A Message to Shareholders

Dear shareholder,

The global equity markets posted a gain during the six months ended 30 September 2021, despite late period volatility. New variants of COVID-19, China's aggressive tightening of its regulatory policies, and the debt problems of a large Chinese property developer combined to depress sentiment. In addition, the U.S. Federal Reserve and other central banks indicated that they may soon begin to tighten monetary policy to combat inflation. Still, equities held up reasonably well in the face of these headwinds.

Global bond yields declined for most of the period, reflecting investor concerns about the impact of the ongoing pandemic on global economic activity. Late in the period, though, yields reversed course amid accelerating inflation as supply shortages caused by production bottlenecks pushed inflation rates in many countries to multi-year highs. Rising inflation led to expectations that the world's central banks may need to rein in their accommodative policies sooner rather than later.

In these uncertain times, your financial professional can assist with positioning your portfolio so that it's sufficiently diversified to help meet your long-term objectives and to withstand the inevitable bouts of market volatility along the way.

On behalf of everyone at Manulife Investment Management, I'd like to take this opportunity to welcome new shareholders and thank existing shareholders for the continued trust you've placed in us.

Sincerely,

Andrew G. Arnott

Manager's Report

For the financial period ended 30 September 2021

Manulife U.S. Large Cap Equity Fund ("U.S. Large Cap Equity Fund")

Discussion of Fund performance

An interview with Portfolio Manager Emory W. Sanders, Jr., CFA, Manulife Investment Management

What drove the U.S stock market higher for the six months ended 30 September 2021?

Healthy corporate earnings, positive vaccination trends, and the prospect of a new infrastructure-spending bill aided stock returns. These tailwinds outweighed concerns about inflation, slowing economic momentum, the spread of the highly infectious Delta variant of COVID-19, and the U.S. Federal Reserve's plans to reduce its bond buying before year-end. Within the Fund's benchmark, the S&P 500 Index, the real estate, information technology, communication services, and financials sectors led the way, while the economically sensitive industrials and materials sectors and the defensive utilities and consumer staples sectors were laggards.

How did the Fund perform amid this backdrop?

The Class A USD Accumulating Shares posted a gain of 10.28% (excluding sales charges)¹, outpacing its benchmark for the period, largely due to security selection, notably in the healthcare, energy, and communication services sectors.

The Fund's top individual contributor was an overweighted position in biopharmaceuticals company Moderna, Inc., which saw its stock surge amid strong demand globally for its highly effective COVID-19 vaccine and the likely need for boosters.

In energy, a non-index stake in U.S.-based liquefied natural gas (LNG) company Chenière Energy, Inc. posted a steep gain, propelled by rising oil prices, increased LNG demand globally and an improving long-term contract backdrop. In communication services, shares of Google parent company Alphabet, Inc. rallied amid strong advertising revenue growth as companies upped their digital promotional spending. Elsewhere, diversified financials company Morgan Stanley stood out, boosted by robust capital markets activity, continued momentum in its powerhouse wealth management franchise, and improved capital return prospects.

Which investment choices detracted?

Security selection in the consumer discretionary sector and an underweight in the information technology sector hurt relative performance most. The biggest individual detractor was an overweight in U.S.-based homebuilder Lennar Corp., which declined as supply chain issues and cost pressures slowed the delivery of new housing units. Elsewhere, in the consumer staples sector, a non-index stake in Belgium-based global brewer Anheuser-Busch InBev SA/NV fell as the spread of the Delta variant slowed on-premises sales. Lastly, a non-index position in Workday, Inc., a cloud-based software company focused on human and capital resources, stalled, hurting relative performance. Although the company reported strong subscription revenue and backlog order growth, investors waited to see if management could deliver on improved guidance.

How was the Fund positioned at period end?

As always, we remain focused on financially sound large-cap companies with competitive advantages, the ability to generate substantial cash flow over sustained periods, and attractive stock prices relative to our estimate of intrinsic value.

Notes about risk

The Fund is subject to various risks as described in the Fund's Prospectus. The novel COVID-19 disease has resulted in significant disruptions to global business activity. A widespread health crisis such as a global pandemic could cause substantial market volatility, exchange trading suspensions and closures, which may lead to less liquidity in certain instruments, industries, sectors or the markets generally, and may ultimately affect Fund performance. For more information, please refer to the "Principal risks" section of the Prospectus.

The views expressed in this report are exclusively those of Emory W. Sanders, Jr., CFA, Manulife Investment Management, and are subject to change. They are not meant as investment advice. Please note that holdings discussed in this report may not have been held by the Fund for the entire period. Portfolio composition is subject to review in accordance with the Fund's investment strategy and may vary in the future. Current and future portfolio holdings are subject to risk.

Manulife Strategic Income Opportunities Fund ("Strategic Income Opportunities Fund")

Discussion of Fund performance

An interview with Portfolio Manager Daniel S. Janis III, Manulife Investment Management

How did the U.S. bond market perform during the six months ended 30 September 2021?

U.S. bonds posted positive returns for the period. Bond yields declined for most of the period as the U.S. economy continued its gradual recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic, albeit in fits and starts. The rapid spread of the more-transmissible Delta coronavirus variant, particularly during the summer months, triggered concerns about a possible reinstatement of social-distancing restrictions, which contributed further to the decline in bond yields.

Late in the period, however, bond yields reversed course, rising sharply amid persistently high inflation as the 12-month inflation rate remained above 5% for the fourth consecutive month in September. The elevated inflation levels led to expectations that the U.S. Federal Reserve would need to scale back some of its accommodative policies sooner rather than later.

Despite the volatility, intermediate- and long-term bond yields fell overall for the period, while short-term yields rose slightly. Sector performance was uniformly positive during the period, led by investment-grade and high-yield corporate bonds, while sectors such as asset-backed securities and residential mortgage-backed securities lagged.

How did the Fund perform in this environment?

The Class A USD Accumulating Shares gained 0.86% (excluding sales charges)¹ and underperformed its benchmark, the Bloomberg U.S. Aggregate Bond Index. The key factor was the Fund's significantly shorter duration (a measure of interest-rate sensitivity) than the benchmark, which meant the Fund did not benefit as much as the index did from declining bond yields.

On the positive side, sector allocation aided performance. A meaningful position in high-yield corporate bonds, which are not represented in the benchmark, added the most value. Positions in equities and bank loans were also positive contributors to relative performance, along with limited exposure to agency mortgage-backed securities.

The Fund's exposure to foreign currencies produced mixed results. Holdings of the Canadian dollar and the Brazilian real contributed, offsetting the negative impact of a position in the euro.

What changes did you make to the portfolio during the period?

As high-yield corporate bonds outperformed, we took some profits and trimmed the Fund's position in the sector, though it remains a significant component of the portfolio. We used the proceeds to increase the Fund's allocation in bank loans, which have floating interest rates and typically outperform when bond yields rise. We selectively increased the Fund's emerging-market debt holdings, with an emphasis on high-quality countries.

How was the Fund positioned at the end of the reporting period?

The Fund's overall positioning has been relatively stable during the past six months. Despite some near-term risks—including new coronavirus variants, an economic slowdown in China, and the U.S. debt ceiling—our long-term view remains that risk assets should outperform as COVID-19 vaccination rates expand and the global economy continues to recover. However, we are mindful of heightened valuations in corporate credit, which increases the importance of individual security selection.

Notes about risk

The Fund is subject to various risks as described in the Fund's Prospectus. The novel COVID-19 disease has resulted in significant disruptions to global business activity. A widespread health crisis such as a global pandemic could cause substantial market volatility, exchange trading suspensions and closures, which may lead to less liquidity in certain instruments, industries, sectors or the markets generally, and may ultimately affect Fund performance. Manulife Global Quality Growth (Ex-U.S.) Fund ("Global Quality Growth (Ex-U.S.) Fund")

Discussion of Fund performance

An interview with Portfolio Manager John A. Boselli, CFA, Wellington Management Company, LLP

Can you describe the market environment during the six months ended 30 September 2021?

Improving global economic data, fiscal and monetary stimulus, strong corporate earnings, and higher COVID-19 vaccination rates boosted markets for most of the period. Surging commodity prices, pent-up demand, global supply chain disruptions, and stimulus-powered economic growth continued to drive inflation expectations higher, prompting some central banks to raise interest rates or consider tighter monetary policy. After several months of declining COVID-19 cases, the spread of the highly infectious delta variant of the coronavirus disrupted many countries' plans to lift lockdowns and reopen their economies.

How did the Fund perform for the period?

The Class A USD Accumulating Shares gained 3.40% (excluding sales charges)¹, outperforming the benchmark MSCI All Country World ex-USA Growth Index. Security selection drove the Fund's relative outperformance. Strong stock picking in consumer discretionary, industrials, and healthcare sectors contributed most to relative results, partially offset by security selection in information technology and consumer staples.

Sector allocation slightly detracted. Lacking exposure to the outperforming energy sector and an overweight in the lagging real estate sector hampered results the most, partly offset by overweight's in the outperforming financials and information technology sectors. Regionally, holdings in Europe (ex-U.K.) and Japan outperformed but were somewhat offset by the Fund's emerging markets allocation.

Which stocks contributed the most to relative performance?

Li Ning Company Limited, a Chinese sportswear and sports-equipment business, was a top contributor. Li Ning has seen higher-than-expected growth as Chinese consumers continued to favor popular domestic brands over their foreign counterparts. Another relative contributor was Danish pharmaceutical company Novo Nordisk A/S, which is focused on diabetes care. The firm's stock rose as the company raised its earnings outlook and reported a better-than-expected quarterly profit

Which stocks detracted?

The Fund's biggest detractor was Tencent Holdings, Ltd., a Chinese holding company of internet-related businesses. The Fund's overweight in Tencent hampered results after the stock fell sharply on concern about Chinese restrictions on gaming. Another laggard was an investment in Trip.com Group, Ltd. (sold prior to period end), a Chinese travel company. In September, the company reported weaker-than-expected financial results.

How was the Fund positioned at period end?

We increased the Fund's exposure to healthcare companies while remaining overweight in the industrials sector. We moved the Fund to an underweight in the consumer discretionary sector while also keeping materials and consumer staples as underweight exposures.

Notes about risk

The Fund is subject to various risks as described in the Fund's Prospectus. The novel COVID-19 disease has resulted in significant disruptions to global business activity. A widespread health crisis such as a global pandemic could cause substantial market volatility, exchange trading suspensions and closures, which may lead to less liquidity in certain instruments, industries, sectors or the markets generally, and may ultimately affect Fund performance. Manulife Macro Currency Fund ("Macro Currency Fund")

Discussion of Fund performance

An interview with Portfolio Manager Dori S. Levanoni, First Quadrant LP

How would you describe the investment backdrop during the six months ended 30 September 2021?

Currency markets continued to reflect global risk appetites and country-specific developments, particularly with regard to central bank activity. Most currencies finished relatively flat against the world currency basket, with typical levels of intra-period volatility. The largest outlier was the Australian dollar, which lagged considerably. The British pound and Norwegian krone also weakened, although the declines were far more modest. The Swiss franc was the strongest performer relative to the world basket, followed by the U.S. dollar and Swedish krona.

How did the Fund perform?

The Class A USD (Hedged) Accumulating Shares gained 1.68% (excluding sales charges)¹ and beat the return of its benchmark, the ICE BofA 0-3 Month T Bill (USD).

What elements of the Fund's positioning helped results?

The Fund's short position in the Australian dollar was the largest contributor to performance. Despite the ongoing rally in commodities, the currency weakened as the country implemented new lockdowns and China (its key trade partner) dealt with supply chain issues and energy shortages. A softer economic outlook prompted the Reserve Bank of Australia to shift toward a more dovish monetary policy and extend its bond purchasing program, pressuring the currency.

The macroeconomic models motivated successful short British pound and long Canadian dollar positions. The United Kingdom's growth advantage narrowed as other regions progressed in their vaccination campaigns, and investors became increasingly concerned about the U.K. economy as the country wrestled with severe supply bottlenecks. Meanwhile, the Canadian dollar rallied as the Bank of Canada signaled tighter monetary policy to address building inflationary pressures. A short position in the New Zealand dollar was an additional contributor of note.

What aspects of positioning hurt results?

Positioning with respect to the Norwegian krone was the largest detractor. The Fund's macroeconomic models identified a constructive environment for the krone in the second calendar quarter of 2021, leading to a long position in the currency at that time. However, the krone depreciated against the world basket even as crude oil rallied and the Norges Bank signaled its intention to raise interest rates. In late July, the Fund's behavioral biases models drove a rotation to a short position in the krone based on near-term pressure from corporations' currency-hedging strategies.

A short position in the Japanese yen detracted, as well. The majority of the shortfall occurred in June and July, when the currency rallied. This position began to perform better in September, when the yen moved lower as markets shifted their focus to the country's slowing export growth and the Bank of Japan's relative dovishness. A short position in the Swiss franc also detracted in the early part of the period, when the currency strengthened considerably against the world basket despite the Swiss National Bank's relatively dovish monetary policy.

How was the Fund positioned at period end?

COVID-19 has had a clear effect on the global economy, but perhaps less obvious is the uneven nature of the impact. Differences in vaccination rates, economic restrictions, and production processes have led to divergences in growth and inflation, even among developed countries. The strategy's inflation model has been an increasingly large voice in the overall strategy as price pressures diverge. The Fund closed the period with a generally bullish stance on the North American and continental European currencies, while it was bearish on the Japanese yen and British pound.

Notes about risk

The Fund is subject to various risks as described in the Fund's Prospectus. The novel COVID-19 disease has resulted in significant disruptions to global business activity. A widespread health crisis such as a global pandemic could cause substantial market volatility, exchange-trading suspensions, and closures, which may lead to less liquidity in certain instruments, industries, sectors, or the markets generally, and may ultimately affect Fund performance. 6. Taxation

Under current law and practice the Company qualifies as an investment undertaking as defined in Section 739B of the Taxes Consolidation Act, 1997, as amended, (the "Taxes Consolidation Act"). On that basis, it is generally not chargeable to Irish tax on its income and gains so long as the Company is resident for tax purposes in Ireland. However, Irish tax may arise on the happening of a "chargeable event". A chargeable event includes any distribution payments to Shareholders or any encashment, redemption, cancellation or transfer of shares and the holding of shares at the end of each eight year period beginning with the acquisition of such shares.

No Irish tax will arise on the Company in respect of chargeable events in respect of:

- a shareholder who is neither Irish resident nor ordinarily resident in Ireland for tax purposes, at the time of the chargeable event, provided appropriate valid declarations in accordance with the provisions of the Taxes Consolidation Act, are held by the Company; and
- certain exempted Irish tax resident shareholders who have provided the Company with the necessary signed statutory declarations.

Dividends, interest and capital gains (if any) received on investments made by the Company may be subject to withholding taxes imposed by the country from which the investments income/gains are received and such taxes may not be recoverable by the Company and its Shareholders. Withholding tax and reclaims incurred on dividends are recorded on ex-date. Dividends receivable are shown net of withholding taxes payable, if any, in the Statement of Financial Position.

The Company may be subject to taxes imposed on realised and unrealised gains on securities of certain foreign countries in which the Company invests. The foreign capital gains tax expense, if any, is recorded on an accrual basis and is included in Capital gains taxes on the Statement of Comprehensive Income. The amount of foreign tax owed, if any, is included in Capital gains tax payable on the Statement of Financial Position.

7. Efficient portfolio management and currency hedging

The Company may, on behalf of each Fund and subject to the conditions and within the limits laid down by the Central Bank, use techniques and instruments for hedging purposes (to protect the Fund's unrealised gains by hedging against possible adverse fluctuations in the securities markets or changes in interest rates or currency exchange rates that may reduce the market value of the Fund's investment portfolio) or for the purposes of efficient portfolio management (including but not limited to forward foreign currency exchange contracts, futures contracts, options, put and call options on securities, indices and currencies, stock index contracts and swap contracts). Hedging can occur at share class level also.

The Company may also use repurchase/reverse repurchase and securities lending agreements for the purposes of efficient portfolio management. References to a Fund entering into an Financial Derivative Instrument ("FDI") shall be construed as the Company entering into such FDI on behalf of a Fund, where appropriate. A Fund also may use an FDIs to seek to enhance returns, currency hedging, spreads or gains, or to efficiently invest excess cash or quickly gain market exposure. A Fund may engage in such transactions on an exchange or in the over-the-counter ("OTC") market.

The Company may engage in such techniques and instruments for the reduction of risk, cost or the generation of additional capital or income for each Fund with an appropriate level of risk, taking into account the risk profile of the Company and the relevant Fund as described in the Prospectus and the general provisions of the UCITS Regulations.

The use of techniques for efficient portfolio management is not expected to raise the risk profile of a Fund or result in higher volatility.

The Fund may only employ FDIs that have been specified in the risk management process that the Company has submitted to the Central Bank. The global exposure of Strategic Income Opportunities Fund, Global Multi-Strategy Credit Fund and Macro Currency Fund associated with the use of FDIs is measured using either the Value at Risk ("VaR") approach or the commitment approach in accordance with the requirements of the Central Bank. All other Funds are calculated using the commitment approach.

During the financial period or previous financial year the Funds did not engage in repurchase or reverse repurchase and securities lending agreements, for the purposes of efficient portfolio management. The Funds have entered into FDI contracts. Please refer to Schedule of Investments for details of FDIs held at financial period end.

8. Reconciliation to dealing NAV

The NAV per redeemable participating share at which Shareholders may subscribe to or redeem from the Fund, differs from the NAV per the financial statements. The difference is due to the treatment of prepaid organisational expenses. In accordance with the Prospectus these organisational expenses are being amortised over the first five financial years. However, for the purposes of these condensed interim financial statements, organisational expenses have been expensed as incurred in line with IFRS.

Strategic Income Opportunities Fund	Manulife Investment Management (US) LLC

Capital management

The capital of the Company is represented by the net assets attributable to holders of redeemable participating shares. The amount of net assets attributable to holders of redeemable shares can change significantly on a daily basis, as the Company is subject to daily subscriptions and redemptions at the discretion of the Shareholders. The Company's aim with respect to management of its capital is to safeguard its ability to continue as a going concern in order that each Fund may achieve its overall objective, and to maintain a strong capital base to support the development of each Fund's investment activities.

The Manager monitors capital on the basis of the value of net assets attributable to holders of redeemable participating shares.

Fair value measurement & hierarchy

The Company classifies fair value measurements using a fair value hierarchy that reflects the significance of the inputs used in making the measurements.

The fair value hierarchy has the following levels:

Level 1: Quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.

Level 2: Inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly (that is, as prices) or indirectly (that is, derived from prices).

Level 3: Certain inputs for the asset or liability are not based on observable market data (that is, unobservable inputs).

The level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement is categorised in its entirety is determined on the basis of the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety. For this purpose, the significance of an input is assessed against the fair value measurement in its entirety. If a fair value measurement uses observable inputs that require significant adjustment based on unobservable inputs, that measurement is a Level 3 measurement. Assessing the significance of a particular input to the fair value measurement in its entirety requires judgement, considering factors specific to the asset or liability.

The determination of what constitutes "observable" requires significant judgment by the Manager. The Manager considers observable data to be that market data that is readily available, regularly distributed or updated, reliable and verifiable, not proprietary, and provided by independent sources that are actively involved in the relevant market.

Changes in valuation techniques and related inputs may result in transfers into or out of an assigned level within the disclosure hierarchy, which is evaluated on a semi-annual basis.

The following table summarises the Funds' fair value hierarchy at 30 September 2021:

Fair value estimation

IFRS 13 provides a precise definition of fair value. If an asset or a liability measured at fair value has a bid price and an ask price, the standard requires valuation to be based on a price within the bid-ask spread that is most representative of fair value and allows the use of mid-price or other pricing conventions that are used by market participants as a practical expedient for fair value measurement.

The value of any investment which is not listed or dealt in a regulated market shall be the probable realisable value estimated with care and in good faith by the Directors, or by the Manager. Equity securities, as well as exchange-traded instruments, held by the Funds are typically valued at as of the scheduled close of regular trading on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE), normally at 4:00 P.M., Eastern Time. Debt obligations are valued based on the evaluated prices provided by an independent pricing vendor to value certain foreign securities in order to adjust for events that may occur between the close of foreign exchanges or markets and the close of the principal market.

The value of exchange traded FDIs shall normally be based on the settlement price, as determined by the market in question, as at the Valuation Point. Where it is not the practice for the relevant market to quote a settlement price or such settlement price is not available for any reason as at the Valuation Point, such value shall be the probable realisation value estimated with care and in good faith by the Directors, or by the Manager, based on valuation policies approved by the Directors

The value of OTC FDIs which are dealt on an exchange or central clearinghouse shall be calculated by reference to freely available market prices at which an OTC FDI of the same size, currency and maturity could be affected at the Valuation Point. Where an alternative valuation is used (i.e. a valuation that is provided by a competent person, firm of association, including the Manager appointed by the Directors and approved for that purpose by the Depositary) the valuation principles employed must follow best international practice established by bodies such as IOSCO ("International Organization of Securities Commissions") and AIMA ("Alternative Investment Management Association").

The value of forward non-U.S. exchange contracts which are dealt on a Regulated Market shall be calculated by reference to freely available market prices at which a new forward contract of the same size, currency and maturity could be transacted at the Valuation Point. Where an alternative valuation is used (i.e. a valuation that is provided by a competent person, firm of association, including the Manager appointed by the Directors and approved for that purpose by the Depositary) the valuation principles employed must follow best international practice established by bodies such as IOSCO and AIMA.

Options listed on an exchange are valued at the mean of the most recent bid and ask prices from the exchange where the option was acquired or most likely will be sold. Swaps and unlisted options are valued using evaluated prices obtained from an independent pricing vendor. Futures contracts are valued at settlement prices, which are the official closing prices published by the exchange on which they trade.

10. Soft Commissions
