We invite you to join us on a four-island Hawaiian cruise you will treasure for a lifetime! Share this relaxing and exciting adventure with family and friends. We depart from Honolulu with destinations that include the spectacular Maui, breathtaking Kona, stunning Hilo and the garden island of Kaua'i.

O'ahu, "the gathering place", has a reputation for having the most consistently beautiful weather. Maui, "the Valley Isle", is a masterpiece of nature. This tropical island has it all! Hawai'i, "The Big Island", is larger than Hawaii's other main islands combined. Kaua'i, "The Garden Isle", is made up of swaying palms, majestic mountains and almost daily rainbows.

Honolulu, O'ahu

Fly to Honolulu, O'ahu and spend a night at your leisure in the Marriott Waikiki Beach Hotel.

This sophisticated capital city blends modern and ancient cultures with the eco-treasures of O'ahu. There is an abundance of historical sites including the Iolani Palace, America's only royal palace. You'll find a wealth of museums, among them Bishop Museum, the foremost museum of Polynesian culture and anthropology. Pearl Harbor, the USS Arizona Memorial, the "Punchbowl" National Cemetery, and the USS Bowfin Submarine Museum offer moving insights into twentieth-century battles. Join a shore excursion to the volcanic Diamond Head Crater, take surfing lessons at Waikiki, see the famous waves along the North Shore, or head to Nu'uaniu Pali Lookout in the Ko'olau Mountain Range.

Maui Beach

Kahului, Maui (Overnight)

Kahului is Maui's only deep water port, yet minutes away are some of the island's most scenic spots. With over three-quarters of its land uninhabited, Maui is like one giant natural park. See hundreds of spectacular beaches, cascading waterfalls, voluptuous jungles bursting with color and bird song, dramatic volcanic craters and small, charming Hawaiian towns. You'll agree, there's nothing on earth quite like it! Humpback whales, who seem to seek out the world's most beautiful places, make this lovely island their breeding ground. So do spinner dolphins and a magnitude of other marine life. Explore Maui's interior, from the fascinating history of the town of Lahaina, to the peak of Mt. Haleakala, to the splendid natural beauty of the sacred `Iao Valley. Drive the winding Road to Hana past jungles of ferns, countless waterfalls, underground caves and pristine lagoons. And still there's more, because the cultural life in Maui is vibrant. Don't miss NCL's exclusive Hoku Nui Lu'au with bounteous feasts of Hawaiian delicacies and sensational shows of song, dance and drama.

Nestled on the majestic western coast of Maui, where some of the island's best beaches can be found, Lahaina is the island's ancient capital. It is from this busy port that island girls once swam out to greet the whaling ships. Today, this quaint laid-back town is still a playground – winding along the coast with museums, restaurants and shops. In the harbor, boats cluster waiting to take visitors on sunset cruises in waters teeming with dolphins and other marine life. Nearby, four-mile-long Ka'anapali Beach glitters with grainy gold sand and bright blue water. Snorkelers and scuba divers will want to head for Black Rock Beach, while up-country Maui unfolds along the breathtaking scenic Road to Hana.

Hilo, Hawai'i

Dominated by the twin peaks of Mauna Kea and Mauna Loa, both over 13,000 feet high, the Big Island of Hawai'i is almost twice the size of all the other islands combined. The mountain peak of Mauna Kea stands at 13,796 ft above sea level, the base of which is nearly four miles below sea level, making its true height more than 33,500 ft (taller than Mount Everest)! Spectacular white and black sand beaches, dramatic cliffs, active volcanoes and even cactus-studded deserts carve the terrain. From the orchid gardens of Hilo to the sun-drenched Kona Coast, this is a place of many wonders, chief among them Hawaii Volcanoes National Park (don't miss your chance to walk on lava!).

Tropical growth is rampant on Hilo: a giant greenhouse on the leeward side of the Big Island of Hawai'i. Waterfalls careen through lush valleys with enough flowers to fill a rainbow. Snow-capped Mauna Kea presides over it all from a lofty distance. Abandon yourself to the area's more languorous tropical rhythms. Picnic under a waterfall, watch for migrating whales, explore world-class botanical gardens, golf on the slopes of a volcano, snorkel in pristine waters or find a shady spot to nibble on local chocolate-coated macadamia nuts.

Kona, Hawai'i

Set on the western coast of the Big Island of Hawai'i, Kona is warm and sunny year-round, offering spectacular sunsets, crystal blue waters, numerous historic sites, abundant wildlife and marine treasures. Kona is a great place to visit the ancient Hawaiian Place of Refuge, walk in a cloud forest, or join a snorkeling excursion to one of the crystal-clear lagoons sheltered by coral reefs where manta rays and rare tropical marine life abound.

Local Flora

Kaua'i (Overnight)

Flame-red flowers of the Wiliwili tree frame the quaint port and welcome you to Kaua'i. Throughout the Garden Isle, you'll find an endless array of exotic spots to visit. Two of the most beautiful include the rainbow-ringed Waimea Canyon (the Grand Canyon of the Pacific), and Hanalei Bay, gateway to the soaring cliffs of the Na Pali coast.

Kaua'i wildlife is incredible! You might see rare endangered sea turtles, playful dolphins, moray eels and yellow tangs swimming in protected coves where you can dive and snorkel. This is the island to take that four-wheel drive mountain safari, soar in a helicopter above the astonishing canyons or golf at Kaua'i – and find heaven on Earth, your style.
