.

HRH The Duke of York, Prince Andrew, who played an inaugural round with British Lions and Scottish Rugby Captain Gavin Hastings OBE, opened The Duke's in July 1995.
